Sugar beet production. Sugar beets are produced annually on about 35,000 farms. The production is distributed over a minimum of 21 States and 300 counties under a wide range of production conditions requiring consideration under an acreage control program. The crop is grown under annual contracts with beet sugar companies. A total of 19 of such companies maintain about 75 processing plants. Since sugar beets are heavy, bulky and perishable, transportation is a significant factor. Therefore, for farm shares to be useful, the total shares established in a given district must warrant the operation of a factory within a reasonable distance from the farms. This matter is particularly important to eleven companies owning but one factory each.

Sugar beets are grown in crop rotations that differ significantly between States and even among districts within a State. In a number of States, the crop occupies as an average not more than ten percent of the area of the producing farms and the crop is not grown regularly on many of those farms. In other States, one-fourth to one-third of farm areas are commonly devoted to the crop. In certain of the sugar beet States, the turnover of sugar beet farms from year-to-year exceeds 50 percent and a turnover of 25 percent is common in a number of States. While a larger part of the production occurs on farms which are owner-operated, there are many districts wherein it is a common practice for owner-operators to rent fields of neighboring farms for beet production. In a few districts the main part of the crop is produced by tenant-operators, many of whom grow the crop exclusively from year-to-year on tracts of land not regularly devoted to sugar beet production and which is rented from non-resident land holders in many cases. Accordingly, in such districts the production records of such tenant-operators are more important than the production records of the tracts of land.

State allocations. Because of the variable conditions under which sugar beets are produced and processed, as described above, it is not feasible to allot the 850,000 acres to individual farms under one general formula. To do so would result in inequities among producers, uncertainty of the tonnage of beets available locally for processing and uncertainty of total outturn. Accordingly, there is a need for smaller administrative units. The field set-up of the Department is organized on a State basis. Therefore, the determination establishes State allocations and provides for administration on a State basis.

The State allocations were derived from Sugar Act payment data on planted acreages for the crops of 1950 through 1953 and from planted acreages for the 1954 crop, as furnished by beet sugar companies and released by the Sugar Division on August 12, 1954. The allocation for each State was computed by the following steps:

1. An initial base acreage was computed by giving a weighting of 75 percent to the average acreage for the crops of 1950–54, as a measure of "past production", and giving a weighting of 25 percent to the largest acreage of any of the crops of 1950–54, as a measure of "ability to produce."

2. If the initial base acreage was less than 97.4 percent of the 1953–54 average acreage for the State, the base acreage was increased to the 97.4 percent level.

3. If the initial base acreage was more than 125 percent of the 1954 acreage for the State, the base acreage was reduced to the 125 percent level.

4. The base acreages computed in steps 1 through 3 above, which total 899,741 acres, were reduced pro rata (with rounding to the nearest 5-acre units) to a total of 850,000 acres.

The most recent five-crop period appears to be a representative and adequate base period for determining State acreage allocations. Although production patterns were seriously disrupted during World War II, beginning with the 1942 crop and continuing for several seasons after active warfare ceased, the 1950-crop season was especially free from complications and a relatively large acreage resulted. Thus, the 1950 crop demonstrated both the ability and interest of growers in producing the crop under such conditions. Accordingly, the base period begins with that crop year and includes the crops produced subsequently.

Following suggestions made at the hearing, the proposed "floor" for State allocations of 100 percent of 1953–54 crop average acreages has been reduced to 97.4 percent.

This level represents the relationship of the national acreage objective of 850,000 acres to the national average of 1953–54-crop acreages of 872,821 acres. The use of this "floor" recognizes current trends in production.

The use of a "ceiling" on State allocations at 125 percent of 1954-crop acreages reflects the need for some limitation in certain minor beet producing States wherein the current demand for acreage is less than the former demand, since it would be unfair to allow growers in such States to plant unlimited acreages while growers in other States are required to restrict their acreages.

Administration of proportionate shares. The proportionate share program within a State will be carried out by the ASC State Committee. Such committee may utilize the services of members of ASC county and community committees and may cooperate with advisory committees consisting of sugar beet growers, representatives of sugar beet grower associations, representatives of sugar beet processors, or combinations of these groups. Local representatives of sugar beet processors are in almost daily contact with the growers to assist and advise them with respect to production problems. Beet growers are well organized into local and regional associations for such purposes as negotiating contracts, checking on operations under contracts, and promoting the interests of growers. Accordingly, such grower and processor representatives are in position to render helpful advice toward an equitable and practicable administration of the program.

The determination provides that the State Committee may subdivide the State allocation into area allotments under prescribed standards and general procedure. Standards and general procedure are also prescribed for establishing individual farm shares. Subject to such standards and procedure, the State Committee, in establishing such shares, will take into consideration the conditions peculiar to the production of sugar beets in the State. The State Committee is authorized under certain conditions to use individual sugar beet production records of tenant-operators, since their ability to produce sugar beets, as demonstrated by their production records, is of primary importance in establishing proportionate shares in certain districts.

Provision is made for adjustments in shares under criteria specified in the determination to facilitate practical results. Each State Committee is required to set aside acreages for establishing shares for new producers and for making adjustments under appeals. Moreover, the interests of small producers, cash tenants, share tenants, and sharecroppers are to be protected insofar as is practicable.

It is believed that this determination provides an equitable basis for establishing proportionate shares for farms in the beet sugar area for the 1955 crop.

Accordingly, I hereby find and conclude that the foregoing determination will effectuate the applicable provisions of the act.

[Avocado Order 5, Amdt. 1]

QUALITY REGULATION

Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement and Order No. 69 (7 CFR Part 969; 19 F. R. 3439) regulating the handling of avocados grown in South Florida, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and upon the basis of the recommendations of the Avocado Administrative Committee, established under the aforesaid marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of handling of avocados, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this amendment until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) in that, as hereinafter set forth, the time intervening between the date when information upon which this amendment is based became available and the time when this amendment must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, and this amendment relieves restrictions on the handling of avocados grown in South Florida.

It is, therefore, ordered as follows: The provisions in paragraph (b) (1) (i) of § 969.305 (Avocado Order 5; 19 F. R. 6990) are hereby amended to read as follows:

(i) Any avocados, grown in South Florida, which do not grade at least No. 2 Grade, as defined in § 969.130 (b) of the supplementing rules and regulations (19 F. R. 5439): Provided, That such avocados may fail to meet the requirements of such grade with respect to anthracnose (black spot) and sunburn.

Effective time. The provisions of this amendment shall become effective at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., November 5, 1954.

TITLE 14—CIVIL AVIATION

Chapter I—Civil Aeronautics Board

[Civil Air Regs., Amdt. 60-5]

PART 60—AIR TRAFFIC RULES

CHANGES IN TERMINOLOGY OF AIRSPACE RESTRICTED AREAS

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 4th day of November 1954.

Section 60.13 of Part 60 of the Civil Air Regulations, covering airspace restricted areas, currently states that the Administrator may designate as a danger area an area within which he has determined that an invisible hazard to aircraft in flight exists. It also states that no person shall operate an aircraft within an airspace reservation or danger area unless permission has been obtained from the appropriate authority. Section 60.65 defines an airspace reservation as an area established by Executive Order of the President of the United States or by any State of the United States, and defines danger area as an area designated by the Administrator within which an invisible hazard to aircraft in flight exists. These areas are shown on aeronautical charts and in publications of aids to air navigation. It would appear from these definitions and their use in § 60.13 that the flight of aircraft is prohibited in both an airspace reservation and a danger area unless prior approval has been obtained. This is not necessarily true, however, since flight in both areas may not be completely prohibited but limited only in accordance with restrictions which have been placed on the area.

The term "prohibited area" describes more completely and accurately the airspace in which flight is prohibited at all times except when appropriate permission is obtained, and the term "restricted area" more aptly describes the airspace in which flight is subject to certain stated restrictions. This amendment, therefore, eliminates the terms "danger area" and "airspace restricted area", and defines the terms "prohibited area" and "restricted area" so as to include an area within which the flight of aircraft is either prohibited or restricted. It also states who may set up a prohibited or restricted area. This terminology will tend to eliminate any confusion that may currently exist in having different terms apply to the same type of area on domestic and international aeronautical charts since the proposed terms are currently used on international charts. These terms will also conform with the definitions of such airspace areas by the International Civil Aviation Organization.

Section 60.13 is amended to make clear the extent to which avoidance of prohibited and restricted areas is necessary and the necessity of obtaining permission for flight in such areas contrary to the restriction or prohibition applicable thereto. Restriction to flight in such areas will be prescribed in publications of aids to air navigation and on the backs of aeronautical charts. The authority of the Administrator to designate restricted areas, which was previously in § 60.13, has been placed in a new § 60.13a.

Interested persons have been afforded on opportunity to participate in the making of this amendment and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

In consideration of the foregoing, the Civil Aeronautics Board hereby amends Part 60 of the Civil Air Regulations (14 CFR Part 60, as amended), effective December 9, 1954:

1. By amending § 60.13 to read as follows:

§ 60.13 Avoidance of prohibited and restricted areas—(a) Prohibited area. No person shall operate an aircraft within a prohibited area unless prior permission has been obtained from appropriate authority.

(b) Restricted area. No person shall operate an aircraft within a restricted area contrary to the restrictions imposed unless prior permission has been obtained from appropriate authority.

NOTE: Prohibited and restricted areas are established in order to conduct certain essential activities either on the ground or production from such acreage should 1953 and from planted acreages for the are well organized into local and regional ment and order, and upon other avail-

States, and defines danger area as an area designated by the Administrator

NOTE: Prohibited and restricted areas are established in order to conduct certain essential activities either on the ground or within the airspace area. Avoidance of prohibited areas and operation within restricted areas strictly in accordance with the published restrictions are imperative to the safety of flight or the protection of the activity on the ground. Any person desiring to secure permission to fly in such areas contrary to the prohibition or the restrictions imposed, should contact the agency controlling that area. Prohibited and restricted areas, indicating the prohibitions or restrictions to flight and the name of the using agency, are shown on aeronautical charts or in publications of aids to air navigation.

2. By adding a new § 60.13a to read as follows:

§ 60.13a Authority for designation of restricted areas by the Administrator. The Administrator is authorized to designate restricted areas when he finds that a hazard to aircraft in flight exists. (Areas previously designated as danger areas will hereafter be designated as restricted areas.)

3. By amending § 60.65 to read as follows:

§ 60.65 Prohibited and restricted areas—(a) Prohibited area. Airspace identified by an area on the surface of the earth within which the flight of aircraft is prohibited. A prohibited area may be established by the President of the United States or any State of the United States pursuant to the Air Commerce Act of 1926, or it may be established pursuant to the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended.

(b) Restricted area. Airspace identified by an area on the surface of the earth within which the flight of aircraft, while not wholly prohibited, is subject to restrictions. A restricted area may be established by the President of the United States or by any State of the United States pursuant to the Air Commerce Act of 1926, or it may be established pursuant to the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, or it may be established by the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics pursuant to the provisions of § 60.13a.

(Sec. 205, 52 Stat. 984; 49 U. S. C. 425. Interpret or apply sec. 601, 52 Stat. 1007, as amended; 49 U. S. C. 551)

By the Civil Aeronautics Board.

§ 345.1 Statutory provisions.

Every employer shall pay a contribution, with respect to having employees in his service, equal to the percentage determined as set forth below of so much of the compensation as is not in excess of $300 for any calender month paid by him to any employee for services rendered to him after June 30, 1939, and before July 1, 1954, and is not in excess of $350 for any calendar month paid by him to any employee for services rendered to him after June 30, 1954: Provided, however, That if compensation is paid to any employee by more than one employer with respect to any such calendar month, the contributions required by this subsection shall apply to not more than $300 for any month before July 1, 1954, and to not more than $350 for any month after June 30, 1954, of the aggregate compensation paid to said employee by all said employers with respect to such calendar month, and each employer other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer shall be liable for that proportion of the contribution with respect to such compensation paid by all such employers which the compensation paid by him after December 31, 1946, to the employee for services during any calendar month after 1946 bears to the total compensation paid by all such employers after December 31, 1946, to such employee for services rendered during such month; and in the event that the compensation so paid by such employers to the employee for services rendered during such month is less than $300 if such month is before July 1, 1954, or less than $350 if such month is after June 30, 1954, each subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer shall be liable for such proportion of any additional contribution as the compensation paid by such employer after December 31, 1946, to such employee for services rendered during such month bears to the total compensation paid by all such employers after December 31, 1946, to such employee for services rendered during such month:

(1) With respect to compensation paid prior to January 1, 1948, the rate shall be 3 per centum;

(2) With respect to compensation paid after December 31, 1947, the rate shall be as follows:

If the balance to the credit of the railroad unemployment insurance account as of the close of business on Sept. 30, of any year, as determined by the Board, is:	The rate with respect to compensation paid during the next succeeding calendar year shall be:
$450,000,000 or more	½ percent.
$400,000,000 or more but less than $450,000,000	1 percent.
$350,000,000 or more but less than $400,000,000	1½ percent.
$300,000,000 or more but less than $350,000,000	2 percent.

Less than $250,000,000	3 percent.

As soon as practicable following the enactment of this Act, the Board shall determine and proclaim the balance to the credit of the account as of the close of business on September 30, 1947, and on or before December 31 of 1948 and of each succeeding year, the Board shall determine and proclaim the balance to the credit of the account as of the close of business on September 30 of such year.

The contributions required by this Act shall be collected and paid quarterly or at such other times and in such manner and under such conditions not inconsistent with this Act as may be prescribed by Regulations of the Board, and shall not be deducted, in whole or in part, from the compensation of employees in the employer's employ. If a contribution required by this Act is not paid when due, there shall be added to the amount payable (except in the case of adjustments made in accordance with the provisions of this Act) interest at the rate of 1 per centum per month or fraction of a month from the date the contribution became due until paid. Any interest collected pursuant to this subsection shall be credited to the account.

All provisions of law, including penalties, applicable with respect to any tax imposed by section 1800 or 2700 of the Internal Revenue Code, and the provisions of section 3661 of such code, insofar as applicable and not inconsistent with the provisions of this Act, shall be applicable with respect to the contributions required by this Act: Provided, That all authority and functions conferred by or pursuant to such provisions upon any officer or employee of the United States, except the authority to institute and prosecute, and the function of instituting and prosecuting, criminal proceedings, shall, with respect to such contributions, be vested in and exercised by the Board or such officers and employees of the Board as it may designate therefor.

• • • For the purposes of determining • • • the amount of contributions due pursuant to this Act, employment after June 30, 1940, in the service of a local lodge or division of a railway-labor-organization employer or as an employee representative shall be disregarded. For purposes of determining • • • the amount of contributions due pursuant to this Act, employment as a delegate to a national or international convention of a railway labor organization defined as an "employer", • • • shall be disregarded if the individual having such employment has not previously rendered service, other than as such a delegate, which may be included in his "years of service" for purposes of the Railroad Retirement Act.

§ 345.2 Employers' contributions. (a) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, every employer shall pay a contribution equal to the following percentages of the amount of compensation paid by such employer for employment on and after July 1, 1939, excluding, however, that part of the compensation which is in excess of $300 for any month before July 1, 1954 and in excess of $350 for any month after June 30, 1954 and is paid by the employer to any employee with respect to employment during any one calendar month.

	Percent
(1) With respect to compensation paid from July 1, 1939, to Dec. 31, 1947	3
(2) With respect to compensation paid from Jan. 1, 1948, to Dec. 31, 1948	½
(3) With respect to compensation paid during each succeeding calendar year, the applicable percentage specified in § 345.1.

(b) If compensation is paid by more than one employer to an employee with respect to employment during the same calendar month, and if the aggregate compensation paid to such employee by all employers is more than $350 ($300 if prior to July 1, 1954) for the calendar month, then there shall be included in the measure of each such employer's contribution only that proportion of $350 (or $300) which the amount paid by him to the employee for the month bears to the aggregate compensation paid to such employee by all employers for that month: Provided, however,

(1) If such aggregate compensation is paid by two or more employers, only one of whom is an employer other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and if the compensation paid to the employee by the employer other than a subordinate unit equals or exceeds $350 ($300 if prior to July 1, 1954) for the month, then no subordinate unit shall be liable for any contribution with respect to the compensation paid by it to such employee for that month, and the measure of the contribution of the employer other than a subordinate unit with respect to the compensation paid by him to such employee for that month shall be $350 (or $300).

(2) If such aggregate compensation is paid by two or more employers other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and by one or more subordinate units of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and if the total compensation paid to the employee by the employers other than a subordinate unit equals or exceeds $350 ($300 if prior to July 1, 1954) for the month, then no subordinate unit shall be liable for any contribution with respect to the compensation paid by it to such employee for that month, and the measure of the contribution of each employer other than a subordinate unit shall be that proportion of $350 (or $300) which the compensation paid by such employer to the employee for the month bears to the total compensation paid to such employee by all such employers other than a subordinate unit for that month.

(3) If such aggregate compensation is paid by two or more employers, only one of whom is a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and if the total compensation paid to the employee by all employers other than the subordinate unit is less than $350 ($300 if prior to July 1, 1954) for the month, then the measure of the contribution of each employer other than the subordinate unit shall be the full amount of compensation paid by him to such employee for that month, and the measure of the contribution of the subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer shall be $350 (or $300) less the total compensation paid to such employee for that month by all other employers.

(4) If such aggregate compensation is paid by one or more employers other than a subordinate unit of a national railway-labor-organization employer and by two or more subordinate units of a national railway-labor-organization employer, and if the total compensation paid to the employee by all employers other than the subordinate units is less than $350 ($300 if prior to July 1, 1954) for the month, then the measure of the contribution of each employer other than the subordinate units shall be the full amount of compensation paid by him to such employee for that month, and the measure of the contribution of each subordinate unit of the national railway-labor-organization employer shall be that proportion of $350 (or $300) less the total compensation paid to such employee for the month by all employers other than the subordinate units which the compensation paid by such subordinate unit to the employee for that month bears to the total compensation paid to such employee by all such subordinate units for that month.

§ 345.4 Employers' reports of compensation of employees. Each employer shall continue to file with the Board, in accordance with the requirements of § 250.3 of this chapter, as amended, reports of the compensation of each employee, consisting of:

(a) A report of compensation for the calendar quarter or calendar year on Form BA-3 (or punched tabulating cards in lieu thereof),

(b) A monthly report of compensation adjustments, on Form BA-4,

(c) A summary of compensation adjustments reported for the quarter, and

(d) Summary reports of compensation for the calendar quarter or calendar year, on Form BA-5.

§ 345.7 Execution of employers' contribution reports. Each contribution report on Form DC-1 shall be signed by (a) the individual, if the employer is an individual; (b) the president, vice president, or other duly authorized officer, if the employer is a corporation; or (c) a responsible and duly authorized member or officer having knowledge of its affairs if the employer is a partnership or other unincorporated organization.

§ 345.9 Place and time for filing employers' contribution reports. Each employer's contribution report shall be filed with the Office of Fiscal Accounts, Railroad Retirement Board, 844 Rush Street, Chicago 11, Illinois.

(a) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, the employer's contribution report for each quarterly period shall be filed on or before the last day of the second calendar month following the period for which it is made. If such last day falls on Saturday, Sunday, or a national legal holiday, the report may be filed on the next following business day. If mailed, reports must be postmarked on or before the date on which the report is required to be filed.

(b) For eligible employers who have elected to report contributions annually in accordance with § 345.5 (b) (2), the contribution report shall be filed on or before the last day of the second calendar month following the close of the calendar year. If such last day falls on Saturday, Sunday, or a national legal holiday, the report may be filed on the next following business day. If mailed, reports must be postmarked on or before the date on which the report is required to be filed.

§ 345.10 Payment of employers' contributions. The contribution required to be reported on an employer's contribution report is due and payable to the Board without assessment or notice, at the time fixed for filing the contribution report. Certified or uncertified checks may be tendered as provisional payment of contributions and should be made payable to the Railroad Retirement Board and mailed with the contribution report to the Office of Fiscal Accounts, Railroad Retirement Board, 844 Rush Street, Chicago 11, Illinois. No employer who tenders a check as provisional payment of contribution shall be released from the obligation to make ultimate payment thereof until such check has been duly paid. If a check is not paid by the bank on which it is drawn, the employer by whom such check has been tendered shall remain liable for the payment of the contribution and for all legal penalties and additions to the same extent as if such check had not been tendered.

§ 345.13 Refunds. • • •

(d) Claim by fiduciary. If any contribution is paid by or on behalf of an individual who thereafter dies and a claim for refund or credit is filed by a legal representative of the deceased, certified copies of the letters testamentary, letters of administration, or other similar evidence shall be annexed to the claim, to show the authority of the executor, administrator, or other fiduciary by whom the claim is filed. If an executor, administrator, guardian, trustee, receiver, or other fiduciary pays any contribution and thereafter a claim for refund or credit is filed by the same fiduciary, documentary evidence to establish the legal authority of the fiduciary need not accompany the claim, provided a statement is made in the claim showing that the contribution was paid by the fiduciary and that he is still acting. In such cases, if a refund or interest is to be paid, letters testamentary, letters of administration, or other evidence may be required to be submitted upon the receipt of a specific request therefor. If a claim is filed by a fiduciary or employer other than the one by whom the contribution was paid, the necessary documentary evidence shall accompany the claim. The claim form may be executed by an agent of the employer on whose behalf the claim is made, but in such case a power of attorney shall accompany the claim.

(e) Time limit. No refund will be allowed for any contribution (including interest or penalty, if any) which has been erroneously, illegally, or otherwise wrongfully collected after the expiration of four years after the payment to the Board of the contribution, penalty, or interest, except upon one or more of the grounds set forth in a claim filed therefor prior to the expiration of such four-year period.

§ 345.15 Jeopardy assessment. (a) Whenever in the opinion of the Board it becomes necessary to protect the interests of the Government by effecting an immediate reporting and collection of an employer's contribution, the Board will assess the contribution, together with all penalties and interest thereon. Upon assessment, such contribution, penalty, and interest shall become immediately due and payable, and the Board shall thereupon issue immediately a notice and demand for payment of the contribution, penalty, and interest.

(b) The collection of the whole or any part of the amount of the jeopardy assessment may be stayed by filing with the Board a bond in such amount, not exceeding double the amount with respect to which the stay is desired, and with such sureties as the Board may deem necessary. Such bond shall be conditioned upon the payment of the amount, collection of which is stayed, at the time at which, but for the jeopardy assessment, such amount would be due. In lieu of surety or sureties the employer may deposit with the Board bonds or notes of the United States, or bonds or notes fully guaranteed by the United States as to principal and interest, having a par value not less than the amount of the bond required to be furnished, together with an agreement authorizing the Board in case of default to collect or sell such bonds or notes so deposited. Upon refusal to pay, or failure to pay or give bond, the Board will immediately upon issuances of notice and demand for payment proceed to collect the contribution, penalty, and interest. If any employer liable to pay any contribution neglects or refuses to pay the same within ten days after notice and demand, the Board may collect such contribution with such interest and other additional amounts as are required by law, by distraint and sale in the manner provided by law.

§ 345.16 Interest. If the employer's contribution is not paid to the Board when due and is not adjusted under § 345.12, interest accrues at the rate of 1 percent per month, or fraction of a month. Interest on past due contributions from the due date thereof until the date paid will be assessed after payment of the contributions, and notice and demand made upon the employer for payment thereof, in any case in which payment of the contributions is made before assessment under § 345.14.

§ 345.17 Penalty for failure to pay an assessment after notice and demand. • • •

(b) If, within ten days after the date of issuance of the first notice and demand, a claim for abatement of any amount of the assessment is filed with the Board, the 5 percent penalty does not attach with respect to such amount. If the claim is rejected in whole or in part and the amount rejected is not paid, the Board shall issue notice and demand for such amount. If payment is not made within ten days after the date the Board issues the notice and demand, the 5 percent penalty attaches with respect to the amount rejected. The filing of the claim does not stay the running of interest.

§ 345.19 Penalty for delinquent or false employers' contribution reports—(a) Delinquent reports. Unless the employer required to file a contribution report establishes to the satisfaction of the Board that a reasonable cause exists for the delinquency, the failure to file such contribution report on or before the due date shall cause to accrue a penalty equal to the following percentage of the contribution required to be reported thereon:

(1) 5 percent, if the contribution report is filed on or before the thirtieth day after the due date;

(2) 10 percent, if the contribution report is filed after such thirtieth day and on or before the sixtieth day after the due date;

(3) 15 percent, if the contribution report is filed after such sixtieth day and on or before the ninetieth day after the due date;

(4) 20 percent, if the contribution report is filed after such ninetieth day and on or before the one hundred and twentieth day after the due date; or

(5) 25 percent, if the contribution report is filed after such one hundred and twentieth day or if the contribution report is never filed by the employer required to file it.

In computing the period of delinquency all Sundays and holidays after the due date are counted.

Every employer filing a contribution report after the due date shall securely attach to the report a signed statement explaining the reason for the delinquency. This declaration shall become a part of the contribution report and shall be subject to the same penalties for false or fraudulent statements as are described on the face of Form DC–1. Upon receipt of this declaration the Board shall determine whether a penalty for late filing shall be assessed against the employer.

§ 345.20 Assessments. The Director of Fiscal Accounts is authorized, on behalf of the Board, to issue assessments of contributions, interest, and penalties, and notices and demands for payment thereof.

§ 226.3 Annual mortgage insurance premiums and charges. (a) The service branch shall during the period of ownership by a serviceman have the responsibility for payment of all mortgage insurance premiums and charges. The mortgagee shall be responsible for payment of all such premiums or charges after it has been notified by the Commissioner that the period of ownership by the serviceman has been terminated.

(b) The service branch or the mortgagee, as the case may be, shall pay to the Commissioner, either in cash or debentures issued by the Serviceman's Mortgage Insurance Fund at par plus accrued interest, mortgage insurance premiums in accordance with subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph which shall be calculated in accordance with the amortization provisions of the mortgage, without taking into account delinquent payments or prepayments.

(1) The initial mortgage insurance premium shall be paid on the date on which the insurance becomes effective by endorsement and shall cover the period beginning with the date of insurance endorsement and ending one year after the beginning of amortization. Regardless of whether such period is more or less than one year, a payment shall be made to the Commissioner on account of the initial mortgage insurance premium which payment shall be in an amount equal to ½ percent of the average outstanding principal obligation for the first year of amortization under the mortgage. If such payment is less than the minimum premium or more than the maximum premium prescribed by the act, the initial mortgage insurance premium shall be in the minimum amount prescribed by the act, and the amount of the second premium payment shall be adjusted accordingly; but if such payment is within the limitations prescribed by the act, no adjustment shall be made and the amount of the payment shall be retained by the Commissioner as the initial mortgage insurance premium.

(2) After payment of the initial mortgage insurance premium and until the mortgage is paid in full or the mortgaged property is acquired by the Commissioner, or until the contract of insurance is otherwise terminated with the consent of the Commissioner, the service branch or the mortgagee, as the case may be, shall continue to pay annual mortgage insurance premiums to the Commissioner. Such annual premium shall be paid on the anniversary date of the beginning of amortization and shall be in amount equal to ½ percent of the average outstanding principal obligation for the 12-month period following the date on which the premium becomes payable.

(3) For the purpose of this paragraph the term "beginning of amortization" shall mean the date one month prior to the date of the first monthly payment.

(c) The service branch or the mortgagee, as the case may be, shall pay to the Commissioner, in cash, open-end insurance charges in accordance with subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph.

(1) The initial open-end insurance charge shall be paid on the date on which the insurance becomes effective by endorsement and shall cover the period beginning with the first day of the month following the date the mortgagee requests insurance endorsement and ending with the next anniversary date of the regular mortgage insurance premium. The initial insurance charge shall be in an amount equal to ½ percent of the principal obligation of the open-end advance for a 12-month period and shall be pro-rated for the time period computed as set forth in this subparagraph.

(2) After payment of the initial open-end insurance charge and until the mortgage is paid in full or the mortgaged property is acquired by the Commissioner, or until the contract of insurance is otherwise terminated, the service branch or the mortgagee, as the case may be, shall pay annual insurance charges to the Commissioner. Such annual charge shall be paid on the date the mortgage insurance premium on the original mortgage is paid and shall be in an amount equal to ½ percent of the original principal obligation of the open-end advance for the 12-month period following the date on which the charge is payable.

§ 226.4 Prepayment premiums. (a) The service branch shall have the responsibility for payment of all adjusted premium charges which are due and payable to the Commissioner upon the prepayment of an insured mortgage during the period of ownership by the serviceman. The mortgagee shall be responsible for payment of any such adjusted premium charge upon prepayment of an insured mortgage after the mortgagee has been notified by the Commissioner that the period of ownership by the serviceman has been terminated.

(b) In the event that the principal obligation of any mortgage accepted for insurance is paid in full prior to maturity, the mortgagee shall within 30 days thereafter notify the Commissioner of the date of prepayment and shall pay to the Commissioner an adjusted premium charge of 1 percent of the original principal amount of the prepaid mortgage: Provided, That when such payment in full prior to maturity occurs during the period of ownership by the serviceman the adjusted premium charge shall be paid to the Commissioner by the service branch.

(c) In no event shall the adjusted premium exceed the aggregate amount of premiums which would have been payable if the mortgage had continued to be insured until maturity.

(d) No adjusted premium shall be due or payable in the following cases:

(1) Where at the time of such prepayment there is placed on the mortgaged property a new insured mortgage;

(2) Where the final maturity specified in the mortgage is accelerated solely by reason of partial prepayments made by the mortgagor which do not exceed in any one calendar year 15 percent of the original face amount of the mortgage, plus any increased amount resulting from open-end advances made pursuant to § 221.43 of this subchapter.

(3) Where the final maturity specified in the mortgage is accelerated solely by reason of payments to principal to compensate for—

(i) Damage to the mortgaged property;

(ii) The conveyance of the mortgaged property pursuant to condemnation proceedings or in lieu of condemnation proceedings; or

(iii) A release of a part of such property if approved by the Commissioner:

(4) Where payment in full is made pursuant to a court order or of a delinquent mortgage on which foreclosure proceedings have been commenced, or for the purpose of avoiding foreclosure, if the transaction is approved by the Commissioner.

§ 226.5 Pro-rata refund in the event of prepayment. Upon such prepayment the contract of insurance shall terminate and the Commissioner will refund to the service branch or to the mortgagee, as the case may be, for the account of the mortgagor an amount equal to the pro-rata portion of the current annual mortgage insurance premium and insurance charge in the case of open-end advances theretofore paid which is applicable to the portion of the year subsequent to such payment, computed from the first day of the month following the month in which such prepayment occurs: Provided, That no such refund will be made in any case where the prepayment occurs in the twelfth month of the premium year.

§ 226.6 Insurance endorsement. Upon compliance, satisfactory to the Commissioner, with the terms of a commitment to insure, the Commissioner will:

FEDERAL HOUSING COMMISSIONER,
By ---------- (Authorized agent)
Date ----------.

§ 226.7 Contract of insurance. The mortgage, including any open-end advances made thereunder and approved by the Commissioner, shall be an insured mortgage from the date of endorsement. The Commissioner and the mortgagee shall thereafter be bound by the regulations in this part with the same force and to the same extent as if a separate contract had been executed relating to the insured mortgage, including the provisions of the regulations in this part and of the National Housing Act.

TITLE 32—NATIONAL DEFENSE

PART 65—TRANSPORTATION OF EXPLOSIVES

Sec.
65.1 Purpose.
65.2 Applicability.
65.3 Carrier's certification.
65.4 Inspection of motor vehicles.
65.5 Commercial vehicles and drivers.

AUTHORITY: §§ 65.1 to 65.5 issued under sec. 202, 61 Stat. 500; 5 U. S. C. 171a.

§ 65.1 Purpose. This part provides uniform requirements governing the shipment of ammunition and explosives, Class A and B, by motor vehicles and the safety inspection of motor vehicles tendered or used for the transportation of such commodities.

§ 65.2 Applicability. The provisions of this part shall be applicable to the Military Departments and will apply to shipments of ammunition and explosives, Class A and B, by military and commercial motor vehicles forwarded and received by them within the Continental United States.

§ 65.3 Carrier's certification. All motor carriers desiring to transport ammunition or explosives, Class A or B, for the Department of Defense shall be required to file with the appropriate Military Department(s) a certificate to the effect that they and their drivers are aware of and will comply with all pertinent requirements of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Department of Defense, and the States and Municipalities in and through which their vehicles operate.

§ 65.4 Inspection of motor vehicles. (a) Each Military Department shall require the inspection of all military and commercial motor vehicles tendered to transport ammunition or explosives, Class A or B, over public highways, and all vehicles delivering such shipments. In conjunction with this inspection the Military Departments shall also require the completion of DD Form 626 to indicate the condition of the vehicles.

(1) Only those vehicles against which no unsatisfactory conditions are noted on DD Form 626 will be accepted for loading. Vehicles will not be rejected if deficiencies are corrected prior to loading.

(2) Deficiencies on vehicles delivering shipments will be corrected at the time of inspection if such action is practicable and is considered necessary for safe delivery to the unloading point. If correction is necessary for safe delivery, but is impracticable, appropriate action will be taken to insure safe delivery of the shipment.

(3) Deficiencies which exist at the time of inspection but which are corrected before loading or unloading will be reported under "Remarks."

(b) Distribution of the completed DD Form 626 will be as follows:

(1) The original will be retained by the activity making the inspection.

(2) One copy will be given to the vehicle operator at origin. This copy will accompany the shipment to destination and will be surrendered to the consignee.

(3) When a commercial vehicle tendered for loading or unloading is rejected or the driver thereof is found to be unsatisfactory, a copy will be distributed to each of the following:

(i) To the nearest field office of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

(ii) To the home office of the carrier concerned.

(iii) As required by the appropriate Military Department.

(4) If deficiencies are discovered during the inspection of commercial vehicles but are corrected before loading or unloading, distributions will be in accordance with subparagraph (3) (ii) and (iii) of this paragraph. A copy will not be sent in such cases to the nearest field office of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

(5) When a military vehicle is rejected or the driver thereof is found to be unsatisfactory, further distribution will be made as required by the appropriate Military Department.

(c) Photographs of rejected equipment will be attached to the completed DD Form 626 when it is considered desirable in order to clearly indicate the nature of one or more unsatisfactory elements.

§ 65.5 Commercial vehicles and drivers. (a) Trip-leased commercial vehicles will not be used to transport ammunition or explosives, Class A or B. The vehicles used must be owned or leased under a valid agreement (paragraph (b) of this section) by the company transporting the shipment, and the vehicle drivers must be full-time employees or under the direct control and responsibility of that company. This is not to be construed, however, as precluding the interchange of equipment in furtherance of a through movement of traffic at a point or points which such carriers are authorized to serve.

(b) The contract of lease must be in writing, signed by the parties thereto, and must not contain a provision authorizing cancellation by either party on less than 30 days' notice. In addition, the contract of lease must provide for the exclusive possession, control, and use of the equipment and for the complete assumption of liability in respect thereto by the lessee. The leased equipment may not be further leased or sublet to any other carrier for the duration of the lease.

(c) The Military Departments will insure that a copy of the appropriate contract of lease is carried in all leased vehicles and is available for inspection.

The use of the lands by the Department of the Air Force shall be subject to the following conditions:

(1) The Department of the Air Force shall take all reasonable precautions to prevent and suppress brush and range fires occurring within the withdrawn lands during the period of military use, or outside such lands resulting from military use, and to prevent the pollution of waters on or in the vicinity of the withdrawn lands. The Department of the Air Force may enter into an agreement with the Bureau of Land Management to provide for a transfer of funds for the suppression of range fires by the Bureau of Land Management.

(2) Authorized employees of the Department of the Interior and other Federal or State employees shall be permitted by the Department of the Air Force to enter the withdrawn lands on official business upon obtaining proper clearance from the commanding officer, Mt. Home Air Force Base, or other appropriate Air Force officer in charge.

(3) The Department of the Air Force shall not enclose roads or trails commonly in public use except at such times as it may be necessary to do so in the interests of safety or national security in the discretion of the Air Force officer in charge.

(4) Grazing use of the withdrawn lands shall be administered by the Bureau of Land Management. Grazing use shall be permitted at the discretion of the official of the Bureau of Land Management in charge during the period March 1 to May 31 each year during which season no use of the lands for aerial gunnery shall be permitted; provided, that the Air Force officer in charge may authorize Bureau of Land Management to permit grazing use earlier than March 1 or later than May 31 in all or a portion of the withdrawn lands if such use will not interfere with the military use of such lands.

(5) The Department of the Air Force, not later than February 28 each year, shall destroy any unexploded bombs or other munitions left on the area.

(6) The Department of the Air Force shall adequately post the withdrawn lands annually, specifying the dates closed for public use and the dates open to public use.

(7) The Department of the Air Force shall excercise precaution to prevent the destruction of range resources and to provide for reseeding or such other rehabilitation work as may be necessary on the withdrawn lands or public lands adjacent thereto if such lands are damaged by military use. Such rehabilitation shall be accomplished under cooperative agreement between the Department of the Air Force and the Bureau of Land Management.

(8) The Department of the Air Force shall repair, restore, or replace existing or future range improvements upon the withdrawn lands which are damaged or demolished by military operations. Such rehabilitation shall be accomplished under cooperative agreement between the Department of the Air Force and the Bureau of Land Management.

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Commodity Stabilization Service

[7 CFR Part 730]

RICE

NOTICE OF DETERMINATIONS TO BE MADE WITH RESPECT TO MARKETING QUOTAS, NATIONAL, STATE, AND COUNTY ACREAGE ALLOTMENTS, AND FORMULATION OF REGULATIONS PERTAINING TO FARM ACREAGE ALLOTMENTS AND NORMAL YIELDS FOR THE 1955 CROP

Pursuant to the authority contained in applicable provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended (7 U. S. C. 1301, 1352, 1353, 1354), the Secretary of Agriculture is preparing to determine whether marketing quotas are required to be proclaimed for the 1955 crop of rice, to determine and proclaim the national acreage allotment for the 1955 crop of rice, to apportion among States and counties the national acreage allotment for the 1955 crop of rice, and to formulate regulations for establishing farm acreage allotments and normal yields for the 1955 crop of rice.

Section 354 of the act provides that whenever in the calendar year 1954 the Secretary determines that the total supply of rice for the 1954–55 marketing year will exceed the normal supply for such marketing year by more than 10 per centum, the Secretary shall, not later than December 31, 1954, proclaim such fact and marketing quotas shall be in effect for the crop of rice produced in 1955.

Section 352 of the act provides that the national acreage allotment of rice for the calendar year 1955 shall be that acreage which the Secretary determines will, on the basis of the national average yield of rice for the five calendar years 1950 through 1954, produce an amount of rice adequate, together with the estimated carry-over from the 1954–55 marketing year, to make available a supply for the 1955–56 marketing year not less than the normal supply. The Secretary is required under this section of the act to proclaim such national acreage allotment not later than December 31, 1954.

As defined in section 301 of the act, for purposes of these determinations, "total supply" for any marketing year is the carry-over of rice for such marketing year, plus the estimated production of rice in the United States during the calendar year in which such marketing year begins and the estimated imports of rice into the United States during such marketing year; "normal supply" for any marketing year is the estimated domestic consumption of rice for the marketing year ending immediately prior to the marketing year for which normal supply is being determined, plus the estimated imports of rice for the marketing year for which normal supply is being determined, plus 10 per centum of such consumption and exports, with adjustments for current trends in consumption and for unusual conditions as deemed necessary; and "marketing year" for rice is the period August 1–July 31.

Section 353 (a) of the act requires that the national acreage allotment of rice for the 1955 crop, less a reserve of not to exceed one percentum thereof, be apportioned among the several States in which rice is produced in proportion to the average number of acres of rice in each State during the 5-year period, 1950–1954 (plus, in applicable years, the acreage diverted under previous agricultural adjustment and conservation programs) with adjustments for trends in acreage during such period. Section 353 (b) of the act requires that the State acreage allotment of rice for the 1955 crop, less a reserve not to exceed three percentum thereof, be apportioned to farms owned or operated by persons who have produced rice in any one of the five calendar years, 1950 through 1954, on the basis of past production of rice by the producer on the farm taking into consideration the acreage allotments previously established for such owners or operators; abnormal conditions affecting acreage; land, labor, and equipment available for the production of rice; crop rotation practices; and the soil and other physical factors affecting the production of rice. Provision is made that if the State Committee recommends such action and the Secretary determines such action will facilitate the effective administration of the act, he may provide for the apportionment of the State acreage allotment to farms on which rice has been produced during any one of such period of years on the basis of the foregoing factors, using past production of rice on the farm and the acreage allotments previously established for the farm in lieu of past production of rice by the producer and the acreage allotments previously established for such owners or operators.

Section 353 (c) of the act provides that if farm acreage allotments are established by using past production of rice on the farm and the acreage allotments previously established for the farm in lieu of past production of rice by the producer and the acreage allotments previously established for owners or operators, the State acreage allotment shall be apportioned among counties in the State on the same basis as the national acreage allotment is apportioned among the States and the county allotments shall be apportioned to farms on the basis of applicable factors set forth in subsection (b) of section 353.

Section 301 (b) (13) (D) of the act requires that a "normal yield" be determined for any land planted to rice in 1955 by taking the average yield per acre thereof during the five calendar years 1950 through 1954. Provision is made that if for any reason there is no actual yield or the data therefor is not available for any year, an appraised yield for such year, determined in accordance with regulations of the Secretary, shall be used.

Prior to making any of the foregoing determinations with respect to marketing quotas and national, State, and county acreage allotments for the 1955 crop of rice and the formulation of regulations for the establishment of farm acreage allotments and normal yields for the 1955 crop of rice consideration will be given to data, views, and recommendations, pertaining thereto which are submitted in writing to the Director, Grain Division, Commodity Stabilization Service, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. All written submissions must be postmarked not later than thirty days after the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Issued at Washington, D. C., this 4th day of November 1954.

[SEAL] J. A. McCONNELL, Administrator.

TELEVISION BROADCAST STATIONS

TABLE OF ASSIGNMENTS

1. Notice is hereby given that the Commission has received a proposal for rule making in the above-entitled matter.

2. The Commission has before it for consideration a petition filed on October 26, 1954, by Jack Rose, Albert S. Rose, and S. A. Rosenbaum, d/b as Laurel Television Company, Laurel, Mississippi, and now made part of this docket, requesting an amendment of § 3.606 Table of assignments, rules governing television broadcast stations, as follows:

City	Channel No.
	Present	Proposed
Laurel, Miss.	33—	7, 33—

This amendment would require a change in the offset requirement of the assignment of Channel 7 to Munford, Alabama, from 7 even to 7 minus.

3. In support of the requested amendment petitioner urges that Laurel is an important industrial and agricultural center; that it is the county seat and trade center of Jones County; that an application will be filed for Channel 7 in the event the amendment is adopted as proposed; and that the assignment of Channel 7 may be made without any other changes in the table and would conform to the Commission's rules.

4. The Commission is of the view that rule-making proceedings should be instituted in this matter in order that all interested parties may submit their views to the Commission, and the Commission may be apprised of such views prior to taking final action.

5. Authority for the adoption of the proposed amendment is contained in sections 4 (i), 301, 303 (c), (d), (f), and (r), and 307 (b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

6. Any interested party who is of the opinion that the amendment proposed by petitioner should not be adopted or should not be adopted in the form set forth herein may file with the Commission on or before December 3, 1954, a written statement or brief setting forth his comments. Comments in support of the proposed amendment may also be filed on or before the same date. Comments or briefs in reply to the original comments may be filed within 10 days from the last day for filing said original comments or briefs. No additional comments may be filed unless (1) specifically requested by the Commission or (2) good cause for the filing of such additional comments is established. The Commission will consider all such comments that are submitted before taking action in this matter, and if any comments appear to warrant the holding of a hearing or oral argument, notice of the time and place of such hearing or oral argument will be given.

7. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.764 of the Commission's rules and regulations, an original and 14 copies of all statements, briefs, or comments shall be furnished the Commission.

Adopted: November 3, 1954.

Released: November 4, 1954.

TELEVISION BROADCAST STATIONS; TABLE OF ASSIGNMENTS

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING AND ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE

1. Notice is hereby given that the Commission has received a proposal for rule making in the above entitled matter.

2. The Appalachian Company, permittee of television Station WTVU operating on Channel 73 at Scranton, Pennsylvania, filed a petition on October 25, 1954, requesting that the Commission's table of assignments contained in § 3.606 of its rules governing television broadcast stations be amended to substitute Channel 38 for Channel 73 in Scranton. It is suggested that this change in assignment can be accomplished by making the following changes in the table:

Location	Add channel	Delete channel
Scranton, Pa.	38	73
Sunbury, Pa.	32	65
Lock Haven, Pa.	48	32
Lewiston, Pa.	74	38
Shamokin, Pa.	65
Carbondale, Pa.	68
Kingston, Pa.	73

Petitioner further requests that the Commission issue an order to show cause why Appalachian should not be required to operate on Channel 38 instead of Channel 73.

3. In support of its request, Appalachian notes that due to certain technical difficulties connected with receivers and antennas at the high frequency assigned to Station WTVU, the station has been unable to render a satisfactory technical service. It is urged that Station WTVU could render a more satisfactory service on Channel 38 and could thus better compete with the other two UHF stations in the area. Finally, petitioner urges that the proposed amendment would conform to the Commission's rules. Petitioner concedes that the Commission does not recognize differences among the various UHF channels for assignment purposes, but urges that its proposal would improve UHF service in the Pennsylvania area.

4. Petitioner notes that in a recent rule making proceeding, changes were made in the assignments to Sunbury, Lewiston, and Shamokin, Pennsylvania and that these changes were to become effective October 25, 1954. Accordingly, the changes proposed by petitioner for Lewiston and Shamokin have already been accomplished. This petitioner further proposes assignments in Carbondale and Kingston, Pennsylvania, communities not now listed in the table. There is, however, no showing made as to a need or demand for these assignments other than the statement that they are technically feasible. We are of the view that these assignments need not be made at this time. We believe that petitioner's objective can be achieved by making a more simple arrangement. The Commission is therefore proposing to amend its table of assignments as follows:

City	Channel No.
	Present	Proposed
Lock Haven, Pa.	32—	48+
Scranton, Pa.	16—, 22—, 73	16—, 22—, 38
Sunbury, Pa.	38	32—

5. The Commission is of the view that rule making proceedings should be instituted in this matter in order that interested persons may submit their views. The subject petition is made a part of this docket.

6. Appalachian Company is presently authorized to operate Station WTVU on Channel 73 at Scranton, and the rule making proposal herein would substitute Channel 38 for Channel 73 in that city. Appalachian Company is therefore ordered to show cause in this proceeding why its outstanding authorization should not be modified to specify operation on Channel 38 in lieu of Channel 73. A reply in writing to the aforesaid order to show cause should be filed on or before the same date for filing comments in this proceeding.

7. Authority for the adoption of the proposed amendment is contained in sections 4 (i), 301, 303 (c), (d), (f), and (r), and 307 (b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

8. Any interested party who is of the opinion that the amendment proposed by the Commission should not be adopted or should not be adopted in the form set forth herein may file with the Commission on or before December 3, 1954, a written statement or brief setting forth his comments. Comments in support of the proposed amendment may also be filed on or before the same date. Comments or briefs in reply to the original comments may be filed on or before December 13, 1954. No additional comments may be filed unless (1) specifically requested by the Commission or (2) good cause for the filing of such additional comments is established. The Commission will consider all such comments before taking final action in this matter, and if any comment appears to warrant the holding of a hearing or oral argument, notice of the time and place of such hearing or oral argument will be given.

9. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.764 of the Commission's rules and regulations, an original and 14 copies of all statements, briefs, or comments shall be furnished the Commission.

Released: November 4, 1954.

STATIONS ON LAND AND SHIPBOARD IN MARITIME SERVICES

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

In the matter of amendment of Parts 7 and 8 of the Commission's rules regarding frequencies in the band 2000–2850 kc in the Seattle, Washington and New Orleans-Louisiana areas.

1. On February 10, 1954, the Commission adopted a report and order in Docket No. 10444 finalizing a plan of frequency assignment for all areas which would be used as the basis for carrying out the Maritime Mobile radiotelephone portions of the Geneva Agreement (1951) in the frequency bands 2000 kc to 2850 kc. However, the availability of certain new frequencies was deferred pending their clearance of conflicts with other services.

2. Among the frequencies whose availability was deferred were the following:

Seattle: 2482 kc (coast); 2430 kc (ship).
New Orleans: 2482 kc (coast); 2382 kc (ship).

Partial clearance of the Seattle pair has been effected which makes it now feasible to propose its daytime use pending further clearance for 24 hour use. Sufficient clearance of the New Orleans pair has been effected to make it feasible now to propose its 24 hour use.

3. The proposed amendment as contained below is issued under the authority contained in sections 303 (f) and (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

4. Any interested person who is of the opinion that the proposed amendment should not be adopted or should not be adopted in the form set forth herein, may file with the Commission on or before December 7, 1954, written data, views or briefs setting forth his comments. Comments in support of the proposed amendment may also be filed on or before the same date. Comments in reply to the original comments may be filed within ten days from the last day for filing said original data, views or briefs. The Commission will consider all such comments prior to taking final action in this matter.

5. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.764 of the Commission's rules, an original and fourteen copies of all statements, briefs or comments filed shall be furnished the Commission.

Adopted: November 3, 1954.

Released: November 4, 1954.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,
[SEAL] MARY JANE MORRIS,
Secretary.

The following frequencies in kilocycles would become available for assignment to public coast stations for telephony and to public ship stations for telephone communication with the coast station in the areas indicated:

2482[1]	2430[1]	Seattle, Wash.

COMMERCIAL RADIO OPERATORS

OPERATING AUTHORITY

In the matter of amendment of § 13.61 of the Commission's rules governing commercial radio operators to prescribe qualifications of radio-telephone operators required on board ships for safety purposes.

1. Notice is hereby given of proposed rule making in the above-entitled matter.

2. Cargo ships of the United States of 500 gross tons and upwards but less than 1600 gross tons, which are fitted with a radiotelephone installation in accordance with Part II of Title III of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, or the radio provisions of the Safety of Life at Sea Convention (London, 1948) are required to carry at least one qualified operator. Both statute and treaty further provide that such qualified operator "may be a member of the crew holding only a certificate for radiotelephony".

3. In accordance with the Commission's statutory authority to prescribe the qualifications of radio operators and its responsibility to establish minimum standards for radiotelephone operators required by statute and treaty for safety purposes on board ships, it is proposed to designate the radiotelephone third-class operator permit as the minimum grade of operator license to be held by such operators. Eligible persons may obtain such a permit by passing a written test in commercial examination Elements One and Two which contain basic questions on radio laws and regulations and on radiotelephone operating practices and procedures. The examination for the radiotelephone third-class operator permit is non-technical in nature and is at a level considered consistent with both the responsibilities of the operator and the latitude provided by statute and treaty for a "member of the crew" to qualify as an operator.

4. Section 13.61 of the Commission's rules defines the scope of operating authority under the various classes of operator licenses and the proposed change would be accomplished by amending paragraph (h) thereof so as to prohibit operation of ship radiotelephone installations coming under the above-mentioned provisions of law by holders of a lower grade of license than the radiotelephone third-class operator permit. Under the Commission's rules this grade of license is valid for the normal operation of ship radiotelephone stations with authorized antenna power up to and including 250 watts.

5. This proposal is issued pursuant to the authority of sections 4 (i), 303 (1), and 303 (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

6. Any interested person may file with the Commission, on or before December 7, 1954, a written statement or brief in support of or in opposition to the proposed amendments. Comments or briefs in reply to the original comments or briefs may be filed ten (10) days from the last day for filing the original comments or briefs. The Commission will consider all comments, briefs, and statements before taking final action.

7. In accordance with § 1.764 of the Commission's rules relating to practice and procedure, an original and 14 copies of all statements, briefs, or comments should be furnished to the Commission.

Adopted: November 3, 1954.

Released: November 4, 1954.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,
[SEAL] MARY JANE MORRIS,
Secretary.

It is proposed to amend § 13.61 (h) of the rules governing commercial radio operators to read as follows:

(h) Restricted radiotelephone operator permit. Any station except:

(1) Stations transmitting television, or

(2) Stations transmitting telegraphy by any type of the Morse Code, or

(3) Any of the various classes of broadcast stations other than remote pickup, broadcast STL, and FM intercity relay stations, or

The regulations issued by the Commodity Credit Corporation and the Commodity Stabilization Service published in 19 F. The provisions affected are amended as follows:

1. In § 421.579 Warehouse receipts, paragraph (e) is amended to read as follows:

(e) Warehouse receipts must carry an endorsement by the warehouseman in substantially the following form:

Warehouse charges on the rice represented by this warehouse receipt have been paid or otherwise provided for through ---------- 1955 (insert applicable maturity date for State where stored), and a lien for such charges will not be claimed by the warehouseman from CCC or any subsequent holder of this warehouse receipt.

2. Section 421.581 Determination of quality is amended to read as follows:

stored in California and Arizona or accruing prior to March 1, 1955, on rice stored in any other State, except that on rice under loan or purchase agreement stored in an approved warehouse and delivered to CCC in such approved storage, CCC will refund to the producer an amount computed at the rate of 7 cents per hundred pounds as compensation for any receiving and loading out charges paid by the producer. In the case of sacked identity-preserved rice delivered to CCC under warehouse storage loans, CCC in lieu of making a refund to the producer for receiving and loading out charges, will assume unpiling, weighing, inspection, and repiling charges up to, but not in excess of, the amount computed as compensation to the producer for receiving and loading out charges.

6. Section 421.585 Settlement is amended as follows:

a. Paragraph (a) (1) is amended to read as follows:

§ 421.585 Settlement—(a) Farm-storage and identity-preserved warehouse-storage loans. (1) In the case of rice delivered to CCC from farm-storage or identity-preserved warehouse-storage under the loan program, settlement will be made at the applicable support rate for the grade and quality of the total quantity of rice delivered. The Producer shall, at his expense, furnish to the county committee at the time of delivery official weight certificates and Federal or Federal-State lot inspection certificates dated subsequent to April 15, 1955, in California and Arizona and dated subsequent to February 15, 1955, in any other State. If the producer fails to furnish such weight and inspection certificates and does not pay off his loan, the county committee shall order the rice weighed up and inspected, pay the costs of such weighing and inspection, and charge such costs to the producer when making settlement.

b. Paragraph (b) (1) is amended to read as follows:

(b) Modified commingled warehouse-storage loans. (1) In the case of rice delivered to CCC from modified commingled warehouse-storage under the loan program, settlement will be made at the applicable support rate for the grade and quality of the rice delivered and for the quantity shown on the warehouse receipt. The producer shall at his own expense furnish to the county committee at the time of delivery of the rice to CCC a Federal or Federal-State lot inspection certificate dated subsequent to April 15, 1955, in California and Arizona and dated subsequent to February 15, 1955, in any other State, covering the lot of rice delivered which must have been taken from the modified commingled lot against which the warehouse receipt representing the rice under loan was issued. If the producer fails to furnish such inspection certificate and does not pay off his loan, the county committee shall order the rice inspected, pay the cost of such inspection, and charge such costs to the producer when making settlement.

c. Paragraph (d) Purchase agreements is amended to read as follows:

(d) Purchase agreements. Eligible rice will be purchased at the support rate applicable to the grade of the rice determined on the basis of an official Federal or Federal-State lot inspection certificate dated subsequent to April 15, 1955 in California and Arizona and dated subsequent to February 15, 1955 in any other State.

PART 721—CORN

PROCLAMATION OF COMMERCIAL CORN-PRODUCING AREA FOR 1955

§ 721.601 Basis and purpose. (a) This section is issued to proclaim the commercial corn-producing area for 1955 pursuant to sections 301 (b) (4) and 327 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended.

(b) In making the determinations contained in § 721.602, the corn acreage estimates of the Agricultural Marketing Service (formerly Bureau of Agricultural Economics) and the statistics of the Bureau of the Census relating to numbers of farms and acreage of farmland were used, adjusted where necessary to reflect the difference in the definition of "farm" used by the Commodity Stabilization Service and the Agricultural Conservation Program Service from that of the Bureau of the Census. Chapter IX—Agricultural Marketing Service (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

PART 970—IRISH POTATOES GROWN IN MAINE

LIMITATION OF SHIPMENTS

§ 970.301 Limitation of shipments—(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to Marketing Agreement No. 122 and Order No. 70 (§§ 970.1 to 970.92; 19 F. R. 5469), regulating the handling of Irish Potatoes grown in the State of Maine, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Maine Potato Marketing Committee, established pursuant to said marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of shipments, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER (5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) in that (i) the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, (ii) more orderly marketing in the public interest, than would otherwise prevail, will be promoted by regulating the shipment of potatoes, in the manner hereinafter set forth, on and after the effective date of this section, (iii) in order to maximize the benefits derivable from the regulatory program and to make them available to producers and handlers as soon as practicable, the provisions of this regulation should become effective with respect to as large a portion of the 1954 potato crop as possible, (iv) recommendations as to the need for, and the extent of, limitation on the handling of potatoes grown in Maine were made at a meeting of the marketing committee on October 25, 1954, (v) compliance with this section will not require any preparation on the part of handlers which cannot be completed by the said effective date, and (vi) information regarding the committee's recommendations has been made available to producers and handlers in the production area.

(b) Order. (1) During the period November 15, 1954, to June 30, 1955, both dates inclusive, no handler shall ship:

(i) Potatoes of the round white varieties or of the red skin varieties in packs of one hundred (100) pounds or more unless than the potatoes meet the requirements of the U. S. No. 1 grade and are of a size not smaller than 2 inches minimum diameter;

(ii) Potatoes of the round white varieties or of the red skin varieties in packs of less than one hundred (100) pounds unless the potatoes meet the requirements of U. S. No. 1, Size A, and are of a size not smaller than 2 inches minimum diameter; or

(iii) Potatoes of the long varieties (including, but not being limited to, the Russet Burbank variety) unless the potatoes meet the requirements of the U. S. No. 2 grade and are of a size not smaller than $1\frac{7}{8}$ inches minimum diameter.

(2) Pursuant to § 970.54, each handler may ship not in excess of fifteen (15) hundredweight of potatoes per week free from regulations effective pursuant to §§ 970.45 and 970.65.

(3) Except as otherwise provided in this subparagraph, the limitations set forth in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph shall not be applicable to shipments of certified seed potatoes, or to shipments of potatoes for the following purposes: (i) For grading or storage within the production area; (ii) for export; (iii) for distribution by the Federal Government; (iv) for charitable purposes; (v) for manufacture or conversion into starch, flour, or alcohol; (vi) for canning or freezing; (vii) for livestock feed; (viii) for planting within the production area; (ix) for potato chipping; (x) for dehydration. Each handler making any such shipments for potato chipping shall file an application pursuant to § 970.56 for a Certificate of Privilege and at the same time, or at such time subsequent thereto as the Maine Potato Administrative Committee may require, provide the administrative committee with appropriate evidence that such potatoes were, or are being, treated and conditioned for use for potato chipping and that such potatoes, except for the special treatment and conditioning, meet the applicable grade and size requirements set forth in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph. No handler shall ship potatoes for dehydration unless they meet the requirements of the U. S. No. 2 grade.

(4) Each handler making shipments of potatoes pursuant to subparagraph (3) of this paragraph for export, charitable purposes, canning or freezing, livestock feed, or dehydration shall: (i) File an application pursuant to § 970.56 with the administrative committee for a Certificate of Privilege for such shipments; (ii) pay assessments pursuant to § 970.45 with respect to the shipments of certified seed potatoes; and (iii) pay assessments pursuant to § 970.45 and have inspection pursuant to § 970.65 with respect to each shipment for export, potato chipping, distribution by the Federal Government, charitable purposes, or dehydration. Further, each handler who ships potatoes for export, potato chipping, distribution by the Federal Government, charitable purposes, canning or freezing, livestock, feed, or dehydration shall furnish a record of such shipments to the administrative committee; and, in the case of shipments for potato chipping or dehydration, the handler shall also furnish a copy of the bill of lading for the respective shipment. In addition, each application for a Certificate of Privilege to ship potatoes for export, potato chipping, charitable purposes, canning or freezing, or dehydration shall be accompanied by the applicant handler's certification and the buyer's or receiver's certification that the potatoes to be shipped for the purpose stated in the application are to be used for such purpose.

(5) No person may ship potatoes under a Certificate of Exemption issued pursuant to §§ 970.70 to 970.75, inclusive, and which are exempted from the grade and size limitations set forth in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, unless such potatoes are packed in 100 pound packs.

(6) The grades and sizes used in this section shall have the same meaning assigned these terms in the United States Standards for Potatoes (§§ 51.1540 to 51.1559 of this title), including the tolerances set forth therein; and all other terms used in this section shall have the same meaning as when used in Marketing Agreement No. 122 and Order No. 70 (§§ 970.1 to 970.92)

(Sec. 5, 49 Stat. 753, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 608c)

PROCEDURE ALTERATIONS

The standard instrument approach procedure alterations appearing hereinafter are adopted to become effective when indicated in order to promote safety of the flying public. Compliance with the notice, procedures, and effective date provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act would be impracticable and contrary to the public interest, and therefore is not required.

Part 609 is amended as follows:

NOTE: Where the general classification (LFR, VAR, ADF, ILS, GCA, or VOR), location, and procedure number (if any) of any procedure in the amendments which follow, are identical with an existing procedure, that procedure is to be substituted for the existing one, as of the effective date given, to the extent that it differs from the existing procedure; where a procedure is canceled, the existing procedure is revoked; new procedures are to be placed in appropriate alphabetical sequence within the section amended.

1. The low frequency range procedures prescribed in § 609.6 are amended to read in part:

§ 609.1 Definitions. As used in this part, unless the context clearly indicates otherwise,

(a) "Federal agency" means any department, agency, or governmental body of the United States (including any instrumentality wholly owned by the United States) employing persons in Federal service as defined in this section.

(b) "Federal employee" means an individual who has performed Federal service, as defined in this section.

(c) "Federal service" means service performed after December 31, 1952, in the employ of the United States or any instrumentality wholly owned by the United States, except that the term shall not include service performed:

(1) By an elective officer in the executive or legislative branch of the Government of the United States;

(2) As a member of the Armed Forces of the United States;

(3) By foreign service personnel for whom special separation allowances are provided by the Foreign Service Act of 1946 (60 Stat. 999);

(4) Prior to January 1, 1955, for the Bonneville Power Administrator if such service constitutes employment under section 3306 (c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954;

(5) Outside the United States by an individual who is not a citizen of the United States; for the purpose of this paragraph, the term United States means the States, Alaska, Hawaii, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands;

(6) By any individual as an employee who is excluded by Executive Order from the operation of the Civil Service Retirement Act of 1930 because he is paid on a contract or fee basis;

(11) By any individual who is employed under a Federal relief program to relieve him from unemployment;

(13) By an officer or a member of a crew on or in connection with an American vessel: (i) owned by or bare—boat chartered to the United States and (ii) whose business is conducted by a general agent of the Secretary of Commerce, if contributions on account of such service are required to be made to an unemployment fund under a State unemployment compensation law pursuant to section 3305 (g) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954.

(d) "Federal wages" means all remuneration for Federal service, including cash allowances and remuneration in any medium other than cash.

(e) "Official station" means the place designated on the Federal employee's notification of personnel action terminating his Federal service (Standard Form 50 or its equivalent) as his "headquarters" or "duty station" if it differs from "headquarters." (f) "State agency" means any agency administering a State unemployment compensation or employment security law which has entered into an agreement with the Secretary under title XV of the Social Security Act, as Amended, and the agencies in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands to which the Secretary has delegated the authority to make determinations of entitlement under title XV.

(g) "Secretary" means the Secretary of Labor of the United States.

(h) "Title XV" means title XV of the Social Security Act, as amended, entitled "Unemployment Compensation for Federal Employees."

§ 609.2 Information to Federal employees. Each Federal agency shall:

(b) Complete Standard Form 8, "Notice to Separated Federal Employee," in accordance with instructions thereon, and furnish a completed copy of such form to each of its employees at the time of his separation from Federal service.

§ 609.3 Findings by Federal agency. (a) Upon receipt from a State agency or the Secretary of a "Request for Wage and Separation Information" (Form ES–931), the Federal agency shall promptly make findings with respect to: (1) Whether the claimant has performed Federal service for that agency during his base period specified on the Form ES–931, (2) the claimant's Federal wages for such base period, by quarters or weeks, as indicated, and (3) the reasons for the termination of his Federal service. It shall thereupon complete all copies of the Form ES–931 received. If the documents necessary for the completion of the form have been consigned to an agency record center or to the Federal Records Center in St. Louis, the Federal agency shall obtain the necessary information from the records center. Any records center shall give priority to such requests.

(b) Each Federal agency shall maintain such a control of the Forms ES–931 received by it that will enable it to ascertain at any time the number of such Forms that have not been returned to the requesting State agency, or the Secretary, as the case may be, and the date of the receipt of such unreturned forms by the Federal agency.

(c) Within four working days of the Federal agency's receipt of Form ES–931, it shall complete and return the number of copies of the Form requested to the State agency or to the Secretary, as the case may require. When the completed form cannot be returned within such time, the Federal agency shall immediately inform the State agency or the Secretary, as the case may require, and shall include an estimate of the time by which the completed form will be returned.

(d) The findings of the Federal agency made pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section shall be final and conclusive, unless the claimant requests additional information with respect to, or reconsideration and correction of, such findings in accordance with § 609.7 (a) and (b).

(e) With the exception of the findings by a Federal agency specified in paragraph (a) of this section, a claimant's right to compensation under title XV will be determined by the State agency under the applicable provisions of the State unemployment compensation law. Except for the findings by the Federal agency under paragraph (a) of this section, the determination by a State agency is subject to review in the same manner and to the same extent as other determinations of entitlement under the State unemployment compensation law, unless it is a determination by the State agency of Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands, in which event it is subject to review in accordance with the regulations of the Secretary.

§ 609.4 Additional information to State agencies or the Secretary. Each Federal agency shall furnish to a State agency or the Secretary, as the case may require, any additional information (which it is not otherwise prohibited from releasing by law) that may be necessary for the administration of title XV.

§ 609.5 Allocation of terminal annual leave payment. The Federal agency shall allocate any lump-sum payment for terminal annual leave over the period for which it was paid. The Federal agency shall follow the procedures described in the Federal Personnel Manual, Sections L 1–3 and L 1–18.02 for computing the terminal annual leave payment to ascertain the last day with respect to which such payment was made.

§ 609.6 Assignment of Federal service and Federal wages. (a) When the completed Form ES–931 has been returned to the State agency or Secretary, as the case may require, the claimant's Federal service and Federal wages for the period shown on the Form shall be deemed to have been assigned within the meaning of section 1504 of title XV. Unless this assignment is in error the Federal wages and Federal service so assigned may not be reassigned to another State.

(b) Each Federal agency shall maintain a control of assignments of Federal service and Federal wages. When an assignment is made the Federal agency shall indicate on the basic document on which it maintains a record of each employee's Federal wages (such as the "Individual Pay Card"), the fact that wages have been assigned, the period concerned, and the State to which assigned.

§ 609.7 Request for additional information, correction and reconsideration of findings. (a) If the notice of determination of a claimant's entitlement to unemployment compensation under title XV does not contain sufficient information to enable the claimant to understand the basis for any of the findings made by the Federal agency pursuant to § 609.3 (a), he may, within the time specified in the State unemployment compensation law for appealing from a determination, file a notice of appeal in accordance with the requirements of the applicable State unemployment compensation law and concurrently file a request for more specific information, through the State agency or the Secretary, as the case may require. Upon receipt of this request the Federal agency shall (except where it would be inconsistent with general policies followed in the case of separations for security reasons) furnish to the State agency or the Secretary, as the case may require, such additional information as will enable the claimant to understand the basis for the finding. The Federal agency shall submit such information in the number of copies requested by the State agency or the Secretary, as the case may be.

(b) Any claimant who wishes a Federal agency to reconsider and correct any of its findings made pursuant to § 609.3 (a) shall (1) file a notice of appeal in accordance with the requirements of the applicable State unemployment compensation law, and (2) file a written request for such reconsideration and correction, together with such information as supports his request, through the State agency or the Secretary, as the case may require, within the time specified in the unemployment compensation law of the State for appealing from a determination of entitlement to unemployment compensation: Provided, That such period may be extended for good cause by the State agency or the Secretary, as the case may be. The Federal agency, immediately upon receipt of a claimant's written request for reconsideration and correction, shall consider the information supplied by the claimant and shall review its findings. The Federal agency shall promptly correct any errors or omissions that it may find, and shall affirm, modify, or reverse any or all of its findings as may be appropriate. It shall then forward the requested number of copies of its reconsidered findings to the State agency or the Secretary, as the case may require.

(c) If at any time within one year after the Federal agency returns a completed From ES–931 to a State agency or the Secretary, as the case may be, the Federal agency ascertains that any of its findings made pursuant to § 609.3 (a) are in error, it shall promptly correct its error and forward its corrected findings to the State agency or the Secretary, as the case may require.

§ 609.8 Appeal by Federal agency. If the terminating Federal agency believes that a State agency's determination awarding or denying unemployment compensation to a claimant under title XV is incorrect, it may, unless otherwise prohibited by law, appeal from such determination in the same manner and to the same extent as other employers may appeal under the State unemployment compensation law, or if the determination is by the State agency of Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands, the terminating Federal agency may appeal in accordance with regulations of the Secretary; in no event, however, may the terminating Federal agency appeal from the findings of another Federal agency made pursuant to § 609.3 (a).

§ 609.9 Liaison. To facilitate the Secretary's administration of title XV, each Federal agency shall designate one of its officials to be its liaison with the Secretary.

Effective date. These regulations shall take effect on January 1, 1955.

Signed at Washington, D. C., this 29th day of October 1954.

JAMES P. MITCHELL,
Secretary of Labor.

§ 610.2 Effective date of program. Compensation shall be payable for weeks of unemployment beginning after December 31, 1954.

§ 610.3 Assignment of Federal service and Federal wages—(a) State to which assigned. Federal service and Federal wages shall be assigned to the State in which the Federal employee had his last official station prior to filing his first claim for a benefit year (whether or not a benefit year is established), unless;

(1) At the time he files such claim he resides in another State in which, after he was separated from Federal service, he performed service covered under the unemployment compensation law of such State even though such service was performed within the period with respect to which he is receiving or has received a terminal annual leave payment (in this event his Federal service and Federal wages shall be assigned to the latter State); or

(2) Prior to the filing of such claim his last official station in Federal service was outside the United States, in which event his Federal service and Federal wages shall be assigned to the State in which he resides when he files such claim; as used in this paragraph "United States" includes the 48 States, Alaska, Hawaii and the District of Columbia; or

(3) At the time he files such claim he resides in Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands, in which event his Federal service and Federal wages shall be assigned to Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands, as the case may be.

(b) Allocation of terminal annual leave payments. The lump-sum terminal annual leave payment of a claimant constitutes Federal wages for the period with respect to which they are allocated, under § 609.5 of this chapter.

(c) Service and wages to be assigned. (1) As soon as a claimant files a claim for compensation the State agency shall request information on Form ES–931 from each Federal agency for whom the claimant worked in his base period. The State agency shall specify on the Form ES–931 the claimant's base period and whether his Federal wages are to be reported by quarters or weeks. Only Federal service and Federal wages in the specified base period shall be assigned to the State. "Base period" as used in this paragraph means the base period prescribed by the State unemployment compensation law at the time the claimant files his first claim for compensation whether or not it becomes a valid claim or a benefit year is established.

(2) Federal service and Federal wages shall be deemed to have been assigned to the State when the State agency receives the completed Form ES–931 from the Federal agency.

(3) Federal service and Federal wages assigned to a State shall be used only by that State (or by another State to which they have been transferred in accordance with the Interstate Wage Combining Plan) in determining entitlement to compensation.

(4) Federal service and Federal wages assigned to a State in error may be reassigned for use by the proper State.

(d) United States considered as single employer. Federal service performed for all Federal agencies shall be considered for purposes of the State unemployment compensation law as employment with a single employer.

(e) Transition period. A claimant who has an unexpired benefit year on January 1, 1955, in a State to which his Federal service and Federal wages are assignable may request redetermination of the amount of his unemployment compensation for weeks of unemployment after December 31, 1954, if he has had Federal service and Federal wages in the applicable base period. When a claimant requests such redetermination the State agency shall forward, to the appropriate Federal agency, Form ES–931 for completion. Upon receipt of the completed form the State agency shall redetermine compensation payable for the unexpired benefit year. Compensation payable in accordance with such redetermination shall be only for weeks of unemployment beginning after December 31, 1954. If the claimant's unexpired benefit year was established under the law of a State other than that to which his wages are assignable no such redetermination shall be made.

§ 610.4 Effect of Federal agency's findings. (a) The findings of a Federal agency as to whether the individual has performed Federal service, during his base period specified on the Form ES–931, the individual's Federal wages in such base period, and the reasons for termination of such service, shall be final and conclusive, unless the claimant applies for reconsideration and correction of such findings in accordance with § 609.7 (b) of this chapter or requests additional information in accordance with § 609.7 (a) of this chapter.

(b) Except for the findings of the Federal agency specified in paragraph (a) of this section, nothing contained in this part shall be construed to limit the right of the State agency to determine, under the applicable provisions of the State unemployment compensation law, the individual's right to compensation.

§ 610.5 Determination of entitlement—(a) Entitlement. The agency of the State to which a Federal employee's Federal service and Federal wages have been assigned (or of the State to which they have been transferred in accordance with the Interstate Wage Combining Plan) shall determine the claimant's entitlement to compensation and shall pay such compensation in the same amounts, on the same terms, and subject to the same conditions as the benefits which would be payable to such claimant under the unemployment compensation law of the State if the Federal service and Federal wages of such claimant had been included as employment and wages under such law, except that, for the purposes of title XV, a claimant shall not be considered as unemployed during the period to which his terminal annual leave payment is allocated. The notice of determination given to the claimant pursuant to the unemployment compensation law of the State shall include the findings made by the Federal agency and shall inform the claimant of his right to additional information or reconsideration and correction of such findings. The State agency shall set forth the findings of the Federal agency in sufficient detail to enable the claimant to determine whether he wishes to request reconsideration or correction of any such findings, to the extent that such information has been furnished by the Federal agency.

(b) Application of interstate plans. The Interstate Benefit Payment Plan and the Interstate Wage Combining Plan shall be applicable, where appropriate, to claimants who have Federal service and Federal wages. For the purpose of these plans Federal wages are considered as wages under the law of the State to which they are assignable.

(c) Determination in absence of Form ES–931. (1) If the Form ES–931 has not been received from the Federal agency by the 12th day after such form was forwarded to such agency, the State agency may determine entitlement to compensation on the basis of the claimant's statement under oath: Provided, That in addition to furnishing such statement, the claimant submits for the State agency's examination any document issued by a Federal agency (as for example, Standard Form 50 or W–2), which shows that he performed service for that agency.

(2) When the Form ES–931 received from the Federal agency after such determination contains findings which would result in a change in the claimant's entitlement to compensation, the State agency shall promptly make a redetermination, and shall furnish the claimant with a notice thereof. Such a notice shall meet the requirements of paragraph (a) of this section. All payments of compensation made after the redetermination shall be in accordance therewith; all payments of compensation made prior to the redetermination shall be adjusted in accordance therewith. To the extent that the claimant has received monies not in accordance with the redetermination, the provisions of § 610.6 shall apply, except that no waiver of overpayment shall be permitted in such circumstances.

(d) Compensation while on annual leave. No payment of compensation shall be made for periods to which a payment for terminal annual leave is allocated.

§ 610.6 Overpayments—(a) Fraud. If, after a determination and an opportunity for a fair hearing thereon, a State agency or a court of competent jurisdiction finds that a Federal employee has received an overpayment of compensation as a result of false statements knowingly made or material facts knowingly withheld, he shall be liable to repay any such outstanding overpayment. In the discretion of the State agency, such amounts may be deducted from future compensation payable to him under title XV during the two-year period following the date on which such finding was made, as provided in section 1508 (b) of title XV.

(b) Absence of fraud. In cases of overpayment, where there has been no finding by a State agency or court of competent jurisdiction that there has been an intent to defraud, the determinations specified below shall be made under the State unemployment compensation law; (1) whether a Federal employee who has received an overpayment of compensation which he has not repaid shall receive any future compensation payable under title XV, or (2) whether he shall be liable to repay such overpayment, or (3) whether he shall be permitted to offset any future compensation payable to him under title XV against such outstanding overpayment, or (4) whether a waiver of such overpayment may be permitted.

§ 610.7 Adjustments and appeals—(a) Appeals from State agency determinations. Except for the findings of the Federal agency under § 609.3 (a) of this chapter, determinations made by a State agency as to a claimant's entitlement to compensation shall be subject to review in the same manner and to the same extent as other determinations made under the State unemployment compensation law.

(b) Requests for additional information or reconsideration of Federal agency's findings. (1) The State agency shall accept claimants' requests for reconsideration and correction of a Federal agency's findings, if filed in accordance with § 609.7 (b) of this chapter or requests for additional information if filed in accordance with § 609.7 (a) of this chapter, and shall forward such requests, together with any supporting information submitted by the claimant to the appropriate Federal Agency. At the time a request for reconsideration and correction of the Federal agency's findings or for additional information is filed, the claimant shall file an appeal from the State agency's determination of entitlement in accordance with the unemployment compensation law of the State. No hearing on such an appeal shall be scheduled before the State agency receives from the Federal agency, its reconsidered findings or the additional information requested.

(2) The State agency shall forward to the claimant a copy of the reconsidered findings of the Federal agency or a copy of the additional information furnished by such agency, as the case may be.

(3) If the information or reconsidered findings submitted by the Federal agency provides a basis, under the State unemployment compensation law, for the State agency to make a redetermination of the claimant's entitlement to compensation, it shall promptly make such redetermination and forward notice thereof to the claimant.

(4) If the State unemployment compensation law makes no provision for redetermination under such circumstances, or if the State agency after reviewing such additional information or reconsidered findings does not consider that there is a basis for making a redetermination, it shall promptly set a date for a hearing of the claimant's appeal.

Effective date. This regulation shall take effect on January 1, 1955.

Signed at Washington, D. C., this 29th day of October 1954.

JAMES P. MITCHELL,

Handling of Milk in South Bend-La Porte, Indiana, Marketing Area

Notice of Recommended Decision and Opportunity to File Written Exceptions With Respect to Proposed Amendment to Tentative Marketing Agreement and to Order, as Amended

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), notice is hereby given of the filing with the Hearing Clerk of the recommended decision of the Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, United States Department of Agriculture, with respect to a proposed amendment to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the South Bend-La Porte, Indiana, marketing area. Interested parties may file written exceptions to this decision with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., not later than the close of business the 7th day after publication of this decision in the Federal Register. Exceptions should be filed in quadruplicate.

Preliminary statement. The hearing, on the record of which the proposed amendment to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, was formulated, was conducted at South Bend, Indiana, on July 6-7, 1954, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued on June 29, 1954 (19 F. R. 4040).

The material issues on the record of the hearing were:

1. Establishment of a base and excess plan for paying producers in certain months;
2. Limitation of the supply-demand adjustment;
3. Prices for milk picked up at the farm by tank trucks;
4. Class I price differentials; and
5. Price for Class II milk.

Issue No. 1 was dealt with in a recommended decision of the Deputy Administrator filed August 4, 1954 (19 F. R. 4999), a decision by the Secretary filed August 16, 1954 (19 F. R. 5283) and an amending order effective September 1, 1954 (19 F. R. 5574). These actions also dealt with issue No. 2 on a temporary basis, for the period of September through November, 1954.

Findings and conclusions. The following findings and conclusions on the material issues are based upon evidence contained in the record of the hearing:

2. Limitation of supply-demand adjustment. Deductions from or additions to the Class I and Class II price differentials due to the supply-demand ratio should be limited to 24 cents per hundredweight.

It was proposed by producers that deductions due to the supply-demand ratio continue to be limited to 24 cents per hundredweight, and that upward adjustments also be limited to 24 cents.

The order provides for the computation of a supply-demand ratio which is the basis for automatic price adjustments. This calculation is based upon data as to supply and utilization in the Chicago market. For this purpose, data from the Chicago market are preferable to data on receipts and utilization in the South Bend-La Porte market, since supply and demand conditions in the larger market have a dominating influence on conditions in this market. Supply areas of the two markets overlap, and Chicago pool milk has been a source of supply for this market.

Deductions due to the supply-demand ratio have been limited under this order and the Chicago order for the period beginning March 1, 1954 through November 1954. In a recommended decision on proposed amendments to the Chicago order it is concluded that the limitation should be continued after November. The same action is recommended for this market.

As mentioned above, it was also proposed that in the case of additions to the price differentials due to the supply-demand ratio, a similar 24-cent limit should apply. An upper limit of 24 cents on these adjustments would allow for a 48-cent increase from the present price level. After a change of such magnitude re-examination in a public hearing would be advisable before further increases in class price differentials are effected.

3. Prices for milk picked up at the farm by tank trucks. No decision should be made at this time as to special pricing for milk picked up at farms by tank trucks.

It was proposed by the principal producer association that the uniform price for milk picked up at farms by tank trucks be 15 cents per hundredweight more than the minimum price under the present provisions of the order for milk delivered to plants. Such special price would be subject to hauling deductions negotiated between the farmer and the hauler.

The record shows that no bulk tank hauling from farms has developed in this market. Producer testimony in support of a special price for such milk rested upon experience in the Chicago milkshed where this type of procurement is being used to some extent.

In addition to the problem of arriving at appropriate conclusions on the basis of this record, administration of the market order program requires that the pricing of milk picked up at farms by tank trucks be consistent in the several markets. At this time it cannot be determined what pricing method in this area would be consistent with pricing methods which might be developed in other markets. Because procurement by the bulk tank method is relatively new, experience to date in all markets has not provided a basis for a general approach to the pricing and administrative problems. Some further study of this matter in the light of information from a number of markets will be made prior to a decision in this matter on this record.

4. Class I differentials. Class I differentials over the basic formula price should be revised. With the base-excess plan of producer payment now in effect, seasonal variations in the Class I differentials should be reduced. Also, the seasonal pattern should be aligned closer to that of the Chicago area. These adjustments should not result in any material change in the annual level of the Class I price. It is concluded that the foregoing adjustments are reasonably accomplished by (1) dividing the year into two—instead of three—differential periods and (2) shortening the period of the highest differential from the present seven months to five, August-December. For this period the present differential of $1.30 would be retained. For the other seven months of the year the differential over the basic formula price would be 95 cents.

This pattern of Class I price differentials differs from the producer proposal only in the differential for the period of January through July. Their proposal for these months was $1.00, which, with $1.30 for the five relatively short supply months, would average out annually to $1.125. The annual average of the present differentials is $1.10. Producers argued that a small increase in the Class I price level is justified by premium prices being paid by competitive Chicago handlers and by the fact that producer prices in the South Bend-LaPorte area are lower than in many other Indiana markets. Handlers reasoned that such comparison was deceptive in the absence of comparative Class I utilization ratios and also that at present price levels supplies will continue to be ample for the foreseeable needs of the market.

Official notice is taken of current published reports of the market administrator showing the present supply situation. Production for this area in August was 0.39 percent below a year ago. Production has declined from 15 percent above that of a year ago in January 1954 to slightly under the level of last year in August. But, the record shows that supplies last year were ample and that about the same level of production will fully meet the anticipated needs of the market. Class I sales in July this year were about the same as last year and in August they were nearly 5 percent below August 1953. Under these circumstances there should be no material change in the average annual Class I (fixed) differential over the basic formula price.

The chief concern of both producers and handlers was with a seasonal pattern of fixed differentials that would align prices closer with prices paid by handlers in surrounding market areas. While it was recognized that the adoption of the base-excess plan diminished the need for seasonal variation in the Class I price, parties were agreed that it is necessary to have a seasonal change in the differentials in order to keep the price here reasonably competitive throughout the year with prices in areas with adjoining or over-lapping milksheds. Of these, Chicago is the most influential. To be competitive with Chicago as well as with other markets, the $1.30 differential for fall and early winter months must be continued. Shortening this period from seven to five months conforms more closely with Chicago area pricing. For the other months of the year the companion differential would be 95 cents. This would make the average annual differential about the same as at present and adjusts the seasonal pattern closer to that of prices in the Chicago area.

5. Class II price. Class II milk should be priced on the basis of the Chicago area Class III (a) price, as reported by the Chicago market administrator, instead of at the average of prices paid by the Indiana and Michigan dairy manufacturing plants listed in this order. The Chicago Class III (a) price, as published by the Chicago market administrator, is the "Condensery-pay-price": the average of prices paid by 15 manufacturing milk plants in the Chicago milkshed. It is one of the "basic" prices of this order.

Producers proposed this change in the Class II price. In the notice of hearing their proposal was to adopt the Chicago Class IV price for the Class II price of this order. On the record of the hearing they changed their proposal to the Class III (a) price. Handlers offered no testimony on the matter and made no objection to the producer proposal.

The record of these prices favors this proposal. It is evident that under the respective orders these class prices should be closely related. The product disposition in these classes is much the same. But since January 1953, the Order 67 Class II price, based on prices paid at local manufacturing plants, has run consistently below Order 41 Class III (a) price. The average of 1953 monthly Class II prices was about 10 cents less than the average of Chicago Class III (a) prices. This general relationship has continued in 1954. At hearing time, data were available through May of 1954. Class II prices during these months ranged from 13 to 23 cents lower than Chicago Class III (a) prices. Notice is taken of the market announcements of these prices for subsequent months. In June Class II was 16 cents less than Class III (a), in July 14 cents, in August 11 cents, and in September 4 cents. This relationship contrasts with that of 1951 and 1952. During these years the relation of these prices varied from month to month; but, the averages each year were practically the same. It is clear that the Chicago Class III (a) price has been a more reliable reflector to producers of the manufactured product value of milk than has the Class II price.

General findings. (a) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk, in the marketing area and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors; insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(c) The proposed order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and will be applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Rulings on proposed findings and conclusions. Briefs were filed which contained proposed findings and conclusions, and arguments with respect to the provisions of the proposed amendments. Every point covered in the briefs was carefully considered along with the evidence in the record in making the findings and reaching the conclusions hereinbefore set forth. To the extent that the findings and conclusions proposed in the briefs are inconsistent with the findings and conclusions contained herein, the request to make such findings or to reach such conclusions is denied on the basis of the facts found and stated in connection with the conclusions in this recommended decision.

Recommended marketing agreement and amendment to the order. The following order amending the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the South Bend-La Porte, Indiana, marketing area, is recommended as the detailed and appropriate means by which the foregoing conclusions may be carried out. The recommended marketing agreement is not included in this decision because the regulatory provisions thereof would be identical with those contained in the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended.

1. In § 967.51 delete paragraph (a) and substitute the following:

(a) Add to the basic formula price (3.5 percent milk) the following amount for the delivery period indicated: August, September, October, November and December, $1.30; all others $0.95: Provided, That such Class I price shall be increased or decreased respectively, 3 cents for each full percent that the current supply-demand ratio is greater or less than 72 percent, but shall not be increased or decreased more than 24 cents due to the supply-demand ratio.

2. In § 967.51 delete paragraph (b) and substitute the following:

(b) Add together the amount computed pursuant to § 967.50 (c) (2) and any amount per hundredweight by which (on a 3.5 percent butterfat basis) the effective basic formula price pursuant to § 967.50 is higher than the price computed pursuant to § 967.50 (c), divide such sum by 0.035, and then add thereto the following amount for the delivery period indicated; August, September, October, November and December, $13.75; all others, $12.00: Provided, That such amount for the delivery period indicated shall be increased or decreased, as the case may be, by the amount per hundredweight resulting from the proviso of paragraph (a) of this section divided by 0.035. The resulting amount shall be the price of butterfat in Class I milk.

3. In § 967.52 delete paragraphs (b) and (c), and insert a new paragraph (b) as follows:

(b) The price of skim milk in Class II milk shall be computed by subtracting the hundredweight price of butterfat computed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section times 0.035, from the price determined pursuant to § 967.50 (a), and divide the remainder by 0.965.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 5th day of November 1954.

R. 4200), it was stated that the Board would consider all relevant matter in communications received on or before September 10, 1954. Subsequently, at the request of several interested parties, the Board extended the date by which comments had to be filed by one week, namely, to September 17, 1954. This extension was by Draft Release No. 68A, dated September 9, 1954, and published in the Federal Register on September 11, 1954 (19 F. R. 5916).

In its consideration of the comments submitted on the proposed revised Uniform System of Accounts and Reports for certificated air carriers, it has become apparent to the Board that it would not be desirable to promulgate the revised part without further study. It is also apparent that such study cannot be completed in time to make the revised system effective by January 1, 1955, as was originally planned.

The Board has decided that during its continued study of the subject proposal, it will receive and consider such other and further comments as interested persons may wish to make through the end of this year. It is expected that a revised accounting and reporting system will be adopted no later than July 1, 1955, in order that the affected air carriers may be ready to put the system into effect on January 1, 1956. Accordingly, the second sentence of the second paragraph of Draft Release No. 68 is amended to read as follows: "All relevant matter in communications received on or before January 3, 1955, will be considered by the Board before taking final action on the proposed rule."

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

Bureau of Foreign Commerce

[Case No. 188]

ACE EXPORT CO. AND ANDRES REUS

ORDER CONDITIONALLY DENYING EXPORT PRIVILEGES

In the matter of Adolfo A. Abbadie, Jr., trading as Ace Export Company, 2991 Southwest 14 Street, Miami, Florida, and Andres Reus, Aguair No. 556, Apt. 8, Havana, Cuba; respondents; Case No. 188.

The respondents, Adolfo A. Abbadie, Jr. and Andres Reus, having been charged by the Director, Investigation Staff, Bureau of Foreign Commerce, United States Department of Commerce, with having violated the Export Control Act of 1949, as amended, and regulations promulgated thereunder, duly appeared herein, filed answers, demanded an oral hearing, and such hearing was held by the Compliance Commissioner on August 3 and 4, 1954, in Miami, Florida, both respondents being present in person and Abbadie being represented by his attorney. The Compliance Commissioner has submitted his report and recommendation, together with the transcript of testimony given at the hearing, all exhibits and all other papers constituting the record herein, to the undersigned Director, Office of Export Supply, who has carefully considered the whole record, the report and the recommendation and, after such consideration and upon the whole record, the undersigned hereby makes the following findings of fact:

1. At all times hereinafter mentioned, Adolfo A. Abbadie, Jr. was engaged in the business of freight forwarding in Miami, Florida, under the firm name and style of Ace Export Company and that, while the acts hereinafter found to have been performed by him were performed by him as a freight forwarder, they exceeded his normal functions as such and were in fact the means induced by him for the purpose of accomplishing the results desired by his principal, Andres Reus, a Cuban importer.

2. On or about the 19th day of May 1953, for the purpose of enabling Reus or customers of Reus to import into Cuba quantities of a certain proprietary medicine and quantities of nylon hose at values lower than their true values in order to pay reduced import duties there, Abbadie (a) executed four shipper's export declarations in which he represented and stated that he was the exporter; (b) caused and directed an employee of an air carrier to set forth in each of four other shipper's export declarations the name of a person designated as exporter, the description of the goods being exported as "Pharmaceuticals", and values assigned thereto; (c) also caused and directed said employees to insert the last mentioned names, description and values in four waybills to accompany such shipment.

3. Reus instructed Abbadie as to the values to be assigned by him for inclusion in the four waybills.

4. Abbadie knew that he was not the exporter of the goods, knew that the four persons named by him were not the exporters, knew that the goods were not wholly pharmaceuticals but included, in addition, nylon hose, and both Abbadie and Reus knew that the values designated for inclusion in the papers described in parts (b) and (c) of paragraph 2 hereof were far less than the actual values of the goods being shipped.

5. All the shipper's export declarations were validated and all the papers described in parts (b) and (c) of paragraph 2 hereof were utilized in connection with the exportation of the proprietary medicine and nylon hose out of the United States.

From which it is concluded that Abbadie knowingly made false statements in shipper's export declarations, that Abbadie caused another to make false statements in other shipper's export declarations and that Abbadie and Reus caused another to make false statements in waybills accompanying exportations from the United States, all in violation of 15 CFR 381.1 (b) (1) (2) (3) (ii) then in effect.

The Compliance Commissioner has recommended that these respondents be denied export privileges for the periods hereinafter provided but that such denial of export privileges be suspended for equivalent periods upon the conditions hereinafter set forth and he bases this recommendation upon his belief that these respondents should not be singled out for more drastic punishment in view of the fact that the commodities involved in this case were all under General License for Cuba, the quantities and values were not large and the objective sought by them, though not to be condoned had become a frequent practice among exporters to Cuba, a practice which should be stopped and to which end public notice in the form of this order is desirable. This recommendation of the Compliance Commissioner, upon the facts and circumstances appearing in this record appears to be fair, reasonable and necessary to achieve effective enforcement of the law and it is, accordingly, adopted.

It is now therefore ordered:

I. Upon condition (a) that respondent Adolfo A. Abbadie, Jr. during the period of one year following the date of this order or (b) that respondent Andres Reus during the period of nine months from the date of this order, individually and separately permits freely and without restriction the inspection by agents of the Bureau of Foreign Commerce and the Bureau of Customs of all his records relating to the business of exporting in any capacity, answers all reasonable inquiries concerning export matters by such agents and complies fully with all other requirements of the Export Control Act of 1949, as amended, and all regulations promulgated thereunder, such respondent complying with such condition shall be permitted all export privileges as though this order were not made and, at the expiration of the period provided for such respondent, this order, as to him, shall be and become null and void; but in the event that it be found by the Director of the Office of Export Supply, or such other official as may at that time be exercising the duties now exercised by him, after ex parte application that such respondent has failed to comply with the foregoing condition in any respect during the period when it is effective as to him, such official may, summarily and without notice to such respondent, enter an order against him as provided in Parts II, III and IV hereof;

II. In the event that a determination be made, as provided in Part I hereof, that respondents, or either of them have violated the conditions in such Part I provided, respondent Abbadie, for a period of one year from the date of such determination of a violation by him, or respondent Reus, for a period of nine months from the date of such determination of a violation by him, shall be denied all privileges of participating, directly or indirectly, in any manner or capacity, in any exportation of any commodity from the United States to any foreign destination, including Canada. Without limitation of the generality of the foregoing, participation in an exportation shall be deemed to include and prohibit, during the period to be provided in the order making such determination, such respondent's participation (a) as a party or as a representative of a party to any validated export license application, (b) in the obtaining or using of any validated or general export license or other export control document, (c) in the receiving, ordering, buying, selling, using, or disposing in any foreign country of any commodities in whole or in part exported or to be exported from the United States, and (d) in the financing, forwarding, transporting or other servicing of exports from the United States;

III. In the event of the making of such a determination, the order entered thereon shall apply not only to the respondent named therein but shall apply and extend also to any other person, firm, corporation or business organization with which he may then or thereafter be related by ownership, control, position of responsibility, or other connection in the conduct of trade involving exports from the United States or services connected therewith;

IV. In that event, no person, firm, corporation, or other business organization shall, without prior disclosure to, and specific authorization from, the Bureau of Foreign Commerce, directly or indirectly in any manner or capacity, (a) apply for, obtain, or use any license, shipper's export declaration, bill of lading, or other export control document relating to any such prohibited exportation of commodities from the United States, or (b) order, receive, buy, use, dispose of, finance, transport, forward, or otherwise service or participate in, any such prohibited exportation from the United States, or in reexportation of any commodity within the scope of this order and exported from the United States, with respect to which such respondent shall have any interest of any kind or nature, direct or indirect.

Dated: October 28, 1954.

Director,

Whereas, the United States Maritime Commission on February 18, 1948, pursuant to a hearing held on November 12, 13 and 14, 1946, among other things ordered:

(1) That Trade Route No. 11, as described in the Report of the Commission, approved May 20, 1946, be amended to read as follows:

U. S. Atlantic ports (Hampton Roads–Key West inclusive) to United Kingdom and Eire, Continental Europe North of Spanish Border (including Scandinavian and Baltic ports, except as to cargo to and from Hampton Roads).

(5) That Application of South Atlantic Steamship Line, Inc., dated October 7, 1946, as amended, for financial aid under Title VI of the Merchant Marine Act, 1936, as amended, in the operation of vessels on Trade Route No. 11, is hereby approved, subject to compliance with the applicable provisions of said Act and to such terms and conditions as may be imposed by the Commission.

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given that the Federal Maritime Board on October 22, 1954, on the basis of facts then before it, tentatively found and determined that:

(a) In 1953 and 1954, sailings by South Atlantic Steamship Line, Inc., have been at the rate of about 2 per month compared with about 3 in 1947, and during the intervening period sailings have been 2 to 3 per month;

(b) Since February 1948 there have been no substantial changes in the geographical limits or nature of the service, route or line involved;

(c) South Atlantic Steamship Line, Inc., continues to be the only U. S. flag company operating regularly on Trade Route No. 11 as established by the former Maritime Commission in its order of February 18, 1948;

(d) The South Atlantic Steamship Line, Inc., is operating an existing service on Trade Route No. 11 within the meaning of section 605 (c) of the act;

(e) The effect of the granting of an operating-differential subsidy contract to the Applicant as of this date would not be to give undue advantage or be unduly prejudicial as between citizens of the United States in the operations of vessels on the route; and

(f) The provisions of section 605 (c) of the act do not interpose a bar to the granting of an operating-differential subsidy contract to the Applicant for the operations of cargo vessels on Trade Route No. 11 to the extent of its operations thereon at the time of the filing of its application.

Parties having an interest in such application and findings and determinations may file with the Secretary, Federal Maritime Board, any objections thereto, on or before November 24, 1954.

Subsequent to November 24, 1954, the Federal Maritime Board will take such action with respect to the application and any objections thereto, as may be deemed appropriate.

Dated: November 9, 1954.

By order of the Federal Maritime Board.

Assistant Secretary.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

[Docket Nos. 11124, 11125; FCC 54-1387]

HAROLD M. GADE AND MONMOUTH COUNTY BROADCASTERS

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER ENLARGING ISSUES

In re applications of Harold M. Gade, Eatontown, New Jersey, Docket No. 11124, File No. BP-9096; Monmouth County Broadcasters, Long Branch, New Jersey, Docket No. 11125, File No. BP-9231; for construction permits.

1. The Commission has before it (1) a petition filed August 18, 1954, by the Chief, Broadcast Bureau to enlarge issues and to add a party in the above-entitled proceeding; (2) a petition for leave to file late opposition filed by Monmouth County Broadcasters on September 22, 1954,[1] and (3) an opposition filed by Monmouth County Broadcasters on September 22, 1954.

2. On August 4, 1954, the Commission ordered a consolidated hearing on the competing applications of Harold M. Gade and Monmouth County Broadcasters. The hearing issues are directed to which applicant would provide the more fair, efficient, and equitable distribution of radio service in accordance with the mandate of section 307 (b) of the Communications Act, the areas and populations which may be expected to gain or lose primary service from the operation of the proposed stations, and to standard comparative matters.

3. On August 18, 1954, the Broadcast Bureau filed a petition to enlarge the issues to include determination of whether the operation of the proposed stations would involve objectionable interference with the operation of station WNJR, Newark, New Jersey, and whether the proposed 25 mv/m contour of Monmouth County Broadcasters would overlap the 2 mv/m contour of station WNJR. It alleges that based upon a study of field intensity measurements made on station WNJR in 1947 which are in the Commission's license files, the conductivities shown in the Commission's new ground conductivity map, and calculations made in accordance with the Commission's rules and standards, the operation proposed by each applicant would cause objectionable interference to the service of station WNJR and the 2 mv/m contour of station WNJR would overlap the 25 mv/m contour proposed by Monmouth County Broadcasters.

4. In its opposition, Monmouth County Broadcasters alleges that the petition and the associated engineering affidavit consist entirely of assertions based upon the use of the field intensity measurements of station WNJR and the Commission's new ground conductivity map, and that the Bureau's petition has no data supporting its assertions that interference would be caused by the proposed stations to the service of station WNJR or of the possible overlap of contours. It further alleges that it is impossible to determine whether the Broadcast Bureau has or has not complied with the Standards in ascertaining the existence of interference or overlap with station WNJR because there is no explanation given of the methods used. It urges, therefore, that in the absence of an assertion that the Commission's soil map standing alone would show the interference and overlap alleged and in the absence of any showing that properly taken measurements exist to support a finding or a reasonable assumption that the Commission's new soil map is in error, the Broadcast Bureau's petition should be denied.

5. Although the Broadcast Bureau's petition and the associated engineering affidavit do not delineate in detail the methods used to support the allegations of interference and overlap of contours, an engineering study made in accordance with the Commission's Rules and Standards, utilizing the WNJR field intensity measurements and the values of conductivity shown in the new ground conductivity map, would substantiate the allegations made by the Broadcast Bureau. Moreover, an engineering study made in accordance with Commission's Rules and Standards, utilizing only the conductivities from the new soil map, shows such interference and overlap of contours. For example, on the radial between station WNJR and the proposed site of Monmouth County Broadcasters, the 2 mv/m contour of station WNJR would extend approximately 30 miles which is slightly greater than the distance between the two stations. In making the above determination, the equivalent distance method for calculating the location of contour was employed where the propagation path traversed different conductivities. Also, the following values of conductivities and antenna radiation efficiency were used: 4 mmhos over land and 5000 mmhos over sea water as shown in the new ground conductivity map and an antenna radiation efficiency of 650 mv/m in the direction of proposed station. As for the proposed station, the 25 mv/m contour would extend approximately 2.6 miles, which was determined by assuming an antenna radiation efficiency of 131 mv/m and a ground conductivity of 4 mmhos. From the above, it can be deduced that there would be an overlap of the 25 mv/m and 2 mv/m contours and also that there would be interference to the service of station WNJR in the vicinity of the proposed transmitter site of Monmouth County Broadcasters.

The premises considered: It is ordered, That the issues in this proceeding are enlarged to include the following issues:

4. To determine whether the operation of the proposed stations would involve objectionable interference with station WNJR, Newark, New Jersey and, if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

5. To determine whether the installation and operation of the station proposed by Monmouth County Broadcasters would be in compliance with the Standards of Good Engineering Practice Concerning Standard Broadcast Stations with particular reference to the possibility of overlap of the 25 mv/m contour of the proposed station with the 2 mv/m contour of station WNJR, Newark, New Jersey.

It is further ordered, That Rollins Broadcasting, Inc., Newark, New Jersey, licensee of station WNJR, is made a party to the above-entitled proceeding.

Released: November 5, 1954.

GEORGE A. GOTHBERG, JR.

ORDER DESIGNATING APPLICATION FOR HEARING ON STATED ISSUES

In re application of George A. Gothberg, Jr. (WFPA), Fort Payne, Alabama, Docket No. 11213, File No. BR-2455; for renewal of license.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 3d day of November 1954:

The Commission having under consideration the above-entitled application for renewal of license of Station WFPA, Fort Payne, Alabama; and

It appearing, that action on the application for the renewal of license of Station WFPA was deferred on July 29, 1953, in view of a petition filed by the licensee of Station WZOB, Fort Payne, Alabama, requesting that the application be designated for hearing. Said petition and supplemental pleadings based the request for relief on the grounds of an alleged unauthorized transfer of control of Station WFPA (File No. BAL-1449) from James L. Killian to George A. Gothberg, Jr., and certain alleged misrepresentations made by transferee in the assignment application with reference to his financial qualifications; and

It further appearing, that the Commission was unable to determine from licensee's answer to said petition that a grant of the application for renewal of license for WFPA would be in the public interest; and

It further appearing, that, by letter dated April 28, 1954, pursuant to section 309 (b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the applicant was advised of the aforesaid matters and that the Commission was unable to conclude that a grant of the application would be in the public interest; and

It further appearing, that, on June 20, 1954, the applicant filed a reply to the 309 (b) letter and urged that the Commission renew the license of Station WFPA; and

It further appearing, that the Commission, after consideration of the reply, is still unable to conclude that a grant of the application would be in the public interest, convenience, and necessity;

It is ordered, That, pursuant to section 309 (b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the said application is designated for hearing at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent order, upon the following issues:

1. To determine the method or methods employed by George A. Gothberg, Jr., to finance the acquisition and operation of Station WFPA and the sources of such financing, and whether the aforesaid method or methods so employed deviated from the representations made with respect thereto in the application for assignment of license (BAL-1449).

2. To determine whether at the time of filing both the renewal application and supplemental information relative thereto, a legally enforceable promissory note secured by legal encumbrance upon the properties of Station WFPA was in existence.

3. To determine whether the existence of the obligation, if any, was deliberately not disclosed to either the Commission or to prospective creditors to enhance the financial position of the station.

4. To determine whether George A Gothberg, Jr., is financially qualified to continue operation of Station WFPA.

5. To determine whether George A. Gothberg, Jr., misrepresented to this Commission facts under oath concerning his financial condition in acquiring Station WFPA (BAL-1449) and whether he continued these misrepresentations in the renewal application subsequently filed.

6. To determine whether George A. Gothberg, Jr., or persons acting on his behalf, misrepresented facts concerning his financial condition in a proceeding held in DeKalb County Circuit Court, DeKalb County, Alabama, entitled Mary A. Gothberg vs. George A. Gothberg, Jr., respondent.

7. To determine, in the light of the evidence adduced under the issues, herein, whether George A. Gothberg, Jr., possesses the qualifications necessary for a broadcast station licensee and whether grant of the above-entitled application would be in the public interest, convenience, and necessity.

NOTICE OF TRADE PRACTICE CONFERENCE

C., on December 7, 1954, commencing at 10:00 a. m., e. s. t.

The purpose of the conference, authorized at the industry's request, is to afford industry members an opportunity to consider, and propose for establishment subject to the Commission's approval, rules designed to eliminate and prevent unfair methods of competition, unfair or deceptive acts or practices, and other trade abuses which violate laws administered by the Commission. All persons, firms, and organizations engaged in the production and marketing of frozen fruits, vegetables, juices, fish and seafoods, baked goods, and miscellaneous items, are cordially invited to attend and participate in the conference proceedings. Attention is directed to the fact that meats and poultry have been excluded from the category of items considered to be products of this industry by reason of the provisions of the Packers and Stockyards Act of 1921, as amended. Ice cream, sherbets, and other similar frozen dairy products are also excluded.

After the conference on December 7, and before rules are finally approved by the Commission, a draft of proposed rules will be made available to all interested and affected parties, including consumers, upon public notice extending them opportunity to present their views, criticisms, and suggestions respecting the rules, and to be heard at a public hearing the time and place of which will be announced by the Commission.

Such an incentive award shall be deemed granted when it has been approved by the authority having the responsibility for such approval.

SUBPART B—ESTABLISHMENT OF DEPARTMENTAL PROGRAMS

§ 32.201 Departmental plans. (a) The head of each department shall, in accordance with the regulations in this part and the Commission's instructions, establish and operate a plan which provides for the use of incentive awards as an integral part of supervision and management. The head of each department is authorized to grant departmental and interdepartmental awards to employees of the Government. Such incentive awards may be granted also to former employees or to the estates of deceased employees. To receive an incentive award, however, the employee must have made his contribution while he was an employee of the Government.

(b) The incentive awards plan for each department shall provide for central administrative direction and review as well as for adequate delegation of authority and responsibility to bureaus, offices or field units to insure maximum compliance with the purposes of the act. The plan must also provide that employee contributions be considered for applicability throughout the department. In addition, the plan must provide for referral to the Commission of employee contributions which may have applicability in other departments. Each department shall submit its plan for incentive awards to the Commission by January 31, 1955, for the Commission's information. Subsequent changes in such plans shall be submitted to the Commission within 30 days after their effective date.

§ 32.202 Awards and employee promotions. (a) The head of each department shall provide that incentive awards granted under this program shall be given due weight in qualifying and selecting employees for promotion, provided minimum qualification requirements established by the Commission are not lowered.

(b) The head of each department shall provide that supervisors be given due recognition for the extent to which they are successful in motivating the interests and participation of their employees in the incentive awards program.

§ 32.203 Stimulating employee participation. For the purpose of obtaining maximum employee participation, the head of each department shall emphasize to supervisors and employees the importance of the Incentive Awards Program in improving Government operations and the need for their active participation in the program.

§ 32.204 Prompt processing of employee contributions. The head of each department shall provide for prompt action on employee contributions for the purpose of (a) encouraging maximum employee participation and (b) obtaining all possible benefits to the Government.

§ 32.205 Documentation of action on employee contributions. The head of each department shall provide for adequate documentation in support of the action taken on each employee contribution.

§ 32.206 Reports. The head of each department shall submit to the Commission by September first of each year a report on the operation of the department's Incentive Awards Program during the preceding fiscal year in accordance with instructions issued by the Commission.

SUBPART C—AWARDS

§ 32.301 Eligibility of employee for awards. An employee contribution must have been approved by the benefiting department before an employee may be granted an incentive award.

§ 32.302 Cash awards, tangible benefits. A cash award may be made when an employee contribution results in the saving of money. The amount of such award shall normally be based on, but not necessarily limited to, the estimated net monetary savings for the first full year of operation following its adoption. The amount of the award shall be determined in accordance with the table and other provisions of this section, unless for special reasons the head of the department determines that a different amount is justified, in which case such reasons will be documented in support of the action taken.

TABLE—AWARD SCALE FOR TANGIBLE SAVINGS

Savings	Amount of Award
$1 to $200	$10.
$201 to $1,000	$10 for the first $200 in savings and $5 for each additional $100 or fraction thereof.
$1,001 to $10,000	$50 for the first $1,000 in savings and $5 for each additional $200 or fraction thereof.
$10,001 to $100,000	$275 for the first $10,000 in savings and $5 for each additional $1,000 or fraction thereof.
$100,001 or more	$725 for the first $100,000 in savings and $5 for each additional $5,000 or fraction thereof.

The head of the department shall not make a cash award in excess of $5,000 in any case without prior approval of the Commission.

§ 32.303 Cash awards, intangible benefits. A cash award may be made when an employee contribution does not lend itself to appraisal on the basis of monetary savings or results in combined monetary savings and intangible benefits. The amount of such cash award shall be determined on the basis of its value or benefit to Government operations after full consideration of such factors as extent and scope of application, significance of the contribution, and importance of programs affected. The head of each department shall provide, as part of his incentive awards plan, guide lines and criteria which shall be the basis for awards for employee contributions with intangible benefits. The head of the department shall not make a cash award in excess of $5,000 in any case without prior approval of the Commission.

§ 32.304 Honorary awards. Whenever appropriate, an honorary award may be granted in recognition of an employee contribution. Such honorary award may be granted in addition to a cash award.

§ 32.305 Group awards. When a contribution has been made by more than one employee or by a group of employees, all employees contributing, including supervisors, may share in incentive awards. If a cash award is made, such grant may be in equal shares, or to each employee in proportion to his contribution. However, the total amount of such award should generally be the amount authorized for that type of award if made to one individual.

§ 32.306 Presidential awards. The personally signed recommendation of the head of a department for a Presidential award may be made to the Commission for transmittal to the President whenever the head of a department believes such award to be appropriate. Such recommendation is made following approval of the employee contribution within the department. In addition, the Commission may recommend for Presidential award employee contributions resulting in inter-departmental benefits.

SUBPART D—INTERDEPARTMENTAL AWARDS

§ 32.401 Awards by the employing department. When the head of the employing department approves an employee contribution that may also benefit other departments, the head of the employing department is authorized to grant an incentive award based on the benefit to his own department without regard to any additional benefit which may accrue to another department.

§ 32.402 Referrals to other departments. The head of each department shall establish procedures to insure that an employee contribution originating with his department which may have application in other departments is forwarded to the Commission for appropriate referral after it has been considered for applicability throughout his department. Specific information as to the activities in other departments where it is believed the employee contribution can be used shall accompany the incentive award file.

§ 32.403 Awards by benefiting departments other than the employing department. (a) When the head of a department approves an employee contribution which was originated by an employee of another department, he shall report the fact to the Commission at the earliest practicable date, and in no event later than six months after it has been referred by the Commission, except upon prior approval of the Commission. The report of the head of the department to the Commission shall state the estimated first year net monetary savings, if any, and the amount of the cash award that would be in order for intangible benefits, if any, if the contribution had been made by an employee of that department.

(b) The Commission, on the basis of the departmental report or reports, will determine the total inter-departmental first year net monetary savings and the total awards for intangible benefits resulting from the employee contribution, and recommend to each benefiting department (other than the employing department) its proportionate share of the award.

(c) Within 30 days after date of receipt of the Commission's recommendation, the head of each benefiting department shall notify the Commission, in writing, as to the action the department will take on the Commission's recommendation.

Subchapter C—International Wheat Agreement

PART 481—COMMODITY CREDIT CORPORATION WHEAT AND WHEAT-FLOUR EXPORT PROGRAM

SUBPART—TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF 1954–55 PROGRAM

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

The terms and conditions of 1954–55 program (19 F. R. 3830) issued on June 18, 1954, are amended as follows:

1. Section 481.534 is amended to permit an increase in the loading tolerance on full cargo shipments of bulk wheat from 5 to 10 percent, so that the entire amended section reads as follows:

§ 481.534 Excess quantities exported. Payment will not be made on quantities loaded on vessels or exported by rail or truck which exceed by more than 1 percent the quantity shown on the Declaration of Sale, or, in the case of bulk wheat, a loading tolerance as specified in the contract but which shall not exceed 5 percent of the contract quantity on parcel shipments or 10 percent of the contract quantity on full cargo shipments, unless clearance is obtained from the Director, in which case a new Declaration of Sale and a new Confirmation of Sale for the additional quantity is required. Payment will be made without additional clearance where, in the case of flour or bagged wheat, the loaded quantity does not exceed the contract quantity by more than 1 percent, and in the case of bulk wheat the loaded quantity does not exceed the contract quantity by more than 1 percent or a loading tolerance as specified in the contract, whichever is greater, but such loading tolerance shall not exceed 5 percent of the contract quantity on parcel shipments and 10 percent of the contract quantity on full cargo shipments.

2. A new section, (§ 481.539), entitled "Deferred price sales" is to be added under the heading "Eligibility for Payment by the Commodity Credit Corporation." This new section permits the reporting of sales to CCC which have been entered into on a provisional price basis, with the price to be established at a later date. This new section reads as follows:

§ 481.539 Deferred price sales. (a) Sales may be made on a deferred price basis, in which case a provisional price shall be agreed upon between the exporter and the foreign buyer, with the final sales price to be determined:

(1) On exports from East and Gulf ports, at any time through 3:30 p. m., e. s. t., of the fifth market day following the date of the on-board ocean carrier bill of lading.

(2) On exports from West Coast ports, at any time through 3:30 p. m., e. s. t., of the fifteenth market day following the date of the on-board ocean carrier bill of lading.

(3) For exports wholly by rail or truck at any time through 3:30 p. m., e. s. t., of the date of customs clearance shown on the Shipper's Export Declaration.

(4) In case a final price is not established within the respective period prescribed in subparagraph (1), (2), or (3) of this paragraph but is established subsequent thereto, for purposes of the adjustment as provided in paragraph (c) of this section, the provisional price will be considered to have been made final on the expiration date of such prescribed period.

(b) If installment shipments are made against a sale confirmed on a deferred price basis, a final price may be established in accordance with paragraph (a) of this section, on each installment shipment separately.

(c) The export payment rate applicable to deferred price transactions will be determined in accordance with § 481.541, except that such rate will be adjusted by an amount equal to any rate change, between the time of sale and the time the final sales price is determined as prescribed in paragraph (a) (1), (2), (3), or (4) of this section, which is specifically announced by CCC as intended to increase or reduce the Wheat Agreement selling price level: Provided, That when the announced rate change results in a higher subsidy payment, the final sales price to the buyer shall reflect a corresponding reduction. Rate changes resulting from market changes or because of revisions in equivalents occasioned by fluctuations in transportation costs, shall not be regarded as establishing a new selling price level for purposes of rate adjustments with respect to sales made on a deferred price basis. Notwithstanding the provisions of this section, the amount of any adjustment under this paragraph shall not be such as to result in a final selling price more than the maximum equivalent or less than the minimum equivalent, after allowance for quality, in effect at the time the final price is established.

(d) For transactions entered into on a deferred price basis, the Notice of Sale and the Declaration of Sale, in addition to the information specified in §§ 481.555 and 481.556 respectively, shall indicate that the sales price is provisional. This may be reported by utilizing the code word "Deferred."

(e) With respect to any shipment or shipments made against a deferred price contract, for which the price has not been made final before the time of any rate change announcement as provided in paragraph (c) of this section, the exporter shall notify the CCC in an original and one copy as follows:

(1) Sale number.
(2) Quantity exported.
(i) Wheat in bushels.
(ii) Flour in net hundredweight.
(3) Port of exportation.
(4) Date of ocean bill of lading.
(5) A certified true copy of the exporter's notification to the buyer of the adjusted final sales price with respect to which a higher subsidy payment will be claimed.

3. Section 481.541 is amended to permit adjustments in the export payment rate pursuant to the conditions prescribed by the new § 481.539, and to provide that the time of receipt of cables or other written evidence from the exporter's agent, shall be considered in determining the time of sale. Section 481.541, as amended, reads as follows:

§ 481.541 Determinatin of rates. The rate in effect at the time of sale to the foreign buyer, or the time of giving Notice of Sale as required by § 481.555 (a), whichever rate is the lower, shall be the rate applicable to the sale, except that with respect to sales made on a deferred price basis, such rate may be adjusted as provided in § 481.539 (c). In the case of resales of wheat or flour, the export rate for such sales will be that applicable to the original purchasing country or to the country of final destination, whichever is lower. The supporting evidence as proof of sale submitted by the exporter in form prescribed in § 481.556 (d), will be the basis for determining the time of sale. The following are factors which may be determinative of the time of sale.

(a) Time of filing by the exporter of a cablegram or time of mailing of a written acceptance of a definite offer to purchase received from the foreign buyer.

(b) Time of receipt by the exporter of a cablegram or other written acceptance from the foreign buyer of a definite offer by the exporter to sell or the time of receipt by the exporter of a cablegram or other written notification from his agent that the foreign buyer has accepted a definite offer by the exporter to sell.

(c) Time of filing by the exporter of a cablegram or time of mailing of a written confirmation of the booking of a shipment or shipments to be made pursuant to an open offer of the exporter to sell or a standing order of the buyer to purchase. It must be clear from the evidence, however, that the exporter is empowered by the terms of the open offer or standing order to firm the contract by issuing a confirmation. For example, if he is authorized to confirm the sale at a price which may be established at his option, the evidence must show that such is the understanding between buyer and seller, otherwise it will be necessary for the buyer also to confirm the price, and receipt of the buyer's confirmation will establish the time of sale.

(d) Sales may be made through a third party, but in such cases, in determining the time of sale, no substantially greater lapse of time for receipt of buyer's confirmation will be recognized than would have elapsed had the exporter been dealing directly with the ultimate foreign buyer. In such a transaction, the evidence of sale required by § 481.556 (d) shall include documents exchanged between the exporter, the ultimate foreign buyer, and the intermediate third party.

(e) Except for sales entered into on a deferred price basis, as provided in § 481.539, a sale shall not be considered as entered into until the purchase price has been established, and time of sale shall be the earliest date on which a firm contract exists between buyer and seller and on which a firm price has been established. With respect to sales made on a deferred price basis, time of sale shall be the earliest date on which a firm contract exists between buyer and seller and on which a provisional sales price has been established. In order to receive payment at the announced rate in effect at the time of sale, it is important that the exporter give timely Notice of Sale as required by § 481.555 (a) and present documentary evidence that the sale was consummated at such time.

(f) If export is wholly by truck or rail and the time of sale cannot be determined on the basis of the factors set forth in paragraph (a), (b), or (c) of this section, the sale will be deemed to have been made at the time of issuance of inland bill of lading, or if none is issued, at the time of clearance through United States customs. If export is by ocean carrier and time of sale cannot be determined as outlined above, the sale will be deemed to have been made at the time of issuance of ocean carrier bill of lading, or if none is issued, at the time the wheat or flour is loaded on board ocean carrier.

(g) If the time of day at which the sale was consummated is not established and two payment rates are in effect on the day established in accordance with paragraph (a), (b), (c), or (d) of this section, the time of consummation of sale will be deemed to be at the time the lower of the two rates was in effect.

4. Section 481.555 (b) (2) (ii) is amended to implement the revision in the loading tolerance with respect to information furnished in the Notice of Sale. This subdivision as amended reads as follows:

(ii) For bulk wheat the contract loading tolerance, if any, in percentage, but not in excess of five percent on parcel shipments or ten percent on full cargo shipments.

5 Section 481.556 (b) (5) (i) is amended to implement the revision in the loading tolerance with respect to information furnished on the Declaration of Sale. This subdivision as amended reads as follows:

(i) Wheat in bushels. If, in the case of bulk wheat, the sales contract provides for a loading tolerance, the amount of such tolerance, but not to exceed five percent on parcel shipments or ten percent on full cargo shipments, given in percentage figures shall be entered directly following the quantity sold.

(Sec. 2, 63 Stat. 945, 946, sec. 104, 64 Stat. 198, 67 Stat. 358; 7 U. S. C. 1641, 1642)

Issued this 5th day of November 1954.

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter VIII—Commodity Stabilization Service (Sugar), Department of Agriculture

Subchapter B—Sugar Requirements and Quotas

[Sugar Reg. 811, Amdt. 2]

PART 811—CONTINENTAL SUGAR REQUIREMENTS AND AREA QUOTAS

PRORATION OF 1954 QUOTA FOR FOREIGN COUNTRIES OTHER THAN CUBA AND REPUBLIC OF THE PHILIPPINES

Basis and purpose. This amendment is issued pursuant to the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended, hereinafter referred to as the "act", and is made for the purpose of prorating among those foreign countries other than Cuba and the Republic of the Philippines which will be able to fill additional prorations, that part of the basic quota for all such foreign countries which will not be filled by the countries to which it was originally prorated.

Section 204 (b) of the act provides that whenever the Secretary finds that any country will be unable to fill the proration to such country of the quota for foreign countries other than Cuba and the Republic of the Philippines established under section 202 (c) he may apportion such unfilled amount on such basis and to such countries as he determines is required to fill such proration.

This amendment increases the prorations of the quota to three specified countries and the proration to unspecified countries.

In order to afford adequate opportunity to ship the sugar as authorized by this amendment, it is essential that the revised prorations be made effective immediately. Therefore, it is hereby found that compliance with the notice, procedure, and effective date requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act is unnecessary, impracticable and contrary to the public interest and the amendment herein made shall become effective on the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By virtue of the authority vested in the Secretary of Agriculture by the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended (61 Stat. 922, 65 Stat. 318, 7 U. S. C. Sup. 1100), and the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 237) § 811.64 of Sugar Regulation 811, as amended (18 F. R. 8257, 19 F. R. 1501), is amended by adding paragraphs (c) and (d) as follows:

§ 811.64 Proration of quota for foreign countries other than Cuba and the Republic of the Philippines. * * *

(c) Deficit in prorations of foreign countries other than Cuba and the Republic of the Philippines. It is hereby determined, pursuant to section 204 (b) of the act, that 4,140 short tons, raw value, of the quota for foreign countries other than Cuba and the Republic of the Philippines prorated to El Salvador in paragraph (b) of this section will not be filled by that country.

(d) Allotment of unfilled prorations. The amount of sugar determined in paragraph (c) of this section is hereby prorated pursuant to subsection (b) of section 204 of the act, as follows:

Country:	Additional prorations in short tons, raw value
Dominican Republic	1,184
Mexico	491
Peru	2,227
Unspecified countries	238
Total	4,140

Statement of bases and considerations. This proration has been made in accordance with the provisions of section 204 (b) of the act heretofore stated, and subject to the provisions of section 204 (c) of the act which provides that the quota for any domestic area, the Republic of the Philippines, Cuba or other foreign countries as established under the provisions of section 202 shall not be reduced by reason of any such determination of a deficit.

The Department has been advised that: El Salvador will be unable to utilize its proration of the "full-duty" quota; and, Nicaragua and Haiti will be unable to utilize any additional prorations; but that, the Dominican Republic, Mexico and Peru have sugar available for importation before the end of the year within additional prorations. Therefore, the quantity determined in §811.64 (c) has been prorated to the Dominican Republic, Mexico, Peru and "unspecified countries". The additional proration was distributed in proportion to the prorations established in § 811.64 (b) of Sugar Regulation 811, Amendment 1 (18 F. R. 8257, 19 F. R. 1501).

After giving effect to the changes set forth in § 811.64 (d) the current adjusted prorations of quota for the "full-duty" countries are as follows:

Country:	Adjusted prorations short tons, raw value
Dominican Republic	28,818
El Salvador	------
Haiti	2,674
Mexico	11,949
Nicaragua	7,832
Peru	54,205
Unspecified countries	5,802

Statement of the case. This is a proceeding under the Federal Trade Commission Act wherein the Commission on October 5, 1948, issued and subsequently served its complaint on the respondents named in the caption hereof, charging them and others listed in the complaint as members of respondent trade associations with having entered into and carried out an unlawful agreement or conspiracy to hinder, lessen and restrain competition in prices and otherwise between and among themselves in the sale and distribution in interstate commerce of fine and wrapping paper. The complaint was subsequently amended to specify that the Carpenter Paper Company, named respondent herein, is a Delaware corporation with principal offices in Omaha, Nebraska. This amended complaint was served on that respondent.

On February 28, 1949, the Commission duly designated Everett F. Haycraft as trial examiner in this proceeding. After an initial hearing, held in New York City on May 2, 1949, negotiations were held looking to a settlement of the case. On December 5, 1949, at a hearing held in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, all of the respondents named in the caption hereof, with the exception of respondents Graham Paper Company, Pittsburgh Paper Association, Robert Engel, Chatfield & Woods, Co. of Pennsylvania, Morris Paper Company, Anderson Paper & Twine Company, and Clarence E. Dobson filed substitute answers.

With the exception of those filed by respondents Metropolitan Bag & Paper Distributors Association, Inc., A. E. MacAdam & Company, Inc., John H. Free, Inc., Shuttleworth Wollny Co., Inc., S. Posner Sons, Inc., Yorkville Paper Company, Inc., Fred Free, Jr., and Irwin Slote, all of said substitute answers concede that, solely for the purpose of this proceeding, the enforcement or review thereof before a United States Court of Appeals or in the United States Supreme Court, or to enforce the order to be entered herein, inferences may be drawn from such answer and documentary evidence received in evidence, that the acts and practices thereby indicated may be deemed to reflect in effect an agreement or understanding, and that they do not and will not contend otherwise. Said respondents state further that, solely for the purposes aforesaid, they consent that documentary and other evidence to be offered by counsel in support of the complaint may be admitted without objection. Further, solely for the purposes aforesaid, said respondents also state that they will not offer explanation of or evidence to contradict the evidence which they consent to be made a part of the record, and agree that the acts and practices indicated or reflected by said evidence may have tended to, and, if continued in the future, may affect adversely competition in price between merchant respondents. Said substitute answers also waived hearing on the complaint and consented that the Commission may without trial, without the taking of testimony, and without other procedure, except for the trial examiner's report, enter its findings as to the facts including such interferences as may be drawn from the facts admitted in the answer and as may be drawn from the facts otherwise shown by the record, and issue its order thereon.

The remaining substitute answers were the same in substance except that they did not concede that the acts and practices indicated may be deemed to reflect in effect an agreement or understanding or that they may have tended to and, if continued in the future, may affect adversely competition in price between merchant respondents. However, respondent Slote states in his substitute answer that he will not contend that the findings and order of the Commission are not supported by the record. The other respondents filing such substitute answers agreed that they would not introduce any evidence to rebut such inferences drawn from the evidence of record and will not offer explanation of such evidence.

Respondent Anderson Paper & Twine Company filed no answer to this complaint. Each of the other respondents named in the caption hereof who did not file a substitute answer as aforesaid, filed an answer denying that they had violated the act as alleged.

Respondents Butler Paper Co., Inc., Fort Wayne, Indiana, J. W. Butler Paper Company, Chicago, Illinois, and Butler Paper Co., Minneapolis, Minnesota, not named in the caption hereof, filed substitute answers in the form first described above.

Hearings were held thereafter at Washington, D. C., and Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, between December 5, 1949, and March 30, 1950, inclusive, at which documents were admitted by agreement of counsel, and also testimony and other evidence was presented with respect to the allegations of the complaint as to respondents which had not filed substitute answers.

On September 28, 1951, the trial examiner filed his recommended decision in which he concluded that all of the respondents, with the exception of respondents Robert Engel and Graham Paper Company have violated section 5 of the Federal Trade Commission Act as alleged.

Thereafter, this proceeding regularly came on for final hearing before the Commission on the complaint, as amended, the answers and substitute answers, evidence, recommended decision of the hearing examiner and the exceptions thereto, briefs in support of and in opposition to said complaint, and oral arguments of counsel; and the Commission, having duly considered the matter and being now fully advised in the premises, finds that this proceeding is in the interest of the public and makes this its findings as to the facts [1] and its conclusion drawn therefrom.[1]

It is ordered, therefore, That respondents National Paper Trade Association of the United States, Inc.; Arthur H. Chamberlain, individually and as its Executive Secretary; W. G. Leathers, individually and as its Assistant Executive Secretary; J. H. Londergan, individually and as its Director, Statistical Research Division; The Central States Paper Trade Association; John L. Richey, individually and as Secretary of respondents The Central States Paper Trade Association, The Chicago Paper Association, Illinois State Paper Merchants Association, The Middle States Wrapping Paper Association, and Wisconsin Paper Merchants Association; Diem & Wing Paper Company; Cincinnati Cordage and Paper Company; Indiana Paper Company; Butler Paper Co., Inc.; Chatfield Paper Corporation; The Fine Paper Association of Chicago, Inc.; G. Forrest Gillett, individually and as its Secretary; Chicago Paper Company; Hobart Paper Company; Swigart Paper Company; Bradner Smith & Company; J. W. (a) Establishing or maintaining prices for either fine or wrapping paper or for any descriptive classes thereof, or any rates of cash discount;

(b) Establishing or maintaining markups or percentages of markups in arriving at selling prices;

(c) Establishing or maintaining differentials with respect to any individual item or class of items, different quantities, color, cutting, trimming, packaging or delivery, whether determined on a basis of method of delivery or geographical location to which delivered;

(d) Disseminating price lists or terms or conditions of sale offered to the trade to each other directly or by and through respondent associations or any other medium;

(e) Publishing or distributing any publication of national average percentage markups for any individual item or individual class of paper or paper products or any tables or charts purporting to apply any national average percentage markups to any assumed price paid by merchants for any individual item or individual class of items, or showing any average national pricing practices of merchants with respect to any individual item or individual class of items for different quantities, color, cutting, trimming, packaging or delivery;

It is further ordered, That nothing contained in this order shall be construed as prohibiting any respondent, acting either as principal or agent, from entering into agreements with any of its vendors or customers to buy from any such vendors or to sell to any such customers fine or wrapping paper at any price or on any terms or conditions of sale independently determined and offered and independently accepted in any bona fide transactions, when such agreements are not for the purpose, nor have the effect, of restraining trade or competition, or from quoting prices or terms or conditions of sale for the purpose of effecting any such bona fide agreements.

It is further ordered, That this complaint be, and it hereby is dismissed as to respondents Graham Paper Company, Pittsburgh Paper Association, Robert Engel, Morris Paper Company, Anderson Paper & Twine Company and Clarence E. Dobson.

It is further ordered, That this complaint be, and it hereby is dismissed as to each of the respondents named in the complaint only by reference to the lists of members of the respondent trade associations attached as exhibits to the complaint, with the exception of those specifically listed in the first paragraph of this order. These dismissals are based solely on the ground that an order as to these respondents is not required in the public interest and do not pass in any way on the power or jurisdiction of the Commission to bring representative class suits under the doctrine laid down in Chamber of Commerce of Minneapolis et al. v. Federal Trade Commission, 13 F. 2d 673, 684 (C. A. 8, 1926).

It is further ordered, That each of the respondents named in the first paragraph of this order shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing, setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with this order.

HUDSON GARMENT CO., INC., ET AL.

Subpart—Misbranding or mislabeling: § 3.1330 Specifications or standards conformance. In the offering for sale, sale or distribution of wearing apparel in commerce, or of any other garments representing, directly or by implication, by marking, branding, labeling, tagging or in any other manner, contrary to fact, that such merchandise was manufactured for the Armed Forces of the United States or in accordance with specifications of said Armed Forces prohibited.

(Sec. 6, 38 Stat. 722, 15 U. S. C. 46. Interprets or applies sec. 5, 38 Stat. 719; 15 U. S. C. 45) [Cease and desist order, Hudson Garment Co., Inc., et al., New York, N. Y., Docket 6219, Oct. 1, 1954]

In the Matter of Hudson Garment Co., Inc., a Corporation, and Samuel Zigman, Simon Ginsberg, and Pearl Zigman, Individually and as Officers of Said Corporation

This proceeding was heard by James A. Purcell, hearing examiner, upon the complaint of the Commission which charged respondents with misrepresenting facts pertaining to the manufacture of their products, and upon a stipulation between the parties, of record in the instant proceeding, for a consent order.

By the terms of said stipulation, the parties agreed that the complaint and said stipulation should constitute the entire record in the matter, withdrawal of the answer theretofore filed by respondents being moved and granted; that respondents admitted all of the jurisdictional allegations set forth in the complaint; that the parties waived hearing before a hearing examiner or the Commission, and also the making of findings of facts and conclusions of law by the hearing examiner or the Commission; and that respondents waived the right to file exceptions or to demand oral argument before the Commission and all further and other procedure before the hearing examiner or the Commission, to which, but for the execution and filing of the aforesaid stipulation, the respondents might be entitled under the Federal Trade Commission Act or the rules or practice of the Commission.

Said stipulation, which was executed for settlement purposes only and did not constitute an admission by respondents that they had violated the law as alleged in the complaint, specifically waived any and all right, power, or privilege to challenge or contest the validity of the order to be made in the matter, and further provided that the complaint forming the basis of the proceeding might be used in construing the terms of said order, which might be altered, modified, or set aside in the manner provided by law for other orders of the Commission where such action is sought.

Thereafter said examiner made his initial decision setting forth the aforesaid matter and his conclusion, on the basis thereof, that the proceeding was in the public interest, and, in conformity with the action in said stipulation contemplated and agreed upon, made his order to cease and desist.

No appeal having been filed from said initial decision of said hearing examiner, as provided for in Rule XXII of the Commission's rules of practice, nor any other action taken as thereby provided to prevent said initial decision becoming the decision of the Commission thirty days from service thereof upon the parties, said initial decision, including said order, accordingly, under the provisions of said Rule XXII became the decision of the Commission on October 1, 1954.

Said order is as follows:

It is ordered, That respondents Hudson Garment Co., Inc., a corporation, and Samuel Zigman, Simon Ginsberg, and Pearl Zigman, individually and as officers of said corporation, and respondents' agents, representatives and employees, directly, or through any corporate or other device, in the offering for sale, sale or distribution of wearing apparel in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, or of any other garments, do forthwith cease and desist from representing, directly or by implication, by marking, branding, labeling, tagging, or in any other manner, contrary to fact, that such merchandise was manufactured for the Armed Forces of the United States or in accordance with specifications of said Armed Forces.

By "Decision of the Commission and Order to File Report of Compliance", Docket 6219, October 1, 1954, which announced and decreed fruition of said initial decision, report of compliance was required as follows:

It is ordered, That the respondents herein shall within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with the order to cease and desist.

Issued: October 1, 1954.

By the Commission.

FEDERAL REGISTER

VOLUME 19 NUMBER 221

Washington, Saturday, November 13, 1954

TITLE 3—THE PRESIDENT

PROCLAMATION 3077

THANKSGIVING DAY, 1954

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

A PROCLAMATION

Early in our history the Pilgrim fathers inaugurated the custom of dedicating one day at harvest time to rendering thanks to Almighty God for the bounties of the soil and for His mercies throughout the year. At this autumnal season tradition suggests and our hearts require that we follow that hallowed custom and bow in reverent thanks for the blessings bestowed upon us individually and as a Nation.

We are grateful that our beloved country, settled by those forebears in their quest for religious freedom, remains free and strong, and that each of us can worship God in his own way, according to the dictates of his conscience.

We are grateful for the innumerable daily manifestations of Divine goodness in affairs both public and private, for equal opportunities for all to labor and to serve, and for the continuance of those homely joys and satisfactions which enrich our lives.

With gratitude in our hearts for all our blessings, may we be ever mindful of the obligations inherent in our strength, and may we rededicate ourselves to unselfish striving for the common betterment of mankind.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, President of the United States of America, in consonance with the joint resolution of Congress approved December 26, 1941, designating the fourth Thursday of November of each year as Thanksgiving Day, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 25, 1954, as a day of national thanksgiving, and I call upon all our citizens to observe the day with prayer. Let us demonstrate in our lives our humble thanks to God for His beneficence in the year which is past, and let us ask His guidance in the year to come.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

DONE at the City of Washington this sixth day of November in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and [SEAL] fifty-four, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and seventy-ninth.

DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER

JOHN FOSTER DULLES, Secretary of State.

(2) Navel oranges handled pursuant to the provisions of this section shall be subject to any size restrictions applicable thereto which have heretofore been issued on the handling of such oranges and which are effective during the period specified herein.

(3) As used in this section, "handled," "boxes," "District 1," "District 2," "District 3," and "District 4" shall have the same meaning as when used in said amended marketing agreement and order.

Such rate of assessment is hereby fixed as each such handler's pro rate share of the aforesaid expenses.

(b) As used in this section, "handler," "ship," "fruit," "fiscal period," and "standard box" shall each have the same meaning as is given to each such term in said amended marketing agreement and order.

GENERAL

§ 984.401 Communications. Unless otherwise prescribed by the Walnut Control Board, applications, submittals, requests, and communications in connection with this part shall be addressed as follows: Walnut Control Board, 400 Corporation Building, 724 South Spring Street, Los Angeles 14, California.

GRADE REGULATION OF UNSHELLED WALNUTS

§ 984.402 Pack specifications for merchantable (unshelled) walnuts, including minimum standards of size, quality and maturity; (part I) for walnuts produced in California—(a) Size grade specifications. To be certified as merchantable, any lot of walnuts must meet the specifications of one of the following size classifications: Provided, That any lot of walnuts which the Walnut Control Board finds will be used solely for shelling, and which is subsequently used solely for that purpose, may be certified with respect to size, at the option of the particular handler, without reference to such size classifications, if not over 3 percent, by count, pass through a round opening $^{60}/_{64}$ inch in diameter.

(1) Mammoth Size. Walnuts of which not over 12 percent, by count, pass through a round opening $^{96}/_{64}$ inches in diameter.

(2) Jumbo Size. Walnuts of which not over 12 percent, by count, pass through a round opening $^{84}/_{64}$ inches in diameter.

(3) Large Size. Walnuts of which not over 12 percent, by count, pass through a round opening $^{78}/_{64}$ inches in diameter, except that, for walnuts of the Eureka variety and type, such limiting dimension as to diameter shall be $^{76}/_{64}$ inches.

(4) Medium Size. Walnuts of which at least 88 percent, by count, pass through a round opening $^{70}/_{64}$ inches in diameter and of which not over 12 percent, by count, pass through a round opening $^{74}/_{64}$ inches in diameter.

(5) Standard Size. Walnuts of which not over 12 percent, by count, pass through a round opening $^{74}/_{64}$ inches in diameter. This size is customarily obtained when lots of walnuts are graded for removal of Baby Size.

(6) Baby Size. Walnuts of which at least 88 percent, by count, pass through a round opening $^{70}/_{64}$ inches in diameter and of which not over 10 percent, by count, pass through a round opening $^{60}/_{64}$ inch in diameter.

(b) External appearance and condition—(1) Specifications and tolerances. Merchantable walnuts are walnuts which are not dirty or discolored and which are free from adhering hulls, and perforated, broken, or split shells, except that the following tolerances, by count, for these defects as prescribed for the quality grade specified shall be allowed:

(i) First Quality Grade. 10 percent for split shells and an additional 5 percent for defects other than split shells.

(ii) Second and Third Quality Grades. 10 percent for split shells and an additional 10 percent for defects other than split shells.

(2) Definitions of defects. The following definitions of defects shall be used in determining the qualification of walnuts with respect to external appearance and condition: Provided, That with respect to any lot of walnuts not exceeding 25,000 pounds which the Walnut Control Board finds will be used solely for shelling, and which is subsequently used solely for that purpose, compliance with the requirements for external appearance and condition may, at the option of the particular handler, be determined by examination of a representative sample of such lot which is selected by the inspector, and, under supervision of the inspector, is bleached by the method generally used by such handler:

(i) Dirty. Any walnut which is affected by dirt or other foreign matter to the extent that it is readily discernible because it is in sharp contrast with the remainder of the lot; or any lot of walnuts so generally affected by dirt or other foreign matter as to be objectionable in appearance.

(ii) Discolored. Any walnut which is affected by spots or stains to the extent that it is readily discernible because it is in sharp contrast with the remainder of the lot; or any lot of walnuts so generally affected by stains as to be objectionable in appearance.

(iii) Adhering hull. Any walnut affected by adhering hull or hull fibre which is readily discernible.

(iv) Perforated shells. Any walnut with imperfectly developed areas of the shell resembling abrasions and usually including small holes penetrating the shell wall, if such an area of surface aggregating more than three-eighths of an inch in diameter is so affected.

(v) Broken shells. Any walnut with a material portion of the shell missing or with the halves completely broken apart. Two separated halves shall be counted as one now-passable nut.

(vi) Split shells or splits. Any walnut with the shell halves completely separated, but held together by the kernel.

(c) Internal or kernel quality. Any lot of walnuts to be eligible for a quality grade must contain not less than 95 percent, by count, of kernels which are well dried (firm and crisp). A kernel, as referred to in this subpart means all of the non-fibrous content of one individual walnut; that is, two halves, four quarters, etc. The quality grade of any lot of walnuts, within the limits of the tolerances specified for external appearance and condition, shall be the highest grade to which such lot is eligible under the following internal or kernel quality grades.

(1) First Quality Grade. First quality grade walnuts shall contain not less than 90 percent, by count, of nuts which are free from insect damage, mold, shrivel, blanks, rancidity and black kernels, except that not less than 95 percent, by count, shall be free from insect damaged kernels. Not less than 50 percent of the kernels in any lot shall be light in color, in accordance with the WCB color chart. Only passable kernels shall be scored "light." The following definitions of defects shall be used in determining the qualification of walnuts for First Quality Grade:

(i) Insect damage. Any kernel affected in any way by insect larvae, ants, moths, beetles or any other insects.

(ii) Mold. Any kernel showing on its surface mold readily discernible to the eye, except that a kernel bearing a few loose filaments of white or light gray mold which are easily blown off shall not be considered moldy.

(iii) Shrivel. Any kernel which is noticeably shrunken, leathery or tough as distinguished from kernels which are fully developed. A kernel which is thin in cross-section but which otherwise is normally developed shall not be considered shriveled. A kernel with one-eighth or more of its surface affected by shriveling shall be considered as noticeably shrunken and scored as non-passable.

(iv) Blank. Any kernel so shrunken or so imperfectly developed as to be inedible or worthless.

(v) Rancidity. Any kernel which has a decomposed appearance or a rancid taste.

(vi) Black kernel. Any kernel as dark or darker in color than those illustrated in row "E" of the WCB color chart.

(2) Second Quality Grade. Second Quality Grade walnuts shall contain not less than a total of 86 percent, by count, of nuts which are free from mold, shrivel and black kernels, as defined below for Second Quality Grade, combined with the defects defined herein for Third Quality Grade: Provided, That not less than 90 percent by count shall be free from the defects defined for Third Quality Grade:

(i) Mold. Any kernel showing on its surface mold readily discernible to the eye except that a kernel bearing a few loose filaments of white or light gray mold which can be easily blown off or a kernel affected by a slight covering of white or gray mold which does not affect more than one-fourth of the surface of the kernel shall not be considered moldy.

(ii) Shrivel. Any kernel which is noticeably shrunken, leathery or tough as distinguished from a kernel which is fully developed. A kernel which is thin in cross-section but which otherwise is normally developed shall not be considered shriveled. A kernel shriveled one-eighth or more but less than one-half shall be considered as noticeably shrunken and scored as nonpassable. In any 100 nuts, not more than 10 such nuts may be scored one-half percent each to a maximum of 5 percent nonpassable. Each additional such nut above 10 shall be scored one percent nonpassable.

(iii) Black kernel. Any kernel as dark or darker in color than those illustrated in row "E" of the WCB color chart.

(iv) Color. Not less than 30 percent of the kernels in any lot shall be light in color in accordance with the WCB color chart. Only passable kernels shall be scored "light."

(3) Third Quality Grade. Third Quality Grade walnuts shall contain not less than 90 percent, by count, of nuts which are free from insect damage, mold, shrivel, blanks, and rancidity. The following definitions of defects shall be used in determining the qualification of walnuts for Third Quality Grade:

(i) Insect damage. Any kernel affected in any way by insect larvae, ants, moths, beetles, or any other insects.

(ii) Mold. Any kernel on which there is fruiting mold of any description, or mold mycelia affecting more than one-fourth of the surface of the kernel.

(iii) Shrivel. Any kernel which is edible, but so shriveled as to be one-half or less than half the normal size. Each shriveled kernel shall be classed as half sound; that is, two such kernels shall be counted as one sound and one defective kernel.

(iv) Blank. Any kernel so shrunken or so imperfectly developed as to be inedible or worthless.

(v) Rancidity. Any kernel which has a decomposed appearance or a rancid taste.

(d) Minimum standards. The specifications for Baby Size and Third Quality Grade with respect to internal or kernel quality and external appearance and condition, as prescribed in this subpart, including respective tolerances, shall be the minimum standard of quality and maturity for walnuts produced in California, prescribed pursuant to § 984.43.

(e) Color chart. The color chart referred to in these specifications as the WCB color chart is the chart originally adopted June 15, 1944, by the then Program Committee, War Food Order 82, and adopted by the Walnut Control Board on August 26, 1948, and which is available for inspection at the office of the Walnut Control Board, 400 Corporation Building, 724 South Spring Street, Los Angeles 14, California.

§ 984.403 Pack specifications for merchantable (unshelled) walnuts, including minimum standards of size, quality and maturity; (part II) for walnuts produced in Oregon and Washington—(a) Size grade specifications. To be certified as merchantable, any lot of walnuts must meet the specifications of one of the following size classifications: Provided, That any lot of walnuts which the Walnut Control Board finds will be used solely for shelling, and which is subsequently used solely for that purpose, may be certified with respect to size, at the option of the particular handler, without reference to such size classifications, if not over 3 percent, by count, pass through a round opening $^{60}/_{64}$ inch in diameter.

(1) Mammoth Size. Walnuts of which not over 12 percent, by count, pass through a round opening $^{96}/_{64}$ inches in diameter.

(2) Jumbo Size. Walnuts of which not over 12 percent, by count, pass through a round opening $^{82}/_{64}$ inches in diameter.

(3) Large Size. Walnuts of which not over 12 percent, by count, pass through a round opening $^{75}/_{64}$ inches in diameter.

(4) Medium Size. Walnuts of which at least 88 percent, by count, pass through a round opening $^{75}/_{64}$ inches in diameter and of which not over 12 percent, by count, pass through a round opening $^{71}/_{64}$ inches in diameter.

(5) Standard Size. Walnuts of which not over 12 percent, by count, pass through a round opening $^{71}/_{64}$ inches in diameter. This size is customarily obtained when lots of walnuts are graded for removal of Baby Size.

(6) Baby Size. Walnuts of which at least 88 percent, by count, pass through a round opening $^{75}/_{64}$ inches in diameter and of which not over 10 percent, by count, pass through a round opening $^{60}/_{64}$ inch in diameter.

(b) External appearance and condition. (1) First Quality Grade walnuts are walnuts of similar varietal characteristics, which are fully dried, the shells of which are clean, bright, fairly uniform in color, well formed, and free from splits, injury by discoloration, and free from damage caused by broken shells, perforated shells, adhering hulls and other means, except that the following tolerances, by count, shall be allowed: 5 percent for splits and an additional 5 percent for other defects, including not more than 3 percent serious damage.

(2) Second Quality Grade walnuts are walnuts of similar varietal characteristics, which are fully dried, the shells of which are fairly clean, free from splits, and free from damage caused by broken shells, perforated shells, adhering hulls, discoloration, or other means, except that the following tolerances, by count, shall be allowed: 5 percent for splits and an additional 8 percent for other defects, including not more than 5 percent serious damage.

(3) Third Quality Grade walnuts are walnuts which are fully dried, the shells of which are fairly clean, free from splits, and free from damage caused by broken shells, and free from serious damage, caused by discoloration, perforated shells, adhering hulls, and other means, except that the following tolerances, by count, shall be allowed: 10 percent for splits and an additional 10 percent for other defects, including not over 5 percent serious damage by adhering hulls.

(4) Definitions of terms. The following definitions of terms shall be used in determining the qualification of walnuts with respect to external appearance and condition: Provided, That with respect to any lot of walnuts not exceeding 25,000 pounds which the Walnut Control Board finds will be used solely for shelling, and which is subsequently used solely for that purpose, compliance with the requirements for external appearance and condition may, at the option of the particular handler, be determined by examination of a representative sample of such lot which is selected by the inspector, and, under supervision of the inspector, is bleached by the method generally used by such handler:

(i) Fully dried means that the kernel is crisp and with a moisture content (both shell and kernel) of not to exceed 10 percent.

(ii) Clean means that from the viewpoint of general appearance the walnuts are practically free from adhering dirt or other foreign matter and that the individual walnuts are not damaged by such means. A slight chalky deposit on the shell is characteristic of many bleached nuts and shall not be considered as dirt or foreign matter.

(iii) Fairly clean means that from the viewpoint of general appearance the lot is not seriously damaged by adhering dirt or other foreign matter and that individual walnuts are not coated or caked with dirt or foreign matter. Both the amount of surface affected and the color of the dirt shall be taken into consideration.

(iv) Bright means a light, uniform, attractive appearance. A slight chalky deposit on the shell shall not be considered as affecting brightness.

(v) Fairly uniform color means that the shell color of individual nuts does not contrast materially with the general color of the lot.

(vi) Well formed means that at least 88 percent of the pack have a normal shape characteristic of the variety.

(vii) Splits means walnuts with shell halves separated at the suture for 50 percent or more of the circumference of the nut.

(viii) Injury by discoloration means that the color of the affected portions of the shell contrasts materially with the color of the rest of the shell of the individual nut.

(ix) Damage means any injury or defect which materially affects the appearance, edible or shipping quality of the walnuts. Any one of the following defects or any combination of defects, the seriousness of which exceeds the maximum allowed for any one of these defects shall be considered as damage:

(a) Broken shells, when any material portion of the shell is missing or the halves are completely broken apart and separated.

(b) Perforated shells, when the area affected aggregates more than one-fourth inch in diameter. The term "perforated shells" means imperfectly developed areas on the shell resembling abrasions and usually including small holes penetrating the shell wall.

(c) Adhering hulls, when affecting more than 5 percent of the shell surface.

(d) Discoloration (or stain), which covers in the aggregate one-fifth or more of the surface of the shell of an individual nut, and which is medium brown, light reddish brown or gray, contrasting with the color of the rest of the shell or the majority of shells in the lot; or darker discoloration covering a smaller area if the appearance is equally objectionable.

(x) Serious damage means any injury or defect which seriously affects the appearance, edible or shipping quality of the walnut. Any one of the following defects, or any combination of defects, the seriousness of which exceeds the maximum allowed for any one of these defects shall be considered as serious damage:

(a) Discoloration (or stain), which covers in the aggregate one-third or more of the surface of the shell of an individual nut, and which is brown, reddish brown or gray, contrasting sharply with the color of the rest of the shell or the majority of shells in the lot; or darker discoloration covering a smaller area if the appearance is equally objectionable.

(b) Perforated shells, when the area affected aggregates more than $^{3}/_{8}$ of an inch in diameter. The term "perforated shells" means imperfectly developed areas on the shell resembling abrasions and usually including small holes penetrating the shell wall.

(c) Adhering hulls, when affecting more than one-eighth of the surface in the aggregate.

(c) Internal or kernel quality. A kernel, as referred to in this subpart, means all of the nonfibrous content of one individual walnut; that is, two halves, four quarters, etc. The quality grade of any lot of walnuts, within the limits of the tolerances specified for external appearance and condition, shall be the highest grade to which such lot is eligible under the following internal or kernel quality grades.

(1) First Quality Grade. First Quality Grade walnuts shall consist of walnuts which are fully dried and the kernels of which are free from decay, dark discoloration, rancidity, insects or insect injury, and free from damage caused by mold, shriveling and other means. At least 60 percent, by count, of the walnuts of this grade shall contain kernels which are not darker than "light" (as defined by the English Walnut grading chart of the U. S. Department of Agriculture), and which are free from defects of the First Quality Grade. The following tolerances by count, shall be allowed: Not more than 10 percent shall be below the requirements of the grade, including not more than 5 percent serious damage from causes other than shrivel. An additional tolerance of 10 percent shall be allowed for kernels otherwise sound, but with one-eighth or less shriveled. In arriving at this tolerance the following rules with respect to shrivel shall apply:

(i) Kernels otherwise sound with one-half or more shriveled shall be counted as one percent.

(ii) Kernels otherwise sound with more than one-eighth and less than one-half shriveled shall count as one-half of one percent: Provided, That if more than 10 such nuts are present per 100, each additional nut shall count as one percent.

(2) Second Quality Grade. Second Quality Grade walnuts shall consist of walnuts which are fully dried and the kernels of which are free from decay, dark discoloration, rancidity, insects or insect injury, and free from damage caused by mold, shriveling and other means. At least 50 percent, by count, of walnuts of this grade shall contain kernels which are not darker than "light" (as defined by the English Walnut grading chart of the U. S. Department of Agriculture), and which are free from defects of the Second Quality Grade. The following tolerances, by count, shall be allowed: Not more than 10 percent shall be below the requirements of the grade, including not more than 5 percent serious damage from causes other than shrivel. In arriving at this tolerance the following rules with respect to shrivel shall apply:

(i) Kernels otherwise sound with one-half or more shriveled shall be counted as 1 percent.

(ii) Kernels otherwise sound with one-fourth and less than one-half shriveled shall count as one-half of 1 percent sound.

(iii) Kernels otherwise sound with more than one-eighth but less than one-fourth shriveled shall count as one-fourth of 1 percent: Provided, That not more than 20 such kernels shall be allowed per each 100.

(iv) Kernels otherwise sound with one-eighth or less shriveled shall be considered sound in the Second Quality Grade: Provided, That not more than 50 percent, by count, of such kernels are present.

(3) Third Quality Grade. Third Quality Grade walnuts shall consist of walnuts which are fully dried and the kernels of which are free from decay, dark discoloration, rancidity, insects or insect injury, and free from damage caused by mold, shriveling and other means. The following tolerances, by count, shall be allowed: Not more than 10 percent shall be below the requirements of the grade. In arriving at this tolerance the following rules with respect to shrivel shall apply:

(i) Kernels otherwise sound but with more than one-half shriveled shall be counted as one percent.

(ii) Kernels otherwise sound with more than one-fourth but not more than one-half shriveled shall be counted as one-half of one percent.

(4) Definitions of terms. The following definitions of terms shall be used in determining the qualification of walnuts with respect to internal or kernel quality:

(i) Fully dried means that the kernel is crisp and with a moisture content (both shell and kernel) of not to exceed 10 percent.

(ii) Damage means any injury or defect which materially affects the appearance, edible or shipping quality of the walnuts. Any one of the following defects, or any combination of defects, the seriousness of which exceeds the maximum allowed for any one of these defects shall be considered as damage:

(a) Mold which kernels show on their surface and which is readily discernible to the eye. Kernels bearing a few loose filaments of white or light gray mold which are easily blown off shall not be considered moldy.

(b) Shrivel, severe shrivel or various degrees of shrivel affecting a greater area producing an equally objectionable appearance. Special rules for scoring shrivel are provided for each of the quality grades, under tolerances for internal defects.

(iii) Dark discoloration means that the color of the kernels is darker than "dark amber" (as defined by the English Walnut grading chart of the U. S. Department of Agriculture).

(iv) Rancidity means the stage of deterioration in which the kernel has developed a rancid flavor. This condition is frequently indicated by a definite change in color of the nut tissue, a marked yellowing or blackening of the fleshy tissue of the meat. Rancidity should not be confused with a slightly astringent flavor of the pellicle (skin) or with staleness, the stage at which the flavor is flat but not distasteful.

(v) Insect injury means any evidence that codling moth larvae or other insects have been present in the nut, such as frass or webbing; or a powdery condition of the kernel such as might be caused by ants.

(vi) Serious damage means any injury or defect which seriously affects the appearance, edible or shipping quality of the walnut. Decay, rancidity, and insects or insect injury shall be considered serious damage.

(d) Minimum standards. The specifications set forth in Part 1 hereof for Baby Size and Third Quality Grade with respect to internal or kernel quality and external appearance and condition including respective tolerances, shall be the minimum standards of quality and maturity for walnuts produced in Oregon and Washington, prescribed pursuant to § 984.43 of this part.

(e) Color chart. The color chart referred to in these specifications for Oregon and Washington walnuts is the English Walnut Grading Chart issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture on September 30, 1939, in connection with U. S. Standards for Unshelled English Walnuts (Juglans regia), and reissued April 18, 1945 (copies of the U. S. Standards, including the color chart, are available for inspection at: Office of the Walnut Control Board, 400 Corporation Building, 724 South Spring Street, Los Angeles 14, California; the Fruit and Vegetable Branch office, 515 Southwest Tenth Avenue, Portland, Oregon; and the Federal-State Inspection office, 207 Agricultural Building, Salem, Oregon.)

§ 984.404 Information on certificates for merchantable walnuts. In addition to the information required pursuant to §§ 984.44 (a), (b), (1) and (2), each shipping or stock certificate issued shall show the crop year of production of the walnuts covered thereby, as stated by the handler.

ALLOCATION OF MERCHANTABLE WALNUTS

§ 984.405 Inspection, certification, and reporting of merchantable restricted walnuts withheld. Each lot of merchantable restricted walnuts shall be inspected by the Control Board's designated inspector and if found to be merchantable as defined in § 984.9, shall be certified as "merchantable restricted." Such certificate shall show in addition to the information required in § 984.44 (b) (3) the crop year of production as stated by the handler. Credit shall be given to each handler for the withholding of such walnuts upon submission to the Control Board of a report on WCB Form No. 1, showing the quantity, size, quality, handler's lot number, location, and the applicable certificate number of the lot of walnuts withheld.

CONTROL OF SURPLUS WALNUTS

§ 984.406 Inspection, certification, and reporting of surplus walnuts withheld. Each lot of surplus walnuts withheld shall be inspected by the Control Board's designated inspectors, and if found to meet the minimum requirements for surplus as set forth in § 984.409, shall be certified as "surplus." Such surplus certificate shall show in addition to the information required in § 984.57, the handler's lot number, the location at time of withholding, the place in which it will be stored, and the crop year of production as stated by the handler. Credit shall be given to each handler for the withholding of such walnuts upon submission to the Control Board of a report on WCB Form No. 2, showing the quantity withheld, whether shelled, the handler's lot number, location and the applicable certificate number of the lot of surplus walnuts withheld.

§ 984.407 Containers for surplus. All surplus withheld by any handler for pooling shall be held and delivered to the Control Board in clean, serviceable bags. Shelled surplus walnuts to be exported shall be packed in new standard cartons of the type normally used for the packing and shipping of shelled walnuts in regular commercial channels.

§ 984.408 Identification of surplus. Each lot of surplus walnuts withheld by any handler shall be stored separately from other walnuts in the handler's premises and shall be identified by tags bearing the handler's lot number, the number of containers in the lot and the "declared weight" of the lot. Each container of surplus walnuts withheld by any handler shall be identified by an appropriate seal, in the case of bags, or an appropriate stamp, in the case of cartons. The tags, seals, and stamps shall be furnished by the Control Board and affixed by the handler under the direction and supervision of the Control Board or its designated inspectors.

§ 984.409 Minimum requirements for surplus—(a) For unshelled walnuts. Any lot of unshelled walnuts, the kernel weight of which is offered to meet any part or all of a handler's surplus obligation, must contain at least 12 percent (based on the total unshelled weight of the lot) of sound kernels: Provided, That any lot that is to be disposed of as surplus in export channels must meet the minimum requirements for merchantable walnuts established by the Control Board pursuant to § 984.43.

(b) For shelled walnuts. Any lot of shelled walnuts offered to meet any part or all of a handler's surplus obligation must contain at least 8 percent (based on the total weight in the lot) of sound kernels: Provided, That any lot that is to be disposed of as surplus in export channels must meet the requirements of the Commercial Grade, as defined in the United States Standards for Shelled English Walnuts (19 F. R. 817), effective March 14, 1954.

§ 984.410 Inspection procedure—(a) Sound kernel weight. The sound kernel weight of any lot of walnuts, unshelled or shelled, shall be determined on a sample basis by the Control Board's designated inspectors. In inspecting a sample for sound kernel weight, portions of kernels that will pass through a round opening 1/8 inch in diameter shall be excluded, and portions of kernels that do not meet the requirements of "sound kernel" shall be trimmed off in order that the parts affected shall be excluded in determining the weight of sound kernels in the sample and entire lot.

(b) Accessibility for sampling and sealing or stamping. Each handler shall make each container of each lot of walnuts accessible for sampling and sealing or stamping in connection with the inspection and certification of any lot for sound kernel weight.

§ 984.411 Reinspection of modified lots of surplus. If any lot of surplus walnuts previously inspected is modified because of an exchange of surplus walnuts or because of an adjustment due to a reduction in the surplus percentage, or because of any other reason, the certificate covering such lot shall be cancelled and the entire lot, as modified, shall be reinspected at the handlers expense.

§ 984.412 Weights. The weight shown on the inspection certificate for any lot of walnuts offered in satisfaction of surplus, shall be the handler's "declared weight" for such lot. This weight shall be used by the Control Board for accounting purposes until such time as a public weighmaster's certificate has been issued for such lot as provided in § 984.417 (b). Final Control Board accounting shall be based on the weights shown on the weighmaster's certificate.

DISPOSITION OF CONTROLLED WALNUTS

§ 984.415 Authorized shelling of merchantable restricted walnuts. Applications for permission to become an authorized sheller shall be submitted to the Control Board pursuant to the requirements of § 984.61 (a) on WCB Form No. 3.

§ 984.416 Authorized agents for export of controlled walnuts. Applications for permission to export merchantable restricted or surplus walnuts as an agent of the Control Board shall be approved after the applicant and an agent of the Control Board have executed an "Export Agreement for Controlled Walnuts" in which the applicant agrees to observe the conditions pertaining to such export transactions as are set forth in such agreement.

§ 984.417 Determination of condition and weight of surplus walnuts for pooling—(a) Condition. The Control Board may, prior to the acceptance of any lot of surplus walnuts delivered to the Control Board for pooling and disposition, determine whether such walnuts are in substantially the same condition as when they were certified for surplus and if, as the result of reinspection, it is determined that they have deteriorated and do not meet the requirements for surplus, they shall not be accepted by the Control Board. The cost of such reinspection shall be paid for by the handler.

(b) Weight. Each lot of surplus walnuts delivered to the Control Board for pooling and disposition shall be separately weighed by a public weighmaster either upon removal from the handler's premises or in transit to Control Board storage facilities or diversion point by a common carrier. A tare of one pound per sack shall be used in determining net weight. A copy of each such weighmaster's certificate shall be forwarded to the Control Board and to the handler.

(c) Weight variations. Any deficiency in obligation resulting from a variation between the handler's "declared weight" and the weight determined by a public weighmaster for any lot of walnuts shall be met by the handler within 10 days after receipt of notice from the Control Board of such deficiency.

REPORTS

§ 984.420 Reports of handler carryovers. Reports of merchantable and shelled walnut carryovers as of August 1 and January 1 of each marketing year covering information specified in § 984.68 shall be submitted to the Control Board on or before August 15 and January 15 respectively, of each marketing year on WCB Forms Nos. 4 and 5, respectively.

§ 984.421 Reports of merchantable walnuts shipped from stock. Reports of merchantable walnuts shipped from stock shall be submitted to the Control Board on WCB Form No. 6 not later than the fifth day of each month with respect to all walnuts shipped from stock during the preceding month.

§ 984.423 Reports of shelled walnuts handled—(a) Reports of shelled walnuts shipped. Reports of shelled walnuts shipped shall be submitted to the Control Board on WCB Form No. 9 not later than the fifth day of each month with respect to all shelled walnuts shipped during the preceding month. Such reports shall include all shipments to points outside the area of production and shipments directly to buyers within the area of production and shall show, with respect to the shelled walnuts covered thereby: (1) The number of containers; (2) the total net weight; and (3) whether they were shipped into interstate, intrastate, or export channels. If a handler makes no shipments during a reporting period he shall submit a report marked "no shipments." If a handler has completed his shipments for the marketing year, he shall so indicate by marking "completed" on his final report and no further reports shall be required of such handler during such marketing year unless he acquires additional shelled walnuts for handling.

§ 984.424 Reports of disposition of merchantable restricted walnuts withheld—(a) Reports of intention to dispose. Reports of intention to dispose of merchantable restricted walnuts pursuant to the provisions of § 984.72 (a) shall be submitted to the Control Board on WCB Form No. 12.

§ 984.425 Reports of sale or delivery of walnuts for packing or shelling—(a) Report by shipper. Reports of each shipment of unshelled walnuts, other than merchantable walnuts, within the area of production, from California to Oregon or Washington, from Oregon to Washington, or from Oregon or Washington to California for sale or delivery to a packer for packing or to a sheller for shelling shall be reported immediately to the Control Board pursuant to the provisions of § 984.73, on WCB Form No. 14.

(b) Report by consignee. Reports of each receipt of shipments of walnuts pursuant to the provisions of § 984.73 shall be reported immediately to the Control Board on WCB Form No. 15. Such reports shall contain a certification by the consignee to the United States Department of Agriculture and the Control Board that he will handle such walnuts in accordance with the regulations established pursuant to §§ 984.48 and 984.53.

§ 984.426 Reports of sale or delivery of walnuts for subsequent handling—(a) Report by shipper. Reports of each shipment of merchantable or shelled walnuts to another handler for subsequent handling shall be reported to the Control Board on WCB Form No. 16. He shall also submit to the Control Board a certification from the consignee to the United States Department of Agriculture and the Control Board on WCB Form No. 17 that he will meet the control obligations on the walnuts so shipped.

(b) Report by consignee. Reports of each receipt of shipments of walnuts described in paragraph (a) of this section shall be reported immediately to the Control Board on WCB Form No. 18.

§ 984.427 Reports of receipt of merchantable restricted walnuts for shelling. Pursuant to the provisions of § 984.75, reports of merchantable restricted walnuts received by an authorized sheller for shelling shall be reported to the Control Board on WCB Form No. 19 and reports of the actual disposition of such walnuts shall be reported to the Control Board on WCB Form No. 13 within fifteen days after such disposition.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

§ 984.430 Cancellation of certificates. Requests for the cancellation of a certificate pursuant to the provisions of § 984.80, shall be submitted to the Control Board in writing on WCB Form No. 23.

§ 984.431 Postponement of control obligations upon filing of a bond—(a) Bonds acceptable to the Control Board. Cash, cashier's or certified checks or surety bonds submitted on an appropriate WCB Form No. 24 shall be acceptable to the Control Board under the provisions of § 984.81 (b). The surety on any bond submitted hereunder shall guarantee the bond on the basis of assets that are entirely separate and apart from the principal named in the bond. If any bond is secured by a personal surety, the Board shall have the right to require an acceptable financial statement of the surety's assets.

(b) Bonding rates. Bonding rates for surplus pursuant to § 984.81 (c) (2) shall be calculated to the nearest one-hundredth of a cent per pound.

§ 984.432 Walnuts not subject to regulation—(a) Location exemption. Any walnut producer, whose principal occupation is not that of food distribution, and whose application to do so is approved by the Control Board may sell, free of the restrictions and requirements set forth in §§ 984.44, 984.49, 984.54 and 984.66, any quantity of walnuts, shelled or unshelled, of his own production directly to consumers at any location specifically approved by the Control Board. Such application shall be filed with the Control Board at the beginning of the marketing year on WCB Form No. 25 and shall show: (1) The name and address of the producer and the location of his walnut orchard; (2) the location at which the producer desires to sell walnuts to consumers; (3) whether the walnuts to be sold will be shelled or unshelled, or both, and (4) the estimated quantity of shelled and unshelled walnuts, or both, which will be sold during the marketing year. In such application the producer shall include a certification to the United States Department of Agriculture and the Control Board that all of the walnuts he will sell under such exemption will be of his own production and will be sold directly to consumers at the approved location. The producer shall be notified in writing of the action taken by the Control Board on his application. At the end of the marketing year or upon completion by him of all sales during such year, whichever occurs first, the producer shall report to the Control Board on WCB Form No. 26 the quantity of walnuts sold under such exemption. This exemption shall not apply to a producer who sells any walnuts other than those produced by him or to sales of shelled or unshelled walnuts at a packing or shelling plant.

(b) Minimum quantity exemption. Any walnut producer whose application to do so is approved by the Walnut Control Board may sell, during a marketing year, free of the restrictions and requirements set forth in §§ 984.44, 984.49, 984.54 and 984.66, not in excess of the equivalent of 500 pounds of unshelled walnuts, in either shelled or unshelled form, or his own production directly to consumers from any or all locations. Such application shall be filed with the Control Board at the beginning of the marketing year on WCB Form No. 27 and shall show: (1) The name and address of the producer; and (2) the location of his walnut orchard. The application shall include a certification to the United States Department of Agriculture and to the Control Board that the applicant will not sell, without regard to established regulations, more than the equivalent of 500 pounds of unshelled walnuts during the marketing year and that all walnuts sold without regard to the aforesaid restrictions and requirements will be from his own production and sold directly to consumers. For the purpose of this paragraph the shelling ratio for unshelled walnuts shall be 40 percent. The producer shall be notified in writing of the action taken by the Control Board on his application. At the end of the particular marketing year or upon completion by him of all sales during such year whichever occurs first, the producer shall report to the Control Board on WCB Form No. 28 the quantities sold under such exemption. This exemption shall not apply to sales of unshelled or shelled walnuts at a packing or shelling plant.

(c) Exemption for parcel post or express shipments. Any walnut producer whose principal occupation is not that of food distribution and whose application to do so is approved by the Walnut Control Board, may sell and ship by parcel post or express, free of the restrictions and regulations set froth in §§ 984.44, 984.49, 984.54 and 984.66, walnuts unshelled or shelled of his own production direct to consumers: Provided, That no shipment of walnuts to any one consumer at any one time shall exceed 10 pounds of unshelled walnuts or the equivalent in shelled walnuts. Such application shall be filed with the Control Board at the beginning of the marketing year on WCB Form No. 27-a and shall show: (1) The name and address of the producer; and (2) the location of his walnut orchard. Such application shall include a certification to the U. S. Department of Agriculture and to the Control Board that applicant will not sell, without regard to established regulations, more than the equivalent of 10 pounds of unshelled walnuts in any single shipment by parcel post or express and that all walnuts sold walnuts shall be reported to the Control Board on his application. At nuts in any single shipment by parcel post or express and that all walnuts sold without regard to the aforesaid restrictions and requirements will be from his own production and sold directly to consumers. For the purpose of this paragraph the shelling ratio for unshelled walnuts shall be 40 percent. The producer shall be notified in writing of the action taken by the Board on his application. At the end of the particular marketing year or upon completion by him of all sales during such year, whichever occurs first, the producer shall report to the Control Board on WCB Form No. 28-a the quantities sold under such exemption. This exemption shall not apply to parcel post or express shipments of unshelled or shelled walnuts made from a packing or shelling plant.

(d) Green Walnuts. Walnuts which are green and which are so immature that they cannot be used for drying and sale as dried walnuts may be shipped without regard to the provisions of this part.

2. In connection with the above, It is also hereby ordered, That §§ 984.102, 984.103 and 984.104 (7 CFR, 1952 Rev., 984.102, 984.103 and 984.104), which set forth the existing requirements with respect to pack specifications, minimum standards, and certification, be deleted, since the requirements in those regards are contained in the administrative rules and regulations which are prescribed above.

It is hereby further found and determined that it is impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule making procedure, or to postpone the effective date of the administrative rules and regulations prescribed by this document later than the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The handling of all walnuts beginning with the present marketing year should be subject to the administrative rules and regulations prescribed herein. The formulation of said administrative rules and regulations has required considerable time, and such formulation was not completed until recently. Also, no special preparation will be needed by handlers to enable them to comply with said administrative rules and regulations in that they have been discussed generally by the industry in recent months and handlers are familiar with them.

Issued at Washington, D. C., this 9th day of November 1954, to become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Deputy Administrator,
Marketing Services.

PART 989—HANDLING OF RAISINS PRODUCED FROM RAISIN VARIETY GRAPES GROWN IN CALIFORNIA

FREE, RESERVE AND SURPLUS PERCENTAGES FOR 1954–55 CROP YEAR

Notice was published in the October 26, 1954, issue of the FEDERAL REGISTER (19 F. R. 6860) that the Secretary of Agriculture was considering a proposed rule to establish free tonnage percentages, reserve tonnage percentages, and surplus tonnage percentages with respect to raisins produced from raisin variety grapes grown in California and acquired by handlers during the 1954–55 crop year. These percentages were proposed after consideration of the recommendation submitted by the Raisin Administrative Committee and other information available to the Secretary, in accordance with the applicable provisions of Marketing Agreement No. 109 and Order No. 89 (7 CFR, 1953 Rev., Part 989) regulating the handling of raisins produced from raisin variety grapes grown in California, effective under the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.). In said notice, opportunity was afforded all interested persons to file written data, views, or arguments with respect thereto. No such written data, views, or arguments were filed within the period provided therefor.

After consideration of all matters pertaining thereto, including the recommendation of the Raisin Administrative Committee, it is hereby found that to designate free tonnage percentages, reserve tonnage percentages, and surplus tonnage percentages as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the aforesaid act, and it is, therefore, ordered, that such percentages shall be as follows:

§ 989.208 Free, reserve, and surplus tonnage regulation for the 1954–55 crop year. The percentages of each varietal type of raisins acquired by handlers during the crop year beginning August 15, 1954 and ending August 14, 1955, which shall be free tonnage, reserve tonnage, and surplus tonnage, respectively, are as follows: (a) Natural (sun-dried) Thompson Seedless raisins: Free tonnage percentage, 82 percent; reserve tonnage percentage, 18 percent; and surplus tonnage percentage, zero percent; (b) natural (sun-dried) Muscat raisins: Free tonnage percentage, 100 percent; reserve tonnage percentage, zero percent; and surplus tonnage percentage, zero percent; (c) natural (sun-dried) Sultana raisins: Free tonnage percentage, 100 percent; reserve tonnage percentage, zero percent; and surplus tonnage percentage, zero percent; (d) natural (sun-dried) Zante currant raisins: Free tonnage percentage, 100 percent; reserve tonnage percentage, zero percent; and surplus tonnage percentage, zero percent; (e) artificially dehydrated Sultana raisins: Free tonnage percentage, 100 percent; reserve tonnage percentage, zero percent; and surplus tonnage percentage, zero percent; (f) artificially dehydrated Zante Currant raisins: Free tonnage percentage, 100 percent; reserve tonnage percentage, zero percent; and surplus tonnage percentage, zero percent; (g) Layer Muscat raisins: Free tonnage percentage, 100 percent; reserve tonnage percentage, zero percent; and surplus tonnage percentage, zero percent; (h) Golden Bleached raisins: Free tonnage percentage, 80 percent; reserve tonnage percentage, 20 percent; and surplus tonnage percentage, zero percent; (i) Sulfur Bleached raisins: Free tonnage percentage, 100 percent; reserve tonnage percentage, zero percent; and surplus tonnage percentage, zero percent; (j) Soda Dipped raisins: Free tonnage percentage, 100 percent; reserve tonnage percentage, zero percent; and surplus tonnage percentage, zero percent; and (k) Valencia raisins: Free tonnage percentage, 100 percent; reserve tonnage percentage, zero percent; and surplus tonnage percentage, zero percent.

It is hereby found and determined that good cause exists for not delaying the effective date of this document later than the fourth day after its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER (see section 4 (c) of the Administrative Procedure Act; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) in that: (1) Acquisition of raisins by handlers during the 1954–55 crop year has begun, and it is necessary to have this regulation in effect promptly for application against such acquisitions of raisins; (2) this document is being issued as soon as practicable after reasonably reliable information concerning the 1954 production of raisins became available; (3) handlers have been aware for some time that action of this nature would be taken and they should not require more than three days advance notice; and (4) each of the percentages designated in this document is the same as the corresponding percentage which was set forth in the aforesaid notice of proposed rule making. In these circumstances, this document should be made effective on the fourth day after the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(Sec. 5, 49 Stat. 753, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 608c)

Issued this 9th day of November 1954, to become effective on the fourth day after publication of this document in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Acting Director,

[B. A. I. Order 384, Amdt. 6]

PART 79—SCRAPIE IN SHEEP

CHANGES IN AREAS QUARANTINED

Pursuant to the provisions of sections 1 and 3 of the act of March 3, 1905, as amended (21 U. S. C. 123, 125), sections 1 and 2 of the act of February 2, 1903, as amended (21 U. S. C. 111–113, 120), and section 7 of the act of May 29, 1884, as amended (21 U. S. C. 117), section 79.2, as amended, Part 79, Title 9, Code of Federal Regulations (19 F. R. 2011), containing a notice of the existence in certain areas of the disease of sheep known as scrapie and establishing a quarantine because of such disease, is hereby further amended to read as follows:

§ 79.2 Notice and quarantine. Notice is hereby given that the contagious, infectious, and communicable disease of sheep known as scrapie exists in the following areas in the specified States. Such areas are hereby quarantined because of said disease.

(a) Connecticut: That part of the Town of Salisbury in Litchfield County lying south of Farnam Road, north of Welles Hill Road, west of Old Asylum Road, and east of U. S. Route No. 44 and State Route No. 41.

(b) Ohio: That part of Buckskin Township in Ross County lying south of State Route No. 28, west of Lyndon-South Salem Road, north of Frogtown Road, and east of Coyner Road and Moon Road.

Effective date. This amendment shall become effective upon issuance.

This amendment excludes, from the notice and quarantine relating to scrapie, those areas in New York and in Licking, Shelby, and Vinton Counties in Ohio in which scrapie has been found to exist and in which a quarantine has been established. Hereafter, none of the restrictions of the quarantine and regulations in 9 CFR, 1953 Supp., Part 79, as amended, apply with respect to movements of sheep from such areas.

This amendment relieves certain restrictions presently imposed, and must be made effective immediately to be of maximum benefit to persons subject to the restrictions which are relieved. Accordingly, under section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003), it is found upon good cause that notice and other public procedure with respect to the amendment are impracticable and contrary to the public interest and good cause is found for making the amendment effective less than 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(Sec. 7, 23 Stat. 32, as amended, secs. 1, 2, 32 Stat. 791–792, as amended, secs. 1, 3, 33 Stat. 1264, as amended, 1265, as amended; 21 U. S. C. 111–113, 117, 120, 123, 125)

TITLE 14—CIVIL AVIATION

Chapter I—Civil Aeronautics Board

Subchapter A—Civil Air Regulations

[Supp. 20]

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

The purpose of this supplement is to make the CAA rules and policies issued under Part 41 with respect to the form of application, amendment, and contents of Operations Specifications, Aircraft Maintenance and Aircraft Weight and Balance Control similar to those issued under Part 40.

Proposed rules were published on July 7, 1954, in 19 F. R. 4111. Interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit written views, data, or argument. Consideration has been given to all relevant data presented.

1. Section 41.1–2 (b) is revised by deleting the words "and deletion or addition of aircraft".

2. New §§ 41.1–5 through 41.1–9 are adopted to read as follows:

§ 41.1–5 Form of application for issuance of initial or revised Operations Specifications, Aircraft Maintenance (CAA rules which apply to § 41.1). (a) Applications by the air carrier for new or amended Operations Specifications, Aircraft Maintenance, shall be made on Operations Specifications Form ACA–1014 or equivalent.

(b) Those pages of the Operations Specifications, Aircraft Maintenance, which contain the list of aircraft components, inspections, checks and overhauls, and time limitations therefor, shall be prepared by the air carrier on a Form ACA–1014 or equivalent. Such pages shall be prepared to permit insertion in a suitable loose-leaf binder. Each page shall be consecutively numbered and identified as an Operations Specifications Aircraft Maintenance.

(c) The air carrier shall list the aircraft components and the overhauls, inspections, checks, and time limitations therefor either on separate pages in the Operations Specifications, Aircraft Maintenance, or together on the same pages. If listed separately, the overhauls, inspections, and checks shall be appropriately and thoroughly identified, by number and/or nomenclature, to include any applicable abbreviations. The list of individual aircraft components shall show proper reference to the overhauls, inspections or checks by means of the applicable number, nomenclature or abbreviation thereof. When so listed, it shall mean that such components are overhauled, inspected or checked at the times identified in the Operations Specifications.

(d) Four copies of the application[1] and attachments shall be submitted to the assigned agents, the first copy of the application bearing the signature of a duly authorized representative of the air carrier. Approval or disapproval shall be indicated on the first and second copies of the application and attachments which will be returned to the air carrier. The air carrier shall, in turn, indicate receipt in the space provided on the second copy and return it to the assigned agent.

§ 41.1–6 Form of application for issuance of initial or revised Operations Specifications, Aircraft Weight and Balance Control (CAA rules which apply to § 41.1). (a) Applications by the air carrier for new or amended Operations Specifications, Aircraft Weight and Balance Control,[2] shall be made on Operations Specifications Form ACA–1014 or equivalent.

(b) Four copies of the application shall be submitted, the first copy of the application bearing the signature of a duly authorized representative of the air carrier. Approval or disapproval of the carrier's application shall be indicated on the first and second copies of the application which will be returned to the air carrier. The air carrier shall, in turn, indicate receipt in space provided on the second copy and return it to the assigned agent.

§ 41.1–7 Policies, procedures, and limitations governing issuance and amendment of Operations Specifications, Aircraft Maintenance (CAA policies which apply to § 41.1).—(a) General. The Administrator will issue and amend Operations Specifications, Aircraft Maintenance, in accordance with the following policies, procedures, and limitations. The criteria hereinafter set forth will be followed by the Administrator in fixing time limitations for the performance of overhaul, inspections, and checks, or in permitting or requiring revisions thereto. The basic principle followed by the Administrator will be that the inspections, checks, maintenance, or overhaul be performed at times well within the expected or proven service life of each component of the aircraft. In determining what the expected or proven service life of an aircraft or any of its components might be, the Administrator will consider the following factors: (1) Geographical area or areas of operation; (2) engine operating powers, procedures, etc.; (3) number of landings, long haul versus short haul, etc; (4) maintenance organization and inspection procedures; (5) other operators' service experience records; (6) manufacturers' recommendations; (7) service history, particularly of known or evident trends toward malfunctioning. Special reliance will be placed on service experience, including the information obtained from such tests, inspections, or measurements as have been performed in accumulating such service experience.

(b) Procedure for establishing new or revised time limitations. (1) Time limitations may be established in terms of hours of operation, multiples of engine overhaul periods, or multiples of inspection periods. Time limitations for components on which deterioration is not necessarily a function of operating hours, such as electronic units, pitot tubes, and emergency flotation equipment, may be established in terms of calendar months. Certain items may be maintained on an on-condition overhaul basis.

(2) On-condition overhaul is applicable to components on which a determination of airworthiness may be made by visual inspection, measurements, tests, or other means without a teardown inspection or overhaul.

[1] Application for initial time limitations applicable to new aircraft, engines, propellers or appliances, not previously used in air carrier service may require Washington concurrence prior to final issuance by the CAA regional office and therefore, should be submitted as soon as possible, but not later than 15 days prior to the date that the aircraft or component is to be placed into service.

[2] The Operations Specifications, Aircraft Weight and Balance Control, may combine weight control procedures common to more than one aircraft or they may separate weight and balance procedures specifically adapted to a particular aircraft type and model.

(19 F. R. 6860) that the Secretary of

(c) Airframe; initial time limitations. The initial time limitations for overhauls, inspections, or checks of airframes may be established on a recurrent fixed time basis or by adoption of a structural inspection specification covering procedures such as pattern inspections, block overhauls, or progressive inspections. Regardless of the basis upon which the time limitations are established, the same basic standards will be applicable. The maintenance program must specify checks, inspections, and overhauls to be performed and times at which they will be performed.

(d) Appliances; initial time limitations. Initial time limitations for inspections, bench checks, major inspections, or overhaul, as applicable, to the appliance involved, should not be greater than those limitations applicable to the same or similar appliances used in existing aircraft operated by the air carrier. When the usage or installation of such appliances differs to a substantial extent from the previous usage or installation, the time limitations shall be adjusted to reflect the extent of such difference. When new usage or installation is involved, conservative time limitations should be established until service experience shows that more liberal time limits can be used. In those cases where an appliance has a subcomponent which is subject to wear with time in service, the air carrier will establish maintenance procedures for periodic inspection of such subcomponent to insure its continued airworthiness.

(e) Powerplants; initial time limitations. (1) The initial overhaul time limitations for any engine which has never been used in air carrier service will tentatively be established at 1000 hours. However, the Operations Specifications will require sample overhaul of a representative number of engines, but not less than three, to be accomplished at each increment of 100 hours, beginning at 800 hours, unless such new model engine incorporates certain unconventional features not previously employed in air carrier operations, in which case, the initial overhaul period will be established by the Administrator. Satisfactory teardown inspection will be necessary before increasing the fleet overhaul period to the next higher increment. This sample overhaul procedure and evaluation of service experience will provide the operator with necessary information to substantiate the basic 1000-hour overhaul.

(2) The initial time limitations for overhaul of an engine model which has received substantial air carrier service experience, but not by the applicant, will tentatively be established at 1000 hours. An engine model will not be considered as having substantial air carrier service experience unless it has been satisfactorily operated by another carrier on an approved 1000-hour or higher overhaul period. However, the Operations Specifications will require that the basic 1000-hour overhaul period be substantiated on the same basis as outlined for a new engine except that sample overhauls of a representative number of engines will be accomplished in increments of 100-hour periods beginning at 900 hours. The initial time limitations for overhaul of accessories which are a part of the power package, including propellers, will be established at the overhaul period fixed for the engine itself, unless service experience permits or requires higher or lower overhaul periods.

(f) Revision of time limitations; general. The inspection and overhaul time limitations applicable to airframes, powerplants, propellers, and appliances will be revised on the basis of service experience. Increases in such time limitations may be made when the record of service experience for the previous 90 days indicates that such increase will not adversely affect the continuous condition of airworthiness. When the service records indicate that any component or subcomponent consistently requires repair, adjustment, or other maintenance because of damage, wear, or deterioration, within the current time limitations, the air carrier will be responsible for initiating corrective action.

(1) Airflame; revision of time limitations. The increases of time limitations for overhaul (or major inspection in case of pattern system, etc.) of airframes will be based on evaluation of all pertinent service records and examination of at least one aircraft, of the model involved, that has been overhauled at the currently approved time limitations. When a pattern or block overhaul type of maintenance system is used, it will be permissible to reschedule individual items in another block or pattern, if performance and condition of the specific item warrants such an increase.

(2) Powerplants and associated mechanical appliances; revision of time limitations. Increases in engine overhaul periods will not be approved in increments greater than 100 hours. Increases in time limitations above the 1000-hour basic engine overhaul period will be considered on the basis of satisfactory service experience at the currently approved time limitations. The operator may request amendment to the currently approved time limitations by submitting a letter to the assigned CAA agent, indicating the desired time limitations on the particular engines involved, and designating three to five engines for disassembly inspection by the CAA agent. The engines chosen for exhibit must have operated in a satisfactory manner for the maximum time permissible under currently approved time limitations. If, after disassembly and inspection of the exhibit engines and related components, it is found that the new time limitations are justified, the air carrier may then submit a formal application for an amendment in the routine manner requesting the extension of the overhaul period on the entire fleet of engines and related components of the same type and model. Engine accessories may be operated to double or triple the approved engine overhaul time limitations if it is found that previous satisfactory service and overhaul experience, including the service to be performed at each engine change period, would justify the increase as not adversely affecting the continuous condition of airworthiness of the component involved. The procedure for requesting and granting increases in overhaul time limitations for such components will be the same as used for the basic engine.

(3) Appliances, general; revision of time limitations. Increases in established times for inspections, bench tests, or overhaul periods will be based on consideration of the following factors: (i) Geographical area or areas of operation; (ii) number of landings, long haul versus short haul; (iii) maintenance organization and inspection procedures; (iv) manufacturers' recommendations; (v) service history, particularly of known or evident trends toward malfunctioning. When electrical/electronic appliances are overhauled on an on-condition basis, special consideration will be given to the continued airworthiness of mechanical components of such equipment.

(4) Emergency equipment. The inspection periods for first aid kits, flotation equipment, and other emergency equipment will assure the continued serviceability and immediate readiness of such equipment for its intended emergency purposes. Major inspection periods will be established for the purpose of determining that all components of the emergency equipment are complete and airworthy and may be expected to remain in this condition until the next major inspection or actual use under emergency conditions. Routine inspection periods will be established to assure that such equipment (or any component thereof) is installed or stored properly, has not been tampered with, damaged, or had articles removed since the last inspection. All inspection periods will be adjusted in accordance with service experience and pertinent operating conditions.

§ 41.1-8 Content of Operations Specifications, Aircraft Maintenance (CAA policies which apply to § 41.1). The Administrator will issue Operations Specifications, Aircraft Maintenance, which have the following minimum contents:

(a) (1) The Operations Specifications, Aircraft Maintenance, will contain a listing of the components of airframes, engines, propellers, and appliances, and the time limitations for checks, inspections and overhauls applicable to each listed component. The list of components will be complete and inclusive except that subcomponents which are subject to check, inspection, and overhaul at the same time limitations as the components to which they are related may be omitted from the listing (e. g. that form commonly called the "short form"). When this is done, the Operations Specifications will bear a statement to the effect that parts and subcomponents not listed will be checked, inspected, and overhauled at the same time limitations specified for the component or assembly to which such components are related.

(2) When coded identifications or titles, such as "operation #1, #2, #3, etc." or "line check, intermediate check, base inspection, etc.," are used in connection with specified time limitations in the Operations Specifications, a brief description of such terms will be included which identifies the operation concerned.

(b) If the carrier proposes Operations Specifications, Aircraft Maintenance, which would permit for all or any part of an aircraft a block overhaul system, a sampling inspection and overhaul system, or any other maintenance system which either (1) does not prescribe a fixed period for overhaul, inspection, or check of each component of an aircraft, or (2) includes alternative standards and procedures under which the air carrier may be given authority to establish and adjust such time limitations, the air carrier will fully define and describe the manner in which such a special maintenance program will be performed.

(c) Operations Specifications identified as Operations Specifications, Aircraft Maintenance; General, will contain conditions uniformly applicable to all Operations Specifications Aircraft Maintenance.

§ 41.1-9 Content of Operations Specifications, Aircraft Weight and Balance Control (CAA policies which apply to § 41.1). The Operations Specifications, Aircraft Weight and Balance Control, as submitted by an air carrier, will contain an accurate description of the procedures used to maintain control of weight and balance of all aircraft operated under the terms of the operating certificates which will insure that the aircraft, under all operating conditions, is loaded within the gross weight and center of gravity limitations. This description should include procedures used for determining weight of passengers, weight of baggage, periodic aircraft weighing, type of loading devices, and identification of aircraft concerned.

3. A new § 41.41-1 is adopted to read as follows:

§ 41.41-1 Contents of manual—methods and procedures for maintaining weight and balance control (CAA policies which apply to § 41.41).—(a) General. (1) The air carrier may utilize any loading schedule, procedure, or means by which the air carrier can show that the aircraft is properly loaded and will not exceed authorized weight and balance limitations during operation.

(2) By whatever method used, the air carrier should account for all probable loading conditions which may be experienced in service and show that the loading schedule will provide satisfactory loading. Loading schedules may be applied to individual aircraft or to a complete fleet. Unless otherwise authorized, a copy of pertinent loading data should be carried in each aircraft. When an air carrier operates several types or models of aircraft, the loading schedule, which may be index type, tabular type or a mechanical computer, will be identified with the type or model of aircraft for which it is designed.

(b) Loading provisions. All seats, compartments, and other loading stations will be properly marked, and the identification used will correspond with the instructions established for computing the weight and balance of the aircraft. When the loading schedule provides blocking off of seats or compartments in order to remain within the center of gravity limits, effective means will be provided to assure that such seats or compartments are not occupied during operations specified. Cargo compartments will be placarded showing the maximum weight of each compartment, and such placards will be readily legible to the loading personnel. Instructitons will be prepared for crew members, cargo handlers, and other personnel concerned, giving complete information necessary regarding distribution of passengers, cargo, fuel, and other items. Information relative to maximum capacities and other pertinent limitations affecting the weight or balance of the aircraft will be included in these instructions. When it is possible by adverse distribution of passengers to exceed the approved c. g. limits of the aircraft, special instructions will be issued to the appropriate crew members so that the load distribution can be maintained within the approved limitations.

(c) Terms, descriptions, and general standards. For the purpose of weight and balance control, the following terms, descriptions, and general standards will apply. Deviations from these standards by the individual operator due to the nature of his operation will be acceptable.

(1) Empty weight. The empty weight of an aircraft is considered to be the maximum gross weight less the following:

(i) All fuel and oil, excepting system fuel and oil.*

(ii) Drainable anti-detonant injector and de-icing fluids.

(iii) Crew and baggage.

(iv) Passengers and cargo (revenue and non-revenue).

(v) Removable passenger service equipment, food, magazines, etc., including drainable washing and drinking water.

(vi) Emergency equipment (overwater, tropical, frigid).

(vii) Other equipment, variable for flights.

(viii) Flight spares (spark plugs, wheel, cylinders, etc.).

(2) Operating weight. The basic operating weight established by the air carrier for a particular model aircraft will include the following standard items of the operator in addition to the empty weight of the aircraft unless otherwise specified:

(i) Normal oil quantity.

(ii) Anti-detonant injector and deicing (winter) fluids.

(iii) Crew and baggage.

(iv) Passenger service equipment, including washing and drinking water, magazines, etc.

(v) Emergency equipment, if required for all flights.

(vi) All other items of equipment considered standard by the air carrier concerned.

(3) Aircraft, zero fuel weight. The zero fuel weight of an aircraft is the maximum weight authorized for such aircraft without fuel. The weight of fuel carried in the fuselage, or equivalent locations, will be deducted from such maximum. When zero fuel weight limitations or equivalent restrictions are specified, proper provision for loading will be made by the operator so that such structural limitations are not exceeded.

(d) Aircraft weights. Aircraft weight and balance control will contain provisions for determining aircraft weights in accordance with the following procedures:

(1) Individual aircraft weights and changes. The loading schedule may utilize the individual weight of the aircraft in computing pertinent gross weight and balance. The individual weight and balance of each aircraft will be re-established at the specified reweighing periods. It also will be reestablished whenever the accumulated changes to the operating weight exceeds plus or minus one-half of one percent of the maximum landing weight or the cumulative change in c. g. position exceeds one-half of one percent of the MAC.

(2) Fleet weights, establishment and changes. For a fleet or group of aircraft, of the same model and configuration, an average operating fleet weight may be utilized if the operating weights and c. g. positions are within the limits established herein. The fleet weight will be calculated on the following basis:

(i) An operator's empty fleet weight will be determined by weighing aircraft according to the following table: For fleet of 1 to 3, weigh all aircraft; for fleet of 4 to 9, weigh 3 aircraft plus at least 50 percent of the number over 3; for fleet of over 9, weigh 6 aircraft plus at least 10 percent of the number over 9.

(ii) In choosing the aircraft to be weighed, the aircraft in the fleet having the highest time since last weighing should be selected. When the average empty weight and c. g. position has been determined for aircraft weighed and the basic operating fleet weight (winter and summer, if applicable) established, necessary data should be computed for aircraft not weighed but which are considered eligible under such fleet weight. If the basic operating weight of any aircraft weighed or the calculated basic operating weight of any of the remaining aircraft in the fleet varies by an amount more than plus or minus one-half of one percent of the maximum landing weight from the established basic operating fleet weight or the c. g. position varies more than plus or minus one-half of one percent of the MAC from the fleet weight c. g., that airplane will be omitted from that group and operated on its actual or calculated operating weight and c. g. position. If it falls within the limits of another fleet or group, it may then become part of that operating fleet weight. In cases where the aircraft is within the operating fleet weight tolerance but the c. g. position varies in excess of the tolerance allowed, the aircraft may still be utilized under the applicable operating fleet weight but with an individual c. g. position.

* System fuel and oil is that amount required to fill both systems and the tanks, where applicable, up to the tank outlets to the engines. When oil is used for propeller feathering, such oil is include as system oil.

(iii) Re-establishment of the operator's empty fleet weight or the operating fleet weight and corresponding c. g. positions may be accomplished between weighing periods by calculation based on the current empty weight of the aircraft previously weighed for fleet weight purposes. Weighing for re-establishment of all fleet weights will be conducted on a two-year basis unless shorter periods are desired by the air carrier.

(3) Establishing initial weight before use in air carrier service. Prior to being used in air carrier service, each aircraft will be weighed and the empty weight and center of gravity location established. New production transport category aircraft delivered to air carriers normally are weighed at the factory and are eligible for air carrier operations without reweighing if the weight and balance records have been adjusted for alterations or modifications to the aircraft. Aircraft transferred from one air carrier to another need not be weighed prior to utilization by the latter unless more than twenty-four calendar months have elapsed since last weighing.

(4) Periodic weighing; aircraft using individual weights. Aircraft operated under a loading schedule utilizing individual aircraft weights in computing the gross weight will be weighed at intervals of twenty-four calendar months. An air carrier may, however, apply for extension of this weighing period for a particular model aircraft, when pertinent records and actual routine weighing during the preceding twenty-four months of air carrier operation show that weight and balance records maintained are sufficiently accurate to indicate aircraft weights within the established limitations. Such application should be limited to increases in increments of twelve months and will be substantiated in each instance with at least two aircraft weighings. Increases may not be granted which exceed a time which is equivalent to the aircraft overhaul period.

(5) Periodic weighing, aircraft using "fleet weights." Aircraft operating under fleet weights should be weighed in accordance with procedures outlined for the establishment of fleet weights. Since each fleet weight will be re-established every two years and a specified number of aircraft weighed at such periods, no additional weighing is considered necessary. A rotation program should, however, be incorporated so all aircraft in the fleet will be reweighed periodically.

(6) Weighing procedure. Normal precautions, consistent with good practices in the weighing procedure, such as checking for completeness of the aircraft and equipment, determining that fluids are properly accounted for, and that weighing is accomplished in an enclosed building preventing the effect of the wind, will prevail. Any acceptable scales may be used for weighings provided they are properly calibrated, zeroed and used in accordance with the manufacturer's instructions. Each scale should have been calibrated, either by the manufacturer or by a civil Department of Weights and Measures, within one year prior to weighing any aircraft for this purpose unless the air carrier can show evidence which warrants a longer period between calibrations.

(e) Passenger weights. The air carrier may elect to use either the actual passenger weight or the average passenger weight to compute passenger loads over any route, except in those cases where nonstandard weight passenger groups are carried. Both methods may be used interchangeably provided only one method is used for any flight from originating to terminating point of the particular trip or flight involved, except as indicated in subparagraph (3) of this paragraph. Provisions will be incorporated in the load manifest to clearly indicate to personnel concerned whether actual or average passenger weights are to be used in computing the passenger load.

(1) Actual passenger weight. Actual passenger weight may be determined by scale weighing of each passenger prior to boarding the aircraft, and such weight is to include minor articles carried on board by the passenger. If such articles are not weighed, the estimated weight is to be accounted for. The actual passenger weight may also be determined by asking each passenger his weight and adding thereto a pre-determined constant to provide for hand-carried articles and also to cover possible seasonal effect upon passenger weight due to variance in clothing weight. The constant may be approved for an air carrier on the basis of a detailed study conducted by the operator over the particular routes involved and during the extreme seasons when applicable.

(2) Average passenger weight. (i) An average weight of 160 pounds (summer) may be used for each adult passenger during the calendar period of May 1 through October 31.

(ii) An average weight of 165 pounds (winter) may be used for each adult passenger during the calendar period through April 30.

(iii) An average weight of 80 pounds may be used for children between the ages of 3 and 12. Children above 12 years of age are classified as adults for the purpose of weight and balance computations. Children less than 3 years old are considered "babes in arms."

(iv) The average passenger weight includes minor items normally carried by a passenger.

(3) Non-standard weight groups of passengers. The average passenger weight method will not be used in the case of flights carrying large groups of passengers whose average weight obviously does not conform with the normal standard weight. Actual weights will be used when a passenger load consists to a large extent of athletic squads or other special group which is smaller or larger than the U. S. average. Where such a group forms only a part of the total passenger load, the actual weights may be used for such group and average weights used for the balance of the passenger load. In such instances, a notation will be made on the load manifest, indicating number of persons in the special group and identifying the group (i. e. football squad, Blank Nationals, etc.)

(f) Crew weight. The actual weight of crew members may be used or the following approved average weights may be utilized:

(1) Male cabin attendants 150 pounds; female cabin attendants 130 pounds.

(2) All other crew members 170 pounds.

(g) Passenger and crew baggage. Procedures should be provided so that all baggage, including that carried on board by the passengers, is properly accounted for. If desired by the air carrier, a standard crew baggage weight may be used.

(h) Center of gravity travel during flight. The air carrier will show that the procedures fully account for the extreme variations in center of gravity travel during flight caused by all or any combination of the following variables:

(1) The movement of a number of passengers and cabin attendants equal to the placarded capacity of the lounges or lavatories from their normal position in the aircraft cabin to such lounge or lavatory. If the capacity of such compartment is one, the movement of either one passenger or one cabin attendant, whichever most adversely affects the c. g. condition will be considered. When the capacity of the lavatory or lounge is two or more, the movement of that number of passengers or cabin attendants from positions evenly distributed throughout the aircraft may be used. Where seats are blocked off, the movement of passengers and/or cabin attendants evenly distributed throughout only the actual loaded section of the aircraft will be used. The extreme movements of the cabin attendants carrying out their assigned duties within the cabin will be considered. The various conditions will be combined in such a manner that the most adverse effect on the c. g. will be obtained and so accounted for in the development of the loading schedule to assure the aircraft being loaded within the approved limits at all times during flight.

(2) Landing gear retraction. Possible change in c. g. position due to landing gear retraction will be investigated and results accounted for.

(3) Fuel. The effect on the c. g. travel of the aircraft during flight due to fuel used down to the required reserve fuel or to an acceptable minimum reserve fuel established by the air carrier will be accounted for.

(i) Fuel allowance for taxiing and run-up. The weight and balance system may provide for a weight allowance of 3 pounds of fuel for each 100 horsepower (maximum continuous) available to the aircraft from all of its engines to be added to the maximum gross weight of the aircraft to compensate for fuel used during run-up and taxiing.

(j) Records. The weight and balance system will include methods by which the air carrier will maintain a complete, current, and continuous record of the weight and center of gravity of each aircraft. Such records should reflect all alterations and changes affecting either the weight or balance of the aircraft, and will include a complete and current equipment list. When fleet weights are used, pertinent computations should also be available in individual aircraft files.

(k) Weight of fluids. The weight of all fluids used in aircraft may be established on the basis of actual weight, a standard volume conversion, or a volume conversion utilizing appropriate temperature correction factors to accurately determine the weight by computation of the quantity of fluid on board.

TITLE 16—COMMERCIAL PRACTICES

Chapter I—Federal Trade Commission

Subchapter B—Trade Practice Conference Rules

[File No. 21-457]

PROMULGATION OF TRADE PRACTICE RULES

Due proceedings having been held under the trade practice conference procedure in pursuance of the act of Congress approved September 26, 1914, as amended (Federal Trade Commission Act), and other provisions of law administered by the Commission;

It is now ordered, That the trade practice rules of Group I and Group II, as hereinafter set forth, which have been approved and received, respectively, by the Commission in this proceeding, be promulgated as of November 13, 1954.

Statement by the Commission. Trade practice rules for the Orthopedic Appliance Industry, as hereinafter set forth, are promulgated by the Federal Trade Commission under the Trade Practice Conference procedure.

The industry is composed of persons, firms, corporations and organizations engaged in the manufacture and sale, or alteration and sale or distribution, of any appliance designed for use by a particular individual for correction or alleviation of a deformity, sprain, fracture, paralysis, subluxation, or similar condition, and which is to be worn on an outer portion of the person for whom the appliance or brace was constructed or altered. Products of the industry are usually sold direct to the handicapped who have had such appliances prescribed by their doctors. Some are also sold through hospitals which furnish specifications on behalf of their patients. It is estimated that the annual production of industry products has a value slightly in excess of $6,000,000.

Trade practice rules for the industry have as their primary objective the elimination and prevention of unfair trade practices to the end that the industry, the trade, and the public may be protected from the harmful effects of unfair competition, unfair or deceptive acts or practices, and other trade abuses. They are to be applied to such end and to the exclusion of any acts or practices which suppress competition or otherwise restrain trade.

Proceedings for the establishment of rules were instituted upon application made on behalf of industry members. A general industry conference was held in Chicago, Illinois, at which proposals for rules were submitted for consideration of the Commission. Thereafter, proposed rules were published by the Commission and made available to all industry members and other interested or affected parties upon public notice whereby they were afforded opportunity to present their views, including such pertinent information, suggestions, amendments, or objections as they desired to offer, and to be heard in the premises. Pursuant to such notice, a public hearing was held in Washington, D. C., and all matters there presented, or otherwise received in the proceeding, were duly considered by the Commission.

Thereafter, and upon full consideration of the entire matter, final action was taken by the Commission whereby it approved and received, respectively, the Group I and Group II rules hereinafter set forth. The Group II rules as received for this industry are not of the type presently the subject of a general study by the Commission.

Such rules become operative thirty (30) days from the date of promulgation.

The rules. These rules promulgated by the Commission are designed to foster and promote the maintenance of fair competitive conditions in the interest of protecting industry, trade, and the public. It is to this end, and to the exclusion of any act or practice which fixes or controls prices through combination or agreement, or which unreasonably restrains trade or suppresses competition, or otherwise unlawfully injures, destroys, or prevents competition, that the rules are to be applied.

AUTHORITY: §§ 223.0 to 223.104 issued under sec. 6, 38 Stat. 722; 15 U. S. C. 46. Interpret or apply sec. 5, 38 Stat. 719, as amended; 15 U. S. C. 45.

§ 223.0 Definitions. The industry is composed of persons, firms, corporations, and organizations engaged in the manufacture and sale of custom-made or altered appliances or braces for correction or alleviation of deformities, sprains, fractures, paralyses, subluxations, or of similar conditions, suffered by a particular person, and which are to be worn on an outer portion of the bodies of the wearers (hernia trusses, whether or not custom-made or altered, are not to be considered as products of the industry).

GROUP I

The unfair trade practices embraced in the Group I rules herein are considered to be unfair methods of competition, unfair or deceptive acts or practices, or other illegal practices, prohibited under laws administered by the Federal Trade Commission; and appropriate proceedings in the public interest will be taken by the Commission to prevent the use, by any person, partnership, corporation, or other organization subject to its jurisdiction, of such unlawful practices in commerce.

§ 223.1 Deception (general). (a) It is an unfair trade practice to sell, offer for sale, or distribute any industry product, or promote the sale or distribution thereof, by any method or under any circumstance or condition which has the capacity and tendency or effect of deceiving purchasers or prospective purchasers as to the construction, composition, design, model, origin, manufacture, value, quality, weight, absence of noise in operation, strength, durability, life expectancy, appearance, fit, comfort, alignment, utility, ease of operation, or safety to wearer, of such product, or in any other material respect; or to mislead purchasers or prospective purchasers with respect to the need for repair, maintenance, or replacement of parts of such product after its purchase and use, or with respect to any service offered concerning maintenance of product or training of purchaser in the use thereof.

(b) The inhibitions of this section shall apply to every species of advertisement or form of representation, whether in newspaper, periodical, telephone directory, sales catalog, sales promotional literature, by radio or television, or otherwise. [Rule 1]

§ 223.2 Representation or promise that product will "fit." It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry to represent, promise, or guarantee that any industry product will be made to fit any individual purchaser or prospective purchaser thereof, when such representation, promise, or guarantee is not made in good faith, or the industry member is not possessed of the requisite skill, knowledge, and equipment to assure of his ability to fulfill such representation, promise, or guarantee.

NOTE: It is the consensus of the industry that the term "perfect fit" should not be used by members, as perfection is not attainable.

[Rule 2]

§ 223.3 Protection of public with respect to apparent agency. (a) It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry to aid or abet any person in effecting a deception of purchasers or prospective purchasers as to his or her authority to represent and make commitments in behalf of such industry member.

(b) For an industry member to supply any person, not his agent, with samples, sales literature, guarantees of such industry member, or any indices of agency, and accept orders secured by such person and then refuse to fulfill the commitments implied to such purchaser by the use of such samples, sales literature, etc., is an unfair trade practice. [Rule 3]

§ 223.4 Deceptive testimonials or depictions. It is an unfair trade practice for a member of the industry to use any testimonial of a user of any orthopedic appliance, or of any other person, or to use any picture or depiction thereof, which is false or which has the capacity and tendency or effect of misleading or deceiving purchasers or prospective purchasers. [Rule 4]

§ 223.5 Deceptive demonstrations. In the sale, offering for sale, or distribution of industry products, or in promoting the sale or distribution thereof, it is an unfair trade practice to demonstrate any such products in a manner or under circumstances having the capacity and tendency or effect of creating a false impression as to the actual benefits from the use thereof that reasonably may be expected to be had by a purchaser or prospective purchaser of such or similar industry products. [Rule 5]

§ 223.6 Misuse of terms "custom-made," "custom-built," etc. In the sale, offering for sale, or distribution of orthopedic appliances, it is an unfair trade practice for an industry member to use the terms "custom-made," "custom-built," "made-to-order," or any other word or term of similar import, as descriptive of any orthopedic appliance which has not been made in accordance with specifications as to size, fit, quality, etc., supplied by or on behalf of the consumer-purchaser prior to the manufacture or assembly of the orthopedic appliance, as distinguished from a product which is a ready-made or stock orthopedic appliance. [Rule 6]

§ 223.7 Guarantees, warranties, etc. (a) It is an unfair trade practice to use any guarantee respecting an industry product which does not make reasonable disclosure of the conditions or limitations of such guarantee, or which contains statements, representations, or assertions which have the capacity and tendency or effect of misleading or deceiving in any respect, or which are of such form, text, or character as to represent or imply that the guarantee is broader than is in fact true.

(b) It is an unfair trade practice for the guarantor to fail to observe scrupulously his obligation under the guarantee by him used or caused to be used.

(c) This section shall be applicable also to warranties or any writing purported to be a guarantee or warranty. [Rule 7]

§ 223.8 Misrepresenting products as conforming to standard. Representing, through advertisement or otherwise, that any products of the industry conform to a standard recognized in or applicable to the industry when such is not the fact, with the capacity and tendency or effect of misleading or deceiving the purchasing or consuming public, is an unfair trade practice. [Rule 8]

§ 223.9 Deception as to being "new." In the sale, offering for sale, or distribution of industry products, it is an unfair trade practice to represent any of such products as being new or unused, or as containing all new or unused parts, when such is not the fact, or deceptively to conceal the fact that any of such products have been used or contain a used part or parts. [Rule 9]

§ 223.10 Substitution of products. The practice of shipping or delivering products which do not conform to samples submitted, to specifications upon which the sale is consummated, or to representations made prior to securing the order, without advising the purchasers as to said substitution and obtaining their consent thereto at or before the time of shipment or delivery, and with the capacity and tendency or effect of misleading or deceiving the purchasing or consuming public, is an unfair trade practice. [Rule 10]

§ 223.11 False invoicing. It is an unfair trade practice to withhold from or insert in invoices or sales slips any statements or information by reason of which omission or insertion a false record is made, wholly or in part, of the transactions represented on the face of such invoices or sales slips, with the capacity and tendency or effect of thereby misleading or deceiving the purchasing or consuming public. [Rule 11]

§ 223.12 Misrepresentation as to installment sales contracts, their terms, conditions, etc. It is an unfair trade practice to make or publish, or cause to be made or published, directly or indirectly, any false, misleading, or deceptive statement or representation through advertising or otherwise, concerning installment sales contracts used or their terms and conditions, including down payments, interest, carrying charges, etc., or respecting any other matters relative to such contracts or their terms and conditions. [Rule 12]

§ 223.13 Misrepresentation as to character of business. It is an unfair trade practice for any industry member, in the course of or in connection with the distribution of industry products, to represent, directly or indirectly, that he is a producer or manufacturer of industry products when such is not the fact, or in any other manner to misrepresent the character, extent, or type of his business. [Rule 13]

§ 223.14 Defamation of competitors or false disparagement of their products. The defamation of competitors by falsely imputing to them dishonorable conduct, inability to perform contracts, questionable credit standing, or by other false representations, or the false disparagement of competitors' products in any respect, or of their business methods, selling prices, values, credit terms, policies, or services, is an unfair trade practice. [Rule 14]

§ 223.15 Procurement of competitors' confidential information by unfair means and wrongful use thereof. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry to obtain information concerning the business of a competitor by bribery of an employee or agent of such competitor, by false or misleading statements or representations, by the impersonation of one in authority, or by any other unfair means, and to use the information so obtained so as substantially to injure competition or unreasonably restrain trade. [Rule 15]

§ 223.16 Unfair threats of infringement suits. The circulation of threats of suit for infringement of patents or trade-marks among customers or prospective customers of competitors, not made in good faith but for the purpose or with the effect of thereby harassing or intimidating such customers or prospective customers, or of unduly hampering, injuring, or prejudicing competitors in their business, is an unfair trade practice. [Rule 16]

§ 223.17 Deceptive use of trade or corporate names, trade-marks, etc. The use of any trade name, corporate name, trade-mark, or other trade designation which has the capacity and tendency or effect of misleading or deceiving the purchasing or consuming public as to the character, name, nature, or origin of any product of the industry, or any material used therein, or which is false or misleading in any other respect, is an unfair trade practice. [Rule 17]

§ 223.18 Use of the word "free." In connection with the sale, offering for sale, or distribution of industry products, it is an unfair trade practice to use the word "free," or any other word or words of similar import, in advertisements or in other offers to the public, as descriptive of an article of merchandise, or service, which is not an unconditional gift, under the following circumstances:

(a) When all the conditions, obligations, or other prerequisites to the receipt and retention of the "free" article of merchandise or service offered are not clearly and conspicuously set forth at the outset so as to leave no reasonable probability that the terms of the offer will be misunderstood; and, regardless of such disclosure:

(b) When, with respect to any article of merchandise required to be purchased in order to obtain the "free" article or service, the offerer (1) increases the ordinary and usual price of such article of merchandise, or (2) reduces its quality, or (3) reduces the quantity or size thereof.

NOTE: The disclosure required by paragraph (a) of this section shall appear in close conjunction to the word "free" (or other word or words of similar import) wherever such word first appears in each advertisement or offer. A disclosure in the form of a footnote, to which reference is made by use of an asterisk or other symbol placed next to the word "free," will not be regarded as compliance.

[Rule 18]

§ 223.19 Coercing purchase of one product as a prerequisite to the purchase of other products. The practice of coercing the purchase of one or more products as a prerequisite to the purchase of one or more other products, where the effect may be substantially to lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly or unreasonably to restrain trade, is an unfair trade practice. [Rule 19]

§ 223.20 Fictitious prices. It is an unfair trade practice to sell or offer for sale industry products at prices purported to be reduced from what are in fact fictitious prices, or to sell or offer for sale such products at a purported reduction in price when such purported reduction is in fact fictitious or is otherwise misleading or deceptive. [Rule 20]

§ 223.21 Prohibited allowances or commissions to doctors. It is an unfair trade practice for any industry member to pay or contract to pay anything of value to any doctor prescribing or recommending the use by any of his patients of an orthopedic appliance in consideration of, or for the purpose of inducing or obtaining, a referral of the patient by the doctor to the industry member for the purchase of any such appliance, or a recommendation by the doctor of the industry member to the patient for the purchase of any such appliance. [Rule 21]

§ 223.22 Inducing breach of contract. It is an unfair trade practice to induce or attempt to induce the breach of existing lawful contracts between competitors and their customers or their suppliers, or to interfere with or obstruct the performance of any such contractual duties or services by any such means, with the purpose and effect of unduly hampering, injuring, or prejudicing competitors in their business. [Rule 22]

§ 223.23 Enticing away employees of competitors. Knowingly enticing away employees or sales representatives of competitors under any circumstance having the capacity and tendency or effect of substantially injuring or lessening present or potential competition is an unfair trade practice: Provided, That nothing in this section shall be construed as prohibiting employees from seeking more favorable employment, or as prohibiting employers from hiring or offering employment to employees of competitors in good faith and not for the purpose of injuring, destroying, or preventing competition. [Rule 23]

It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry, either directly or indirectly, to engage in any planned common course of action, or to enter into or take part in any understanding, agreement, combination, or conspiracy, with one or more members of the industry, or with any other person or persons, to fix or maintain the price of any goods or otherwise unlawfully to restrain trade; or to use any form of threat, intimidation, or coercion to induce any member of the industry or other person or persons to engage in any such planned common course of action, or to become a party to any such understanding, agreement, combination, or conspiracy. [Rule 24]

§ 223.25 Prohibited discrimination[2]—(a) Prohibited discriminatory prices, or rebates, refunds, discounts, credits, etc., which effect unlawful price discrimination. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce, in the course of such commerce, to grant or allow, secretly or openly, directly or indirectly, any rebate, refund, discount, credit, or other form of price differential, where such rebate, refund, discount, credit, or other form of price differential, effects a discrimination in price between different purchasers of goods of like grade and quality, where either or any of the purchases involved therein are in commerce, and where the effect thereof may be substantially to lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce, or to injure, destroy, or prevent competition with any person who either grants or knowingly receives the benefit of such discrimination, or with the customers of either of them: Provided, however:

(1) That the goods involved in any such transaction are sold for use, consumption, or resale within any place under the jurisdiction of the United States;

(2) That nothing contained in this paragraph shall prevent differentials which make only due allowance for differences in the cost of manufacture, sale, or delivery resulting from the differing methods or quantities in which such commodities are to such purchasers sold or delivered;

NOTE: This proviso shall not be construed as permitting an industry member to allow a price differential to a customer, whether in the form of a quantity price discount, rebate, or other form, through billing as a single order an aggregate of the amount of two or more orders of such customer on which the industry member makes separate deliveries, when the price differential allowed is not based on a net savings in cost of manufacture, sale, or delivery of the products to said customer resulting from the different method and quantity in which the products are sold and delivered to said customer, or is more than due allowance for such net savings; nor is this proviso to be construed as permitting an industry member to allow a price differential to a customer, whether in the form of a quantity price discount, rebate, or other form, when, pursuant to agreement or understanding by the industry member and the customer, delivery of the products purchased is to be delayed or made in installments so as to involve storage cost to the industry member, and when as a result of such cost or otherwise, the price differential allowed is not based on a net savings in cost of manufacture, sale, or delivery of the products to said customer resulting from the different method and quantity in which the products are sold and delivered to said customer, or is more than due allowance for such net savings.

(3) That nothing contained in this paragraph shall prevent persons engaged in selling goods, wares, or merchandise in commerce from selecting their own customers in bona fide transactions and not in restraint of trade;

(4) That nothing contained in this paragraph shall prevent price changes from time to time where in response to changing conditions affecting the market for or the marketability of the goods concerned, such as but not limited to obsolescence of seasonal goods, distress sales under court process, or sales in good faith in discontinuance of business in the goods concerned.

(b) Prohibited brokerage and commissions. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce, in the course of such commerce, to pay or grant, or to receive or accept, anything of value as a commission, brokerage, or other compensation, or any allowance or discount in lieu thereof, except for services rendered in connection with the sale or purchase of goods, wares, or merchandise, either to the other party to such transaction or to an agent, representative, or other intermediary therein where such intermediary is acting in fact for or in behalf, or is subject to the direct or indirect control, of any party to such transaction other than the person by whom such compensation is so granted or paid.

(c) Prohibited advertising or promotional allowances, etc. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce to pay or contract for the payment of advertising or promotional allowances or any other thing of value to or for the benefit of a customer of such member in the course of such commerce as compensation or in consideration for any services or facilities furnished by or through such customer in connection with the processing, handling, sale, or offering for sale of any products or commodities manufactured, sold, or offered for sale by such member, unless such payment or consideration is available on proportionally equal terms to all other customers competing in the distribution of such products or commodities.

(d) Prohibited discriminatory services or facilities. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce to discriminate in favor of one purchaser against another purchaser or purchasers of a commodity bought for resale, with or without processing, by contracting to furnish or furnishing, or by contributing to the furnishing of, any services or facilities connected with the processing, handling, sale, or offering for sale of such commodity so purchased upon terms not accorded to all competing purchasers on proportionally equal terms.

(e) Inducing or receiving an illegal discrimination in price. It is an unfair trade practice for any member of the industry engaged in commerce, in the course of such commerce, knowingly to induce or receive a discrimination in price which is prohibited by the foregoing provisions of this section.

(f) Exemptions. The inhibitions of this section shall not apply to purchases of their supplies for their own use by schools, colleges, universities, public libraries, churches, hospitals, and charitable institutions not operated for profit.

NOTE: In complaint proceedings charging discrimination in price or services or facilities furnished, and upon proof having been made of such discrimination, the burden of rebutting the prima facie case thus made by showing justification shall be upon the person charged; and unless justification shall be affirmatively shown, the Commission is authorized to issue an order terminating the discrimination: Provided, however, That nothing contained in this section shall prevent a seller rebutting the prima facie case thus made by showing that his lower price or the furnishing of services or facilities to any purchaser or purchasers was made in good faith to meet an equally low price of a competitor, or the services or facilities furnished by a competitor. See section 2-b, Clayton Act.

§ 223.26 Aiding or abetting use of unfair trade practices. It is an unfair trade practice for any person to aid, abet, coerce, or induce another, directly or indirectly, to use or promote the use of any unfair trade practice specified in this part. [Rule 26]

GROUP II—VOLUNTARY RULES

Compliance with trade practice provisions embraced in Group II rules is considered to be conducive to sound business methods and is to be encouraged and promoted individually or through voluntary cooperation exercised in accordance with existing law. Nonobservance of Group II rules does not per se constitute violation of law. Where, however, the practice of not complying with such rules is followed in a manner as to result in unfair methods of competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in commerce, corrective proceedings in respect thereto may be instituted by the Commission as in the case of violation of Group I rules.

§ 223.101 Disapproval of solicitation when benefits unlikely. The industry condemns the practice of soliciting or promoting the sale of any of its products to persons who, by reason of their physical state, age, or infirmity, cannot be expected to obtain reasonable use and benefit from such products. This section shall not be regarded as condemning the sale of an industry product to any person furnishing a prescription from a doctor. [Rule A]

§ 223.102 Cooperation with doctors. (a) The industry fully realizes that the interest of the orthopedically handicapped is best promoted by the cooperation of the doctor and industry member concerning the type and fitting of industry products.

(b) The industry pledges its members to give every assistance to doctors and to do everything possible to promote mutual trust and confidence between the industry and members of the medical profession and the general public.

(c) It is recommended that an industry product not be sold, or any particular type recommended, without the benefit of a prescription or consultation with the doctor except when the patient wishes a duplicate appliance of one which has been prescribed by a doctor.

(d) Any major change in adjustment, shape, or construction should be made only on the prescription of the doctor. [Rule B]

§ 223.103 Importance of personal fitting. (a) The industry disapproves the practice of undertaking to supply an orthopedic appliance by mail-order specification and without personal fitting thereof.

(b) The exception to this section is when the appliance is ordered by a doctor who assumes full responsibility for the accuracy of fit; or when duplicating an appliance originally prescribed by a doctor. [Rule C]

§ 223.104 Sharing of improved techniques. Believing that the interest of the orthopedically handicapped is its first concern, the industry favors making available to all of its members and the general public any improved technique that may be used or developed by any of its members in respect to the making, fitting, aligning, or servicing of industry products. Further, the industry desires to be an active and cooperative factor in all progressive developments of improved techniques that will contribute to the welfare and comfort of the orthopedically handicapped. [1] The inhibitions of this section are subject to Public Law 542, approved July 14, 1952, 66 Stat. 632 (the McGuire Act) which provides that with respect to a commodity which bears, or the label or container of which bears, the trade-mark, brand, or name of the producer or distributor of such commodity and which is in free and open competition with commodities of the same general class produced or distributed by others, a seller of such a commodity may enter into a contract or agreement with a buyer thereof which establishes a minimum or stipulated price at which such commodity may be resold by such buyer when such contract or agreement is lawful as applied to intrastate transactions under the laws of the State, Territory, or territorial jurisdiction in which the resale is to be made or to which the commodity is to be transported for such resale, and when such contract or agreement is not between manufacturers, or between wholesalers, or between brokers, or between factors, or between retailers, or between persons, firms, or corporations in competition with each other.

[2] As used in this section, the word "commerce" means "trade or commerce among the several States and with foreign nations, or between the District of Columbia or any Territory of the United States and any State, Territory, or foreign nation, or between any insular possessions or other places under the jurisdiction of the United States, or between any such possession or place and any State or Territory of the United States or the District of Columbia or any foreign nation, or within the District of Columbia or any Territory or any insular possession or other place under the jurisdiction of the United States."

TITLE 21—FOOD AND DRUGS

Chapter I—Food and Drug Administration, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare

PART 1—REGULATIONS FOR THE ENFORCEMENT OF THE FEDERAL FOOD, DRUG, AND COSMETIC ACT

EXEMPTION OF DRUGS FROM PRESCRIPTION REQUIREMENTS

By virtue of the authority vested in the Secretary by the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (secs. 503 (b) (3), 701 (a), 65 Stat. 649, 52 Stat. 1055; 21 U. S. C. 353 (b) (3), 371 (a)), the regulations for the enforcement of the act are amended as follows:

1. In § 1.108 Exemption from prescription requirements, insert "(a) Exemption for certain habit-forming drugs" before the first sentence, and renumber paragraphs (a), (b), (c), and (d) as subparagraphs (1), (2), (3), and (4), respectively.

2. Add to § 1.108 the following new paragraphs:

(b) Duration of prescription requirement. Any drug limited to prescription use under section 503 (b) (1) (C) of the act remains so limited until it is exempted as provided in paragraph (c) of this section.

(c) Prescription exemption procedure for drugs limited by a new-drug application. The exemption of a drug from the prescription-dispensing requirements of section 503 (b) (1) (C) of the act may be initiated by the Commissioner or by any interested person. Any interested person may file a petition seeking such exemption, stating reasonable grounds therefor, which petition may be the form of a supplement to an effective new-drug application. Upon receipt of such a petition, or on his own initiative at any time, the Commissioner will publish a notice of proposed rule making and invite written comments. After consideration of all available data, including any comments submitted, the Commissioner may issue a regulation granting or refusing the exemption, effective on a date specified therein. Whenever the Commissioner concludes, either at the time of publication of the notice of proposed rule making or after considering the written comments submitted, that granting or refusing the exemption requires a more thorough development of the facts than is possible in a written presentation, he may call a public hearing for that purpose. The notice of such hearing shall specify the questions to be considered. As soon as practicable after completion of the hearing, the final regulation granting or refusing the exemption shall be issued, effective on a date specified therein. If the Commissioner for good cause finds (and incorporates the finding and a brief statement of the reasons therefor in a regulation) that notice and public procedure thereon are impracticable, unnecessary, or contrary to the public interest, he may issue the final regulation forthwith.

(d) New-drug status exempted from the prescription requirment. A drug exempted from the prescription requirement under the provisions of paragraph (c) of this section continues to be a "new drug" within the meaning of section 201 (p) of the act until it has been used to a material extent or for a material time and has become generally recognized as safe when used in accordance with the directions for use contained in its labeling.

(e) Prescription legend not allowed on exempted drugs. The use of the prescription caution statement quoted in section 503 (b) (4) of the act, in the labeling of a drug exempted under the provisions of this section, constitutes misbranding. Any other statement or suggestion in the labeling of a drug exempted under this section, that such drug is limited to prescription use, may constitute misbranding.

(Sec. 701, 52 Stat. 1055, as amended; 21 U. S. C. 371. Interprets or applies sec. 503, 52 Stat. 1051, as amended; 21 U. S. C. 353)

Notice and public procedure are not necessary prerequisites to the issuance of these regulations because they are interpretative and procedural.

This order shall become effective 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Dated: November 8, 1954.

Acting Secretary.

1955 SUGAR QUOTA FOR THE DOMESTIC BEET SUGAR AREA

NOTICE OF HEARING ON PROPOSED ALLOTMENT

Pursuant to the authority contained in the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended (61 Stat. 922, as amended by 65 Stat. 318; 7 U. S. C. Sup. 1100), and in accordance with the applicable rules of practice and procedure (7 CFR 801.1 et seq.), and on the basis of information before me, I do hereby find that the allotment of the 1955 sugar quota for the Domestic Beet Sugar Area is necessary to prevent disorderly marketing and to afford all interested persons an equitable opportunity to market sugar, and hereby give notice that a public hearing will be held at Washington, D. C., in Room 218, Administration Building, of the Department on November 24, 1954, at 10:00 a. m.

The finding made above is in the nature of a preliminary finding based on the best information now available. It will be appropriate to present evidence at the hearing on the basis of which the Secretary of Agriculture may affirm, modify, or revoke such preliminary finding.

The purpose of such hearing is to receive evidence to enable the Secretary of Agriculture to establish fair, efficient, and equitable allotments of a portion of the quota which will enable persons who process sugar and liquid sugar from sugar beets grown in the continental United States, to market such sugar and liquid sugar in an orderly manner during the period of January 1, 1955, to the date the Secretary prescribes allotments of the Domestic Beet Sugar Area Quota, for the calendar year 1955. To avoid disorderly marketing by any allottee who might market early in 1955 a quantity of sugar larger than its allotment of the entire 1955 sugar quota for the Domestic Beet Sugar Area, it is necessary to make allotments effective on January 1, 1955. Much of the evidence necessary to provide an adequate basis for establishing allotments of the entire 1955 quota for the full calendar year cannot be adduced on the date for which the hearing is called. Therefore, the testimony on that date will be limited to data, views and arguments regarding consideration of the factors cited in section 205 (a) of the act pertinent to establishing allotments of a portion of the quota to be in effect from January 1, 1955, to the date allotments of the entire quota for the calendar year 1955 are established. On the date specified for the hearing, the Government witness will propose that for the period January 1, 1955, to the date allotment of the entire quota for the calendar year are prescribed, allotments of the 1955 Domestic Beet Sugar Quota be established at 75 percent of the allotments of the 1954 Domestic Beet Sugar quota as published in the FEDERAL REGISTER dated September 1, 1954 (19 F. R. 5572).

Notice also is given, pursuant to the authority contained in the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended, that a public hearing will be held at Washington, D. C., in Room 3709, South Agriculture Building, of the Department on December 13, 1954, beginning at 10:00 a. m., for the purpose of receiving evidence to enable the Secretary of Agriculture to make a fair, efficient and equitable distribution of the 1955 Domestic Beet Sugar Area quota for the calendar year 1955, among persons who market sugar and liquid sugar processed from sugar beets produced in the domestic beet sugar area.

It will also be appropriate at this hearing to present evidence on the basis of which the Secretary may affirm, modify or change the preliminary finding made above that the allotment of the 1955 sugar quota for the Domestic Beet Sugar Area is necessary to prevent disorderly marketing and to afford all interested persons an equitable opportunity to market sugar. In addition, the subjects and issues of this hearing also include (1) the manner in which the statutory factors of "processings from proportionate shares", "past marketings", and "ability to market" as provided in section 205 (a) of the said act, should be measured; (2) the relative weightings which should be given to these factors; and (3) the manner in which allotments should apply to sugar or liquid sugar processed under contracts providing for sugar beets to be sold to and processed for the account of one allottee by another.

Issued this 10th day of November 1954.

Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

1955 SUGAR QUOTA FOR THE MAINLAND CANE SUGAR AREA

NOTICE OF HEARING OF PROPOSED ALLOTMENT

Pursuant to the authority contained in the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended (61 Stat. 922, as amended by 65 Stat. 318; 7 U. S. C. Sup. 1100), and in accordance with the applicable rules of practice and procedure (7 CFR 801.1 et seq.), and on the basis of information before me, I do hereby find that the allotment of the 1955 sugar quota for the Mainland Cane Sugar Area is necessary to prevent disorderly marketing and to afford all interested persons an equitable opportunity to market sugar, and hereby give notice that a public hearing will be held at Washington, D. C., in Room 124E, Administration Building, of the Department of Agriculture, on November 23, 1954, at 10:00 a. m., e. s. t.

The finding made above is in the nature of a preliminary finding based on the best information now available. It will be appropriate to present evidence at the hearing on the basis of which the Secretary of Agriculture may affirm, modify, or revoke such preliminary finding.

The purpose of such hearing is to receive evidence to enable the Secretary of Agriculture to establish fair, efficient, and equitable allotments of a portion of the quota which will enable persons who process sugar and liquid sugar from sugarcane grown in the continental United States to market such sugar and liquid sugar in an orderly manner during the period of January 1, 1955, to the date the Secretary prescribes allotments of the Mainland Cane Sugar Area quota for the calendar year 1955.

To avoid disorderly marketing by any allottee who might market early in 1955 a quantity of sugar larger than its allotment of the entire 1955 sugar quota for the Mainland Cane Sugar Area, it is necessary to make allotments effective on January 1, 1955. Much of the evidence necessary to provide an adequate basis for establishing allotments of the entire 1955 quota for the full calendar year cannot be adduced on the date for which the hearing is called. Therefore, the testimony on that date will be limited to data, views and arguments regarding consideration of the factors cited in section 205 (a) of the Act pertinent to establishing allotments of a portion of the quota to be in effect from January 1, 1955, to the date allotments of the entire quota for the calendar year 1955 are established.

On the date specified for the hearing, the Government witness will propose that for the period January 1, 1955, to the date allotments of the entire quota for the calendar year 1955 are prescribed, allotments of the 1955 Mainland Cane Sugar Area quota be established at 80 percent of the allotments of the Mainland Cane Sugar Area quota for 1954 as published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on August 18, 1954 (19 F. R. 5205). The Government witness will also offer in evidence written agreements, signed by each processor in the Mainland Cane Sugar Area, under which each processor has agreed to the proposal to be made at the hearing by the Government witness as described above.

Upon notice hereafter to be given in accordance with applicable rules of practice and procedure, a public hearing will be held early in 1955 for the purpose of receiving evidence to enable the Secretary to establish allotments of the entire 1955 Mainland Cane Sugar Area quota for the calendar year 1955 under the provisions of the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended.

Issued this 10th day of November 1954.

ELECTRIC BOND AND SHARE CO.

SUPPLEMENTAL ORDER WITH RESPECT TO FEES

NOVEMBER 5, 1954.

The above-entitled consolidated proceedings involve proposals and a related plan, as amended, known as the "Final Comprehensive Plan", filed pursuant to section 11 (e) and other sections of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act") to enable the system of Electric Bond and Share Company ("Bond and Share"), a registered holding company, to effectuate compliance with section 11 (b) of the act. In these consolidated proceedings various orders have heretofore been entered by the Commission reserving jurisdiction with respect to the fees and expenses paid or to be paid for services rendered in connection therewith.

On March 15, 1954 the Commission by order (Holding Company Act Release No. 12408) directed Bond and Share to file with the Commission a report or reports setting forth: (1) The amounts of fees and expenses claimed by the respective applicants for services rendered in connection with the above-entitled and related proceedings; (2) the amounts of fees and expenses which Bond and Share had heretofore paid or was prepared to pay without modification; (3) the amounts of fees and expenses, if any, which Bond and Share was willing to pay and which the claimants after negotiation with the company involved had indicated a willingness to accept; and (4) in cases where negotiations had proved unsuccessful, the amounts of fees and expenses which Bond and Share considered to be reasonable and was willing to pay. In accordance with this order, Bond and Share filed reports and supplements thereto indicating the amounts of fees and expenses which it had paid or was willing to pay to all fee claimants. These reports further indicated that after negotiation with the company, all fee claimants were willing to accept the amounts set forth in the reports in full settlement of their claims. All fee claimants indicated in their fee applications with this Commission, or by amendments thereto, their willingness to accept the agreed upon settlements.

On June 29, 1954 the Commission by order (Holding Company Act Release No. 12567) approved these fees and expenses "for services performed to the date of the filing of the respective fee applications" in respect of the Final Comprehensive Plan and directed Bond and Share to pay such amounts "to the extent any portion thereof has not heretofore been paid."

An application having now been filed by Simpson Thacher & Bartlett requesting that the Commission approve and allow a fee of $1,750 to be paid by Bond and Share on account of legal services rendered to said company in connection with the preparation of the above-described reports and in carrying out the described negotiations, and that jurisdiction heretofore reserved over all fees and expenses, paid or to be paid in these proceedings, be released to the extent necessary to permit this payment; and

The Commission having considered the said application of Simpson Thacher & Bartlett and having found that the aforesaid fee is not unreasonable and deeming it appropriate that it be approved and allowed:

It is ordered, That the fee of $1,750 requested of Bond and Share by Simpson Thacher & Bartlett be, and the same hereby is, approved and allowed and that the jurisdiction heretofore reserved over the payment of fees and expenses in this matter be, and hereby is released, to the extent necessary to permit said payment.

NATIONAL FUEL GAS CO.

ORDER REGARDING ISSUANCE AND SALE OF COMMON STOCK PURSUANT TO RIGHTS OFFERING

NOVEMBER 8, 1954.

National Fuel Gas Company ("National Fuel"), a registered holding company, has filed a declaration pursuant to sections 6 (a) and 7 of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act") regarding certain proposed transactions which are summarized as follows:

National Fuel proposes to issue and sell, without an underwriting, 381,018 shares of its authorized but unissued common stock, no par value, pursuant to a rights offering to its stockholders on the basis of one share of additional common stock for each ten shares of outstanding common stock at a price of $17.75 per share. The additional shares are to be offered to stockholders of record at the close of business on or about November 8, 1954, and the subscription offer will expire at 3:30 p. m., e. s. t., on November 29, 1954.

The right to subscribe for the additional shares of common stock will be evidenced by transferable warrants expressed in terms of "rights", one right being issued for each share of the presently outstanding common stock, and ten rights will be necessary to exercise the privilege of subscribing for one full share of additional common stock ("Basic Right").

No fractional shares are to be issued. However, subject to allotment, any holder of a warrant evidencing a number of rights in excess of ten but not evenly divisible by ten may subscribe for one more full share than he would be entitled to under the Basic Right, and any holder of a warrant evidencing less than ten rights may subscribe for one full share ("Primary Privilege"). No subscriber may exercise more than one such Primary Privilege.

Under a proposed Secondary Subscription Privilege ("Secondary Privilege") and subject to allotment, any holder of a warrant who has exercised either the Basic Right or the Primary Privilege, or both, may subscribe for such additional number of shares as the holder may elect.

As to the allotment in respect of the Primary and Secondary Privileges, any shares not subscribed for under the Basic Right will be issued and sold to persons exercising one or both of the Privileges. However, all subscriptions pursuant to the Primary Privilege will be filled before any subscription under the Secondary Privilege is recognized. In the event there are insufficient shares to fill all Primary Privilege subscriptions, those exercised on the basis of nine rights will be filled first, then those on the basis of eight rights, seven, six and so on in that order. Should it be possible to fill some but not all subscriptions in any one of these groups the subscriptions will be filled in order of their receipt. If there should remain insufficient shares to fill all subscriptions under the Secondary Privilege the remaining shares will be allotted in proportion, as nearly as is practicable, to the number of rights covered by all warrants containing a subscription under the Secondary Privilege rather than upon the basis of the number of shares requested.

Warrants issued to common stockholders whose addresses are outside the continental United States, Canada and Cuba will not be mailed but will be held for their accounts until 10:00 a. m., e. s. t., November 26, 1954, when (if no instructions have been received) they will be sold and the net proceeds, if any, shall be either remitted to them or held for the account of each such stockholder.

The declaration states that the net proceeds from the sale of the additional shares of common stock will be used either to repay a portion of National Fuel's outstanding bank loans now aggregating $8,700,000, which were obtained to provide monies for the purchase of common stock of or for loans to its operating subsidiary companies or to purchase additional common stock of or for new loans to such subsidiaries.

Due notice of the filing of said declaration having been given in the manner prescribed by Rule U-23 and no hearing having been requested of or ordered by the Commission; and the Commission finding that the applicable standards of the act and the rules promulgated thereunder are satisfied and that no adverse findings are necessary; and the Commission deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that the declaration, as amended, should be permitted to become effective forthwith:

It is ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of the act that said declaration as amended be and hereby is, permitted to become effective forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24.

By the Commission.

("Keystone") and one of its gas transmission subsidiaries, Home Gas Company ("Home"), have filed a joint application-declaration with this Commission pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act") and have designated sections 6 (b), 9, 10 and 12 (f) thereof and Rule U-43 promulgated thereunder as applicable to the following proposed transactions:

Columbia, which owns all of the outstanding securities of Binghamton, Keystone and Home, proposes to purchase, and Binghamton, Keystone and Home propose to issue and sell, the following securities from time to time as funds are needed but not later than March 31, 1955:

Binghamton:
(a) 10,000 shares of common stock, $25 par value, for	$250,000
(b) Installment notes, principal amount	250,000
Keystone:
(a) 4,000 shares of common stock, no par value, for	100,000
(b) Installment notes, principal amount	200,000
Home:
(a) 24,000 shares of common stock, $25 par value for	600,000
(b) Installment notes, principal amount	1,450,000

With respect to each of the companies, Columbia will first purchase common stock and thereafter will purchase installment promissory notes to be dated on their date of issue and to mature in equal amounts on February 15 in each of the years 1956 to 1980 inclusive. Said notes are to bear interest at the rate of 3½ percent per annum which interest rate is the same as the "cost of money" to Columbia in respect of its most recent sale of Debentures on July 8, 1954. The interest will accrue only from the date of issuance of the installment notes.

It is stated that the proposed transactions are to be consummated in order to provide Binghamton, Keystone and Home with the needed funds, as required, to finance in part their 1954 construction programs estimated as follows:

Binghamton	$754,600
Keystone	337,700
Home	2,549,700

It is estimated that the companies and Columbia will incur expenses with respect to the issuance and purchase of the common stock and installment notes, in amounts as follows:

Binghamton	$750
Keystone	530
Columbia	200

Binghamton, Keystone and Home have filed applications with the Public Service Commission of the State of New York for approval of the issuance of these securities. Keystone has also filed an application with that Commission for approval of an amendment to its certificate of incorporation, increasing its authorized capital stock.

Applicants-declarants request that this Commission's order become effective upon issuance.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than November 18, 1954, at 5:30 p. m. request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request and the issues of fact or law, if any, raised by the said application-declaration which he desires to controvert, or may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D. C. At any time after said date, said application-declaration, as filed or as amended, may be granted and permitted to become effective as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act, or the Commission may exempt such transactions as provided in Rule U-20 (a) and Rule U-100 thereof.

(Sec. 1, 44 Stat. 1361, as amended; 38 U. S. C. 381)

10. The cross references immediately preceding and following the centerhead "Computation of Service" are deleted.

11. Section 3.1017 is revised to read as follows:

§ 3.1017 Spanish-American War, Boxer Rebellion, or Philippine Insurrection; Public No. 2, 73d Congress. Service is exclusive of leave under G. O. 130, W. D. As to enlistments subsequent to August 12, 1898, participation in the Boxer Rebellion or the Philippine Insurrection must be shown.

(Sec. 1, 48 Stat. 8, as amended; 38 U. S. C. 701)

12. Section 3.1019 Spanish-American War, Boxer Rebellion, or Philippine Insurrection; Veterans Regulation 1 (f) (38 U. S. C. ch. 12) is revoked.

13. Section 3.1020 Spanish-American War, Boxer Rebellion, or Philippine Insurrection; Public No. 541, 75th Congress (act of May 24, 1938) is revoked.

14. In § 3.1021, the parenthetical phrase following the headnote is deleted, so that the headnote reads as follows:

§ 3.1021 Indian Wars. • • •

15. In § 3.1024, paragraph (b) is amended to read as follows:

§ 3.1024 Service to date of disbandment or actual discharge. • • •

(b) The word "construed" is held to mean "presumed" in the ordinary legal acceptation of the term. This construction is applicable to all pension claims, including claims for increase and original claims under the service acts. The soldier is to be credited with all the time of service up to the date of discharge or date of disbandment. It is not required that he should show in the first instance where he was up to the time of disbandment, but the presumption stated in the law shall be held to apply; however, should it appear in fact that he was not with his command or in the service, then the presumption would be overcome.

16. Section 3.1025 is revised to read as follows:

§ 3.1025 Jurisdiction of the Veterans Claims Division, Veterans Benefits Office, D. C. Within the jurisdiction of the Veterans Claims Division, Veterans Benefits Office, D. C. including the disability rating board, will be included claims for disability compensation, pension, and retirement pay of the following classes:

(a) Where there was any service prior to July 16, 1903.

(b) Where the veteran is an employee in either the competitive or excepted service who has been continuously employed for 90 days in the Veterans' Administration: Provided, That no adjudication is necessary during such period. If any adjudication is necessary in the case of an employee-claimant during the 90-day period, jurisdiction attaches immediately. This provision is not applicable to member-employees.

(c) Where rights have been forfeited under any act, except that in the event entitlement to Veterans' Administration benefits is claimed on the basis of service in the Armed Forces subsequent to the commission of the offense on which forfeiture determination was based, excluding cases of forfeiture affecting all accrued or future benefits under section 4, Public Law 144, 78th Congress, veterans records will, upon request, be permanently transferred to the regional office of jurisdiction, inasmuch as the forfeiture does not extend to such subsequent period of service.

(d) Claims of all veterans of the Army of the Commonwealth of the Philippines (including alleged and recognized guerrillas) who do not reside within the Philippines.

(e) Where the veteran resides without the continental limits of the United States other than within the territory assigned to regional offices in Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Philippines. This provision does not apply to transients inasmuch as residence beyond the continental limits of the United States must be satisfactorily established. However, such residence will be presumed if three consecutive monthly checks are received at the same address.

(f) Emergency officers retirement as provided by § 3.350.

(g) Where the applicant's entitlement to pension under the General Law, the act of 1862, including the amendments thereto, is an issue.

(h) Where the protection provided by Public No. 788, 74th Congress, relative to the General Law rate is for application.

(i) Where there is entitlement under the Revised Statutes. (See secs. 4756 and 4757 R. S.)

(j) Where there is entitlement pursuant to special acts.

(k) Residents of United States Soldiers' Home, Washington, D. C.

(l) Claims involving sections 4 and 5, Public Law 144, 78th Congress, as amended by Public Law 622, 79th Congress.

(m) Determining, upon proper request, service-connection for the condition or conditions for which outpatient treatment only is requested.

(n) Applications for assistance to certain veterans in acquiring specially adapted housing under Public Law 702, 80th Congress, as amended.

(o) Any claim not otherwise under the jurisdiction of Veterans Benefits Office, Washington 25, D. C., referred by competent authority for action.

17. The centerheads "Filing of Claims and Supporting Evidence" and "Application for Pension and Compensation" and the cross references immediately preceding § 3.1030 are deleted.

18. The centerheads "Proof of Relationship and Dependency" and "Public No. 2, 73d Congress, Public No. 141, 73d Congress, as amended, and Public No. 269, 74th Congress, as amended" and the cross references immediately following § 3.1030 are deleted.

19. Section 3.1038 Enlistment is revoked.

20. Section 3.1039 is revised to read as follows:

§ 3.1039 Type of discharge required; special act to correct military record. Where a special act does not grant pension directly but gives the claimant a status so that he is eligible to apply for and be allowed a pension, he is in the same position as he would have been if he had served honorably.

21. The cross reference immediately preceding § 3.1040 is deleted.

22. In § 3.1040, the parenthetical phrase at the end of paragraph (c) is deleted, so that paragraph (c) reads as follows:

§ 3.1040 Types of discharges for service pension (Spanish-American War, Boxer Rebellion, Philippine Insurrection, Civil War, and Indian Wars). • • •

(c) Character of discharge under the act of July 14, 1862, as amended. A discharge from the service in which disabilities are alleged to have been incurred is essential to title under the act of July 14, 1862, as amended, but the character of discharge is not material unless a person is discharged or dismissed by reason of the sentence of a general court martial, or is discharged on the ground that he was a conscientious objector who refused to perform military duties or refused to wear the uniform or otherwise to comply with lawful orders of competent military authorities, or as a deserter, or in the case of an officer where his resignation is accepted for the good of the service. However, in the case of any such person, if it is established to the satisfaction of the Administrator that at the time of the commission of the offense such person was insane, he shall not be precluded from benefits to which he is otherwise entitled under the laws administered by the Veterans' Administration. Veterans in receipt of pension or compensation on the date of the enactment of Public Law 346, 78th Congress, pursuant to the interpretation of prior laws are not affected by the requirements of either section 300 or section 1503, Public Law 346, 78th Congress.

23. The cross reference immediately preceding § 3.1043 is deleted.

24. The cross reference immediately preceding § 3.1046 is deleted.

(Sec. 30, 48 Stat. 525; 38 U. S. C. 366)

28. In § 3.1056, paragraph (c) is amended to read as follows:

§ 3.1056 Public No. 269, 74th Congress. • • •

(c) The act of July 14, 1862, as amended, was not revived or reenacted as to those cases in which the disease was contracted, or the injury was incurred in service subsequent to the Spanish-American War (including the Philippine Insurrection or Boxer Rebellion), as defined in §§ 3.1000 (c), 3.1001 (c) and 3.1002 (c).

29. The centerhead "Evaluation Under Public No. 2 and Public No. 141, 73d Congress" and the cross references immediately following § 3.1057 are deleted.

30. Section 3.1068 is revised to read as follows:

§ 3.1068 Public No. 269, 74th Congress; definition of disability. (a) Manual labor is defined as work of a useful character requiring physical or mental effort, but does not necessarily mean work such as work with a pick and shovel.

(b) For periods prior to October 1, 1951, disability without regard to service-connection under Public No. 269, 74th Congress, will be evaluated in comparison with the degree of disability existing by reason of total inability to perform manual labor and for regular aid and attendance, helplessness, or blindness.

PART 6—UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT LIFE INSURANCE

PART 8—NATIONAL SERVICE LIFE INSURANCE

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

1. In Part 6, §§ 6.47, 6.48, and 6.51 are revised to read as follows:

§ 6.47 To a policy at a higher rate of premium as of original effective date. A United States Government life insurance policy on any plan of insurance may be exchanged for a policy of the same amount, bearing the same date, and based on the same age, on any plan of insurance issued by the Veterans' Administration at a higher rate of premium, upon payment of the difference between the reserve on the new policy and the reserve on the old policy. Such exchange will be made without medical examination and upon complete surrender of the insurance while in force.

§ 6.48 To a policy at a lower rate of premium as of original effective date. A United States Government life insurance policy may be exchanged within 5 years from the effective date for a policy of the same amount, bearing the same date and based on the same age, on any plan of insurance issued by the Veterans' Administration at a lower rate of premium, except the 5-year level premium term policy: Provided, the applicant is in good health and so states in his application and submits a report of a complete medical examination and such other evidence relative to his physical and mental condition as may be required by the Administrator of Veterans Affairs and on such forms as the Administrator of Veterans Affairs may prescribe. The old insurance must be in force under premium-paying conditions and must be surrendered with all rights and claims thereunder. The difference between the reserve on the old policy and the reserve on the new policy, less any indebtedness, may be used to cover payment of future premiums or withdrawn in cash at the option of the insured. If the old policy has been in force for less than 12 months, the difference in reserve may be used only for the purpose of paying future premiums on the insurance and such premiums shall not be subject to withdrawal by the insured.

§ 6.51 To a policy at a higher rate of premium as of a current effective date. A United States Government life insurance policy on the 5-year convertible term plan or the 5-year level premium term plan may be exchanged for a policy of the same amount on any plan of insurance issued by the Veterans' Administration at a higher rate of premium, upon payment of the current monthly premium at the attained age of the insured for the plan of insurance selected: Provided, That where premium waiver on United States Government life insurance is effective under section 622 of the National Service Life Insurance Act, as amended, that portion of the current monthly premium at the attained age of the insured for the plan of insurance selected which is not required for the pure insurance risk must be paid. The reserve (if any) on the policy will be allowed as a credit on the current monthly premium. Such exchange will be made without medical examination upon complete surrender of the insurance while in force and within 5 years from the effective date of the policy.

2. Sections 6.110 and 6.111 are revised to read as follows:

§ 6.110 Provision for paid-up insurance. If a United States Government life insurance policy has not been surrendered for cash, upon default in the payment of any premium due after the expiration of the first policy year, and upon written request of the insured and complete surrender of the insurance with all claims thereunder within 3 calendar months after the due date of the premium, the United States will issue paid-up insurance for such amount as the cash value less any indebtedness will purchase when applied as a net single premium at the attained age of the insured. For this purpose the attained age is the age on the birthday anniversary nearest to the effective date of the policy plus the number of years and months from that date to the date the paid-up insurance becomes effective. The paid-up insurance shall be with right to dividends and with right to total permanent disability benefits. The number of monthly installments payable upon due proof of total permanent disability or death of the insured under such paid-up insurance will be the same as would then be payable under the policy. The insured may at any time surrender the paid-up policy for its cash value or obtain a loan on such paid-up insurance.

§ 6.111 Paid-up insurance in case of total permanent disability. If one or more monthly installments be paid on account of total permanent disability incurred under a paid-up insurance, then there shall be paid to the beneficiary upon the surrender of insurance at the death of the insured the remaining unpaid installments (240, less the number paid). If an optional settlement has been selected, payments shall be made accordingly.

3. Section 6.186 is revised to read as follows:

§ 6.186 Surrender of permanent plan policies of United States Government life insurance, in force for less than one year, under the provisions of section 5, Servicemen's Indemnity Act of 1951. A permanent plan policy of United States Government life insurance in force for less than 1 year by payment or waiver of premiums shall not have a cash value. Such a policy which is not lapsed may be surrendered by the insured while in active service, with right of replacement, pursuant to the provisions of section 5 of the Servicemen's Indemnity Act of 1951, upon written request therefor and upon complete surrender of the insurance with all claims thereunder: Provided, That such surrender shall be effective as of the date written request therefor is delivered to the Veterans' Administration. If forwarded by mail, properly addressed, the postmark date will be taken as the date of delivery; if forwarded through military channels, the date the request is placed in military channels will be taken as the day of delivery.

4. In Part 8, § 8.30 is revised to read as follows:

§ 8.30 Provisions for paid-up insurance; other than 5-year level premium term policies. If a National Service life insurance policy on any plan other than 5-year level premium term has not been surrendered for cash, upon written request of the insured and complete surrender of the insurance with all claims thereunder, after the expiration of the first policy year and while the policy is in force under premium-paying conditions, the United States will issue paid-up insurance for such amount as the cash value less any indebtedness will purchase when applied as a net single premium at the attained age of the insured. For this purpose the attained age is the age on the birthday anniversary nearest to the effective date of the policy plus the number of years and months from that date to the date the paid-up insurance becomes effective. Such paid-up insurance will be effective as of the expiration of the period for which premiums have been paid and earned; and, any premiums paid in advance for months subsequent to that in which the application for paid-up insurance is made shall be refunded to the insured. The paid-up insurance shall be with right to dividends, except insurance issued or reinstated under the provisions of section 602 (c) (2) of the National Service Life Insurance Act of 1940, as amended, where the requirements of good health have been waived, and insurance issued under the provisions of section 620 of the National Service Life Insurance Act, as amended. The insured may at any time surrender the paid-up policy for its cash value or obtain a loan on such paid-up insurance.

5. Sections 8.33, 8.34, 8.35, and 8.36 are revised to read as follows:

§ 8.33 Exchange of a 5-year level premium term policy as of a current effective date. National Service life insurance on the level premium term plan, other than nonconvertible 5-year level premium term insurance issued under the provisions of section 621 of the National Service Life Insurance Act, as amended, which is in force may be exchanged, effective as of the date any premium becomes due within the term period, for insurance of the same amount, on any other plan, on the same reserve basis, issued by the Veterans' Administration under the National Service Life Insurance Act of 1940, as amended, upon payment by the insured (except where premium waiver under section 602 (n) of the act, as amended, is effective) of the current monthly premium at the attained age of the insured for the plan of insurance selected: Provided, That where premium waiver is effective under section 622 of the National Service Life Insurance Act, as amended, that portion of the current monthly premium at the attained age of the insured for the plan of insurance selected which is not required for the pure insurance risk must be paid. The reserve (if any) on the policy will be allowed as a credit on the current monthly premium except where premium waiver is effective: Provided, That conversion to an endowment plan may not be made while the insured is totally disabled. The exchange will be made without medical examination, except when deemed necessary to determine whether an applicant for exchange to an endowment plan is totally disabled, and upon complete surrender of the insurance while in force by payment or waiver of premiums.

§ 8.34 Exchange of a level premium term policy as of a date prior to the current month. National Service life insurance on the level premium term plan, other than nonconvertible 5-year level premium term insurance issued under the provisions of section 621 of the National Service Life Insurance Act, as amended, which is in force may be exchanged, effective as of the date any premium has become due within the term period, for insurance of the same amount, on any other plan, on the same reserve basis, issued by the Veterans' Administration under the National Service Life Insurance Act of 1940, as amended, upon payment by the insured of the difference between the reserve on the new policy and the reserve on the old policy and payment by the insured (except where premium waiver under section 602 (n) of the act, as amended, is effective) of the current monthly premium at the attained age of the insured as of the effective date of the new policy: Provided, That where premium waiver is effective under section 622 of the National Service Life Insurance Act, as amended, the required reserve on the new policy must be paid together with that portion of the current monthly premium at the attained age of the insured as of the effective date of the new policy which is not required for pure insurance risk: Provided further, That conversion to an endowment plan may not be made while the insured is totally disabled. The exchange will be made without medical examination, except when deemed necessary to determine whether an applicant for exchange to an endowment plan is totally disabled, and upon complete surrender of the insurance while in force by payment or waiver of premiums.

§ 8.35 Exchange to a policy bearing the same effective date and having a higher reserve value. If the insured be not totally disabled, National Service life insurance on any plan other than 5-year level premium term may be changed to insurance of the same amount, as of the same date, and based on the same age, on any plan of insurance on the same reserve basis, issued by the Veterans' Administration under the National Service Life Insurance Act of 1940, as amended, having a higher reserve value, upon payment by the insured of the difference between the reserve on the new policy and the reserve on the old policy. Such exchange will be made without medical examination, except when deemed necessary to determine whether the insured be totally disabled, and upon complete surrender of the insurance while in force by payment of premiums.

§ 8.36 Exchange to a policy bearing the same effective date and having a lower reserve value. National Service life insurance may be exchanged for insurance of the same amount, bearing the same date, and based on the same age, on any plan of insurance on the same reserve basis, issued by the Veterans' Administration having a lower reserve value except to the 5-year level premium term plan: Provided, the applicant is in good health at the time of application and furnishes evidence thereof satisfactory to the Administrator upon such forms as the Administrator shall prescribe, or otherwise as he shall require. The old insurance must be in force under premium-paying conditions and must be surrendered with all rights and claims thereunder. The difference between the reserve on the old policy and the reserve on the new policy, less any indebtedness, may be used to cover payment of future premiums or withdrawn in cash at the option of the insured. If the old policy has been in force for less than 12 months, the difference in reserve may be used only for the purpose of paying future premiums on the insurance, and such premiums shall not be subject to withdrawal by the insured prior to the expiration of the first policy year.

6. Section 8.114 is revised to read as follows:

§ 8.114 Surrender of permanent plan policies of National Service life insurance, in force for less than one year, under the provisions of section 5, Servicemen's Indemnity Act of 1951. A permanent plan policy of National Service life insurance in force for less than 1 year by payment or waiver of premiums shall not have a cash value. Such a policy which is not lapsed may be surrendered by the insured while in active service, with right of replacement, pursuant to the provisions of section 5 of the Servicemen's Indemnity Act of 1951, upon written request therefor and upon complete surrender of the insurance with all claims thereunder: Provided, That such surrender shall be effective as of the date written request therefor is delivered to the Veterans' Administration. If forwarded by mail, properly addressed, the postmark date will be taken as the date of delivery; if forwarded through military channels, the date the request is placed in military channels will be taken as the day of delivery.

(Sec. 5, 65 Stat. 35; 38 U. S. C. 854)

(m) "Corn acreage" means the number of acres of land on which field corn is planted alone or interplanted with other crops, including sweet corn which is produced for feed or silage: Provided, That the acreage of corn planted in excess of the acreage allotment for the farm shall be regarded as corn acreage if and only if such corn (1) is harvested, (2) is left standing in the field on a date to be established by the county committee, such date to be approximately 15 days prior to the beginning of the harvest of corn for grain in the county, or (3) is used as seed, feed, fodder, or silage, or sold (including involuntary sales), bartered, exchanged, or donated.

(n) Corn allotments:

(1) "County allotment" means the corn acreage allotment apportioned to the county as its share of the 1955 acreage allotment for the commercial corn-producing area as determined on the basis of the acreage planted to corn during the five calendar years, 1950–54 (plus, in applicable years, the acreage diverted under previous agricultural adjustment and conservation programs), with adjustments for abnormal weather conditions and for trends in acreage during such period, and for the promotion of soil-conservation practices.

(2) "Farm allotment" means the corn acreage allotment determined for a farm as its share of the 1955 county allotment.

(o) "Commercial corn-producing area" means the area designated by the Secretary pursuant to section 301 (b) (4) of the act, and includes all counties in which the average production of corn (excluding corn used for silage) during the ten calendar years, 1945–54, after adjustment for abnormal weather conditions, is 450 bushels or more per farm and 4 bushels or more for each acre of farmland in the county, and also includes any county bordering on such commercial corn-producing area which the Secretary finds is likely to produce 450 bushels or more per farm and 4 bushels or more for each acre of farmland in 1955, or in which there is a minor civil division which the Secretary finds is likely to produce 450 bushels or more per farm and 4 bushels or more for each acre of farmland in 1955.

§ 721.612 Extent of calculations and rule of fractions. All acreage determinations shall be rounded to whole acres. Fractional acres of fifty-one hundredths of an acre or more shall be rounded upward, and fractional acres of less than fifty-one hundredths of an acre shall be dropped.

§ 721.613 Instructions and forms. The Director shall cause to be prepared and issued such forms as are necessary and shall cause to be prepared such instructions as are necessary for carrying out the regulations in this part. The forms and instructions shall be approved by, and the instructions shall be issued by the Deputy Administrator for Production Adjustment, Commodity Stabilization Service.

§ 721.614 Method of apportioning county allotments. The county acreage allotment shall be apportioned to farms in the county on the basis of tillable acres, crop-rotation practices, type of soil, and topography.

§ 721.615 Report of data for old corn farms. The owner, operator, or any other interested person shall furnish the following information regarding the farm in which he has an interest to the county ASC office of the county in which the farm is regarded as located if corn was planted on the farm in 1952, 1953, or 1954.

(a) The names and addresses of the owner and operator.

(b) The total acreage of all land.

(c) The acreage of cropland.

(d) The acreage of corn planted in the years 1951, 1952, 1953, and 1954.

(e) The acreage of other crops and land uses.

(f) Other pertinent information requested by the county ASC office relative to operations of the farm.

§ 721.616 Determination of base acreages for old farms. To reflect the factors of tillable acres, crop-rotation practices, type of soil, and topography, the county committee shall determine for each farm on which there was corn acreage for any one of the years 1952, 1953, and 1954, a base acreage of corn as follows:

(a) Historical average acreage. There shall first be established for each farm a historical average corn acreage which shall be the average of the acreages planted to corn for 1951, 1952, and 1953.

(b) Adjusted average acreage. The county committee shall adjust the historical average corn acreage for any farm by eliminating from the period of years used in determining the historical average acreage the acreage planted to corn in any year or years for which it definitely finds that the corn acreage was not representative of the acreage which normally would have been planted under the established crop-rotation system on the farm taking into consideration the 1954 corn acreage (planted plus diverted) because such acreage was:

(1) Abnormally low due to excessive wet weather or flood.

(2) Abnormally low due to drought.

(3) Abnormally high because of weather conditions which caused failure of crops other than corn or which prevented the planting of crops other than corn.

(4) No longer representative because of a change in operations which results in substantial change in the established crop-rotation system for the farm.

(5) Not representative for 1955 because of a definitely established crop-rotation system being carried out on the farm.

When one or more of the years are eliminated in accordance with the provisions of subparagraphs (1) through (5) of this paragraph, the average of the years not so eliminated shall be considered as the adjusted average acreage. If all three years are eliminated the adjusted average acreage shall be zero.

(c) Further adjustments. The historical average acreage or the adjusted average acreage, as the case may be, may be further adjusted so as to make such acreage comparable with those acreages for other farms which are similar with respect to the type of farming operation and to the factors of tillable acreage, topography, and type of soil within the following limitations:

(1) If such acreage is unusually low, the historical average acreage or the adjusted average acreage, as the case may be, may be adjusted upward by not more than 20 percent, but not above the acreage indicated by cropland, soil type, and topography, except as provided in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph.

(2) If the adjusted average acreage under paragraph (b) of this section is zero, the adjusted average may be adjusted upward, but not above the acreage indicated by cropland, soil type, and topography.

(3) If such acreage is excessively high, it may be adjusted downward by not more than 25 percent, but not below the acreage indicated by cropland, soil type, and topography.

(d) Base acreage. (1) The base acreage for an old farm shall be the historical acreage determined under paragraph (a) as adjusted under paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section.

(2) A zero base acreage shall be established for a farm pursuant to this section only if the committee determines that corn will not be planted in 1955 under the crop-rotation system for the farm.

§ 721.617 Determination of base acreages for new farms. (a) The county committee shall determine a base acreage for use in establishing a corn acreage allotment for each eligible farm on which corn was not planted in any of the years 1952, 1953, and 1954 but for which a corn acreage allotment is requested for 1955 not later than January 15, 1955, or such earlier date established by the State committee as affording reasonable opportunity for requesting such an allotment. Each request for such an allotment shall include the following information:

(1) The acreage of all land and total cropland on the farm for which an allotment is requested.

(2) The acreage of cropland well suited to corn.

(3) The name and address of the farm owner and, if known, the name and address of the 1955 operator.

(4) Location and description of the farm.

(5) Identification and location of any other farm in which the operator will have an interest in 1955.

(6) Acreage of corn in which the operator had an interest in 1952, 1953, and 1954, and identification and location of land on which such corn was planted.

(7) Corn acreage which would be planted in 1955 under the rotation system planned for the farm.

(8) Reason for requesting a 1955 corn acreage allotment.

(9) Reason for not planting corn on the farm in 1952, 1953, and 1954.

(b) Eligibility for a new farm allotment shall be conditioned upon the following:

(1) The land for which an allotment is requested is well suited for the production of corn, and

(2) The operator is largely dependent for his livelihood on his farming operations, and

(3) The producer establishes to the satisfaction of the county committee that:

(i) The system of farming has changed or is changing to the extent that corn will be included in such system for 1955; or

(ii) The established crop-rotation system followed on the farm will include corn for 1955.

In determining the base acreage for a new farm, the county committee shall take into consideration tillable acres, type of soil, topography, the farming system to be followed by the operator, the extent to which the operator is dependent for his livelihood on his farming operations, and the information required of the applicant in his request for an allotment: Provided, That the base acreage determined for a new farm shall not exceed the indicated acreage which would be planted in 1955 under the rotation system planned for the farm, or the acreage indicated by cropland, soil type, and topography.

§ 721.618 Determination of acreage allotments for all farms. The 1955 county acreage allotment, after deduction of an appropriate reserve for appeals, correction of errors, and missed farms as determined by the county committee, shall be apportioned pro rata among the farms within the county by the county committee on the basis of the base acreages determined under §§ 721.616 and 721.617.

§ 721.619 Supervision, review, and approval by the State committee. The State committee shall be responsible for the work of the county committee in the apportionment of the county corn acreage allotments to farms, the review of all allotments, reserves, and the correction of any improper determinations made under the regulations in this part. All acreage allotments shall be approved by or on behalf of the State committee and no official notice of an acreage allotment shall be mailed until such allotment has been approved by or on behalf of the State committee.

§ 721.620 Farms divided or combined. (a) The 1955 corn acreage allotment determined for a farm shall, if there is a division, be apportioned to each part on the basis of the acreage of cropland on each part, except that, if the county committee determines that this method would result in allotments not representative of the farming operations normally carried out on each part, an allotment may be determined for each part in the same manner as would have been done if such part had been a completely separate farm: Provided, That the sum of the allotments thus determined for each part shall not exceed the allotment originally determined for the entire farm which is being divided.

(b) If two or more farms for which the 1955 corn acreage allotments are determined will be combined and operated as single farm in 1955, the 1955 allotment shall be the sum of the allotments determined for each of the farms comprising the combination.

§ 721.621 Right to appeal. Any owner, operator, landlord, tenant, or sharecropper who is dissatisfied with the acreage allotment for his farm may file an appeal for reconsideration of the allotment for his farm. The request for appeal and facts constituting a basis for such consideration must be submitted in writing and postmarked or delivered to the county committee within 15 days after the date of mailing the notice of allotment. If the applicant is dissatisfied with the decision of the county committee with respect to his appeal, he may appeal to the State committee within 15 days after the date of mailing of the notice of the decision of the county committee. If the applicant is dissatisfied with the decision of the State committee, he may, within 15 days after the date of mailing of the notice of the decision of the State committee, appeal to the Director, whose decision shall be final.

§ 721.622 Applicability of §§ 721.610 and 721.622. Sections 721.610 to 721.622 shall govern the establishment of the farm acreage allotments for the 1955 crop of corn for use in connection with farm price support programs. The regulations are contingent upon the proclamation of an acreage allotment of corn for 1955 in the commercial corn-producing area by the Secretary pursuant to section 328 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended.

NOTE: The reporting requirements contained herein have been approved by, and subsequent reporting requirements will be subject to the approval of, the Bureau of Budget in accordance with Federal Reports Act of 1942.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 10th day of November 1954. Witness my hand and the seal of the Department of Agriculture.

Chapter IX—Agricultural Marketing Service (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

PART 909—ALMONDS GROWN IN CALIFORNIA

CHANGES IN SALABLE AND SURPLUS PERCENTAGES

Pursuant to the provisions of Marketing Agreement No. 119 and Order No. 9 regulating the handling of almonds grown in California (7 CFR, 1953 Rev., Part 909), effective under the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C., 601 et seq.), and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Almond Control Board and other available information the salable and surplus percentages of almonds for the crop year beginning July 1, 1954, are changed as set forth below.

The Board at its meeting in Sacramento, California, on October 29, 1954 reviewed its estimates of almond supply and demand factors for the 1954–55 crop year and upon the basis of its revised estimates of 1954 crop production and imports recommended that the salable percentage for almonds be increased to 75 percent from the 70 percent presently in effect (19 F. R. 5574) and that a corresponding change be made in the surplus percentage, i. e., reducing it to 25 percent from the 30 percent currently in effect. The presently effective salable and surplus percentages were based on an estimated production of 50,550,000 pounds of almonds, edible kernel weight basis, and estimated imports of 3 million pounds for the 1954–55 crop year. The Board has reduced its estimate of the 1954 crop to 45 million pounds, and has increased its estimate of imports to 5 million pounds, making a net decrease of 3 million pounds in the estimated quantity of almonds available for the domestic market. The Board's revised estimate of production is believed to be reasonably accurate in view of the fact that most of the 1954 crop has been received and much of it has already been shelled by handlers. The Board's revised estimate of imports is based on the free fee-quota of 5,000,000 pounds announced by the President on October 11, 1954, pursuant to section 22 of the Agricultural Adjustment Act, as amended, for the year beginning October 1, 1954.

On the basis of information available to the Department a salable percentage of 75 percent for domestic almonds for the crop year beginning July 1, 1954, will be required to make sufficient almonds available to satisfy trade demand and provide an adequate quantity to be carried over by handlers at the end of the 1954–55 crop year.

It is hereby found and determined that the changed percentages provided herein will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

Therefore, such administrative rule is changed to read as follows:

§ 909.204 Salable and surplus percentages for the crop year beginning July 1, 1954. The salable and surplus percentages during the crop year beginning July 1, 1954 applicable to almonds, edible kernel weight basis, received by handlers for their own accounts, shall be 75 percent and 25 percent, respectively.

It is hereby found and determined that it is unnecessary and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule making procedure, or to postpone the effective date of this order later than the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER since the effect of this action is to relieve restrictions upon handlers.

(Sec. 5, 49 Stat. 753, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 608c)

[SEAL] FLOYD F. HEDLUND,
Acting Director,
Fruit and Vegetable Division.

In the Matter of Edward L. Millen, an Individual Doing Business as Edward L. Millen Company

This proceeding was heard by Loren H. Laughlin, hearing examiner, upon the complaint of the Commission, which charged respondent with unfair methods of competition and unfair and deceptive acts and practices in commerce in the furnishing of certain false and misleading display advertising to his dealers for use in the sale of respondent's "Cedar Wall" and "Cedar Wall with DDT"; and upon respondent's "admission" answer in which, pursuant to Rule VIII of the Commission's rules of practice, he admitted all the material allegations of the complaint and without reservation waived all intervening procedures in further proceedings as to the facts there alleged.

Thereafter said hearing examiner, theretofore duly designated by the Commission to act in said matter in the place of Hearing Examiner Frank Hier, theretofore appointed by the Commission for such purpose, made his initial decision, in which, reciting the foregoing, he set forth his findings that respondent had been fully afforded due process of law in all particulars, and that the proceeding was substantially in the public interest, and in which, upon the whole record, including the material facts alleged in the complaint and admitted in the answer, he made certain findings of fact[1] and conclusions of law with respect thereto,[1] along with an order to cease and desist.

No appeal having been filed from said initial decision of said hearing examiner, as provided for in Rule XXII of the Commission's rules of practice, nor any other action taken as thereby provided to prevent said initial decision becoming the decision of the Commission thirty days from service thereof upon the parties, said initial decision, including said order, accordingly, under the provisions of said Rule XXII became the decision of the Commission on October 5, 1954.

Said order is as follows:

It is ordered, That Edward L. Millen, an individual doing business as Edward L. Millen Company, or doing business under any other name, his representatives, agents and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the offering for sale, sale or distribution in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, of the products designated "Cedar Wall" and "Cedar Wall with DDT" or any other product or products of substantially similar composition or possessing substantially similar properties, whether sold under these names or under any other name or names, forthwith cease and desist from representing directly or by implication:

(1) That the product designated "Cedar Wall" contains DDT.

(2) That said products repel moths or prevent damage by moths.

(3) That the product designated "Cedar Wall with DDT" repels carpet beetles, resists moths or carpet beetles or prevents damage to clothes or fabrics by moths.

(4) That "Cedar Wall" is fully guaranteed unless such guarantee is unconditional, or that said product is guaranteed in any way unless the terms and conditions of the actual guarantee are disclosed in immediate conjunction therewith.

By "Decision of the Commission and Order to File Report of Compliance" Docket 6193, October 5, 1954, which announced and decreed fruition of said initial decision, report of compliance was required as follows:

It is ordered, That the respondent herein shall within sixty (60) days after service upon him of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing setting forth in detail the manner and form in which he has complied with the order to cease and desist.

In the Matter of Joseph Saladoff, an Individual Trading as Bonded Thrift Stamp Co. and Crown Trading Stamp Co.

This proceeding was heard by James A. Purcell, hearing examiner, upon the complaint of the Commission which charged respondent with various misrepresentations in the sale and distribution of sales promotional plans to retail merchants, and upon a stipulation between the parties, of record in the instant proceeding, for a consent order.

By the terms of said stipulation, the parties agreed that the complaint and said stipulation should constitute the entire record in the matter, withdrawal of the answer theretofore filed by respondent being moved and granted; that respondent admitted all of the jurisdictional allegations set forth in the complaint; and that the parties waived hearing before a hearing examiner or the Commission and also the making of findings as to the facts and conclusions of law by the examiner or the Commission; that respondent waived the rights to file exceptions or to demand oral argument before the Commission as also all further and other procedure before the examiner or the Commission, to which, but for the execution and filing of the aforesaid stipulation, the respondent might be entitled under the Federal Trade Commission Act or the rules of practice of the Commission.

Said stipulation specifically waived any and all right, power, or privilege to challenge or contest the validity of the order to be made and further provided that the complaint forming the basis of the proceeding might be used in construing the terms of said order, which might be altered, modified, or set aside in the manner provided by law for other orders of the Commission where such action is sought.

Thereafter said examiner made his initial decision setting forth the aforesaid matters and his conclusion, on the basis thereof, that the proceeding was in the public interest, and in conformity with the action in said stipulation contemplated and agreed upon, made his order to cease and desist.

No appeal having been filed from said initial decision of said hearing examiner, as provided for in Rule XXII of the Commission's rules of practice, nor any other action taken as thereby provided to prevent said initial decision becoming the decision of the Commission thirty days from service thereof upon the parties, said initial decision, including said order, accordingly, under the provisions of said Rule XXII became the decision of the Commission on October 3, 1954.

Said order is as follows:

It is ordered, That the respondent Joseph Saladoff, an individual now trading as Bonded Thrift Stamp Co., Crown Trading Stamp Co., or under any other name or names, and his agents, representatives and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the offering for sale, sale or distribution, in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, of sales promotional plans, trading stamps or premiums, do forthwith cease and desist from:

1. Representing, directly or by implication:

(a) That his business is bonded, or that any bond or other assurance has been given to provide compliance with his sales agreement.

(b) That merchants subscribing to or purchasing respondent's sales promotion plan, including trading stamps and premiums, will be assured of increased business.

(c) That premiums which are to become the property of the merchant customer subscribing to or purchasing respondent's plan, will be supplied to his merchant customers for display or other purposes, unless such premiums are in fact so furnished and supplied on such basis, and no attempt is or will be made to collect for or to recover said premiums.

(d) That premiums will be delivered by respondent and without additional cost or charge to the merchant, or the merchant's customers, who send in respondent's stamps for redemption, unless respondent in all instances delivers all premiums, and without imposing or attempting to collect a charge or fee therefor; or misrepresenting in any other manner the terms or conditions under which premiums are to be delivered or supplied by respondent in connection with the redemption of stamps purchased from respondent.

(e) That the sale of respondent's plan or stamps will be restricted to only a few or to a limited number of selected merchants in each trade area, unless such sales thereof are so limited.

2. Using the word "Bonded," or any word or words of similar import or meaning, as a part of a trade name under which respondent does business.

By "Decision of the Commission and Order to File Report of Compliance", Docket 6201, September 24, 1954, which announced and decreed fruition of said initial decision, report of compliance was required as follows:

It is ordered, That the respondent herein shall within sixty (60) days after service upon him of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing setting forth in detail the manner and form in which he has complied with the order to cease and desist.

Issued: September 24, 1954.

INTERDEPARTMENTAL COMMITTEE ON TRADE AGREEMENTS

TRADE-AGREEMENT NEGOTIATIONS UNDER GENERAL AGREEMENT ON TARIFFS AND TRADE RELATING TO JAPAN; POSSIBLE ADJUSTMENT IN PREFERENTIAL RATES ON CUBAN PRODUCTS

Pursuant to section 4 of the Trade Agreements Act, approved June 12, 1934, as amended (48 Stat. 945, ch. 474; 65 Stat. 73, ch. 141) and to paragraph 4 of Executive Order 10082 of October 5, 1949 (3 CFR, 1949 Supp., p. 126), notice is hereby given by the Interdepartmental Committee on Trade Agreements of intention to participate in trade-agreement negotiations, on a reciprocal basis, looking to Japan's accession to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, as a means of improving Japan's trading prospects in the free world. With a view to the further expansion of such trading prospects, the United States is also considering, in addition to negotiations directly with Japan, participating in limited negotiations with other contracting parties to the General Agreement that will also be negotiating with Japan, in order to broaden the overall results of the negotiations.

There is annexed hereto a list of articles imported into the United States to be considered for possible modification of duties and other import restrictions, imposition of additional import restrictions, or specific continuance of existing customs or excise treatment in the trade agreement negotiations of which notice is given above. In addition to articles of primary interest to Japan, there are also being listed some articles of interest to certain contracting parties as well as to Japan, and a few articles which are believed to be of primary interest to other contracting parties that may be negotiating with Japan, some of which articles are closely related to articles of primary interest to Japan.

Notice is also given of intention to negotiate settlement of several outstanding problems arising out of various actions by the United States. Negotiations are contemplated looking to such modification of trade agreement obligations as may be necessary in view of the enactment of Public Law 479 of the 83d Congress relating to certain rubber-soled shoes and Public Law 689 of the 83d Congress relating to certain prepared fish. In addition the United States modified its concession on figs, fresh, dried, or in brine, as a result of an escape clause action. Finally, the United States did not find it possible to carry out obligations negotiated with Uruguay with respect to certain meat products. Among the possible outcomes of these negotiations might be a granting of such concessions on some items in the annexed list as may be necessary to compensate for the above actions of the United States.

The articles proposed for consideration in the negotiations are identified in the annexed list by specifying the numbers of the paragraphs in tariff schedules of Title I and Title II of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended, in which they are provided for together with the language used in such tariff paragraphs to provide for such articles, except that where necessary the statutory language has been modified by the omission of words or the addition of new language in order to narrow the scope of the original language. Where no qualifying language is used with regard to the type, grade, or value of any listed article, all types, grades, and values of the article covered by the language used are included.

In the case of each article in the list with respect to which the corresponding product of Cuba is now entitled to preferential treatment, the negotiations referred to will involve the elimination, reduction, or continuation of the preference, perhaps in some cases with an adjustment or specification of the rate applicable to the product of Cuba.

No article will be considered in the negotiations for possible modification of duties or other import restrictions, imposition of additional import restrictions, or specific continuance of existing customs or excise treatment unless it is included, specifically or by reference, in the annexed list or unless it is subsequently included in a supplementary public list. Only duties on the articles listed imposed under the paragraphs of the Tariff Act of 1930 specified with regard to such articles and import taxes imposed on such articles under the Internal Revenue Code will be considered for a possible decrease, but additional or separate ordinary duties or import taxes on such articles imposed under any other provisions of law may be bound against increase as an assurance that the concession under the listed paragraph will not be nullified. In addition, any action which might be taken with respect to basic duties on products may involve action with respect to compensating duties imposed on manufactures containing such products. In the event that an article which as of January 1, 1954, was regarded as classifiable under a description included in the list is excluded therefrom by judicial decision or otherwise prior to the conclusion of the trade-agreement negotiations, the list will nevertheless be considered as including such article.

Persons interested in exports may present their views regarding any tariff or other concessions that might be requested from Japan. Any other matters appropriate to be considered in connection with the negotiations proposed above may also be presented. Public hearings in connection with the "peril point" investigation of the United States Tariff Commission in connection with the articles included in the annexed list, pursuant to section 3 of the Trade Agreements Extension Act of 1951, as amended, are the subject of an announcement of this date issued by that Commission.

Pursuant to section 4 of the Trade Agreements Act, as amended, and paragraph 5 of Executive Order 10082 of October 5, 1949, information and views as to any aspect of the proposals announced in this notice may be submitted to the Committee for Reciprocity Information in accordance with the announcement of this date issued by that Committee.[1]

By direction of the Interdepartmental Committee on Trade Agreements this 13th day of November 1954.

CARL D. CORSE,
Chairman, Interdepartmental Committee on Trade Agreements.

COMMITTEE FOR RECIPROCITY INFORMATION

TRADE-AGREEMENT NEGOTIATIONS UNDER THE GENERAL AGREEMENT ON TARIFFS AND TRADE RELATING TO JAPAN; POSSIBLE ADJUSTMENT IN PREFERENTIAL RATES ON CUBAN PRODUCTS

SUBMISSION OF INFORMATION TO THE COMMITTEE FOR RECIPROCITY INFORMATION

Closing date for application to be heard, December 3, 1954.

Closing date for submission of briefs, December 6, 1954.

Public hearings open, December 13, 1954.

The Interdepartmental Committee on Trade Agreements has issued on this day a notice of intention to participate in trade-agreement negotiations, on a reciprocal basis, looking to Japan's accession to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, as a means of improving Japan's trading prospects in the free world. With a view to the further expansion of such trading prospects, the United States is also considering, in addition to negotiations directly with Japan, participating in limited negotiations with other contracting parties to the General Agreement that will also be negotiating with Japan, in order to broaden the overall results of the negotiations.

Annexed to the notice of the Interdepartmental Committee on Trade Agreements,[1] is a list of articles imported into the United States to be considered for possible concessions in the negotiations. The Committee for Reciprocity Information hereby gives notice that all applications for oral presentation of views in regard to the proposed negotiations, which must indicate the product or products on which the individuals or groups desire to be heard, and an estimate of the time required for such presentation, shall be submitted to the Committee for Reciprocity Information not later than 12:00 noon, December 3, 1954, and all information and views in writing of persons who desire to be heard in regard to the foregoing proposals shall be submitted to the Committee for Reciprocity Information not later than 12:00 noon, December 6, 1954. Written statements of persons who do not desire to be heard shall be submitted not later than 12:00 noon, December 27, 1954. Such communications shall be addressed to "Committee for Reciprocity Information, Tariff Commission Building, Washington 25, D. C.". Fifteen copies of written statements, either typed, printed, or duplicated shall be submitted, of which one copy shall be sworn to.

Written statements submitted to the Committee, except information and business data proffered in confidence, shall be open to inspection by interested persons. Information and business data proffered in confidence shall be submitted on separate pages clearly marked "For official use only of Committee on Reciprocity Information."

Public hearings will be held before the Committee for Reciprocity Information, at which oral statements will be heard. The first hearing will be at 2:00 p. m. on December 13, 1954, in the Hearing Room in the Tariff Commission Building, 7th and E Streets NW., Washington 25, D. C. Witnesses who make application to be heard will be advised regarding the time and place of their individual appearances. Appearances at hearing before the Committee may be made only by or on behalf of those persons who have filed written statements and who have within the time prescribed made written application for oral presentation of views. Statements made at the public hearings shall be under oath.

Persons or groups interested in import products may present to the Committee their views concerning possible tariff concessions by the United States on any product, whether or not included in the list annexed to the notice of intention to negotiate. However, as indicated in the notice of intention to negotiate, no tariff reduction or specific continuance of customs or excise treatment will be considered on any product which is not included in the list annexed to the public notice by the Interdepartmental Committee on Trade Agreements, unless it is subsequently included in a supplementary public list.

The United States Tariff Commission has today announced public hearings[2] on the import items appearing in the list annexed to the notice of intention to negotiate to run concurrently with the hearings of the Committee for Reciprocity Information. Oral testimony and written information submitted to the Tariff Commission will be made available to and will be considered by the Interdepartmental Committee on Trade Agreements. Consequently, those whose interests relate only to import products included in the foregoing list, and who appear before the Tariff Commission, need not, but may if they wish, appear also before the Committee for Reciprocity Information.

Persons interested in exports may present their views regarding any tariff or other concessions that might be requested from Japan. Any other matters appropriate to be considered in connection with the proposed negotiations may also be presented.

Copies of the list attached to the notice of intention to negotiate may be obtained from the Committee for Reciprocity Information at the address designated above and may be inspected at the field offices of the Department of Commerce.

By direction of the Committee for Reciprocity Information this 13th day of November 1954.

EDWARD YARDLEY,
Secretary,
Committee for Reciprocity Information.

UNITED STATES TARIFF COMMISSION

INVESTIGATION AND PUBLIC HEARING IN CONNECTION WITH PROPOSED TRADE AGREEMENT NEGOTIATIONS WITH JAPAN AND OTHER COUNTRIES

Investigation No. 2 and public hearing under section 3 of the Trade Agreements Extension Act of 1951, as amended, and section 332 of the Tariff Act of 1930, in connection with proposed trade agreement negotiations with Japan and other countries.

1. The final date for filing requests to testify at Tariff Commission public hearings is December 3, 1954.

2. Tariff Commission public hearings will begin on December 13, 1954.

3. Final date for filing written statements with the Tariff Commission is December 27, 1954.

4. Public announcements relating to the proposed trade agreement negotiations have also been issued by the Interdepartmental Committee on Trade Agreements[1] and the Committee for Reciprocity Information,[2] and appear concurrently with this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Interested persons are urged to consult these notices for further information.

The Interdepartmental Committee on Trade Agreements this day issued an announcement regarding proposed trade agreement negotiations. In accordance with section 3 of the Trade Agreements Extension Act of 1951, as amended, the President on the same day furnished the United States Tariff Commission with a list of all articles imported into the United States to be considered in the proposed trade agreement negotiations, and has requested the Tariff Commission to make an investigation and report with respect to each such article, as provided in said section 3 of the Trade Agreements Extension Act of 1951, as amended. This list is annexed to the announcement of the Interdepartmental Committee on Trade Agreements published in the FEDERAL REGISTER concurrently with this notice. A copy of the President's list will be furnished by the Commission to interested parties upon request.

A. Investigation instituted. Pursuant to section 3 of the Trade Agreements Extension Act of 1951, as amended, and under the authority of section 332 of the Tariff Act of 1930, the United States Tariff Commission has this day instituted an investigation with respect to the articles included in the President's list.

B. Purpose of investigation. The purpose of the investigation is to obtain the facts necessary to enable the Tariff Commission to formulate findings for inclusion in a report to the President with respect to each article included in the President's list as to (1) the limit to which the modification of duties and other import restrictions, imposition of additional import restrictions, or specific continuance of existing customs or excise treatment may be extended in order to carry out the purpose of section 350 of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended (Trade Agreements Act), without causing or threatening serious injury to the domestic industry producing like or directly competitive articles, and (2) if increases in duties or additional import restrictions are required to avoid serious injury to the domestic industry producing like or directly competitive articles, the minimum increases in duties or additional import restrictions required.

C. Testimony presented in connection with investigation conducted pursuant to Senate Finance Committee Resolution of March 11, 1954, will be considered and need not be repeated in connection with current investigation. Attention is called to the fact that a number of the articles included in the President's list were also included in the list published by the Tariff Commission in connection with its investigation pursuant to the resolution of the Committee on Finance of the Senate dated March 11, 1954, on articles on which the ad valorem equivalent rate of duty is 50 per centum or higher. Public hearings in connection with the latter investigation were held by the Commission from July 13 to 28, 1954, inclusive. Testimony and written information submitted by interested parties in connection with articles included in the investigation pursuant to the resolution of the Senate Finance Committee, which are also included in the President's list, will be considered by the Commission as though presented to the Commission in connection with the present investigation under section 3 of the Trade Agreements Extension Act of 1951, as amended. Accordingly, such parties need not present the same information in connection with the present investigation with respect to such articles unless they so desire.

D. Written statements and public hearings. Parties interested will be given opportunity to present their views with respect to the subject matter of the investigation either by submission of written statements or by oral testimony at public hearings, or both. It will be noted that the President's list includes a large number of articles. In order to permit, within the limited time and resources available, all interested parties to present information and views concerning these articles in an orderly manner and with the least possible inconvenience to all concerned, the Commission has established the following procedure for submission of written statements and the conduct of hearings:

1. Scope of written statements and oral testimony. Written statements and oral testimony must relate to articles included in the President's list and be confined to matters relevant to the investigation as stated in B, above.

2. Written statements in lieu of appearance at hearing. Interested parties are urged to present their information and views through the submission of written statements in lieu of appearances at the public hearing. Such statements must be under oath and will be given the same consideration as oral testimony presented at the hearings, and except for information submitted and accepted in confidence, will be made available for inspection by interested parties. Twenty copies of written statements shall be submitted only one of which need be sworn to. Such statements should be submitted as early as possible but not later than December 27, 1954.

LIABILITY RULES FOR PERSONAL INJURY AND DEATH IN AIR CARRIER AND FOREIGN AIR CARRIER TARIFFS

ORDER TO CANCEL CERTAIN MATTER FROM TARIFFS

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 10th day of November 1954.

The Board adopted Regulation No. ER-195 [1] which became effective March 2, 1954, and which provides:

Personal liability rules. No provision of the Board's regulations issued under this part or elsewhere shall be construed to require on and after March 2, 1954, the filing of any tariff rules stating any limitation on, or condition relating to, the carrier's liability for personal injury or death. No subsequent regulation issued by the Board shall be construed to supersede or modify this rule of construction except to the extent that such regulation shall do so in express terms.

The Board in the explanatory statement in the notice of proposed rule making in Draft Release No. 62, dated July 22, 1953, stated:

• • • that after the effective date of this regulation, rules of this nature would be subject to rejection as not consistent with the Civil Aeronautics Act and the Board's regulations thereunder.

The Board in adopting the amendment stated:

After the effective date of this amendment carrier tariffs, to the extent they contain matter dealing with limitations on or conditions relating to carrier liability for personal injury or death, will be mere surplusage and of no effect as tariffs.

The Board, therefore, finds that, in the interest of orderly administration of the tariff filing requirements of the Act and the Board's Economic Regulations, and in the interest of avoiding confusion among passengers and users of tariffs as to the effect of provisions contained therein which are not required to be filed, all rules and provisions stating any limitation on, or condition relating to, carrier liability for personal injury or death should be cancelled from the tariffs of all air carriers and foreign air carriers.

Accordingly, it is ordered, That:

1. All air carriers and foreign air carriers shall cancel from their tariffs, on or before January 1, 1955, all rules, regulations, or provisions stating any limitation on, or condition relating to, carrier liability for personal injury or death.

2. This order be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Secretary.

TRANSPORTATION OF CIRCUSES AND SHOW OUTFITS

NOTICE OF INVESTIGATION TO DETERMINE WHETHER RAILROADS ARE ACTING AS PRIVATE OR COMMON CARRIERS

NOVEMBER 3, 1954.

A question as to the status of common carriers by railroad in the United States, when transporting circuses and show outfits, having arisen as a consequence of the decision of the United States Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit in Chicago and North Western Ry. Co. v. Davenport, 205 Fed. (2d) 589, holding that the railroad in that instance was operating as a common carrier of circus property, it is deemed advisable to conduct an investigation pursuant to sections 4 (a) and 5 (a) of the Administrative Procedure Act, and sections 6 and 17, and other pertinent provisions, of the Interstate Commerce Act, for the following purposes:

1. To determine whether railroads of the United States are acting as common or private carriers in the transportation of circuses and show outfits; and,

2. Whether Rule 63 of the Commission's Tariff Circulars Nos. 18-A (49 CFR 145.63) and 20 (49 CFR 141.63), which permits carriers subject thereto to file copies of their contracts covering the transportation of circuses and show outfits, should be rescinded, changed or amended in any respect.

All common carriers by railroad are hereby made respondents to this proceeding. A copy of this notice shall be served on each of them, a copy posted in the Office of the Secretary of the Commission, and a copy also filed with the Director, Division of the Federal Register, Washington, D. C.

This proceeding will be assigned for hearing at such times and places and in accordance with such procedures as the Commission may hereafter direct.

By the Commission, Division 2.

Chapter I—Bureau of Land Management, Department of the Interior

[Circular 1889]

SIZE OF LEASEHOLD AND LIMITATION OF ACREAGE HOLDINGS

Section 196.2 is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 196.2 Size of leasehold and limitation of acreage holdings. (a) Except where the rule of approximation applies, a lease may not include over 2,560 acres in reasonably compact form. Each lease shall describe the land involved by legal subdivisions of the public land surveys. No person, association or corporation, may hold at any one time, either directly or indirectly, leases that exceed in the aggregate 5,120 acres in any one State, or 10,240 acres in the United States.

(b) A lessee, upon a showing that the leased deposits extend into adjoining Federal lands may, upon application to be filed in the Land Office, be granted, subject to the acreage limitation under paragraph (a) of this section, a lease for additional acreage, if the Manager, after consultation with the Mining Supervisor, shall determine that the increased acreage will result in conservation of natural resources and will provide for the most economical and efficient recovery of a minable deposit without waste. In applying this paragraph, fringe acreage in an area not of interest to more than one operator, and lacking sufficient reserves of phosphate deposits to warrant independent development, may be leased noncompetitively either by separate lease or by adding to an existing leasehold (within the aggregate limitation of 2,560 acres), subject to a bonus of not less than $1 00 an acre, a minimum royalty, and such other terms and conditions as may be determined at the time the lease offer is made. If, however, the fringe acreage has sufficient reserves to warrant independent development, or, if, following appropriate inquiry of operators in the area and consultation with the Mining Supervisor, the Manager determines that there is competitive interest therein, the lands will be offered competitively under § 196.11.

The date of Form 1440 must not be entered on the stamp in advance of actual use in taxpayment. The assistant regional commissioner may, in his discretion, approve a suitable abbreviation of the required information for cancellation, including the initials for the name of the proprietor, if adequate for identification; for example, "J. D. Ind. Inc. IABW63–NJ–1440–6–1–54." The proprietor's cancellation must be made on the lower portion of the stamp below the figures and words indicating the denomination of the stamp. If the proprietor's cancellation is made by perforation, each letter and figure of the cancellation must be not less than one-fourth of an inch in height and of proportionate width and suitably spaced for legibility and distinctness, and must be clearly and sharply outlined either (a) by perforation through the substance of the stamp, and not merely puncturing it, each perforation to be not less than one thirty-second of an inch in width or diameter; or (b) by perforations in the form of incisions through the stamp of at least one thirty-second of an inch in width, cutting out the form of the letters and figures from the substance of the stamp, which letters and figures must be of the size, spacing, and distinctness as above specified. The proprietor will then attach the canceled distilled spirits excise tax stamps to one copy of Form 1440 and submit all copies of that form to the storekeeper-gauger. The storekeeper-gauger, if the forms are in order and the canceled stamps are in the proper amount of the tax shown due on the Form 1440, will then further cancel and deface the stamps by cutting a hole one-half inch square in the upper right hand corner, and wholly within the border, of each stamp and will execute a certificate on all copies of Form 1440 (using the certificate of the district director, properly modified) certifying to the receipt and further cancellation of stamps in the amount of tax tue. The canceled distilled spirits excise tax stamps will be securely attached to a copy of Form 1440 by means of a staple, eyelet, or similar device. Such copy of Form 1440 will be attached to the board on the weighing tank and remain thereon until the alcohol covered by such stamps has been removed. A wholesale liquor dealer's stamp for attachment to the container will be procured by the proprietor in accordance with §§ 182.574o and 182.574p.

PAR. 37. Section 182.571, as amended by Treasury Decision 6090, approved August 13, 1954, is further amended by adding at the end thereof the following two new sentences: "Where alcohol is taxpaid by use of distilled spirits excise tax stamps and a wholesale liquor dealer's stamp is issued, the storekeeper-gauger will retain a copy of Form 1440. In the case of tank truck or tank car shipments taxpaid by the use of distilled spirits excise tax stamps and shipped to a vendee in another region, a copy of Form 1440 shall be forwarded to the assistant regional commissioner of the region in which the vendee is located."

PAR. 38. By amending the undesignated centerhead immediately preceding § 182.574h to read as follows: "Distilled Spirits Excise Tax Stamps for Removals in Packages, Tank Cars, or Tank Trucks and by Pipelines".

PAR. 39. Section 182.574h, as amended by Treasury Decision 5919, is further amended as follows:

(A) By inserting between the first and second sentence of the section the following new sentence: "The tax on alcohol removed in packages must be paid by such stamps."

(B) By deleting the word "collector" in the second sentence and substituting in lieu thereof the words "district director".

(C) By deleting the word "collectors" in the fourth sentence and substituting in lieu thereof the words "district directors".

PAR. 40. Section 182.574l, as amended by Treasury Decision 5919, is further amended to read as follows:

§ 182.574l Redemption of distilled spirits excise tax stamps. The assistant regional commissioner may redeem distilled spirits excise tax stamps that have been spoiled, destroyed, or rendered useless or unfit for the purpose intended, or for which the owner may have no use, or which through mistake may have been improperly or unnecessarily used.

PAR. 41. Section 182.574m, as amended by Treasury Decision 6075, approved June 28, 1954, is further amended as follows:

(A) By amending the headnote to read as follows: "Claim to Assistant Regional Commissioner".

PAR. 42. By amending the undesignated centerhead immediately preceding § 182.574o to read as follows: "Wholesale Liquor Dealer's Stamps for Packages, Tank Cars, and Tank Trucks".

PAR. 43. Section 182.574o, as amended by Treasury Decision 5919, is further amended to read as follows:

§ 182.574o Application for stamps. Where alcohol, taxpaid by use of distilled spirits excise tax stamps, is to be removed in packages, tank cars, or tank trucks, the proprietor will make a request for wholesale liquor dealer's stamps on Form 1440 at the time he submits the forms and distilled spirits excise tax stamps in accordance with § 182.568a.

PAR. 44. Section 182.574p, as amended by Treasury Decision 5919, is further amended to read as follows:

§ 182.574p Issuance of wholesale liquor dealer's stamps. On receipt of Forms 1440 bearing application for wholesale liquor dealer's stamps, the storekeeper-gauger will issue the stamps and enter the serial number of each stamp and a notation that the stamps were issued on all copies of Form 1440. The copy of Form 1440 retained by the storekeeper-gauger in the case of taxpayment where a wholesale liquor dealer's stamp is issued shall be placed in a permanent file as authority for issuance of the stamp. When issuing the stamps, the storekeeper-gauger will enter on each stamp all the information called for and affix his signature to the stamp in the space provided therefor. The storekeeper-gauger may enter his signature by means of facsimile stamp, provided care is taken to use only such ink as will neither fade nor blur. Where an appreciable number of wholesale liquor dealer's stamps will be used, the proprietor must provide the storekeeper-gauger in charge with suitable rubber

AUTHORITY: §§ 52.2501 to 52.2510 issued under sec. 205, 60 Stat. 1090; 7 U. S. C. 1624.

PRODUCT DESCRIPTION, KINDS, TYPES, STYLES, PROPORTIONS OF INGREDIENT, AND GRADES

§ 52.2501 Product description. Frozen peas and carrots is the product prepared from the fresh, clean, sound, immature seed of the common garden pea (Pisum sativum) and the fresh, clean, sound roots of the carrot plant (Daucus carota sativa). The peas are prepared by shelling, washing, sorting, and blanching. The carrots are prepared by washing, sorting, trimming, peeling, cutting into approximate cubes, and blanching. The prepared ingredients are properly drained and mixed; are frozen in accordance with good commercial practice; and are maintained at temperatures necessary for the preservation of the product.

§ 52.2502 Kinds, types, styles, and proportions of vegetables. (a) The kinds, types, styles, and proportions of the vegetables are as follows:

(1) Peas. Not less than 50 percent, by weight, of Early type or sweet type peas.

(2) Carrots. Not less than 25 percent, by weight, of diced style carrots, predominantly ¼ inch to ½ inch cubes.

(b) Compliance with the requirement for proportions of ingredients will be determined by averaging the total weight of each ingredient in all containers in the sample: Provided, That any deviation from the requirement for proportions of ingredients in any one sample does not exceed that expected under good commercial practice.

(c) The percentage, by weight, of the carrot ingredient consisting of units markedly smaller than one-half the volume of, or markedly larger than, the predominating size of the dice is determined by separating all such units from the carrot ingredient composited from all of the containers in the sample, weighing the units, and dividing the aggregate weight of all such units by the aggregate weight of the carrot ingredient as determined in paragraph (b) of this section.

§ 52.2503 Grades of frozen peas and carrots. (a) "U. S. Grade A" or "U. S. Fancy" is the quality of frozen peas and carrots in which each vegetable possesses similar varietal characteristics; in which the vegetables possess a good color, are practically free from defects, possess a good character, possess a good flavor, and score not less than 90 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this subpart.

(b) "U. S. Grade B" or "U. S. Extra Standard" is the quality of frozen peas and carrots in which each vegetable possesses similar varietal characteristics; in which the vegetables possess a reasonably good color, are reasonably free from defects, possess a reasonably good character, possess a good flavor, and score not less than 80 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this subpart.

(c) "U. S. Grade C" or "U. S. Standard" is the quality of frozen peas and carrots in which each vegetable possesses similar varietal characteristics; in which the vegetables possess a fairly good color, are fairly free from defects, possess a fairly good character, possess a fairly good flavor, and score not less than 70 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this subpart.

(d) "Substandard" is the quality of frozen peas and carrots that fail to meet the requirements of U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard.

FACTORS OF QUALITY

§ 52.2504 Ascertaining the grade—(a) General. The grade of frozen peas and carrots is ascertained by considering the factors of quality which are not scored and those which are scored, as follows:

(1) Factors which are not scored.
(i) Varietal characteristics.
(ii) Flavor.

(2) Factors which are scored. The relative importance of each factor which is scored is expressed numerically on the scale of 100. The maximum number of points that may be given such factors are:

Factors:	Points
Color	40
Defects	20
Character	40
Total score	100

(b) The scores for the factors of color and defects are determined immediately after thawing so that the product may be handled as individual units. The evaluation of the factors of flavor and character is made immediately after thawing and after cooking the product.

(c) "Good flavor" means that the product and each of the vegetables has a good, characteristic, normal flavor and odor, free from objectionable flavors and objectionable odors of any kind.

(d) "Fairly good flavor" means that the product after cooking may be lacking in good flavor and odor but is free from objectionable flavors and objectionable odors of any kind.

§ 52.2505 Ascertaining the rating for the factors which are scored. The essential variations within each factor which is scored are so described that the value may be ascertained for each factor and expressed numerically. The numerical range within each factor which is scored is inclusive. (For example, "18 to 20 points" means 18, 19, or 20 points.)

§ 52.2506 Color.—(a) General. The factor of color refers to the overall appearance of the product and to the color and brightness of the vegetables individually.

(b) (A) classification. Frozen peas and carrots which possess a good color may be given a score of 36 to 40 points. "Good color" means that the product possesses a color that is bright and typical of young and tender peas and tender diced carrots and that the appearance of the product is not more than slightly affected by variations in the color of the carrots and of the peas.

(c) (B) classification. If the frozen peas and carrots possess a reasonably good color, a score of 32 to 35 points may be given. Frozen peas and carrots that fall into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade B or U. S. Extra Standard regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Reasonably good color" means that the product possesses a color that is reasonably bright and typical of reasonably young and reasonably tender peas and tender diced carrots, and that the appearance of the product is not materially affected by variations in the color of the carrots and of the peas.

[1] Compliance with these standards does not excuse failure to comply with the provisions of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act.

UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN LIBRARIES

(d) (C) classification. If the frozen peas and carrots possess a fairly good color, a score of 28 to 31 points may be given. Frozen peas and carrots that fall into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Fairly good color" means that the product possesses a color that is typical of fairly young and fairly tender peas and reasonable tender diced carrots, may be dull but not off color, and the color of each ingredient may be variable but not to the extent that the appearance of the product is seriously affected.

(e) (SStd.) classification. If the frozen peas and carrots fail to meet the requirements of paragraph (d) of this section, a score of 0 to 27 points may be given and the product shall not be graded above Substandard regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

§ 52.2507 Defects—(a) General. The factor of defects refers to the degree of freedom from harmless extraneous material, damaged units, seriously damaged units, and any other defects which detract from the appearance or edibility of the product.

(1) "Harmless extraneous material" means any extraneous vegetable matter (including but not being limited to thistle buds, pods or pieces of pods, leaves, or pieces of carrot tops) which is harmless.

(2) "Damaged unit" means any pea or carrot dice that is affected by discoloration or other blemish to the extent that the appearance or edibility of the unit is materially affected and has the following specific meanings with respect to each vegetable:

(i) Peas. Any spotted or off-colored pea (such as brown, gray, cream, or yellow-white).

(ii) Carrots. Any unit possessing an unpeeled area greater than the area of a circle ⅛ inch in diameter; and any unit blemished by internal or external discoloration, by sunburn or green color, or by other means.

(3) "Seriously damaged unit" means a pea or carrot dice that is damaged to the extent that the appearance and edibility of the unit is seriously affected and includes units with very dark spots or discolored units and other similar injury regardless of the area affected.

(4) "Other defects" means any defects not specially mentioned that affect the appearance or edibility of the product and include but are not limited to the following:

(i) Peas. Mashed peas, broken peas, loose cotyledons, loose skins, and any portions thereof.

(ii) Carrots. Crushed, broken, cracked or irregularly shaped units; units with excessively frayed edges and surfaces; and units markedly smaller than one-half the volume of, or markedly larger than, the predominating size of the dice.

(b) (A) classification. Frozen peas and carrots that are practically free from defects may be given a score of 18 to 20 points. "Practically free from defects" means compliance with the following requirements:

(1) Not more than one very small piece of harmless extraneous material or pieces having an aggregate area of not more than 3/16 sq. in. for each 10 ounces of the product.

(2) Not more than 10 damaged and seriously damaged units for each 10 ounces of the product of which not more than 2 units are seriously damaged: Provided, That damaged and seriously damaged units, either singly or in combination, no more than slightly affect the appearance or eating quality of the product; and

(3) Other defects, individually or collectively, do not more than slightly affect the appearance of the product, and that not more than 12 percent, by weight, of the carrot ingredient consists of units markedly smaller than one-half the volume of, or markedly larger than, the predominating size of the dice.

(c) (B) classification. If the frozen peas and carrots are reasonably free from defects a score of 16 or 17 points may be given. Frozen peas and carrots that fall into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade B or U. S. Extra Standard regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Reasonably free from defects" means compliance with the following requirements:

(1) Not more than one piece of harmless extraneous material or pieces having an aggregate area of not more than 3/8 sq. in. for each 10 ounces of the product;

(2) Not more than 14 damaged and seriously damaged units for each 10 ounces of the product of which not more than 3 units are seriously damaged: Provided, That damaged and seriously damaged units, either singly, or in combination do not materially affect the appearance or edibility of the product; and

(3) Other defects, individually or collectively, do not seriously affect the appearance of the product; and that not more than 25 percent, by weight, of the carrot ingredient consists of units markedly smaller than one-half the volume of, or markedly larger than, the predominating size of the dice.

(e) (SStd.) classification. Frozen peas and carrots that fail to meet the requirements of paragraph (d) of this section may be given a score of 0 to 13 points and shall not be graded above Substandard regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

§ 52.2508 Character—(a) General. The factor of character refers to the tenderness and maturity of the peas; and the tenderness and degree of freedom from stringy or coarse fibers in the carrots; and to the tenderness of the combined vegetables after cooking.

(b) Meaning of terms. Unless indicated otherwise the meaning of the terms pertaining to the tenderness and maturity of each vegetable prior to cooking are the same as those in the applicable United States standards for grades of the respective frozen product.

(c) (A) classification. Frozen peas and carrots which collectively and individually possess a good character may be given a score of 36 to 40 points. "Good character" means that the combined vegetables after cooking are tender and that each vegetable prior to cooking meets the following requirements:

(1) Peas. The peas are reasonably tender and are the equivalent of frozen peas that would score not less than 34 points for the factor of "tenderness and maturity" as outlined in the "United States Standards for Grades of Frozen Peas."

(2) Carrots. The carrots are tender, not fibrous, and possess a practically uniform texture.

(d) (B) classification. If the frozen peas and carrots, collectively and individually, possess a reasonably good character a score of 32 to 35 points may be given. Frozen peas and carrots that fall into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade B or U. S. Extra Standard regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Reasonably good character" means that the combined vegetables after cooking are reasonably tender and that each vegetable prior to cooking meets the following requirements:

(1) Peas. The peas are reasonably tender and are the equivalent of frozen peas that would score not less than 32 points for the factor of "tenderness and maturity" as outlined in the "United States Standards for Grades of Frozen Peas."

(2) Carrots. The carrots are tender, not fibrous, and possess a practically uniform texture.

(e) (C) classification. If the frozen peas and carrots, collectively and individually, possess a fairly good character a score of 28 to 31 points may be given. Frozen peas and carrots that fall into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Fairly good character" means that the combined vegetables after cooking are fairly tender and that each vegetable prior to cooking meets the following requirements:

(1) Peas. The peas are at least fairly tender.

(2) Carrots. The carrots are at least reasonably tender, may be variable in texture but are not tough or hard, and there may be present a few units which possess a coarse fibrous texture.

(f) (SStd.) classification. Frozen peas and carrots that fail to meet the requirements of paragraph (d) of this section may be given a score of 0 to 27 points and shall not be graded above Substandard regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

LOT CERTIFICATION TOLERANCES

§ 52.2509 Tolerances for certification of officially drawn samples. When certifying samples that have been officially drawn and which represent a specific lot of frozen peas and carrots the grade for such lot will be determined by averaging the total scores of the containers comprising the sample, if all containers comprising the sample meet all applicable standards of quality promulgated under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act and in effect at the time of the aforesaid certification; and with respect to those factors which are scored:

(a) Not more than one-sixth of the containers fails to meet the grade indicated by the average of such total scores;

(b) None of the containers falls more than 4 points below the minimum score for the grade indicated by the average of such total scores;

(c) None of the containers falls more than one grade below the grade indicated by the average of such total scores; and

(d) The average score of all containers for any factor subject to a limiting rule is within the score range of that factor for the grade indicated by the average of the total scores of the containers comprising the sample.

UNITED GAS CORP. AND UNION PRODUCING CO.

NOTICE OF FILING OF APPLICATION-DECLARATION REGARDING ISSUE AND SALE TO PARENT COMPANY OF ADDITIONAL SHARES OF COMMON STOCK BY NON-UTILITY SUBSIDIARY OF PUBLIC UTILITY COMPANY

NOVEMBER 10, 1954.

Notice is hereby given that a joint application-declaration has been filed with this Commission pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act") by United Gas Corporation ("United"), a public-utility subsidiary of Electric Bond and Share Company, a registered holding company, and Union Producing Company ("Union"), a non-utility subsidiary of United which owns all of Union's outstanding securities. Applicants-declarants have designated sections 6 (b), 9 (a) (1), 10 and 12 of the act and Rules U-43 and U-50 (a) (3) promulgated thereunder as applicable to the proposed transactions.

All interested persons are referred to said application-declaration which is on file in the offices of the Commission for a statement of the transactions therein proposed, which are summarized as follows:

Union proposes to issue and sell, and United proposes to acquire, during a period of 12 months following the date of entry of the Commission's order herein, not to exceed a total of 5,000 shares of Union's no par value common stock for not to exceed an aggregate amount of $5,000,000 in cash. Such shares of stock, which will be sold and acquired in such numbers and at such times as funds may be required by Union, will be pledged with the corporate trustee under United's Mortgage and Deed of Trust.

Union represents that it has become necessary for it to augment its working capital by reason, among other things, of it being a successful bidder for offshore oil and gas leases, offered by the Federal government at competitive bidding, which bids are in an aggregate amount of over $4,000,000.

The filing states that no State commission and no Federal regulatory agency, other than this Commission, has jurisdiction over the proposed transactions.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than November 29, 1954, at 5:30 p. m., e. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the reasons for such request, the nature of his interest and the issues of fact or law, if any, raised by such application-declaration which he proposes to controvert, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request shall bear the caption of this Notice and shall be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D. C. At any time after November 29, 1954, said application-declaration, as filed or as hereafter amended, may be granted and permitted to become effective as provided in Rule U-23 of the general rules and regulations promulgated under the act, or the Commission may exempt such transactions as provided in Rule U-20 (a) and U-100 thereof.

By the Commission.

PART 602—COOPERATION OF UNITED STATES EMPLOYMENT SERVICE AND STATES IN ESTABLISHING AND MAINTAINING A NATIONAL SYSTEM OF PUBLIC EMPLOYMENT OFFICES

RECRUITMENT OF LABOR AND CERTIFICATION AND USE OF FOREIGN LABOR FOR AGRICULTURE AND RELATED INDUSTRIES

Pursuant to authority vested in me by section 12, 48 Stat. 117, as amended, 29 U. S. C. 49k, the regulations contained in this part are amended as follows:

1. Section 602.9 is amended to read as follows:

§ 602.9 Recruitment of labor for agriculture and related industries. Each State agency needing agricultural labor to meet shortages in areas where local labor is deemed not to be available shall place such orders in interstate clearance in accordance with standards and procedures established by the United States Employment Service after the following conditions have been met:

(a) The State agency has examined the estimated crop acreage, yield, and other production factors in accordance with reasonable minimum standards established by the United States Employment Service to assure the validity of need and the minimum number of workers required.

(b) The State agency assures that (1) terms and conditions of employment are not less favorable than those offered by employers who have been successful in recruiting and retaining domestic workers for similar work in the area; (2) housing and facilities are available and will be, at the time of occupancy, hygienic and adequate to the climatic conditions of the area of employment; (3) wages offered are not less than the prevailing wage rates paid in the area to agricultural workers who are similarly employed; and (4) transportation from the pick-up point to the place of employment, and return, each day is provided by the employer to any available local workers, in accordance with the common practice of employers in the area.

(c) The State agency will compile, maintain, and furnish the Secretary of Labor as requested, and make available to interested individuals, agencies, and the public, current information on prevailing wages paid, wages being offered on orders in the local office, and wages being offered for employment for which orders are not on file in the local office, and information on labor demand and labor supply. The State agency shall publish such information as is necessary in connection with the recruitment of labor for agriculture.

(d) The State agency will cooperate actively with designated State agencies responsible for conditions of housing and health and will make every effort to assure that housing and facilities offered workers meet minimum standards suggested by the United States Employment Service.

2. Section 602.10 is amended to read as follows:

§ 602.10 Certification and use of foreign labor for agriculture and related industries. (a) Each State agency with a foreseeable labor shortage remaining after planning to utilize all the usual sources of available domestic workers or having a current shortage after the use of the interstate clearance process, may request the certification of need for foreign labor to meet such shortages by submitting the following certification:

(1) Reasonable efforts have been made and will continue to be made to obtain domestic workers for the period for which these workers are requested. "Reasonable efforts" will include full use of (i) day-haul operations in accordance with the general practices of other employers in the area, or, in the absence of local day-haul operations, day-haul operations in accordance with the general practices within the State, and (ii) the interstate clearance process for recruitment in areas within a reasonable distance. (In order to recruit workers from out of the State, a minimum period of 15 days prior to the date of need will be required by the labor-supply State agency for positive recruitment. In addition, the offer for local workers must be at the same rate which is specified on the date of need in the clearance order, or a request for foreign workers will be denied.)

(2) Employment of such labor will not adversely affect the wages or working conditions of domestic workers similarly employed in the area.

(b) The State agency will not submit a request for workers more than 60 days nor less than 30 days prior to the date of need. Such request shall be reviewed by the State agency not more than 15 days prior to the date of need and the State agency will advise the appropriate Bureau of Employment Security regional office whether the conditions necessitating foreign workers previously certified to by the State agency still prevail, or whether the request should be cancelled or revised.

Signed at Washington, D. C., this 22d day of September 1954.

Section 1457.5 Treatment of contracts with price adjustment provisions is amended in the following respects:

1. In paragraph (d) (1) (ii), add the following sentence at the end thereof: "As used in this section, the word "reserve" refers only to the amount agreed upon and allowed to the contractor at the time of renegotiation as a provision for reasonably anticipated net downward price revision under contracts containing price adjustment provisions, irrespective of any provision the contractor may have made on its books for such purpose; the reserve is the amount by which the aggregate of the amounts accruable before adjustment for price redetermination exceeds the amount used for purposes of the renegotiation agreement as the receipts or accruals of the contractor under such contracts."

2. Paragraph (d) (2) is deleted in its entirety and the following is inserted in lieu thereof:

(2) Other cases. If, for the fiscal year under review, the contractor sustains an over-all loss or realizes an amount of profits which is not determined to be excessive, so that the case is either withheld from assignment or, if assigned, is concluded by the issuance of a clearance (see §§ 1471.1 and 1473.1 of this subchapter), and if at such time the receipts or accruals of the contractor for the fiscal year under review are subject to adjustment pursuant to contract price adjustment provisions applicable in whole or in part to such fiscal year, the following rules will apply: If a net upward price revision is reasonably anticipated, the amount thereof will be estimated and included in renegotiable sales for the fiscal year under review to the extent allocable to such year. If a net downward price revision is reasonably anticipated, the amount thereof will be estimated and allowed to the contractor as a reduction of renegotiable sales for the fiscal year under review to the extent allocable to such year. In either case, if the outcome of the pending price adjustment is sufficiently uncertain so that it is believed that the contractor may realize additional profits allocable to the fiscal year under review by receiving more than the amount of an anticipated net upward revision or by not being required to pay the full allocable amount of an anticipated net downward revision, and if the amount of such additional profits is considered to be sufficiently substantial to affect the result of renegotiation for the fiscal year under review, a determination will be made by the Board or Regional Board of the amount of additional profits which the contractor may thereby realize without incurring any liability for excessive profits for such year. This will be done only when it is considered that by the operation of such contract price adjustment provisions the contractor may realize additional profits in an amount sufficient to bring its total renegotiable profits for the fiscal year under review above the clearance level so determined. Any such case will not be withheld from assignment or closed by a notice of clearance, but will be assigned and closed by a clearance agreement containing a clause in the form set forth in § 1498.2 (g) (2) or (4), as the case may be, of this subchapter.

[9 CFR Part 131]

[Docket No. AO16-A4]

HANDLING OF ANTI-HOG-CHOLERA SERUM AND HOG-CHOLERA VIRUS

NOTICE OF RECOMMENDED DECISION AND OPPORTUNITY TO FILE WRITTEN EXCEPTIONS WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO MARKETING AGREEMENT AND ORDER, AS AMENDED

Pursuant to the provisions of Public Law 320, 74th Congress, approved August 24, 1935 (49 Stat. 781; 7 U. S. C. 851 et seq.) and the rules of practice and procedure governing formulation of Marketing Agreements and Marketing Orders applicable to Anti-Hog-Cholera Serum and Hog-Cholera Virus (9 CFR Part 132), notice is hereby given of the filing with the Hearing Clerk of the recommended decision of the Chief of the Animal Inspection and Quarantine Branch, Agricultural Research Service, United States Department of Agriculture, with respect to a proposed amendment to the marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of anti-hog-cholera serum and hog-cholera virus.

Interested parties may file written exceptions to this recommended decision with the Hearing Clerk, Room 1371, South Building, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., not later than the close of business on the 15th day after its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Exceptions should be filed in quadruplicate.

Preliminary statement. Testimony with respect to the proposed amendments to the marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, was received at a public hearing held at Kansas City, Missouri, July 21, 1954, pursuant to notice thereof published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on June 25, 1954 (19 F. R. 3873).

The material issues presented on the record are:

1. Whether or not modified and inactivated hog-cholera virus are viruses within the meaning of the Anti-Hog-Cholera Serum and Hog-Cholera Virus Marketing Agreement Act.

2. Whether it is necessary to regulate modified and inactivated virus in order to effectuate the purposes of the act.

3. The method of computing assessments of handlers to cover the expense of the Control Agency.

4. Other conforming changes.

Findings and conclusions. Upon the basis of the evidence adduced at the hearing and on the record thereof, it is hereby found and concluded that:

1. Modified and inactivated hog-cholera viruses are viruses within the meaning of the Anti-Hog-Cholera Serum and Hog-Cholera Virus Marketing Agreement Act.

At the time the act was passed the only known hog-cholera virus was virulent virus which, from the standpoint of the act, contained two distinct properties: the ability to produce the disease of hog cholera and, when used in conjunction with anti-hog-cholera serum, the ability to stimulate the body cells of pigs to produce antibodies against hog cholera, thereby giving active immunity against the disease. The use of serum alone will immunize the pig against hog cholera for only a short period of time, the virulent virus being the active immunization agent in this method of inoculation.

Research on the part of virologists in recent years resulted in producing hog-cholera viruses that are free of the disease-producing property yet have retained the property of stimulating antibody production in swine, thereby actively immunizing the inoculated animals against hog-cholera.

The record sets forth the presently known methods of producing these viruses. Generally speaking they fall within two categories, (1) inactivated virus which is produced by exposing the virulent virus to certain chemicals, thereby inactivating it in its disease producing properties, or its ability to multiply, while retaining its ability to stimulate antibodies against hog cholera, and (2) modified virus which is produced by serial passage of the virulent virus through an unnatural host or media which modifies it to the extent that it loses its ability to produce the disease but does not deprive the virus of its immunizing properties. The modified and inactivated viruses are hog-cholera virus from a scientific and immunological standpoint. Their immunological responses are the same as virulent virus, they have the same antigenic structure, and the same properties to stimulate body cells to produce antibodies against hog cholera. The utilization of all these viruses is for the purpose of immunizing swine against hog cholera. It is necessary to use a small amount of anti-hog-cholera serum with some of these viruses in the inoculation process and with others the simultaneous use of serum is not necessary, although recommended under certain circumstances.

The objective of the act in regulating the marketing of anti-hog-cholera serum and hog-cholera virus is the protection of the swine of the nation against the disease of hog-cholera. Its declared purposes are the maintenance of an adequate and available supply of such serum and virus and the prevention of excessive fluctuations and unfair methods of competition in the marketing of such products. The legislation was considered necessary in view of the extremely fatal and highly contagious nature of the disease of hog cholera, its continuous existence at all times in some part of the United States, and the disastrous effect a widespread epidemic would have on the national economy, and the fact that anti-hog-cholera serum and hog-cholera virus are the only products available to farmers that give immunity to swine against hog cholera.

The act is prospective in its application and purpose and expressed in general terms, specifying "hog-cholera virus" without words of restriction or limitation. Evidence adduced at the hearing discloses that the modified and inactivated hog-cholera viruses are hog-cholera viruses from a scientific and immunological standpoint and serve the same purpose as virulent virus does under the purposes of the act. The language of the act is sufficiently broad to clearly bring within its scope and intent such viruses even though they did not exist or were not known at the time of the passage of the act. Both Federal and State Courts have long applied a general rule of construction of statutory language to the effect that legislative enactments in general and comprehensive terms, prospective in operation, apply to persons, subjects and businesses within their general purview and scope, though coming into existence after their passage. Subjects, such as automobiles, radio and television, have been held to be within the purview of a statute even though not in existence or were unknown at the time of the passage of the act in question, where such subjects came within the intent and purpose of the act in question. Cain v. Bowlby, 114 F. 2d 510, cert. den. 311 U. S. 710; Browder v. United States, 312 U. S. 335, 339; Remick & Co. v. American Automobile Accessories Co., 5 F. 2d 411, cert. den. 269 U. S. 556; Commonwealth v. Quaker City Cab Co., 134 A. 404, rev. on other grounds, 277 U. S. 389; In re Fox Film Corporation, 145 A. 514; Haselton v. Interstate Stage Lines, 133 A. 451; Phila. Retail Liquor Dealers Ass'n v. Penn Liquor Control Board, 62 A. 2d 53; State v. City of Jacksonville, 50 So. 2d 532; Bruce Transfer Co. v. Johnston, 287 N. W. 278; Pellish Bros. v. Cooper, 38 P. 2d 607; Burton v. Monticello & Burnside Turnpike Co., 173 S. W. 144.

2. It is necessary to bring modified and inactivated hog-cholera viruses within the purview of the marketing agreement and order in order to effectuate the purposes of the act.

Approximately 50 percent of the hog population of the United States is annually immunized, leaving the remaining 50 percent susceptible to outbreaks of cholera. Modified and inactivated viruses are not intended for use in the face of immediate outbreaks of the disease as there is a time lag of a minimum of six to eight days after the administration of the virus before immunity develops and during this period the swine should not be exposed to cholera. Such outbreaks can be controlled only by the use of anti-hog-cholera serum. As the disease spreads very rapidly, it is necessary that substantial and available inventories of serum be maintained at all times in readily accessible places for immediate use by farmers in order to prevent enormous loss. The maintenance of these serum reserves requires considerable financial outlay, and stability of marketing, therefore, must be maintained in order to encourage and insure that sufficient reserves are produced and made available in times of great need.

All the viruses, virulent, modified, and inactivated, are solely used for the purpose of immunizing hogs, and they compete with each other for the same market. Evidence in the record discloses that the introduction of modified and inactivated virus on the market created a disturbing element in the marketing of serum and virus and upon the maintenance of serum reserves. Certain competitive practices in the marketing of the modified and inactivated viruses cannot be met by the handlers of the regulated product because of the provisions of the marketing agreement and order. Such handlers are, therefore, placed in a disadvantageous position from the standpoint of meeting the competition of a product of the same nature and used for the same purpose, which tends to create unstable marketing conditions. Further, the regulation of the marketing of serum and virulent virus creates stability in the marketing and availability of these products which inures to the benefit of the handlers of the other viral products. The burden of regulation for purposes of stabilization and availability of serum and virus, with its concomitant of administrative expense, should not be placed upon only one segment of the industry but should be borne by all on an equal footing. Furthermore, the placing of all viruses under the purview of the marketing agreement and order will result in more orderly marketing, the maintenance of an available and adequate supply of serum and virus, and will tend to effectuate the purposes of the act.

3 a. The assessment of a wholesaler handler for his pro rata share of the expense of the Control Agency is now based on the volume of serum marketed by such handler, at the rate of $25 for the first 1,000,000 cubic centimeters marketed, and any amount over 1,000,000 cubic centimeters at a rate based upon the ratio between the quantity handled by each wholesaler to the total quantity handled by all wholesalers in excess of 1,000,000 cubic centimeters. At the time the 1,000,000 cc's provision was adopted the simultaneous serum-virulent virus method of immunization was the generally accepted practice, and as such serum and virus were jointly marketed in approximately the ratio of 15 to 1, respectively, the provision resulted in an equitable distribution of the costs of administration. However, the new viruses are not marketed in the same ratio and it is necessary, therefore, to obtain a new medium that will result in assessing all immunizing agents on a pro rata basis. It is proposed to amend the provision by basing the assessment on the dollar volume of serum and virus marketed, in view of the fact that all immunizing agents are not marketed on a common unit of measurement. One Thousand Dollars was first proposed but at the hearing this proposal was amended to the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars as the amount to be substituted for 1,000,000 cubic centimeters. It is contended that the use of $10,000 in computing assessments would result in apportioning such assessments in approximately the same ratio as the present provision.

There are no available statistics on the amount of all immunizing agents marketed by the various wholesalers in prior years. It would appear, therefore, that the only method available for testing the accuracy of the contention is by comparison of the number of pigs that could be inoculated for the price of 1,000,000 cc's of serum with the number that could be inoculated for $10,000 by the use of the various immunizing agents. The average dealer cost of 1,000,000 cc's of serum at current prices is approximately $12,500. Approximately 27,400 pigs could be vaccinated by the simultaneous serum-virulent virus method for this sum of money, on the basis of 2 cc's of virus and 30 cc's of serum at an average cost of 45.6 cents plus per dose.

The cost per dose, at currently quoted prices to dealers, of modified virus ranges from 35 to 40 cents, and the cost per dose of inactivated virus ranges from 33⅓ to 39 cents. The minimum cost per dose of modified virus used with the minimum amount of serum is 42.3 cents. Using the foregoing quoted prices per dose, we find that $10,000 would allow a dealer to purchase virus sufficient to vaccinate from 25,000 to 28,500 pigs with modified virus; from 26,000 to 30,000 pigs with inactivated virus, and 23,600 pigs with serum and modified virus. Testimony given at the hearing indicates that vaccination by the use of modified and inactivated viruses is utilized to almost the same extent as vaccination by serum and virulent virus and that such practice is growing steadily. On the basis of the comparative costs of vaccination by the various methods and the utilization percentage of such methods between the serum-virulent virus and the new viruses, it would appear that the sum of dollars to be substituted for 1,000,000 cc's should be somewhat less than the cost of 1,000,000 cc's of serum, or $12,500. It is realized that there are other factors (such as the relative amounts and prices of each of the immunizing agents marketed) that should be considered in resolving the question; however, statistics on such factors do not exist. On presently available data it would appear that $10,000 would be a representative figure for a basis of computing the pro rata shares of wholesalers.

Reports on the sales of the various immunizing agents will be required to be made for the coming year. If such reports disclose that there is an imbalance of assessments as between wholesalers under this recommended amendment, the amendment process is available to amend the marketing agreement and order on the basis of facts revealed by statistical material gathered from the aforesaid reports.

b. Under the provisions of the marketing agreement and order a manufacturer handler is assessed for his pro rata share of the expenses of the Control Agency on the basis of such handler's percentage of the total amount of hyperimmune blood collected by all manufacturer handlers during the preceding calendar year, payable in quarterly installments. It is proposed to base the pro rata share on such handler's percentage of the total dollar volume of serum and virus marketed by all manufacturer handlers during the preceding calendar year, with payment of one-half of the previous year's assessment on or before February 1 and the remainder on or before July 1 of each year.

Hyperimmune blood is used only in the manufacture of serum and the volume of the product, therefore, cannot be utilized in assessing costs against the marketing of virus. The proposal utilizes the present percentage formula and should result in the same division of expense percentagewise on the marketing of serum and virus.

Under the present provisions of the order there is a time lag in the payment of assessments occasioned by the receipt of reports and computing of assessments, resulting in periods of difficulty in financing the administration of the marketing agreement and order. The prepayment of one-half the previous year's assessment with adjustment in the final billing will provide the necessary funds for operation in the early part of the year.

4. In order to carry out the foregoing recommendation, and for purposes of determining the approval of proposed amendments by handlers as required by the act, it will be necessary for all handlers to file reports with the Secretary, not later than March 15 of each year, setting forth the dollar volume and the number of cubic centimeters of serum and virus marketed in each calendar year. In order to determine compliance with the provisions of the act with respect to emergency reserves, each manufacturer handler should file a report with the Secretary on or before June 1 of each year, showing the amount of completed serum on hand as of May 1.

Other minor changes to conform the entire marketing agreement and order with the aforesaid recommendations are set forth in the following recommended amendments.

Rulings on proposed findings and conclusions. Only one brief was filed, which brief recommended the adoption of the proposals. All proposed findings and conclusions contained therein have been discussed herein and any in conflict with this decision are denied.

Recommended amendments to the marketing agreement and order, as amended. The following amendments to the marketing agreement and the order, as amended, are recommended as the detailed and appropriate means by which the foregoing conclusions may be carried out.

1. Amend § 131.4 to read as follows:

§ 131.4 Serum or virus—(a) Serum. Anti-hog-cholera serum manufactured in compliance with standards and regulations promulgated by the United States Department of Agriculture, or manufactured under license or authority of any State or otherwise, and marketed in interstate and foreign commerce or so as directly to burden, obstruct, or affect interstate or foreign commerce.

(b) Virus. Virulent, modified, or inactivated hog-cholera virus, or any derivative or variation of hog-cholera virus, which is used alone or in connection with anti-hog-cholera serum to protect hogs against hog cholera, manufactured in compliance with regulations promulgated by the United States Department of Agriculture, or manufactured under license or authority of any State or otherwise, and marketed in interstate or foreign commerce or so as directly to burden, obstruct, or affect interstate or foreign commerce.

2. Wherever the words "serum and virus", "serum and/or virus", and "anti-hog-cholera serum and hog-cholera virus" occur in §§ 131.5, 131.7, 131.8, 131.9, 131.10, 131.11, 131.58, 131.71, 131.73, 131.74, 131.77, delete the words "and" and "and/or" therefrom and substitute therefor the word "or".

3. Add § 131.16 to read as follows:

§ 131.16 Dollar volume. The sum of money received from the total yearly sales of serum and virus less any credit allowed for returned serum and virus.

4. Add Paragraph (d) to § 131.42 to read as follows:

(d) Any funds derived from assessments or any other source which have not been expended by the Control Agency at the end of a calendar year shall be carried over by the Control Agency, to be expended during the succeeding calendar year.

5. Amend § 131.43 to read as follows:

§ 131.43 Method of wholesaler handler assessments. As his pro rata share of the expenses of the Control Agency to be borne by all wholesaler handlers, each wholesaler handler shall pay to the Control Agency a sum computed on the basis of the dollar volume of serum and virus marketed by such handler during the preceding calendar year at the following applicable rates:

(a) Ten thousand dollars, or less—$25.00;

(b) Over ten thousand dollars—at a rate per ten thousand dollars, or fraction thereof, to be fixed by the Secretary based upon the ratio between the dollar volume of marketings of each wholesaler handler whose marketings are in excess of ten thousand dollars and the total dollar volume of marketings of all wholesaler handlers whose marketings are in excess of ten thousand dollars.

The pro rata share of all wholesaler handlers shall be obtained by assessing the first ten thousand dollars or less of the dollar volume of serum and virus marketed by each wholesaler handler, and if the sum obtained is not sufficient to cover the total amount of the pro rata share of all wholesaler handlers such additional amounts as are necessary to be assessed shall be assessed in the manner set forth in paragraph (b) of this section. If the total sum obtained by assessing the first ten thousand dollars, or less, of the dollar volume of serum and virus marketed by each wholesaler is greater than the pro rata share of all wholesaler handlers, the rate of assessment for ten thousand dollars, or less, shall be adjusted by the Secretary to an amount that will return the sum necessary to cover the pro rata share of all wholesaler handlers. The amount of each wholesaler handler's pro rata share shall be computed by the disinterested agency selected under the provisions of § 131.46. Such pro rata share shall be subject to the approval of the Secretary. The pro rata share of each wholesaler handler shall be paid as follows: $25.00 on or before January 15, of each year beginning with the year 1955, and the remaining sum, if any, within fifteen (15) days after being billed therefor. Such payments shall be made to the disinterested agency which shall transmit the total amount received to the Control Agency without disclosing the amount paid by each handler. In the event the Secretary adjusts the pro rata share of each wholesaler handler to an amount less than $25.00, the excess paid shall be credited on such handler's pro rata share of the following year's assessment.

6. Amend § 131.45 to read as follows:

§ 131.45 Method of manufacturer handler's assessment. The pro rata share of expenses to be paid by each manufacturer handler shall be based upon such handler's percentage of the total dollar volume of serum and virus marketed by all such handlers during the preceding calendar year. The amount of each manufacturer handler's pro rata share shall be computed by the disinterested agency selected under the provisions of § 131.46. The pro rata share of each manufacturer handler shall be paid as follows: An amount equal to one-half of the previous year's assessment shall be due and payable on or before February 1 of each year, and the remaining balance assessed shall be due and payable on or before July 1 of each year, beginning with the year 1955. Such payments shall be made to the disinterested agency which shall transmit the amount received to the Control Agency without disclosing the amount paid by each handler.

7. Amend § 131.46 to read as follows:

§ 131.46 Reports. (a) On or before March 15, 1955, and on or before March 15 of each year thereafter, each handler shall furnish the Secretary, through a disinterested agency to be selected by the Control Agency and approved by the Secretary, a report, which shall be sworn to, setting forth the dollar volume of serum and virus marketed by such handler during the preceding calendar year, and the cubic centimeter volume of serum and virus marketed by such handler during the preceding calendar year. On or before June 1 of each year, each manufacturer handler shall file a report with the Secretary, which shall be sworn to, setting forth the quantity of completed serum such handler had on hand on May 1 of such year.

(b) The disinterested agency shall make reports to the Secretary with respect to the marketings of serum and virus and collections of assessments under this part upon request therefor by the Secretary, and shall promptly transmit to the Control Agency all sums of money received by it from handlers in payment of assessments. The Secretary shall inform the agency concerning the total amount of the pro rata share of manufacturer handlers and the total amount of the pro rata share of wholesaler handlers of the expenses of the Control Agency.

PREVAILING MINIMUM WAGE FOR ENVELOPE INDUSTRY

NOTICE OF HEARING ON PROPOSED AMENDMENT

The Secretary of Labor, in a minimum wage determination issued pursuant to the provisions of the Walsh-Healey Public Contracts Act (41 U. S. C. secs. 35–45) and made effective January 25, 1950 (15 F. R. 382) determined that the prevailing minimum wage for persons employed in the envelope industry was not less than 75 cents per hour. This determination also authorized employment of learners and handicapped workers in accordance with regulations, standards and procedures under the Fair Labor Standards Act. This determination is currently in effect as editorially revised and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on July 20, 1950 (15 F. R. 4637).

The Secretary of Labor has decided that a review of this determination is appropriate.

The industry is presently defined as "that industry which manufactures or furnishes envelopes."

Now, therefore, notice is hereby given: That a public hearing will be held on Tuesday, December 14, 1954 at 10:00 a. m. in Room 2203, United States Department of Labor Building, 14th Street and Constitution Avenue, Northwest, Washington, D. C., before the Secretary of Labor or a duly assigned Hearing Examiner, at which hearing all interested persons may appear and submit data, views, and argument (1) as to what are the prevailing minimum wages in the envelope industry; (2) as to whether there should be included in any amended determination for this industry provision for employment of learners or beginners at subminimum rates and on what terms or limitations, if any, such employment should be permitted; (3) as to the propriety of the present definition of this industry; and (4) as to whether a single determination applicable for all of the area in which the industry operates, or a separate determination for each of several different smaller geographical areas (including the appropriate limits of such areas), should be determined for this industry. Employment and wage data have been prepared in the Department of Labor for consideration at the hearing and will be made available to interested parties upon request.

Persons intending to appear are requested to notify the Secretary of Labor of their intention in advance of the hearing. Written statements in lieu of personal appearance may be filed by mail at any time prior to the date of the hearing, or may be filed with the presiding officer at the hearing. An original and four copies of any such statement should be filed.

Persons who wish to appear should be prepared to testify with respect to the adequacy and accuracy of the employment and wage data prepared in the Department of Labor, and also to present specific factual information in support or in derogation of the adequacy and accuracy of such data.

The following information is particularly invited with respect to the subject matter of the testimony or statements of each witness: (1) The number of workers covered in the presentation; (2) the number and location of establishments; (3) minimum wages paid at the end of a probationary or learner period, the number of workers receiving such wages, and the occupations in which these employees are found; (4) the entrance rate for learners, beginners and probationary workers, the length of such learning or probationary period, and the number of workers paid such entrance rates; and (5) the extent to which there is competition in this industry between different plants in different geographical areas both for Government contract and commercial business.

To the extent possible, data should be submitted in such a manner as to permit evaluation thereof on a plant by plant basis.

Signed at Washington, D. C., this 13th day of November 1954.

The lands are located along the Hassayampa River five to six miles north of Wickenburg, Arizona, in Yavapai County. The lands are rough and broken and are completely unsuitable for any agricultural development. Portions of the lands are mineral in character and the area produces some forage for range livestock.

All of the public lands described in this order are included in withdrawal for reclamation purposes under the act of June 17, 1902 (32 Stat. 388; 43 U. S. C. 416) and are therefore not subject to disposal under the public land laws except as that withdrawal may be modified to permit disposal.

The State of Arizona has waived the 90-day preference right provided by the act of May 28, 1948 (62 Stat. 275) and section 24 of the Federal Power Act (41 Stat. 1075; 16 U. S. C. 818) as amended.

This order shall not become effective to change the status of the described land until 10:00 a. m. on the 10th day after the date of this order. At that time the said land shall become subject to application, petition, location and selection under the applicable public-land laws; subject to valid existing rights, the provisions of existing withdrawals, the requirements of applicable laws, and the 91-day preference right filing period for veterans and others entitled to preference under the act of September 27, 1944 (58 Stat. 747; 43 U. S. C. 279-284), as amended. All applications filed pursuant to the Veterans' Preference Act of 1944, on or before 10:00 a. m. of the 10th day after the date of this order shall be treated as though simultaneously filed at that time. All other applications under the public-land laws filed on or before 10:00 a. m. of the 101st day after the date of this order shall be treated as though simultaneously filed at that time.

Inquiries concerning these lands shall be addressed to Manager, Arizona Land Office, Bureau of Land Management, Room 243 Main Post Office Building, Phoenix, Arizona.

E. I. ROWLAND,
State Supervisor.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[File Nos. 54-173, 54-191]

STANDARD GAS AND ELECTRIC CO. AND PHILADELPHIA CO.

NOTICE OF FILING OF AMENDMENTS TO PLANS PROPOSING PARTIAL LIQUIDATING DISTRIBUTIONS AND AMENDMENT OF CERTIFICATE OF INCORPORATION

NOVEMBER 12, 1954.

I. Pursuant to section 11 (b) (2) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act"), Standard Gas and Electric Company ("Standard"), a registered holding company, and Philadelphia Company ("Philadelphia"), a subsidiary of Standard and also a registered holding company, have heretofore been ordered by this Commission to liquidate and dissolve. (See Holding Company Act Release Nos. 8242 (June 1, 1948), 8773 (December 31, 1948) and 10717 (August 14, 1951).) In compliance with such orders, Standard previously filed with the Commission under section 11 (e) of the act a plan ("Standard Plan") for compliance by Standard and Philadelphia with the provisions of section 11 of the act (File No. 54-191) and a plan ("Philadelphia Plan") for simplification of the corporate structure of the Philadelphia holding company system (File No. 54-173). The proceedings on the two plans were consolidated and substantially all of the transactions proposed to be taken pursuant to the plans, as amended, have been approved by the Commission and consummated. At present the only outstanding security of Standard consists of 2,162,607 shares of common stock without par value.

Under Step III of Standard's Plan, as amended, and with Commission approval Philadelphia in 1953 distributed to Standard 560,048 shares of common stock of Duquesne Light Company ("Duquesne") and Standard in turn, effective August 25, 1953, distributed 540,651.75 shares of this Duquesne stock to the stockholders of Standard in partial liquidation. (See Holding Company Act Release No. 12101, August 13, 1953.)

Standard now proposes in the instant filing to distribute an additional 216,260.7 shares of Duquesne common stock to its stockholders immediately after the receipt of 224,467 shares of Duquesne common stock from its subsidiary, Philadelphia. These distributions will also be in partial liquidation of Philadelphia and of Standard. The more important details of the present proposal are set forth in Part II of this notice.

The proposal raises the question of whether there will be sufficient assets remaining in Standard after the contemplated distribution to take care of the fixed and contingent liabilities of Standard. According to the filing the combined assets of Standard and its subsidiary, Philadelphia, have a value of $36,960,515 as at July 31, 1954, with portfolio investments valued at market at the close of business on October 19, 1954. The portfolio investments include shares of Duquesne, Oklahoma Gas and Electric Company, Wisconsin Public Service Corporation and Pittsburgh Railways Company and constitute $33,696,000 of the combined assets. The combined debts and liabilities of the two companies, including large maximum contingent liabilities for taxes in the years 1942–50 and for legal services rendered on behalf of stockholders of Standard in the section 11 reorganization proceedings, aggregate less than one half of the value of the combined assets, as stated above. The aforementioned portfolio investments with a market value of $33,696,000 would be reduced by about $7,083,000, on the basis of a market value of the Duquesne stock of $32.75 per share at October 19, 1954, if Standard makes the proposed distribution. Accordingly, it appears that there should remain ample assets after the proposed distribution to take care of all debts and liabilities both fixed and contingent.

II. Notice is hereby given that Standard has filed with the Commission, by amendments dated October 8, 1954, Step III–A to its Plan, which amendments, to the extent they relate to Philadelphia, are deemed to supplement and amend the Philadelphia Plan.

All interested persons are referred to the aforesaid amendments which are on file at the office of the Commission for a complete statement of the transactions proposed. These transactions are summarized as follows:

Under Step III–A Philadelphia will, as soon as possible, make a distribution to Standard of 224,467 additional shares of Duquesne common stock; Standard will then amend its Certificate of Incorporation so as to change its outstanding shares of no par value common stock, which are stated at an aggregate of $21,626,070, into an equal number of shares of $1 par value common stock and to reduce such stated value to $2,162,607. Thereafter Standard will distribute to its stockholders 216,260.7 shares of Duquesne common stock in the ratio of one-tenth (1/10th) share of such stock for each outstanding share of common stock of Standard. This distribution will be made only after Step III–A has been approved by this Commission and by the United States District Court for the District of Delaware and after the Court has ordered the provisions of Step III–A enforced and carried out. The effective date of distribution will be set in the enforcement decree of the Court, or, if no such date is set by the Court, by the Board of Directors of Standard, which date in any event shall not be later than 90 days after the enforcement order of the Court has become final and is no longer subject to review.

The record date for the determination of the holders of common stock of Standard entitled to receive common stock of Duquesne and/or an Order Form with respect to any fractional shares ("distribution record date") will be specified in the enforcement decree of the Court or, if not so specified, will be fixed by Standard's Board of Directors.

On the effective date of distribution, Standard will appoint and deposit with a Distribution Agent an aggregate of 216,261 shares of common stock of Duquesne, being, to the next highest full share, the number of shares of such common stock required for distribution under Step III–A. Upon such deposit, Standard will cease to be the holder of such shares, and the holders of common stock of Standard of record on the distribution record date will be entitled thereto, subject to the limitations hereinafter stated.

After receipt of the common stock of Duquesne, the Distribution Agent will deliver promptly to each holder of common stock of Standard of record on the distribution record date a certificate for the full shares of Duquesne to which he is entitled, and an Order Form for any fractional share to which he also may be entitled, but only if such holder (a) was a holder of record of Standard's common stock on August 25, 1953 and, on or prior to the effective date of distribution under Step III–A, filed with the Distribution and Scrip Agents under Step III of the Standard Plan an acknowledgement of receipt of notice delivered by Standard in accordance with Step III or (b) became a holder of record of Standard's common stock after August 25, 1953. Delivery of full shares of Duquesne common stock and an Order Form, or cash for any fractional shares, as hereinafter provided, to all other holders will be made by the Distribution Agent only when such holders have filed with such Agent the form of acknowledgment of receipt of notice described below. Not less than five days prior to the distribution record date, Standard will mail or cause to be mailed to all holders, other than those referred to in (a) and (b) above, of its common stock of record on a date not more than five days prior to such mailing, notice of the effective date of distribution and of the distribution record date, together with a printed form of acknowledgment of receipt of notice to be forwarded to the Distribution Agent by such holders.

Until the Distribution Agent has delivered to him the certificate or certificates for shares of common stock of Duquesne to which he is entitled, no holder of common stock of Standard will be entitled to receive any dividends declared on such shares of stock of Duquesne, or have any right to vote or consent in respect of such shares. Upon delivery of a certificate or certificates for such shares to him, he will be entitled to receive from such Agent an amount equal to all dividends (less taxes, if any, which may have been imposed or paid thereon) paid or payable to such Agent in respect thereof.

No fractional shares of common stock of Duquesne will be issued, but in lieu thereof each holder of the common stock of Standard entitled to such a fraction will be given the opportunity either to sell the fraction to which he is entitled or to buy additional fractions so as to round out to a full share. This privilege of buying and selling will extend for 60 days from the effective date of Step III–A and will be handled by the Distribution Agent without charge to the buyer or seller. At the end of such 60 days the Distribution Agent will sell any remaining shares of Duquesne held by it to cover fractions, and will remit the proceeds of such sale to the stockholders entitled thereto.

Any stockholder of Standard who fails to claim his pro rata distribution of Duquesne stock and/or cash, for more than five years from the effective date of distribution will be cut-off from all rights to receive the distribution, except that, if within such five-year period, the common stock of Standard is surrendered for exchange or there are further distributions by Standard to holders of its common stock, the cut-off date shall be extended so as to coincide with the cut-off date fixed in respect of such exchange or further distribution, or to the last day of the ten-year period immediately following the effective date of the distribution under Step III–A, whichever is earlier. After the cut-off date, the Distribution Agent will sell and convert into cash all Duquesne common stock then held by it and turn over to Standard as a capital contribution all such cash together with all cash received by it as dividends or otherwise upon such shares, or in the event Standard has been liquidated and dissolved or otherwise disposed of, such cash will be delivered to the Exchange or other Agent provided by the Plan or any amendment thereof for distribution to the holders or former holders of Standard common stock entitled to receive the residual assets of Standard. Prior to the cut-off date Standard will advertise and use other methods to notify the holders of its common stock of their rights to the distribution.

Standard proposes to request the Commission pursuant to section 11 (e) of the act to apply to the United States District Court for the District of Delaware for an order enforcing the terms and provisions of Step III–A and directing that the proposed amendment to Standard's charter and reduction of its capital be consummated without any vote or consent of stockholders, as permitted by section 245 of the Delaware Corporation Law.

Step III–A further provides that such fees and expenses as the Commission may award or allow in connection with Step III–A, and any and all transactions and proceedings related thereto, will be paid by Standard to the extent that they relate primarily to transactions pertaining to Standard and by Philadelphia to the extent that they relate primarily to transactions pertaining to Philadelphia.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than November 30, 1954, at 5:30 p. m., request in writing that a hearing be held in respect of such matters, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request, and the issues of fact or law which he desires to controvert, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission orders a hearing in respect of such matters. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D. C. 1. In § 40.72–1, paragraph (e) (1) as published in 19 F. R. 3327, and paragraph (e) (2) are amended to read as follows:

§ 40.72–1 Take-off limitations to provide for engine failure (CAA policies which apply to § 40.72). • • •

(e) Effect of runway gradient. (1) The effect of runway gradient on the accelerate distance, decelerate (stopping) distance, and ground run portion of the take-off path may be calculated from the following equation or by other means by which the effects of gradient may be accurately or conservatively computed.

$$S_G = \frac{S}{1 \pm \left(\frac{2 S g \sin \lambda}{V^2}\right)}$$

S_G = acceleration or deceleration distance with gradient.
S = acceleration or deceleration distance without gradient.
g = acceleration of gravity = 32.2 (ft/sec²).
V = appropriate speed, feet per second, True Air Speed (for accelerate decelerate distances, use V_1; for the take-off path, use V_2).
λ = Angle of grade with horizontal.

The following sign conventions (±) must be used in the above equation:

Uphill gradient	Downhill gradient
accelerate (−)	accelerate (+)
decelerate (+)	decelerate (−)

(2) The formula in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph is based on certain simplifying assumptions, i. e., that a uniform grade exists and that the airplane is accelerated uniformly throughout the ground run. Neither of these assumptions may be exactly correct, but the errors introduced by making such assumptions are small provided the airplane acceleration and the actual point-to-point grade do not depart from the average values of those quantities by any great amount.

2. Section 40.390–1 is hereby adopted to read as follows:

§ 40.390–1 Alternate airport landing minimums for airports not served by a radio navigation facility (CAA policies which apply to § 40.390 (c)). When there is no minimum en route instrument altitude associated with an alternate airport, the approval of alternate airport landing minimums under overcast conditions will be contingent upon (a) the incorporation of appropriate minimum en route altitudes in the air carrier's operations manual in order to provide a basis for establishing weather minimums in accordance with § 40.390 (c), and (b) the availability of radio navigation facilities of sufficient adequacy to permit safe navigation over such alternate airport. The latter may be accomplished by using any of the following or a combination thereof.

(1) Radio bearings from the airport of intended destination,

(2) Radio range course from the airport of intended destination,

(3) Radio range course projected over the alternate airport on a line with the intended course to be flown,

(4) Radio bearing from a radio facility located beyond the alternate airport on a line with the intended course to be flown, or

(5) Radio bearing from a radio facility located along the intended course to be flown.

This supplement shall become effective November 30, 1954.

TITLE 26—INTERNAL REVENUE

Chapter I—Internal Revenue Service, Department of the Treasury

Subchapter A—Income and Excess Profits Taxes

[T. D. 6112; Regs. 118]

AMORTIZATION DEDUCTION FOR GRAIN STORAGE FACILITIES

On January 19, 1954, notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (19 F. R. 325), in order to conform Regulations 118 (26 CFR Part 39) to section 206 of the Technical Changes Act of 1953 (Public Law 287, 83d Cong.), approved August 15, 1953, relating to the amortization deduction for grain storage facilities. After consideration of all such relevant matter as was presented by interested persons regarding the proposed amendments, the amendments to Regulations 118 set forth below are hereby adopted:

PARAGRAPH 1. Section 39.23 (s)-(u) is amended by revising subsection (t) of section 23 and the historical note which follows subsection (t) to read as follows:

(t) Amortization deduction. The deduction for amortization provided in sections 124, 124A, and 124B.

[Sec. 23 (t) as added by sec. 301, Second Rev. Act 1940; amended by sec. 216 (b), Rev. Act 1950; sec. 206 (b) (1), Technical Changes Act 1953, applicable to taxable years ending after August 15, 1953]

PAR. 2. There is inserted immediately after § 39.124A (i)-1 the following:

§ 39.124B Statutory provisions; amortization deduction for grain storage facilities; allowance of deduction; election of amortization; termination of amortization; definition of grain storage facility; determination of adjusted basis.

SEC. 124B. Amortization deduction for grain storage facilities—(a) Allowance of deduction—(1) Original owner. Any person who constructs, reconstructs, or erects a grain storage facility (as defined in subsection (d)) shall, at his election, be entitled to a deduction with respect to the amortization of the adjusted basis (for determining gain) of such facility based on a period of sixty months. The sixty-month period shall begin as to any such facility, at the election of the taxpayer, with the month following the month in which the facility was completed, or with the succeeding taxable year.

(2) Subsequent owners. Any person who acquires a grain storage facility from a taxpayer who—

(A) Elected under subsection (b) to take the amortization deduction provided by this subsection with respect to such facility, and shall, at his election, be entitled to a deduction with respect to the adjusted basis (determined under subsection (e) (2)) of such facility based on the period, if any, remaining (at the time of acquisition) in the sixty-month period elected under subsection (b) by the person who constructed, reconstructed, or erected such facility.

(B) Did not discontinue the amortization deduction pursuant to subsection (c)

(3) Amount of deduction. The amortization deduction provided in paragraphs (1) and (2) shall be an amount, with respect to each month of the amortization period within the taxable year, equal to the adjusted basis of the facility at the end of such month, divided by the number of months (including the month for which the deduction is computed) remaining in the period. Such adjusted basis at the end of the month shall be computed without regard to the amortization deduction for such month. The amortization deduction above provided with respect to any month shall be in lieu of the deduction with respect to such facility for such month provided by section 23 (l) (relating to exhaustion, wear and tear, and obsolescence).

(b) Election of amortization. The election of the taxpayer under subsection (a) (1) to take the amortization deduction and to begin the sixty-month period with the month following the month in which the facility was completed shall be made only by a statement to that effect in the return for the taxable year in which the facility was completed. The election of the taxpayer under subsection (a) (1) to take the amortization deduction and to begin such period with the taxable year succeeding such year shall be made only by a statement to that effect in the return for such succeeding taxable year. The election of the taxpayer under subsection (a) (2) to take the amortization deduction shall be made only by a statement to that effect in the return for the taxable year in which the facility was acquired. Notwithstanding the preceding three sentences, the election of the taxpayer under subsection (a) (1) or (2) may be made, under such regulations as the Secretary may prescribe, before the time prescribed in the applicable sentence.

(c) Termination of amortization deduction. A taxpayer which has elected under subsection (b) to take the amortization deduction provided in subsection (a) may, at any time after making such election, discontinue the amortization deduction with respect to the remainder of the amortization period, such discontinuance to begin as of the beginning of any month specified by the taxpayer in a notice in writing filed with the Secretary before the beginning of such month. The deduction provided under section 23 (l) shall be allowed, beginning with the first month as to which the amortization deduction is not applicable, and the taxpayer shall not be entitled to any further amortization deduction with respect to such facility.

(d) Definition of grain storage facility. For the purposes of this section, the term "grain storage facility" means—

(1) Any corn crib, grain bin, or grain elevator, or any similar structure suitable primarily for the storage of grain, which crib, bin, elevator, or structure is intended by the taxpayer at the time of his election to be used for the storage of grain produced by him (or, if the election is made by a partnership, produced by the members thereof); and

(2) Any public grain warehouse permanently equipped for receiving, elevating, conditioning, and loading out grain, the construction, reconstruction, or erection of which was completed after December 31, 1952, and on or before December 31, 1956. If any structure described in clause (1) or (2) of the preceding sentence is altered or remodeled so as to increase its capacity for the storage of grain, or if any structure is converted, through alteration or remodeling, into a structure so described, and if such alteration or remodeling was completed after December 31, 1952, and on or before December 31, 1956, such alteration or remodeling shall be treated as the construction of a grain storage facility. The term "grain storage facility" shall include only property of a character which is subject to the allowance for depreciation provided in section 23 (l). The term "grain storage facility" shall not include any facility any part of which is an emergency facility within the meaning of section 124A.

(e) Determination of adjusted basis—(1) Original owners. For the purpose of subsection (a) (1)—

(A) In determining the adjusted basis of any grain storage facility, the construction, reconstruction, or erection of which was begun before January 1, 1953, there shall be included only so much of the amount of the adjusted basis (computed without regard to this subsection) as is properly attributable to such construction, reconstruction, or erection after December 31, 1952, and

(B) In determining the adjusted basis of any facility which is a grain storage facility within the meaning of the second sentence of subsection (d), there shall be included only so much of the amount otherwise included in such basis as is properly attributable to the alteration or remodeling.

If any existing grain storage facility as defined in the first sentence of subsection (d) is altered or remodeled as provided in the second sentence of subsection (d), the expenditures for such remodeling or alteration shall not be applied in adjustment of the basis of such existing facility but a separate basis shall be computed in respect of such facility as if the part altered or remodeled were a new and separate grain storage facility.

(2) Subsequent owners. For the purpose of subsection (a) (2), the adjusted basis of any grain storage facility shall be whichever of the following amounts is the smaller: (A) The basis (unadjusted) of such facility for the purposes of this section in the hands of the transferor, donor, or grantor, adjusted as if such facility in the hands of the taxpayer had a substitute basis within the meaning of section 113 (b) (2) (A), or (B) so much of the adjusted basis (for determining gain) of the facility in the hands of the taxpayer (as computed without regard to this subsection) as is properly attributable to construction, reconstruction, or erection after December 31, 1952.

(f) Depreciation deduction. If the adjusted basis of the grain storage facility (computed without regard to subsection (e)) exceeds the adjusted basis computed under subsection (e), the deduction provided by section 23 (l) shall, despite the provisions of subsection (a) (3) of this section, be allowed with respect to such grain storage facility as if the adjusted basis for the purpose of such deduction were an amount equal to the amount of such excess.

(g) Life tenant and remainderman. In the case of property held by one person for life with remainder to another person, the amortization deduction provided in subsection (a) shall be computed as if the life tenant were the absolute owner of the property and shall be allowed to the life tenant.

[Sec. 124B as added by sec. 206 (a), Technical Changes Act 1953. Sec. 124B is applicable with respect to taxable years ending after August 15, 1953]

§ 39.124B-1 Introductory—(a) General. Sections 39.124B-2 to 39.124B-8, inclusive, are applicable only with respect to taxable years ending after August 15, 1953 (the date of the enactment of the Technical Changes Act of 1953). These sections comprise the regulations under section 124B of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939, relating to the amortization of grain storage facilities. These regulations are to be distinguished from the regulations under section 124A of the Code (§§ 39.124A (a) to 39.124A (i)-1, inclusive) relating to amortization of emergency facilities.

(b) General scope of section 124B. Section 124B of the Code provides for the amortization of grain storage facilities, as defined therein, over a period of 60 months. The amortization deduction is allowable at the election of the taxpayer and subject to the provisions of section 124B. The amortization deduction is not only allowable to the original owner of a grain storage facility, but may be allowable to any subsequent owner who acquires the facility from another person who elected to take the amortization deduction and had not discontinued such deduction under the statute. In the case of the original owner of a grain storage facility the amortization period is a period of 60 months. For a subsequent owner the amortization period is the period, if any, remaining at the time of his acquisition in the 60-month period elected by the person who completed construction, reconstruction, or erection of the grain storage facility.

(c) Cross-references. For the right of estates and trusts to amortize grain storage facilities, see section 172 and § 39.172–1. For the allowance of the amortization deduction in the case of grain storage facilities of partnerships, see section 190 and § 39.190–1.

§ 39.124B–2 Definition of grain storage facility—(a) General. For the purpose of section 124B the term "grain storage facility" means:

(1) Any corn crib, grain bin, or grain elevator, or any similar structure suitable primarily for the storage of grain, but only if the taxpayer at the time of his election to take the amortization deduction allowed under section 124B (a) intends such crib, bin, elevator, or structure to be used for the storage of grain produced by him, or in case the election to take the amortization deduction is made by a partnership only if such crib, bin, elevator, or structure is intended by the partnership at the time of its election to be used for the storage of grain produced by members of the partnership; and the construction, reconstruction, or erection of which was completed after December 31, 1952, and on or before December 31, 1956. The term "grain" includes all products commonly classed as grain, such as wheat, corn, oats, barley, rye, rice, soybeans, grain sorghums, flaxseed and dry edible beans.

(2) Any public grain warehouse or elevator permanently equipped for receiving, elevating, conditioning, and loading out grain,

(b) Private grain storage facilities. In the case of any structure described in subparagraph (1) of paragraph (a) of this section, the construction, reconstruction, or erection of which was completed after December 31, 1952, and on or before December 31, 1956, the taxpayer at the time of his election to take the amortization deduction with respect to the structure must intend to use the facility for the storage of grain produced or to be produced by him. If the election is made by a partnership, the structure must be intended at the time of the election to be used for the storage of grain produced by one or more members of the partnership. The statute does not require that the facility be actually used at the time of the election for the storage of grain. The intent required by the statute at the time of the taxpayer's election to take the amortization deduction is applicable not only to the original owner who completed the construction, reconstruction, or erection of the facility, but to any subsequent owner of the facility. The existence of the requisite intent is a question of fact to be ascertained from the circumstances of each particular case. The lack of the required intent with respect to the use of the facility by a subsequent owner does not affect the allowance of the amortization deduction to a preceding owner for the period during which the facility was owned by him. However, the absence of the required intent as to the use of the facility on the part of either the original owner or any intervening owner precludes any subsequent owner from taking the amortization deduction with respect to the facility. A structure is not suitable primarily for the storage of grain if it is of a type customarily used for other purposes, even though it may actually be used for storing grain. For example, no part of a residential dwelling may qualify as a grain storage facility. Nor is a structure suitable primarily for the storage of grain unless it is so constructed as to be especially adapted to efficient storage of grain. Thus, a general utility type of building does not qualify under the statute as a grain storage facility, even though it may be actually used for storing grain. However, structures not suitable primarily for the storage of grain may through alteration or remodeling qualify as grain storage facilities (see paragraph (d) of this section). On the other hand a structure which is suitable primarily for the storage of grain is not disqualified under the statute merely because it may at times be used for other purposes. The structures described in subparagraph (1) of paragraph (a) of this section may include trackside grain storage facilities.

(c) Public grain storage facilities. The term "public grain warehouse" as used in section 124B (d) includes only a grain warehouse or elevator transacting business with members of the general public. The amortization deduction, however, is not available to a person who stores only grain purchased for consumption in his business, such as a milling company which constructs storage facilities for purchased grain held for processing. The statute also requires that the grain warehouse or elevator must be equipped for receiving, elevating, conditioning, and loading out grain, and that the equipment used for these purposes must be permanently installed. Such equipment is considered a part of the grain warehouse or elevator for the purpose of section 124B. A grain warehouse or elevator using portable equipment for receiving, elevating, conditioning or loading out grain cannot qualify as a "grain storage facility" for the purposes of section 124B. The term "conditioning" as used in section 124B (d) includes turning, drying, aerating, fumigating, or other processing of grain. While it is not essential for qualification as a grain storage facility that a public grain warehouse or elevator be permanently equipped to render all services embraced within the meaning of "conditioning", the grain warehouse or elevator must be permanently equipped for turning, drying, or similar processing of grain. The fact that a public grain warehouse accepts for storage, in addition to products commonly classed as grain (see paragraph (a)), of this section, other products which are ordinarily stored in grain warehouses does not disqualify the warehouse as a grain storage facility for the purpose of section 124B.

(d) Alteration or remodeling. (1) If any structure described in subparagraph (1) or (2) of paragraph (a) of this section is altered or remodeled so that its capacity for the storage of grain is increased, and such alteration or remodeling was completed after December 31, 1952, and on or before December 31, 1956, for the purpose of section 124B such alteration or remodeling is treated as the construction of a grain storage facility. Such alteration or remodeling may qualify as a grain storage facility, whether or not the original structure constituted a grain storage facility as defined in section 124B (d). If the original structure did qualify as a grain storage facility for the purpose of section 124B, the amortization deduction allowable under section 124B (a) may be taken with respect to such alteration or remodeling, whether or not the taxpayer or any preceding owner elected to take the amortization deduction allowable with respect to the original structure.

(2) Likewise, if any structure not described in subparagraph (1) or (2) of paragraph (a) of this section is converted through alteration or remodeling into a structure so described, and such alteration or remodeling was completed after December 31, 1952, and on or before December 31, 1956, for the purpose of section 124B such alteration or remodeling is treated as the construction of a grain storage facility.

(3) For election to take the amortization deduction with respect to alteration or remodeling described in subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph, see § 39.124B–4. For determination of adjusted basis for the purpose of the amortization deduction with respect to a grain storage facility attributable to such alteration or remodeling, see § 39.124B–6.

(e) Excluded property—(1) Nondepreciable property. The term "grain storage facility" includes only property of a character which is subject to the allowance for depreciation provided in section 23 (l). Thus, "grain storage facility" does not include the land on which a structure defined in paragraph (a) of this section is erected.

(2) Emergency facilities. (i) The term "grain storage facility" does not include any facility any part of which is considered an emergency facility within the meaning of section 124A. For the definition of "emergency facility" for the purpose of section 124A, see § 39.124A (d)–1 (b).

(ii) If all or any part of the adjusted basis (computed under section 113 (b)) of a structure described in paragraph (a) of this section is certified as an "emergency facility" under section 124A (e), such structure cannot qualify as a "grain storage facility" for the purposes of section 124B. However, if prior to the making of any election to take the amortization deduction allowable under section 124A (a) with respect to such structure, the certificate made under section 124A (e) is cancelled by the certifying authority, such structure will be considered a "grain storage facility" for the purposes of section 124B.

(iii) In the case of any alteration or remodeling described in subparagraph (1) or (2) of paragraph (d) of this section, if all or any part of the adjusted basis (computed under section 113 (b)) of the original structure is certified as an "emergency facility" under section 124A (e), such alteration or remodeling may, nevertheless, qualify as a "grain storage facility" for the purposes of section 124B, provided the following conditions are met:

(a) None of the expenditures attributable to such alteration or remodeling represents construction, reconstruction, erection, installation, or acquisition included in the certificate made under section 124A (e) with respect to the original structure, and

(b) A separate certificate is not made under section 124A (e) with respect to such alteration or remodeling as a new and separate emergency facility, or if a separate certificate was made, such certificate, prior to the making of any election to take the amortization deduction allowable under section 124A (a) with respect to such alteration or remodeling, is canceled by the certifying authority.

§ 39.124B–3 Amortization deduction—(a) Original owner. Any person who constructs, reconstructs, or erects a grain storage facility as defined in section 124B (d) is entitled at his election to a deduction with respect to the amortization of the adjusted basis (for determining gain) of such facility based on a period of 60 months. As to the adjusted basis of a grain storage facility, see § 39.124B–6. The taxpayer may, with respect to a grain storage facility, elect to begin the 60-month amortization period with (1) the month following the month in which such facility was completed, or (2) the taxable year succeeding that in which such facility was completed (see § 39.124B–4). The date on which, or the month within which, a grain storage facility is completed is to be determined upon the facts in the particular case. A statement of the date ascertained by the taxpayer, together with a statement of the pertinent facts relied upon, should be filed with the taxpayer's election to take amortization deductions with respect to such facility.

(b) Subsequent owner. Any person who acquires a grain storage facility from a taxpayer who elected to take the amortization deduction provided by section 124B (a) with respect to such facility and who prior to the acquisition by such person had not discontinued the amortization deduction pursuant to section 124B (c) is entitled at his election to a deduction with respect to the amortization of the adjusted basis (determined under section 124B (e) (2)) of such facility based on the period, if any, remaining at the time of his acquisition in the 60-month period elected by the original owner of such facility. For the determination of the adjusted basis of a grain storage facility in the hands of a subsequent owner for the purpose of the amortization deduction, see § 39.124B–6.

(c) Amount of deduction. (1) In general, with respect to each month of the 60-month period which falls within the taxable year, the amortization deduction is an amount equal to the adjusted basis of the facility at the end of such month divided by the number of months (including the particular month for which the deduction is computed) remaining in the 60-month period. If a grain storage facility is held successively by two or more persons during a single month, the amortization deduction, if any, allowable to each of such persons in respect of that month shall be only that portion of the amount to which each such person would be entitled for a full month which the number of days in such month during which the facility was held by him bears to the total number of days in such month. The adjusted basis of the grain storage facility at the end of any month shall be computed without regard to the amortization deduction with respect to such facility for such month. The total amortization deduction with respect to a grain storage facility for a particular taxable year is the sum of the amortization deductions allowable with respect to such facility for each month of the 60-month period which falls within such taxable year.

(2) The amortization deduction with respect to a grain storage facility for any month is in lieu of the deduction for depreciation which would otherwise be allowable under section 23 (l) with respect to the facility for that month. If the original owner of a grain storage facility elects to begin the 60-month amortization period with the taxable year succeeding that in which the facility was completed, the deduction for depreciation provided in section 23 (l) is allowable with respect to the facility for the period intervening between the completion of the facility and the beginning of the 60-month period. However, if the original owner elects to begin the 60-month amortization period with the month following that in which the facility was completed, no deduction under section 23 (l) is allowable in respect of the month in which the facility was completed. For depreciation allowable with respect to any amount not subject to amortization see § 39.124B–7.

(d) Examples. This section may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). On July 1, 1953, A, who makes his income tax return on a calendar year basis, begins the construction of a grain storage facility which is completed on September 30, 1953, at a cost of $24,000, not including the cost of the land on which the facility is erected. A elects to take the amortization deduction with respect to the facility and to begin the 60-month amortization period with October 1953, the month following its completion. The adjusted basis of the facility at the end of October is $24,000. The allowable amortization deduction with respect to such facility for the taxable year 1953 is $1,200, computed as follows:

Monthly amortization deductions:
October: $24,000 divided by 60	$400
November: $23,600 ($24,000 minus $400) divided by 59	400
December: $23,200 ($23,600 minus $400) divided by 58	400
Total amortization deduction for 1953	1,200

Example (2). The X Corporation, which makes its income tax return on the calendar year basis, begins the construction of a grain storage facility on June 15, 1953. The facility is completed on August 2, 1953. The X Corporation elects to take amortization deductions with respect to the facility and to begin the 60-month amortization period with September 1953, the month following its completion. At the end of the first month of the amortization period the adjusted basis of the facility is $30,000. In October 1953, the facility is damaged by fire, as the result of which the adjusted basis is properly reduced by $2,537. The allowable amortization deduction with respect to the facility for the calendar year 1953 is $1,871, computed as follows:

Monthly amortization deductions:
September: $30,000 divided by 60	$500
October: $26,963 ($30,000 minus $500 and $2,537) divided by 59	457
November: $26,506 ($26,963 minus $457) divided by 58	457
December: $26,049 ($26,506 minus $457) divided by 57	457
Total amortization deduction for 1953	1,871

For illustration in the case of a subsequent owner of a grain storage facility, see Example (2) in § 39.124B–6 (f).

§ 39.124B–4 Election of amortization—(a) General rule—(1) Original owner. The election by a taxpayer who constructs, reconstructs, or erects a grain storage facility to take amortization deductions with respect to the facility and to begin the 60-month amortization period, either with the month following the month in which the facility was completed or with the taxable year succeeding the taxable year in which such facility was completed, shall be made by a statement to that effect in the taxpayer's return for the taxable year in which falls the first month of the 60-month amortization period so elected. Such statement shall include the following information:

(i) A description clearly identifying each grain storage facility for which an amortization deduction is claimed.

(ii) The date on which the construction, reconstruction, or erection of each such facility was completed.

(iii) The total costs and expenditures paid or incurred in the construction, reconstruction, or erection of any such facility, excluding the cost of any land.

(iv) If the construction, reconstruction, or erection of any such facility was begun before January 1, 1953, the amount of the costs and expenditures properly attributable to such construction, reconstruction, or erection after December 31, 1952.

(v) In the case of a private grain storage facility described in § 39.124B–2 (b), a statement that the taxpayer intends to use the facility for the storage of grain produced or to be produced by him, or in case the election is being made by a part-to take the amortization deduction is apvator must be permanently equipped for section 124B. However, if prior to the nership, that the structure is intended to be used for the storage of grain produced by one or more members of the partnership.

(2) Subsequent owner. The election by a subsequent owner (that is, a person who acquires a grain storage facility from a taxpayer who elected to take the amortization deduction with respect to the facility and who prior to the acquisition by the subsequent owner had not discontinued the amortization deduction under section 124B (c)) to take amortization deductions with respect to the facility shall be made by a statement to that effect in the taxpayer's return for the taxable year in which falls the month in which the facility was acquired. Such statement shall include the following information:

(i) The name and address of the preceding owner.

(ii) The date and the manner of the acquisition of the grain storage facility from such preceding owner.

(iii) A statement of the basis (unadjusted) of the facility in the hands of the preceding owner for amortization purposes, adjusted to the date of acquisition by the taxpayer.

(iv) A statement of the adjusted basis of the facility in the hands of the taxpayer for amortization purposes, computed as of the date of acquisition by the taxpayer.

(v) In the case of a private grain storage facility described in § 39.124B–2 (b), a statement that the taxpayer intends to use the facility for the storage of grain produced or to be produced by him, or in case the election is being made by a partnership, that the structure is intended to be used for the storage of grain produced by one or more members of the partnership.

(b) Special rules for making election prior to filing of return. If, prior to the time prescribed in paragraph (a) of this section for making the election to take amortization deductions with respect to a grain storage facility, such facility is acquired by a subsequent owner, the preceding owner of the facility may make such election within 60 days after the date of acquisition of such facility by the subsequent owner. In the event that the preceding owner dies or ceases to exist prior to making an election, the election may be made within such time by the duly authorized representatives of the preceding owner. Unless the election to take amortization deductions with respect to the facility is made by the preceding owner or on his behalf, the subsequent owner of the facility shall not be entitled to take the amortization deductions allowable under section 124B (a) with respect to such facility. A statement of election under this paragraph shall be filed with the district director of internal revenue (for the internal revenue district determined under section 53 (b) as if such election were a return required to be filed by the taxpayer), and shall contain the same information required with respect to a statement of election under paragraph (a) of this section. However, in the case of a private grain storage facility described in § 39.124B–2 (b), in lieu of the statement regarding the intended use of the facility at the time of the election, the statement of election under this paragraph shall include a statement that the preceding owner, at the time of the construction, reconstruction, erection, or acquisition of the facility by him, intended to use the facility for the storage of grain produced or to be produced by him. If the preceding owner of the facility was the original owner, the statement of election must specify the beginning of the 60-month amortization period. Unless the grain storage facility is acquired from the original owner after the beginning of his taxable year succeeding the taxable year in which such facility was completed, an election made under this paragraph must begin the 60-month amortization period with the month following the month in which the facility was completed.

(c) Election not made at the time or in the manner prescribed by this section. (1) The Commissioner has no authority to extend the time prescribed in section 124B (b) and paragraph (a) of this section for making an election to take amortization deductions allowable under section 124B (a). However, the Commissioner in his discretion may, for good cause shown, grant a reasonable extension of time for the making of an election under paragraph (b) of this section (see § 39.6000–1).

(2) Except as provided in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, if a statement of election under paragraph (a) or (b) of this section does not comply with the requirements prescribed therein, it may, in the discretion of the Commissioner and for good cause shown, be made in such manner and form as may be approved by him.

(3) No method of making the election to take the amortization deductions with respect to a grain storage facility other than those prescribed in this section shall be permitted. A taxpayer who fails to elect to take amortization deductions with respect to such a facility shall not be entitled to amortization deductions with respect to such facility.

(d) Alteration or remodeling of existing grain storage facility. If an existing grain storage facility, as defined in section 124B (d), is altered or remodeled and such alteration or remodeling is treated under section 124B (d) as the construction of a grain storage facility (see §§ 39.124B–2 (d) and 39.124B–6 (e)), the part of the facility altered or remodeled is treated as a new and separate grain storage facility. In such case unless the taxpayer who completes such alteration or remodeling makes a separate election, in the manner and within the time provided in this section, to take amortization deductions and to begin a new 60-month period with respect to such alteration or remodeling, he shall not be entitled to amortization deductions with respect to such alteration or remodeling. Such alteration or remodeling is also treated as a separate grain storage facility in the hands of a subsequent owner.

§ 39.124B–5 Termination of amortization deduction. (a) If a taxpayer has elected to take amortization deductions with respect to a grain storage facility, he may, prior to the expiration of the 60-month amortization period and prior to the acquisition of such facility by another person, discontinue the amortization deductions with respect to such facility for the remainder of the 60-month period. An election to discontinue the amortization deductions shall be made by notice in writing filed with the district director of internal revenue (for the internal revenue district determined under section 53 (b) as if such notice were a return required to be filed by the taxpayer), specifying the month as of the beginning of which the taxpayer elects to discontinue such deductions. Such notice shall be filed before the beginning of the month specified therein, and should contain a description clearly identifying the grain storage facility with respect to which the taxpayer elects to discontinue the amortization deductions. If the taxpayer elects in the manner provided herein to discontinue the amortization deductions with respect to a grain storage facility, he shall not be entitled to any further amortization deductions with respect to such facility.

(b) A taxpayer who elects to discontinue amortization deductions with respect to a grain storage facility is entitled to a deduction for depreciation under section 23 (l) with respect to such facility. The deduction for depreciation shall begin with the first month as to which the amortization deduction is not applicable and shall be computed on the adjusted basis of the property as of the beginning of such month (see section 113 (b) and the regulations thereunder).

(c) This section may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. On February 1, 1953, the Y Corporation, which makes its income tax returns on the calendar year basis, begins the construction of a grain storage facility. The facility is completed on June 30, 1953, at a cost of $306,000 of which $60,000 is allocable to the land and $246,000 to the facility. The corporation elects to take amortization deductions with respect to the facility and to begin the 60-month amortization period with July 1953, the month following its completion. On March 25, 1954, the corporation files notice with the district director of its election to discontinue the amortization deductions beginning with the month of April 1954. The adjusted basis of the facility on July 31, 1953, is $246,000. The amortization deductions for the taxable year 1953 and the months of January, February, and March 1954, amount to $36,900, or $4,100 per month for nine months. Accordingly, the adjusted basis of the facility as of April 1, 1954 is $209,100. Beginning as of that date the deduction for depreciation under section 23 (l) is allowable with respect to the property. Such deduction shall be computed on the adjusted basis ($209,100) of the property as of April 1, 1954.

§ 39.124B–6 Adjusted basis of grain storage facility—(a) General. Section 124B (e) provides rules which apply in the determination of the adjusted basis of a grain storage facility for the purpose of computing the amortization deductions allowable under section 124B (a). Section 124B (e) does not purport to provide an all-inclusive formula for the computation of adjusted basis for amortization purposes, but only prescribes certain modifications in the amount which would otherwise constitute the adjusted basis of the facility. As a result of these modifications the adjusted basis for the purpose of computing the amortization deductions allowable with respect to the facility will differ in some cases from the adjusted basis of the facility determined under section 113 without regard to section 124B (e). The adjusted basis for amortization purposes may also differ from the adjusted basis of the facility for other purposes in that it shall be the adjusted basis for determining gain (see section 113). The adjusted basis for amortization purposes is derived from the unadjusted basis of the grain storage facility determined under section 113. The special rules provided in section 124B (e) are applicable in translating the unadjusted basis determined under section 113 into the unadjusted basis for amortization purposes under section 124B. The unadjusted basis for amortization purposes, less the adjustments properly allocable thereto, becomes the adjusted basis for amortization purposes. These adjustments are those specified in section 113 (b). However, adjustments which increase the adjusted basis under section 113 (b) are not to be taken into account in determining the adjusted basis for amortization purposes (see paragraph (d) of this section).

(b) Original owners. Section 124B (e) (1) provides rules which apply in the determination of the adjusted basis for amortization purposes of a grain storage facility in the hands of an original owner (see § 39.124B–3 (a)). As the result of the application of the rules stated in subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph, the adjusted basis of the facility for amortization purposes will be smaller than the amount which would otherwise constitute the adjusted basis of the facility. The rules are the following:

(1) If the construction, reconstruction, or erection of the facility was begun before January 1, 1953, there is to be included only so much of the entire unadjusted basis of the facility as is properly attributable to construction, reconstruction, or erection after December 31, 1952.

(2) If a structure which is not an existing grain storage facility as defined in section 124B (d) is altered or remodeled and such alteration or remodeling is treated under section 124B (d) as the construction of a grain storage facility (see § 39.124B–2 (d)), there is to be included only so much of the entire unadjusted basis of such structure as is properly attributable to such alteration or remodeling as was completed after December 31, 1952, and on or before December 31, 1956. In the case of alteration or remodeling of an existing grain storage facility, see paragraph (e) of this section.

(c) Subsequent owners. A special rule is provided in section 124B (e) (2) for the determination of the adjusted basis for amortization purposes of a grain storage facility in the hands of a subsequent owner (see § 39.124B–3 (b)). Such adjusted basis is the smaller of the following amounts:

(1) The adjusted basis determined by including an amount in respect of unadjusted basis equal to the adjusted basis of the facility for amortization purposes in the hands of the preceding owner, determined as of the date of acquisition of the facility by the taxpayer. For the purpose of this paragraph in determining the adjusted basis of the facility for amortization purposes in the hands of the preceding owner, the adjustments required under section 113 (b) shall include an adjustment in respect of the amount of the amortization deduction allowable to the preceding owner for the month in which the facility was acquired by the taxpayer. See § 39.124B–3 (c). For the rule excluding capital additions from the adjusted basis of a grain storage facility for amortization purposes, see paragraph (d) of this section.

(2) The adjusted basis (computed under section 113 for determining gain) of the facility in the hands of the taxpayer. If the construction, reconstruction, or erection of the facility was begun before January 1, 1953, in determining such adjusted basis there is to be included only so much of the entire unadjusted basis of the facility (in the hands of the taxpayer) as is properly attributable to construction, reconstruction, or erection after December 31, 1952.

(d) Capital additions. If after the completion or acquisition of a grain storage facility further expenditures are made for construction, reconstruction, or erection, such expenditures shall not be added to the adjusted basis of the facility for amortization purposes. If such expenditures result in alteration or remodeling which under section 124B (d) is treated as the construction of a grain storage facility, see paragraph (e) of this section.

(e) Alteration or remodeling of existing grain storage facility. If an existing grain storage facility as defined in section 124B (d) is altered or remodeled and such alteration or remodeling is treated under section 124B (d) as the construction of a grain storage facility (see § 39.124B–2 (d)), the expenditures for such alteration or remodeling shall not be applied in adjustment of the basis of the existing facility, but a separate basis shall be computed by reference to such expenditures as if such alteration or remodeling represented a new and separate grain storage facility. A structure which was not an existing grain storage facility prior to alteration or remodeling which is treated under section 124B (d) as the construction of a grain storage facility becomes an existing grain storage facility for the purposes of this subparagraph. Thus, if a structure which is an existing grain storage facility by reason of such alteration or remodeling is again altered or remodeled and such alteration or remodeling is treated under section 124B (d) as the construction of a grain storage facility, the provisions of this subparagraph are also applicable to such later alteration or remodeling.

(f) Examples. The computation of the adjusted basis of a grain storage facility for amortization purposes may be illustrated in the following examples:

Example (1). On February 28, 1953, A completes the construction of a grain storage facility as defined in section 124B (d) at a cost of $2,000 for the land and $6,000 for the construction. Only $3,000 of the total cost of the facility is properly attributable to construction after December 31, 1952. A elects to claim the amortization deduction and to begin the 60-month period on March 1, 1953. Under section 124B (e) the adjusted basis of the facility for the purpose of section 124B (a) as of that date is only $3,000, the amount attributable to construction after December 31, 1952. In determining the adjusted basis of the facility as of any subsequent date for the purpose of computing the amortization deduction, the amortization deductions allowable in respect of the period prior to such date must, of course, be taken into account. See section 113 (b) of the Code. Thus, the adjusted basis of the facility for the purpose of computing the amount of the amortization deduction allowable for the month of January 1954, is $2,500 ($3,000 minus $500, the amortization deductions allowable prior to January 1, 1954).

Example (2). A began on January 1, 1953, and completed on June 30, 1953, the construction of a grain storage facility as defined in section 124B (d) at a cost of $5,000 for the land and $30,000 for the construction. A elects to claim the amortization deduction and to begin the 60-month period on July 1, 1953. On May 1, 1954, A sells the grain storage facility to B for a price of $34,000 of which $6,000 is allocable to the land. B elects to claim the amortization deduction on the basis of the 50 months remaining in the amortization period. B, in determining the adjusted basis of the facility in his hands, must start with the unadjusted basis of the facility in the hands of A ($30,000) and adjust such basis under section 113 (b) (1) (B) in respect of amortization claimed by A during his ownership of the facility ($5,000). Since this amount ($25,000) is smaller than the adjusted basis (for determining gain) of the facility in B's hands as of May 1, 1954 ($28,000, that is $34,000 less $6,000 allocable to land), the adjusted basis of the facility for the purpose of section 124B (a) in B's hands as of May 1, 1954, is $25,000. B, therefore, may include only $25,000 in determining the adjusted basis of the facility in his hands as of May 1, 1954, the date of the purchase. The amortization deductions claimed by B must, of course, be applied in reduction of such adjusted basis in determining the adjusted basis of the facility as of any subsequent date for the purpose of his amortization deduction under section 124B (a). The amount by which the purchase price paid by B and allocable to depreciable property ($28,000) exceeds the adjusted basis determined under section 124B (e) for such property ($25,000)—or $3,000—is treated as the adjusted basis (as of May 1, 1954) for the purpose of the depreciation deduction allowable under section 23 (l). See § 39.124B–7.

§ 39.124B–7 Depreciation of portion of grain storage facility not subject to amortization. The rule set forth in section 124B (a) (see § 39.124B–3), that the amortization deduction with respect to a grain storage facility is in lieu of any deduction for depreciation which would otherwise be allowable under section 23 (l) with respect to the facility, is subject to an exception provided in section 124B (f). Under this exception if the adjusted basis of the facility as computed under section 113 (b) for purposes other than the amortization deductions (see § 39.113 (b) (1)–1) is in excess of the adjusted basis computed under section 124B (e) for the purpose of the amortization deductions (see § 39.124B–6), any excess shall be charged off over the useful life of the facility and recovered through depreciation deductions allowable under section 23 (1). Thus, if the construction of a grain storage facility was begun before January 1, 1953, no amortization deductions are allowable with respect to the amount attributable to such construction before such date (see § 39.124B–6). However, the depreciation deduction provided by section 23 (1) and the regulations thereunder is allowable with respect to the amount attributable to construction before January 1, 1953. Similarly, in the case of a subsequent owner the adjusted basis of a grain storage facility computed under section 113 (b) for purposes other than the amortization deductions (see § 39.113 (b) (1)–1) may exceed the adjusted basis of the facility computed under section 124B (e) for amortization purposes. In such case the excess will be subject to the allowance for depreciation provided by section 23 (1). For illustration of the treatment of the portion of a grain storage facility which is subject to the allowance for depreciation, see Example (2) in § 39.124B–6 (f).

§ 39.124B–8 Life tenant and remainderman. In the case of a grain storage facility held by one person for life with the remainder to another person, the amortization deduction shall be computed as if the life tenant were the absolute owner of the property and shall be allowed to the life tenant during his life.

PAR. 3. Section 39.172 is amended as follows:

(A) By striking "of emergency facilities" from section 172; and

(B) By inserting before the closing bracket of the historical note the following: "; amended by sec. 206 (b) (2), Technical Changes Act 1953, applicable to taxable years ending after August 15, 1953".

As revised § 39.172 will read as follows:

§ 39.172 Statutory provisions; estates and trusts; allowance of amortization deduction.

SEC. 172. Allowance of amortization deduction. The benefit of the deduction for amortization allowed by section 23 (t) shall be allowed to estates and trusts in the same manner and to the same extent as in the case of an individual. The allowable deduction shall be apportioned between the income beneficiaries and the fiduciary under regulations prescribed by the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary.

[Sec. 172 as added by sec. 155 (g), Rev. Act 1942; amended by sec. 206 (b) (2), Technical Changes Act 1953, applicable to taxable years ending after August 15, 1953]

PAR. 4. Section 39.172–1 is revised to read as follows:

§ 39.172–1 Amortization of emergency facility or grain storage facility of estate or trusts. In the case of an emergency facility, as defined in section 124A (d), acquired or completed by an estate or trust after December 31, 1949, such estate or trust is entitled to take amortization deductions with respect thereto in the same manner and to the same extent as in the case of an individual. The same rule is applicable in the case of a grain storage facility, as defined in section 124B (d). See sections 23 (t), 124A, and 124B and the regulations thereunder. The principles governing the apportionment of depreciation in the case of property held in trust are applicable with respect to the amortization of an emergency facility or of a grain storage facility of an estate or trust. See § 39.23 (1)–1.

PAR. 5. Section 39.190 is amended as follows:

(A) By inserting "or grain storage facilities" immediately after "emergency facilities"; and

(B) By inserting before the closing bracket of the historical note the following: "; amended by sec. 206 (b) (3), Technical Changes Act 1953, applicable to taxable years ending after August 15, 1953".

As revised § 39.190 will read as follows:

§ 39.190 Statutory provisions; partnerships; allowance of amortization deduction.

SEC. 190. Allowance of amortization deduction. In the case of emergency facilities or grain storage facilities of a partnership, the benefit of the deduction for amortization allowed by section 23 (t) shall not be allowed to the members of a partnership but shall be allowed to the partnership in the same manner and to the same extent as in the case of an individual.

[Sec. 190 as added by sec. 155 (h), Rev. Act 1942; amended by sec. 206 (b) (3), Technical Changes Act 1953, applicable to taxable years ending after August 15, 1953]

PAR. 6. Section 39.190–1 is revised to read as follows:

§ 39.190–1 Amortization of emergency facility or grain storage facility of partnership. In the case of an emergency facility, as defined in section 124A (d) (1), acquired or completed by a partnership after December 31, 1949, the partnership is entitled to take amortization deductions with respect thereto in the same manner and to the same extent as in the case of an individual. The same rule is applicable in the case of a grain storage facility, as defined in section 124B (d). See sections 23 (t), 124A, and 124B and the regulations thereunder. Amortization deductions with respect to an emergency facility or a grain storage facility of a partnership are not allowed to the members of the partnership.

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

Civil Aeronautics Administration

[14 CFR Part 609]

STANDARD INSTRUMENT APPROACH PROCEDURES; APPLICABILITY

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Notice is hereby given that the Administrator contemplates the adoption of the following rules respecting the applicability of Part 609. Although air carriers have been permitted under authority of their operations specifications to conduct an instrument approach with certain components of the ILS inoperative, Part 609 has not expressly provided similar authority to other users. It is proposed, therefore, to specify the components of ILS system and specifically authorize all users to conduct an ILS instrument approach when certain components are inoperative.

It is also proposed to revise § 609.4 (a) (3) by changing the maximum allowable rate of descent from the facility to the airport from 500 to 600 feet per minute. This change will thus liberalize the conditions under which straight-in landing minimums may be authorized.

Other miscellaneous amendments to §§ 609.2 and 609.3 (a), (d) and (i) are provided for the purpose of clarifying the applicability of Part 609, but do not involve any change in the substance of the affected provisions.

All interested persons who desire to submit comments and suggestions for consideration in connection with these proposed rules should send them to the Director, Office of Aviation Safety, Civil Aeronautics Administration, Washington 25, D. C., within 30 days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

1. Amend § 609.2 to read:

§ 609.2 Basis and purpose. Under the provisions of the Civil Air Regulations, the Administrator has been delegated the authority to prescribe Standard Instrument Approach Procedures to be used when conducting an instrument let-down to an airport and the weather minimums applicable to an IFR take-off or landing. This part contains such procedures and minimums as prescribed by the Administrator for civil airports located within the United States, and the criteria by which such procedures are established.

2. Amend § 609.3 (a) to read:

(a) Applicability. Unless otherwise authorized by the Administrator the procedures and minimums prescribed in this part shall apply as follows:

(1) The Standard Instrument Approach Procedures and the IFR landing minimums for such procedures are applicable to all users of the airport for which they are prescribed.

(2) The IFR take-off minimums are applicable to all users of the airport while conducting operations under the authority of Parts 40, 41, 42, 44 or 45 of this title.

(3) The IFR take-off or landing minimums shall not apply to military aircraft of the United States Armed Forces.

3. Amend § 609.3 (d) to read:

(d) Use of radio range for ADF approach. A low frequency type (200 through 400 kcs) simultaneous radio range may be used as an ADF instrument approach aid if (1) an ADF procedure for the airport concerned is prescribed by the Administrator, or (2) an approach is conducted using the same course for an ADF track as that specified in the approved range procedure and with identical altitudes as used in the range approach.

4. Amend § 609.3 (i) to read:

(i) Descent below authorized IFR landing minimums. No aircraft, after reaching an altitude equal to the minimum altitude for landings specified in these regulations, will descend below such altitude unless it is clear of clouds, and thereafter, except when landing minimums equal to or higher than 1000–2 are authorized, the aircraft will not descend more than 50 feet below such altitude, unless (1) it has arrived at a position from which a normal approach can be made to the runway of intended landing, and (2) either the approach threshold of such runway or the approach lights or other markings identifiable with such runway are clearly visible to the pilot. If, at any time, after descent below the clouds, the pilot cannot maintain visual reference to the ground or lights, he will immediately execute the appropriate missed approach procedure prescribed in the regulations in this part.

5. Add a new paragraph (m) to § 609.3 to read:

(m) Landing minimums with inoperative ILS components. The components comprising the instrument landing system (ILS) are (1) localizer, (2) glide slope, (3) outer marker, (4) middle marker, and (5) approach lights. In addition, although not a component, a compass locator at an outer or middle marker site may be substituted for the outer or middle marker respectively. Unless otherwise specified in the instrument approach procedure for a praticular airport, an ILS instrument approach procedure shall not be commenced when any component of the ILS is inoperative, or the related airborne equipment in the aircraft is inoperative or is not utilized, except in accordance with the following conditions and limitations:

(1) One component, except localizer, inoperative, use for straight-in approaches. Straight-in ILS minimums as low as 300–¾ are authorized when any single component of the ILS except the localizer is inoperative, provided all other components are in normal operation.

(2) Localizer and outer marker only operative, use for straight-in approaches. Straight-in ILS minimums as low as 300–1 are approved when the localizer and the outer marker are the only components of the ILS in normal operation.

(3) Localizer and outer marker only operative, use for circling approaches. An ILS instrument approach is approved for circling approaches if the localizer and the outer marker are the only components of the ILS in normal operation, and if the ceiling and visibility minimums are equal to or higher than those prescribed for a circling approach.

(4) One component, except localizer, inoperative, use of airport as an alternate. An ILS instrument approach is approved for use of the airport as an alternate when any single component of the ILS except the localizer is inoperative provided all other components are in normal operation, and if the ceiling and visibility minimums are equal to or higher than those prescribed for use of the airport as an alternate.

6. Amend paragraph (a) (3) of § 609.4 by changing "500 feet per minute" to "600 feet per minute."

Administrator of Civil Aeronautics.

CENTRAL POWER AND LIGHT CO.

NOTICE OF FILING REGARDING ISSUANCE AND SALE AT COMPETITIVE BIDDING OF PREFERRED STOCK AND ORDER AUTHORIZING SOLICITATION OF PROXIES

NOVEMBER 12, 1954.

Notice is hereby given that Central Power and Light Company ("Central Power"), a public-utility subsidiary of Central and South West Corporation, a registered holding company, has filed a declaration pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act") designating sections 6 (a) and 7 of the act and Rule U-50 thereunder as applicable to the proposed transactions which are summarized as follows:

Central Power proposes to solicit proxies from its stockholders, both common and preferred, with respect to an amendment to its charter to (a) increase the total number of authorized shares of its Preferred Stock from 100,000 shares to 175,000 shares and (b) effect certain changes in the terms and provisions of the Preferred Stock.

Upon the effectuation of the above mentioned charter amendment, Central Power proposes to issue and sell at competitive bidding, pursuant to Rule U-50, 75,000 shares of -- percent Preferred Stock, par value $100 per share. The price to be paid Central Power (which shall be not less than $100 per share nor more than $102.75 per share) and the dividend rate (which is to be expressed in a multiple of 0.04 of 1 percent) are to be fixed at competitive bidding.

The filing states that the net proceeds from the sale of the Preferred Stock will be used by Central Power to pay for a part of the cost of its construction program, it being represented that for the calendar years 1954 and 1955 construction expenditures will approximate $25,000,000 and $22,700,000 respectively.

Central Power states that the fees and expenses to be paid or incurred by it in connection with the proposed solicitation of proxies, other than the costs of preparing, assembling, and mailing such statements, will not exceed $2,000.

The filing states that no State commission and no Federal regulatory body other than this Commission has jurisdiction over the proposed transactions.

Central Power has requested that the Commission permit the declaration to become effective, forthwith, insofar as it relates to the proposed solicitation of proxies.

The Commission having examined the declaration and the proxy material proposed to be used in connection with the solicitation of proxies, and finding that the applicable provisions of section 12 (e) of the act and Rules U-62 and U-65 promulgated thereunder have been satisfied, and deeming it appropriate in the public interest, and in the interest of investors and consumers, to grant declarant's request and permit the declaration to become effective, forthwith, insofar as it relates to the solicitation of proxies:

It is ordered, That the declaration, insofar as it relates to the proposed solicitation of proxies, be, and it hereby is, permitted to become effective, forthwith.

It is further ordered, That this order shall become effective immediately upon its issuance.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than November 26, 1954 at 5:30 p. m., e. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on the declaration in respect of the issuance and sale of the 75,000 shares of -- Percent Preferred Stock by Central Power, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request, and the issues of fact or law, if any, raised by said declaration which he desires to controvert, or may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D. C. At any time after said date said declaration, as filed or as amended, may be permitted to become effective as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act, or the Commission may exempt such transactions as provided in Rule U-20 (a) and Rule U-100 thereof.

on acreage for which a coverage is not shown on the county actuarial table for the crop year or on which it is determined by the Corporation that soybeans are (a) destroyed and it is practical to replant to soybeans and such acreage is not replanted to soybeans, (b) initially planted too late to expect a normal crop to be produced, (c) planted for hay or are planted in rows too close for cultivation, (d) planted for the development of hybrid seed, or (e) planted in the same row or interplanted in rows with corn. For the purpose of determining the amount of loss, the insured interest shall not exceed the insured's interest at the time of loss or the beginning of harvest, whichever occurs first.

2. Responsibility of the insured to report acreage and interest. (a) Promptly after planting the soybean crop each year the insured shall submit to the county office, on a form prescribed by the Corporation, a report showing all acreage in the county planted to soybeans in which he has an interest and his interest therein at the time of planting. If the insured does not have an interest in any soybean acreage in the county for any year he shall nevertheless submit a report so indicating. Any acreage report submitted by the insured shall not be subject to change by the insured.

(b) If the insured fails to submit the above-mentioned acreage report within 30 days after planting of soybeans is generally completed in the county, the Corporation may elect to determine the insured acreage and interest or to declare the insured acreage to be "zero".

3. Coverage, premium rate and fixed price. For each crop year of the contract the coverage and premium rate per acre established for the area in which the insured acreage is located, and the fixed price (see section 10 (d)) shall be those established by the Corporation for such crop year and shown on the county actuarial table and for the first crop year shall be those on file in the county office for such crop year at the time the application for insurance is submitted. The coverage per acre is progressive depending upon whether the acreage is harvested or unharvested.

4. Changes in contract. The Corporation reserves the right to change the premium rate(s), coverage(s), fixed price(s), and other terms and provisions of the contract from year to year. Any changes shall be mailed to the insured or placed on file in the county office at least 15 days prior to the cancellation date preceeding the crop year for which the changes are to become effective, and such mailing or filing shall constitute notice to the insured. Failure of the insured to cancel the contract as provided in section 13 shall constitute his acceptance of any such changes.

5. Amount of annual premium. (a) The annual premium will be based upon (1) the insured acreage of soybeans, (2) the applicable premium rate(s), and (3) the insured interest(s) in the crop at the time of planting, and with respect to any insured acreage shall be earned and payable when the soybeans on such acreage are planted.

(b) Any amount of the premium which is unpaid on the day following the discount date (the discount date shall be November 30 for each year of the contract) shall be increased by ten percent, which increased amount shall be the premium balance, and thereafter, at the end of each 12 months' period, six percent simple interest shall attach to any amount of the premium balance which is unpaid.

(c) If in any year a premium is earned and totals less than $10.00 the amount shall be increased to $10.00.

(d) Any unpaid amount due the Corporation by the insured may be deducted from any indemnity payable to the insured by the Corporation or from any loan or any payment made to the insured under any act of Congress or program administered by the United States Department of Agriculture.

6. Insurance period. Insurance on any insured acreage shall attach at the time the soybeans are planted and shall cease upon harvesting or removal from the field, whichever occurs first, but in no event shall insurance remain in effect later than December 10 of the calendar year in which the soybeans are planted.

7. Notice of loss or substantial damage. (a) If, during the growing season, the insured soybean crop on any insurance unit is substantially damaged the insured shall give immediate written notice of such damage to the Corporation at the county office.

(b) If an insured loss occurs on any insurance unit the insured shall give prompt written notice to the Corporation at the county office but in no event shall such notice be given later than 15 days after harvest of soybeans is completed on the insurance unit or December 10 of the year in which the soybeans are planted, whichever is earlier.

(c) Any insured acreage which is not to be harvested shall be left intact until the Corporation makes an inspection.

(d) The Corporation may reject any claim for loss if any of the requirements of this section are not met.

8. Released or damaged acreage. (a) Any acreage of the insured soybean crop may be released by the Corporation after it is too late to replant to soybeans if (1) the Corporation determines that the crop on such acreage is destroyed, or (2) the insured requests a release of acreage which the Corporation determines is not destroyed and agrees to the appraisal by the Corporation of the potential production from such acreage. No insured acreage may be put to another use until the Corporation releases such acreage. If the soybean crop on insured acreage is damaged but the acreage has not been released by the Corporation, proper measures shall be taken to care for the crop and protect it from further damage.

(b) Where released acreage is not put to another use, or is replanted to soybeans, the release may be disregarded by the Corporation.

(c) There shall be no abandonment of any crop or portion thereof to the Corporation.

9. Time of loss. Any loss shall be deemed to have occurred at the end of the insurance period unless the entire crop on the insurance unit was destroyed earlier in which event the loss shall be deemed to have occurred on the date of such damage as determined by the Corporation.

10. Claims for loss. (a) Any claim for loss on an insurance unit shall be submitted to the Corporation, on a form prescribed by the Corporation, not later than 60 days after the time of loss.

(b) It shall be a condition precedent to the payment of any loss that the insured establish the production of soybeans on the insurance unit and that such loss has been directly caused by one or more of the hazards insured against during the insurance period for the crop year for which the loss is claimed, and furnish any other information regarding the manner and extent of loss as may be required by the Corporation.

(c) Losses shall be determined separately for each insurance unit. The amount of loss with respect to any insurance unit shall be determined by (1) multiplying the planted acreage (exclusive of any acreage to which insurance did not attach) by the applicable coverage(s) per acre, (2) subtracting therefrom the value (determined in accordance with (d) below) of the total production to be counted for the planted acreage, and (3) multiplying the remainder by the insured interest. However, if for the insurance unit, the premium computed for the planted acreage exceeds the premium computed for the acreage and interest shown on the acreage report, the amount of loss so determined shall be reduced proportionately. The total production to be counted for an insurance unit shall include all harvested production and in addition any appraisals which the Corporation determines should be made for potential or unharvested production, poor farming practices, uninsured causes of loss, or acreage abandoned or put to another use without being released by the Corporation. An appraisal of not less than the applicable coverage, minus the value (determined in accordance with (d) below) of any soybeans harvested, shall be made, for acreage with a reduced yield due solely to any cause(s) not insured against or acreage abandoned or put to another use without being released by the Corporation.

(d) In determining any loss under the contract, production shall be valued at the fixed price, except that any harvested production of soybeans which will not grade No. 4 or better (determined in accordance with the Official Grain Standards of the United States) because of poor quality due to insured causes occurring within the insurance period and would not grade No. 4 or better if properly handled, shall be valued by the Corporation at a price not in excess of the fixed price.

(e) If the production from an insurance unit is commingled with the production from any other acreage and the insured fails to keep records satisfactory to the Corporation of the acreages involved and the production from each, the Corporation may (1) deny liability with respect to all insurance units involved for the crop year without affecting the insured's liability for premium(s), or (2) allocate the commingled production in such manner as it determines appropriate.

11. Payment of indemnity. (a) Any indemnity will be payable within thirty days after a claim for loss is approved by the Corporation, but if payment is delayed for any reason, the Corporation shall not be liable for interest or damage on account of such delay.

(b) If the insured dies, is judicially declared incompetent or disappears after the planting of the soybean crop in any year, any indemnity which is, or becomes, part of his estate shall be paid to the legal representative of the estate. Should no such representative be qualified, the Corporation may pay the indemnity to the person(s) it determines to be beneficially entitled thereto or to any one or more of such persons on behalf of all such persons, or may withhold payment until a legal representative of the estate is qualified. In such cases, and in any other case where an indemnity is claimed by a person(s) other than the original insured or diverse interests appear with respect to any insurance unit, the determination of the Corporation as to the existence or nonexistence of a circumstance in the event of which payment may be made and of the person(s) to whom such payment shall be made shall be final and conclusive. Payment of an indemnity shall constitute a complete discharge of the Corporation's obligations with respect to the loss for which such indemnity is paid.

12. Avoidance of contract. The Corporation may void the contract without affecting the insured's liability for premium(s) or waiving any right or remedy including the right to collect any unpaid premium(s) if (a) at any time, either before or after loss, the insured has concealed or misrepresented any material fact or committed any fraud relating to the contract, or (b) the insured fails to give any notice or otherwise fails to comply with the terms of the contract at the time and in the manner prescribed. The Corporation may make such avoidance effective as of the beginning of any crop year with respect to which any act or omission referred to in (a) or (b) above occurred.

13. Life of contract, cancellation or termination thereof. (a) Subject to the provisions of this section, the contract shall be in effect for the first crop year specified on the application and shall continue in effect for each succeeding crop year until canceled by either the insured or the Corporation. Cancellation may be made by either party giving written notice to the other party on or before the cancellation date which shall be the February 28 preceding the crop year for which the cancellation is to become effective: Provided, however, That if by the April 30 following such cancellation date any amount due the Corporation under this contract remains unpaid, the contract shall terminate as if canceled by the Corporation prior to such cancellation date. Any notice of cancellation by the insured shall be in writing and shall be filed with the county office. The Corporation shall mail any notice of cancellation to the insured's last known address and mailing shall constitute notice to the insured.

(b) If the insured cancels the contract, he shall not be eligible for soybean crop insurance in the county in the next succeeding crop year unless he subsequently applies for insurance on or before the cancellation date preceding such year.

(c) If the Corporation determines that the county minimum participation requirement established by the Federal Crop Insurance Act, as amended, is not met for any crop year, insurance shall not be in effect for that crop year and the contract shall terminate.

(d) The contract shall terminate upon death or judicial declaration of incompetence of the insured, except that if such death or judicial declaration of incompetence occurs after the beginning of planting of the soybean crop in any crop year but before the end of the insurance period for such year, the contract shall (1) not terminate until the end of such insurance period, and (2) cover any additional soybeans planted for the insured or his estate for that crop year.

14. Transfer of interest. If the insured transfers all or a part of his insured interest in a soybean crop before the beginning of harvest and the time of loss, the transferee may obtain the benefits of the contract for the current crop year on the interest transferred if within 15 days after the date of transfer he (1) submits to the county office such information concerning the transfer as may be required by the Corporation, and (2) makes arrangements satisfactory to the Corporation for the payment of any unpaid premium on the interest transferred. Upon approval of a transfer of interest by the Corporation, the transferee and transferor shall be jointly and severally liable for any unpaid premium on the interest transferred. Any transfer shall be subject to any collateral assignment made by the transferor, and the Corporation shall not be liable for a greater amount of indemnity in connection with the insured crop than if the transfer had not taken place.

15. Collateral assignment. The original insured may assign his right to an indemnity for any year under the contract by executing a form prescribed by the Corporation and upon approval thereof by the Corporation the interest of the assignee will be recognized and the assignee shall have the right to submit the loss notices and forms as required by the contract if the insured neglects or refuses to take such action.

16. Subrogation. The insured assigns to the Corporation all rights of recovery against any person(s) for loss or damage to the extent that payment therefor is made by the Corporation, and shall execute all papers required and take such other action as may be necessary to secure such rights.

17. Records and access to farm. The insured shall keep or cause to be kept, for two years after the time of loss, records of the harvesting, storage, shipment, sale or other disposition of all soybeans produced on each insurance unit covered by the contract, and separate records showing the same information for production on any uninsured acreage in the county in which he has an interest. Any person designated by the Corporation shall have access to such records and the farm(s) for purposes related to the contract.

18. Forms. Copies of forms referred to in the contract are available at the county office.

19. Meaning of terms. For purposes of the soybean insurance program the terms:

(a) "County" means the area shown on the county actuarial table which may include farms located in a local producing area(s) bordering on the county.

Land rented for cash or for a fixed commodity payment shall be considered as owned by the lessee.

PART 969—AVOCADOS GROWN IN SOUTH FLORIDA

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this amendment until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. PART 969—AVOCADOS GROWN IN SOUTH FLORIDA

QUALITY REGULATION

Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement and Order No. 69 (7 CFR Part 969; 19 F. R. 3439) regulating the handling of avocados grown in South Florida, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and upon the basis of the recommendations of the Avocado Administrative Committee, established under the aforesaid marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of handling of avocados, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this amendment until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) in that, as hereinafter set forth, the time intervening between the date when information upon which this amendment is based became available and the time when this amendment must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient; a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions hereof effective not later than November 22, 1954. Shipments of avocados, grown in South Florida, are presently subject to quality regulations, pursuant to the marketing agreement and order, and will so continue until December 1, 1954, unless sooner terminated; a reasonable determination as to the quality, the supply of and demand for, such avocados must await the development of the crop thereof, and adequate information thereon was not available to the Avocado Administrative Committee until November 16, 1954; recommendation as to the need for, and the extent of, regulation of the quality of shipments of such avocados on and after November 22, 1954, was made at a meeting of said committee on November 16, 1954, after consideration of all available information as to the quality, the supply of and demand for such avocados, at which time the recommendations and supporting information for quality regulation in the manner and for the period herein set forth was submitted to the Department; such meeting was held to consider recommendation for regulation after giving due notice thereof, and interested parties were afforded an opportunity to submit their views at this meeting; the provisions of this amended regulation are identical with the aforesaid recommendations of the committee and information concerning such provisions has been disseminated among the handlers of avocados; this amended regulation relieves restrictions on the handling of avocados during the period November 22, 1954, through November 30, 1954; and compliance with the provisions of this amended regulation will not require of handlers any preparation therefor which cannot be completed by the effective time hereof.

It is, therefore, ordered as follows: The provisions in paragraph (b) of § 969.305 (Avocado Order 5, as amended (19 F. R. 6990; 7263)) are hereby amended to read as follows:

(b) Order. (1) During the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., November 22, 1954, and ending at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., March 31, 1955, no handler shall handle:

(i) Any avocados, grown in South Florida, which do not grade at least No. 2 Grade, as defined in § 969.130 (b) of the supplementing rules and regulations (19 F. R. 5439): Provided, That such avocados may fail to meet the requirements of such grade with respect to anthracnose (black spot), sunburn, and speck type brown discoloration: And provided, further, That skin tears in the stem cavity of an avocado which, in the aggregate, do not measure larger than one-third of the perimeter of such cavity shall not be considered serious damage.

Effective time. The provisions of this amendment shall become effective at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., November 22, 1954.

If the bidder verifies the bid, or fails or refuses to furnish evidence in support of a suspected or alleged mistake, no administrative determination shall be necessary, and the Contracting Officer shall consider the bid for award in the form submitted.

(e) If the bidder furnishes evidence in support of an alleged mistake, the Contracting Officer shall refer the case to the appropriate centralized authority, together with the following data:

(1) A signed copy of the bid involved;

PART 402—PROCUREMENT BY NEGOTIATION

SUBPART A—USE OF NEGOTIATION

SUBPART F—SMALL PURCHASES

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

1. Policies and procedures with respect to publication, in the Department of Commerce "Synopsis of U. S. Government Proposed Procurement, Sales and Contract Awards", of required information are now collated and set forth in §§ 401.206, 401.408, and 402.106. The new § 402.106 reads as follows:

§ 402.106 Dissemination of procurement information.

§ 402.106–1 Synopsis of proposed procurements. Synopses of proposed unclassified, negotiated procurements shall be prepared and publicized in the Department of Commerce "Synopsis of U. S. Government Proposed Procurement, Sales and Contract Awards", in accordance with the requirements of § 401.206 of this subchapter.

§ 402.106–2 Synopsis of contract awards. Synopses of awards of negotiated contracts shall be prepared and publicized in the Department of Commerce "Synopsis of U. S. Government Proposed Procurement, Sales and Contract Awards", in accordance with the requirements of § 401.408 of this subchapter.

2. The use of the petty cash method has been extended by an amendment to § 402.604. It is no longer necessary that the supplies or services be available from the local trade area. Section 402.604, as amended, reads as follows:

§ 402.604 Imprest funds (petty cash) method. Imprest funds are funds not exceeding $5,000 advanced by a disbursing officer to a duly authorized agent for the "spot-cash" or c. o. d. payment for small quantities of supplies or services (other than personal).

§ 402.604–1 Conditions for use. Imprest funds shall be used in accomplishing small purchases whenever all of the following conditions are present:

(a) The transaction is not in excess of $100;

(b) The supplies or services are immediately available, with cash payment to be made immediately upon pickup or delivery, whether at the supplier's place of business or at destination;

(c) The purchase does not require detailed technical specifications or technical inspection; and

(d) The use of imprest funds is administratively more economical and efficient than other small purchase methods.

§ 402.604–2 Documentation. Except as hereinafter provided, no purchase order shall be issued where cash payment is to be made from imprest funds. However, all such purchases shall be supported either (a) by a sales document of the vendor, such as an original bill, sales slip, cash register ticket, or invoice, or (b) by Standard Form 1165 (Receipt for Cash-Subvoucher), or equivalent authorized form, any of which shall itemize the supplies or services purchased and the amount paid, and must be signed by the vendor or his agent so as to acknowledge receipt of payment. Where the purchase amount is less than $3 and it is impossible to secure a sales document of the vendor, the Government employee making the purchase shall execute a Standard Form 1165 (or equivalent authorized form). In those instances where a purchase document is required by the vendor to obtain Government discounts or tax exemption or for other purposes, any authorized appropriate form may be used and shall be endorsed "Payment to be made in cash", if the vendor is to make delivery, or "Ship c. o. d.", if shipment is by parcel post or carrier.

§ 402.604–3 Cash discounts. When effecting cash purchases, purchasing offices shall secure cash discounts to the extent obtainable.

§ 402.604–4 Delivery of cash purchases by suppliers. Cash purchases on a delivered basis are preferable to pickups effected by Government vehicle and personnel, unless such pickups can be made as an incident to other operations or are otherwise advantageous. Imprest Funds payments for such purchases may include the cost of c. o. d., parcel post, or other delivery charges.

AUTHORITY: §§ 404.000 to 404.702 issued under R. S. 161; 5 U. S. C. 22. Interpret or apply 62 Stat. 21; 41 U. S. C. Sup. 151–161.

§ 404.000 Scope of part. This part deals with the procurement of supplies and services by the Military Departments from or through any other Government department or agency, with the exception of the procurement of supplies and services under the authority of Part 403, Coordinated Procurement, of this subchapter.

SUBPART A—PROCUREMENT UNDER FEDERAL SUPPLY SCHEDULE CONTRACTS

§ 404.101 Federal Supply Schedule contracts. The Federal Supply Service, General Services Administration, enters into open end contracts for many classes of supplies and services in common use by Federal agencies which normally do not lend themselves to definite quantity consolidated buying or to distribution from GSA warehouse. These Federal Supply Schedule contracts provide that for a definite period the contractor will be obligated to deliver all supplies and services that may be ordered thereunder by Government agencies subject to stated minimum and maximum amounts of any order (see § 404.103–1 (b)). Procuring activities are required or authorized to procure under Federal Supply Schedule contracts as prescribed in §§ 404.103 and 404.104. Federal Supply Schedule contracts are summarized on "Federal Supply Schedules" which are General Services Administration publications in catalog style and which list under commodity classifications the supplies or services to be purchased from the contractors named therein.

§ 404.102 Distribution of Federal Supply Schedules and related publications. To obtain copies of Federal Supply Schedules, contractor's catalogs (including price lists), except those catalogs which by special agreement may be furnished directly by contractors, and Federal Supply Schedule check lists, procuring activities and installations will process requests on GSA Form 457 to the General Services Administration regional office serving the area in which the procuring activity or installation is located. The check lists are issued periodically to show the status of all Federal Supply Schedules in effect, amendments thereto as to the dates specified, and information as to other pertinent matters. Procuring activities and installations will further request from the GSA Regional Office distribution of copies of general provisions for Federal Supply Schedule contracts. The General Services Administration regional or district offices are listed in § 404.203.

§ 404.103 Mandatory use of Federal Supply Schedules. Those classes of supplies and services the procurement of which, under Federal Supply Schedules, is designated as mandatory on the Department of Defense, are listed in § 404.103–2. Procurement of such supplies and services will be effected by placing orders under the applicable Federal Supply Schedule contract as required by the provisions of the corresponding Federal Supply Schedule except as provided in § 404.103–1.

§ 404.103–1 Exceptions to mandatory use—(a) Emergency procurement. When an emergency requires immediate delivery of supplies or services designated as mandatory on the Department of Defense which cannot be effected by ordering under Federal Supply Schedule contracts, authority is granted to make open market procurements of such supplies and services after the Contracting Officer has determined in writing that an emergency exists.

(b) Abnormal requirements. Federal Supply Schedule contracts generally provide that the mandatory use provisions do not apply to abnormal requirements; that is, (1) any order of less than a stated minimum amount, (2) any order for an item or combination of items in excess of a stated maximum amount, and (3) a series of orders from the same ordering office in quick succession and aggregating in excess of the maximum amount.

§ 404.103–2 List of Federal Supply Schedule contracts which are mandatory upon the Department of Defense—(a) Mandatory nationally.

§ 404.104 Optional use. Federal Supply Schedule contracts include many items with respect to which the mandatory use provisions do not apply to the Department of Defense and the contractors are not bound to accept orders from the Military Departments for such items. However, Federal Supply Schedule contractors may be considered as available sources of supply for such nonmandatory items listed in applicable Federal Supply Schedules and procurement may be effected from such sources. Such Schedules will not be used for the procurement of nonmandatory items when (a) changes in specifications are anticipated, (b) technical inspection is required, or (c) special packaging, packing, preservation, or marking is necessary.

SUBPART B—PROCUREMENT FROM FEDERAL SUPPLY SERVICE STORES DEPOTS

Copies of the "Stores Stock Catalog" and additional price lists may be obtained, upon request, from any of the stores depots listed in § 404.203.

§ 404.204 Procurement from Federal Supply Service Stores Depots. In procuring supplies from a Federal Supply Service Stores Depot, an order will be submitted to the appropriate Depot designated in the "Stores Stock Catalog" to serve the requiring activity or installation. Such an order will be submitted in the form of a delivery order, on the appropriate forms prescribed in Part 415 of this subchapter, containing information required by the ordering instructions set forth in the "Stores Stock Catalog."

§ 404.204–1 Common administrative supplies. Procurement of common administrative supplies, as defined in § 404.202, authorized for local purchase and for local consumption, by activities or installations within the continental limits of the United States, shall be made from the Federal Supply Service Stores Depots to the extent that such supplies are listed in the "Stores Stock Catalog", except as follows:

(a) Where the required common administrative supplies are manufactured by Federal penal and correctional institutions and agencies for the blind, procurement shall be accomplished in accordance with the provisions of Subparts D and E of this part.

(b) Where conditions are such that the use of imprest funds, Standard Form 44, or other simplified small purchase method (see Part 402, Subpart F, of this subchapter) is more practicable or economical, procurement from commercial sources is authorized.

§ 404.204–2 Supplies other than common administrative supplies. Activities and installations located within the continental United States which are authorized to purchase locally their requirements for supplies may purchase supplies other than common administrative supplies, from the Federal Supply Service Stores Depots when (a) they have made prior arrangements with authorized field agencies of the Federal Supply Service to establish estimates of requirements and to assure availability of the supplies and quantities required; (b) the supplies are identified as being available to and used by Federal agencies generally through facilities of the Federal Supply Service Stores Depots; (c) military effectiveness will not be decreased; and (d) cost compares favorably with delivered cost of like supplies available from commercial sources.

§ 404.204–3 Optional use by the Military Departments. While utilization of the Federal Supply Service Stores Depots is mandatory on the Department of Defense only to the extent provided in this subpart, in the interest of supply economy, Military Departments should require their activities or installations to use the Federal Supply Service Stores Depots to the fullest extent practicable, particularly where it is clear that by so doing economies are effected.

SUBPART C—PROCUREMENT THROUGH FEDERAL SUPPLY SERVICE CONSOLIDATED PURCHASING PROGRAMS

§ 404.301 Federal Supply Service consolidated purchasing programs. The Federal Supply Service conducts consolidated purchasing programs for the delivery of definite quantities of selected supplies directly from vendors to depots of various Government agencies for storage and subsequent issue, or for delivery to use points or transhipping points for oversea use. In this connection, purchase responsibility for certain common administrative supplies or services, as it affects the Department of Defense, is assigned in accordance with § 400.112–1 (b) of this subchapter.

§ 404.302 Mandatory use of consolidated purchasing programs. Mandatory use by the Departments of the consolidated purchasing programs of the Federal Supply Service, covering selected common administrative supplies and services, will be prescribed by Department of Defense Directives. Requirements of the Military Departments, to the extent practicable, shall be determined and furnished sufficiently in advance to the Federal Supply Service in order that planned procurement may be accomplished.

§ 404.303 Optional use of consolidated purchasing programs. Optional use by the Military Departments of consolidated purchasing programs conducted by the Federal Supply Service is permitted for common administrative supplies and services which are not covered by the mandatory purchasing programs required by Department of Defense directives.

SUBPART D—PROCUREMENT OF PRISON-MADE SUPPLIES

§ 404.402 Preference as between prison-made and blind-made supplies. In any case where similar supplies are manufactured or offered for sale both by Federal penal and correctional institutions and by agencies for the blind, the supplies must be purchased from Federal Prison Industries, Inc., to the extent available.

§ 404.403 Schedule of supplies which are prison-made. Supplies which are manufactured by Federal penal and correctional institutions are in strict conformity with Federal Specifications. These supplies are listed in the "Schedule of Products Made in Federal Penal and Correctional Institutions" (referred to in this subpart as the "Schedule"). Copies of the Schedule are available from Federal Prison Industries, Inc., care of Department of Justice, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 404.404–1 Mandatory procurement from Federal Prison Industries, Inc. Supplies listed in the Schedule shall be procured directly from Federal Prison Industries, Inc., when:

(a) Supplies require oversea packaging or packing;

(b) Supplies are required in carload lots, as described in the Consolidated Freight Classification for the commodity concerned; or

(c) Supplies are required in less than carload lots, but are not stocked by Federal Supply Service Stores Depots.

§ 404.404–2 Mandatory procurement of prison-made supplies from Federal Supply Service Stores Depots. Supplies listed in the Schedule which are required in less than carload lots and which are stocked by Federal Supply Service Depots shall be procured from such Depots, except that procurement shall be made directly from Federal Prison Industries, Inc., when (a) the procuring activity or installation is so located that it is more practical and economical to procure directly from Federal Prison Industries, Inc., rather than from or through the General Services Administration, or (b) the Federal Supply Service Stores Depot is temporarily unable to furnish the required supplies in which instance the Depot will so advise the procuring activity or installation so that the procurement may be made directly from Federal Prison Industries, Inc.

§ 404.405 Nonmandatory procurement of prison-made supplies. Contracting Officers are encouraged to utilize the facilities of Federal Prison Industries, Inc., to the maximum extent practicable in the procurement of supplies which are not listed in the Schedule, but which are nevertheless of a type manufactured in Federal penal and correctional institutions.

§ 404.406–1 Procurement From Federal Prison Industries, Inc. Procurement directly from Federal Prison Industries, Inc., will be made by placing a delivery order, using DD Form 702 (Order for Purchase of Supplies or Services), or DD Form 738 (Order and Voucher for Purchase of Supplies and Services) as appropriate (see §§ 415.003 and 415.008 of this subchapter), with Federal Prison Industries, Inc., care of Department of Justice, Washington 25, D. C.

§ 404.406–2 Procurement From Federal Supply Service Stores Depots. Procurement from Federal Supply Service Stores Depot of prison-made supplies listed in the Schedule shall be made by submitting a delivery order, using DD Form 702 or DD Form 738 as appropriate (see §§ 415.003 and 415.008 of this subchapter), to the General Services Administration Regional Office which normally serves the procuring activity or installation.

(a) Immediate delivery or performance is required by public exigency;

(b) Suitable used supplies can be obtained;

(c) Supplies are both procured and used outside the continental United States and Alaska; or

(d) The total cost of the order is $25 or less.

§ 404.408 Clearances. In addition to the exceptions provided in § 404.407, the Military Departments may procure through National Industries for the Blind or from commercial sources supplies of the types listed in the Schedule to the extent only that such procurement is specifically authorized in clearances issued by Federal Prison Industries, Inc., as set forth below.

(a) General clearances are issued by Federal Prison Industries, Inc., when classes of supplies are not available from Federal penal and correctional institutions, or when it is otherwise in the best interest of the Government to allow procurement of those classes of supplies from agencies for the blind or from commercial sources. A copy of each general clearance is forwarded to the Department of Defense for dissemination to the Military Departments. Purchase orders or contracts written pursuant to a general clearance need not be supported by a copy of the clearance, but the clearance number must be cited on the purchase order or contract as well as on the initial voucher.

(b) Formal clearances are issued in response to requests initiated by procuring activities or installations desiring to procure from agencies for the blind or from commercial sources supplies of the type listed in the Schedule when such supplies are not covered by a general clearance. Requests for formal clearances shall be addressed to Federal Prison Industries, Inc., % Department of Justice, Washington 25, D. C. Actual purchase of the required supplies shall not be consummated prior to the issuance of the formal clearance. A copy of the clearance certificate must be attached to the initial voucher.

SUBPART E—PROCUREMENT OF BLIND-MADE SUPPLIES

§ 404.501 General. Supplies listed in the "Schedule of Blind-Made Products" shall be procured in accordance with the policies and procedures set forth in this subpart.

§ 404.502 Preference as between prison-made and blind-made supplies. See § 404.402.

§ 404.503 Schedule of supplies which are blind-made. Supplies manufactured by agencies for the blind are listed in the "Schedule of Blind-Made Products" (referred to in this subpart as the "Schedule"), now printed in separate loose leaf form, copies of which may be obtained from any of the General Services Administration Regional Offices or Depots listed in § 404.203. Items available from stocks at General Services Administration Stores Depots are so identified in the Schedule.

§ 404.504 Mandatory procurement of blind-made supplies. Supplies listed in the Schedule shall be procured from agencies for the blind through National Industries for the Blind when:

(a) Supplies require oversea packaging or packing;

(b) Supplies are required in carload lots, as described in the Consolidated Freight Classification for the commodity concerned;

(c) Supplies are stocked by Federal Supply Service Stores Depots, but the procuring activity or installation is so located that it is more practical and economical to purchase directly from the agency for the blind which manufactures the supplies, rather than from the Stores Depot; or

(d) The supplies are not stocked by Federal Supply Service Stores Depots as indicated in the Schedule.

§ 404.505 Optional procurement of blind-made supplies. Supplies of any type or classification may be procured from agencies for the blind in any quantity, including less than carload lots, when such agency is the low bidder or offeror in response to an invitation for bids or request for proposals.

§ 404.506 Procurement procedure.

§ 404.506–2 Less than carload lots. Except as otherwise permitted in §§ 404.504 and 404.505, procurement of less than carload lots of blind-made supplies which are listed in the Schedule as stocked by Federal Supply Service Stores Depots shall be made by submitting an order to the General Services Administration Regional Office which normally serves the procuring activity or installation.

§ 404.507 Exceptions. Supplies listed in the Schedule may be procured from commercial sources under any of the conditions set forth below without securing clearance:

(a) Military necessity requires delivery within 2 weeks.

(b) The Procurement is less than a single unit as listed in the Schedule or is for $25 or less; or

(c) Supplies are both procured and used outside the continental United States and Alaska.

§ 404.508 Clearances. In addition to the exceptions listed in § 404.507, the Military Departments may procure from commercial sources supplies of the types listed in the Schedule to the extent only that such procurement is specifically authorized in clearances issued by National Industries for the Blind or General Services Administration, as provided in §§ 404.508–1 and 404.508–2.

§ 404.508–1 Emergency requirements. In an emergency, procurement of supplies of the classes listed in the Schedule may be made from a commercial source: Provided, however, That, when the required delivery date is in excess of 2 weeks, a clearance shall be obtained, prior to the purchase, from the General Services Administration Regional Office which normally serves the procuring activity or installation.

§ 404.508–2 Supplies not available from agencies for the blind. When a request for supplies is submitted to National Industries for the Blind and notification is received that none of the agencies for the blind can furnish the supplies within the period specified, an open-market purchase of the items listed in such notification may be effected: Provided, That purchase action is instituted within 30 days from the date of notification.

SUBPART F—PROCUREMENT OF PRINTING AND RELATED SUPPLIES

§ 404.601 Printing and related supplies. Printing, binding, and blank-book work, and envelopes, paper, and related supplies, shall be procured in accordance with (a) regulations of the Congressional Joint Committee on Printing, and (b) procedures prescribed by each respective Department.

SUBPART G—PROCUREMENT UNDER THE ECONOMY ACT FROM OR THROUGH ANOTHER FEDERAL AGENCY

§ 404.700 Scope of subpart. This subpart deals with orders for supplies or services placed with another Government department or agency pursuant to the authority of the Economy Act of June 30, 1932, as amended (31 U. S. Code 686), except that it does not apply to any procurement covered by Part 403 of this subchapter or the preceding Subparts A to F of this part. Orders for supplies and services placed within a Military Department shall be in accordance with procedures prescribed by that Department.

§ 404.701 Authorization and policy relating to placing and filling orders. Each procuring activity, when it is in the interest of the Government to do so, may place orders with any other Government department or agency for supplies or services that any such requisitioned department or agency may be in a position to furnish or perform or to obtain by contract. Generally, an order for supplies or services will not be placed with a department or agency which is not in a position to furnish the supplies or is not equipped to perform the services, except that an order may be filled by means of outside contract with a commercial source of supply if the order is placed by any one of the following Government departments or agencies: Department of the Army, Department of the Navy, Department of the Air Force, Department of the Treasury, Civil Aeronautics Administration, and Maritime Commission. An order for services shall not be placed with a department or agency when such services can be performed as conveniently or more cheaply by private contractors.

§ 404.702 Determination of amount and method of payment. Upon the written request of the requisitioned department or agency, an advance by check shall be made of all or part of the estimated cost of furnishing the supplies or services as specified by such requisitioned department or agency: Provided, That, where an advance is made, proper adjustments of the basis of the actual cost of the supplies or services shall be made as may be agreed upon by the departments or agencies concerned. Subject to approval by the requisitioned department or agency, payment by check may be made after the furnishing of the supplies or services. The amount to be paid shall be based on the actual cost of the supplies or services as may be agreed upon by the departments or agencies concerned.

Chapter VII—Department of the Air Force

Subchapter C—Claims and Accounts

PART 831—BONDS OF ACCOUNTABLE OFFICERS

PART 833—DEATH GRATUITY

PART 834—MILITARY COURT FEES

PART 835—PAYMENT OF BILLS AND ACCOUNTS

PART 838—ALLOTMENTS OF PAY

REVOCATION OF PARTS AND MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS TO PART 833

1. The references made to Parts 531, 534, 535 and 538, Chapter V, Department of the Army, in F. R. Document 48–11395 (13 F. R. 8751; 32 CFR Parts 831, 834, 835 and 838) as being applicable to the Department of the Air Force are hereby revoked.

2. Section 833.3 of Part 833 is changed to read as follows:

§ 833.3 Definition of categories and entitlement. The entitlement of any beneficiary of any deceased Air Force member to the 6 months' death gratuity is dependent upon a combination of factors, including the component of the member; the type of duty being performed at the time of death; the determination that death was due to disease or that injury was due to the duty status at the time of death; and the determination that death was, or was not, due to the misconduct of the deceased member.

(a) Members whose death creates entitlement to the 6 months' death gratuity pay are divided into three general categories:

(1) Category I. Members of the United States Air Force, without component, on extended active duty. (See sec. 301, 65 Stat. 328; 10 U. S. C. 1831.)

(2) Category II. Members of the Air Force Reserve and the Air National Guard on active duty for training, as authorized by competent authority where death is due to injury as distinguished from disease.

(3) Category III. Members reported missing, missing in action, interned, captured by an enemy, beleaguered or besieged who are subsequently determined to be dead or for whom presumptive finding of death has been determined by the Secretary of the Air Force.

(b) Even though a member is in one of the three categories listed in paragraph (a) of this section, the 6 months' death gratuity is not payable to any beneficiary under the circumstances shown in subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph.

(1) The 6 months' death gratuity is not payable if death is determined to have occurred as a result of the deceased's own misconduct. In this connection, unless the initial report of death indicates that no line of duty investigation is required, no action will be taken to process the death gratuity claim until AFHQ Form O–529, Casualty Report, is issued by the Casualty Branch, Director of Military Personnel, Headquarters USAF, which states that death occurred "In line of duty—Not misconduct."

(2) Six months' death gratuity is not payable if death is reported to have occurred when the deceased is absent without leave and the date of death is subsequent to the date of the expiration of the deceased's normal term of service. The finding on the AFHQ Form O–529 issued by the Casualty Branch, Director of Military Personnel, Headquarters USAF, in a case such as this would normally read "Not in line of duty—Not misconduct." If the deceased is absent without leave and the date of death is prior to the date of expiration of the deceased's normal term of service, the AWOL status is not a bar to payment of the 6 months' death gratuity so long as the death did not occur as a result of the decedent's own misconduct.

3. Paragraph (b) of § 833.4 is changed to read as follows:

§ 833.4 Eligible beneficiaries. * * *

(b) If there be no widow (widower), payment will be made to the child or children equally of any lawful marriage, regardless of whether designated. In this connection, an illegitimate child, where the relationship is properly established and acknowledged, is a child within the meaning of 10 U. S. C. 903 and may be entitled to payment as beneficiary of the death gratuity. (Comp. Gen. Dec. B–93064, January 10, 1951.) In cases where a claim is made by or on behalf of illegitimate children, no payment will be made by the finance officer, but all claims including any made by the child or children of a lawful marriage, will be submitted to the Settlements Division, Air Force Finance Center, 3800 York Street, Denver, 5, Colorado.

* * * * *

4. Section 833.5 is changed to read as follows:

§ 833.5 Ineligible beneficiaries. (a) Persons who are not considered eligible to receive payment of the 6 months' death gratuity are:

(1) Any married child notwithstanding the allegation of dependency or insurable interests upon the deceased.

(2) Any unmarried child over 21 years of age who is not actually a dependent of the deceased, regardless of the ability to show insurable interest.

(3) Persons alleging loco parentis relationships, other than dependent relatives.

(4) Any person alleging common-law marriage to decedent where such allegation is not supported by the same quality and quantity of evidence which would be required to establish the validity of the marriage before the courts of the jurisdiction where contracted.

(5) Adoptive parents who cannot support allegation by documentary proof.

(6) Alleged widow who claims dissolution of former marriage unless documentary proof is furnished.

(7) Any person not related to deceased by consanguinity (by blood), or by affinity (by marriage).

(b) Where an otherwise qualified beneficiary has taken the life of an Air Force member, no action will be taken toward payment of the 6 months' death gratuity until the case has been forwarded to the Settlements Division, Air Force Finance Center, for review and advice as to disposition.

5. Section 833.6 is changed to read as follows:

§ 833.6 Evidence required. The evidence required to establish the right of any person to receive payment of the 6 months' death gratuity is set forth in figure 1 for the different classes of beneficiaries. However, the finance officer responsible for effecting payment may require additional evidence considered necessary.

6. Section 833.7 is changed to read as follows:

§ 833.7 Payments. Determination of the finance officer who will make payment of the 6 months' death gratuity is dependent upon the categorization of the decedent and the class of beneficiary to be considered for payment.

(a) Category I. Claims for payment of gratuity resulting from the death of members in this category will be paid by the finance officer serving the organization or installation to which the decedent was assigned at time of death. (See exceptions in paragraph (d) of this section.)

(b) Category II. (1) Gratuity pay claims resulting from the death of members in this category will be paid by the finance officer designated to pay the accounts of the Reserve Forces as prescribed by current directives. (See exceptions in paragraph (d) of this section.)

(2) Gratuity pay claims resulting from the death of members in this category who are not in a pay status but who are nevertheless entitled to the benefits set forth in the act of June 20, 1949 (63 Stat. 202; 10 U. S. C. 456), will be paid by the finance officers charged with disbursements for the areas in which the decedents resided. (See exceptions in paragraph (d) of this section.)

(3) Since a line of duty investigation is required in any case in this category, in accordance with current directives, the finance officer will take no action in connection with gratuity payment until the Casualty Report, containing a certification of the availability of funds to be used, is received from the Casualty Branch, Director of Military Personnel, Headquarters USAF, through channels. The finance officer will then take immediate steps to furnish DD Form 397 to the potential beneficiary.

(c) Category III. (1) Air Force members stationed outside the continental limits of the United States, formerly reported in a missing status, whose beneficiary resided in same oversea area—payment will be made by the finance officer having custody of the Military Pay Record at the time of death.

(2) Air Force members stationed in the continental United States, formerly reported in a missing status—payment will be made by the Air Force Finance Center, Denver, Colorado.

(3) Where the determination or presumptive finding of death is made by the Deputy Chief of Staff, Personnel, the Settlements Division, Air Force Finance Center, will take action to effect payment of the gratuity.

(d) Exceptions—(1) Beneficiaries who must show dependency or insurable interests. (i) If the beneficiary is one who must show dependency upon or an insurable interest in the continued life of the decedent, a determination of the proper payee will be made by the Commander, Air Force Finance Center, or by a delegated subordinate and payment will be made by the Air Force Finance Center.

(ii) The appropriate finance officer (depending upon the category of the decedent) will forward the DD Form 397 to the potential beneficiary with instruction to return the executed claim to the Settlements Division, Air Force Finance Center.

(2) Death outside United States. (i) Where a member dies outside the United States and his beneficiary does not reside in the same area or in an area which may be served expeditiously by the finance officer making payments in the area in which the death occurred, payment will be effected by the Central Disbursing Division, Air Force Finance Center. Documents to support such payment will be furnished to the Settlements Division, Air Force Finance Center, by the finance officer paying the unit to which the decedent was assigned.

(ii) The finance officer, Clark Air Force Base, APO 74, San Francisco, California, is designated to make death gratuity payments of Army and Air Force personnel payable to beneficiaries of such personnel residing in the Philippine Islands.

7. Section 833.8 is changed to read as follows:

§ 833.8 Forms. DD Form 397, Public Voucher for Six Months' Gratuity Pay, will be used to file claims and make payment. DD Form 397–1 (memorandum copy of DD Form 397) completed by the finance officer will be forwarded to the Settlements Division, Air Force Finance Center. Forms will be forwarded to the potential beneficiary by the finance officer in accordance with the provisions of § 833.7.

8. Paragraph (h) of § 833.9 is changed to read as follows:

§ 833.9 Special instructions. • • •

(h) Absence without leave, absence over leave, and desertion—(1) AWOL or absence over leave. A member absent without leave or absent over leave will continue in a pay status but will forfeit all pay and allowance during such periods unless such absence is excused as unavoidable. Therefore, if a member dies during a period of AWOL or absence over leave, payment of the six months' gratuity is proper if otherwise payable. This determination applies to all such cases occurring subsequent to August 31, 1946. (See sec. 4 (b), 60 Stat. 964 as amended; 37 U. S. C. 33 and 29 Comp. Gen. 294.)

(2) Desertion. A member does not continue in a pay status after he becomes a deserter. Therefore, in any case where a member dies after having been dropped from the rolls of his organization as a deserter, the Settlements Division, Air Force Finance Center, Denver, Colorado, will obtain from the Air Adjutant General, Headquarters USAF, such initial administrative determination or any corrected administrative determination as may have been made subsequent thereto showing whether the member was in a desertion, an AWOL, and absent over leave, or a duty status at the time of death. Payment of the six months' death gratuity will be dependent upon the status of such member as reflected in the final administrative determination. (31 Comp. Gen. 645)

(3) Death subsequent to expiration of normal term of service. (See § 833.3 (b) (2)).

9. Section 833.10 is changed to read as follows:

§ 833.10 Deceased personnel other than Air Force. (a) Air Force finance officers are authorized to make payment of the 6 months' death gratuity to beneficiaries of Army personnel residing overseas provided that the finance officer has custody of the Military Pay Record at time of death.

(b) Air Force finance officers are not authorized to make payment of the 6 months' death gratuity to beneficiaries of Navy or Marine personnel, although the finance officer has custody of the Military Pay Record at time of death. Current instructions of the department concerned will be followed in such cases.

(c) Treasury Department License No. W–3041, February 14, 1947, authorizes the Department of the Army to pay claims for 6 months' death gratuity to residents of Germany or Japan who are beneficiaries of deceased military personnel. Payment will be made in indigenous currency of the country in which the beneficiary resides.

This order shall not otherwise become effective to change the status of the described land until 10:00 a. m. on the 35th day after the date of this order. At that time the said land shall become subject to application, petition, location and selection, subject to valid existing rights, the provisions of existing withdrawals, the requirements of applicable laws, and the 91-day preference-right filing period for veterans and others entitled to preference under the act of September 27, 1944 (58 Stat. 747; 43 U. TITLE 50—WILDLIFE

Chapter I—Fish and Wildlife Service, Department of the Interior

Subchapter B—Hunting and Possession of Wildlife

PART 6—MIGRATORY BIRDS AND CERTAIN GAME MAMMALS

RELAXATION OF RESTRICTIONS

Basis and purposes. A request has been received from the Director, Game and Fish Commission, State of Tennessee, for a relaxation of the present restrictions on the hours for shooting waterfowl and coots in that State as prescribed by the regulations adopted on August 23, 1954, and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of August 28, 1954 (19 F. R. 5519), so as to permit the taking of such birds from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset during the open season, subject to the condition that on the first day of the season the starting hour shall be 12 o'clock noon. It has been determined that the adjustment in shooting hours so requested is not likely to result in a diminution of the birds to any greater extent than was contemplated for the original shooting hours. Accordingly, pursuant to authority conferred upon me by section 3 of the Migratory Bird Treaty Act of July 3, 1918, as amended (40 Stat. 755; 16 U. S. C. 704), the Migratory Bird Treaty Act regulations are amended as follows:

The schedule designated as subparagraph (6) Mississippi Flyway States, of § 6.4 (e), as the same appears in 19 F. R. 5520 is amended by deleting the footnote reference "3" appearing opposite the word "Tennessee."

Since the foregoing amendment is a relaxation of the existing restrictions on the taking of waterfowl and coots in the State of Tennessee, notice and public procedure thereon are not required (60 Stat. 237, 5 U. S. C. 1001, et seq.), and it shall become effective immediately.

(Sec. 3, 40 Stat., 755, as amended; 16 U. S. C. 704)

Issued at Washington, D. C., and dated November 16, 1954.

DOUGLAS MCKAY,
Secretary of the Interior.

The findings and conclusions set forth herein with respect to Issue No. 1 relate to the period from the effective date of this decision through January 31, 1955.

The following findings and conclusions on material issues are based upon the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record thereof:

1. The order should be amended to provide that the Class I milk price for the months of December 1954 and January 1955 shall not be less than such price for November 1954.

Under the order, the Class I price is computed by adding $2.00 to the basic formula price during the months of April through June and $2.20 during other months. The price is further modified by a supply-demand adjustment factor which adjusts the Class I price upward or downward automatically as Class I sales change in relation to the supply of milk.

Testimony at the hearing indicated that the supply-demand adjustment provision now contained in the order does not operate so as to reflect actual supply-demand conditions in the market. At the time of the inception of the order, producer milk was inadequate for the Class I needs of the market and the percentage ratios now contained in the supply-demand adjustment formula were established on that basis. It was contended at the hearing that these percentage factors should be based on the premise that producers regularly associated with the market will supply the Class I needs of the market the year round. The several proposals at the hearing would provide for supply-demand adjustment percentages predicated on the market being adequately supplied when producer deliveries as a percent of Class I sales during the month of lowest production are at the minimum necessary to meet the needs of the market.

The present supply-demand formula does not appropriately adjust the Class I price. This has been a significant factor in causing a decline during recent months in the number of producers supplying the market and in the total shipment of producer milk to the market. The number of producers supplying North Texas handlers in September 1954 was the lowest of any month since January 1953 and the quantity of milk supplied by these producers was the lowest for any month since November 1952. The temporary relief herein proposed should be helpful in halting the trend of declining producer numbers and decreased production for the market until such time as action may be taken to revise on a permanent basis the supply-demand factors in the order in accordance with the requirements of the market and seasonal production variations.

Producers requested Class I prices on an emergency basis for the months of November and December 1954 and January 1955 of $6.19, $6.09, and $6.02, respectively. These prices were arrived at by using the supply-demand adjustment percentages which were proposed by the cooperative association to replace those now provided in the order.

Official notice is taken of the November 1954 Class I price of $5.911 which includes a supply-demand adjustment of plus 16 cents. Without the effect of the amendment proposed herein, it as estimated that the December 1954 and January 1955 Class I prices will average about 16 cents per hundredweight lower than the November price. Providing that the Class I price through January 31, 1955 shall not drop below that for November will afford producers protection against the unwarranted lower prices which might otherwise result before such change as may be made in the supply-demand adjustment formula on a permanent basis is made effective.

2. The due and timely execution of the function of the Secretary under the act imperatively and unavoidably requires the omission of a recommended decision by the Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, and the opportunity for exceptions thereto, on the above issue.

The conditions complained of are such that it is urgent that remedial action be taken as soon as possible. It is therefore found that good cause exists for omission of the recommended decision in order to inform interested parties of the conclusions reached. Uncertainty on the part of interested parties might lead to instability in the market. Knowledge of the action decided upon by the Secretary will permit those affected to adjust their operations promptly in accordance with such decision.

Delay beyond December 1, 1954, will defeat the purpose of such amendment. Accordingly, the time necessarily involved in the preparation, filing, and publication of a recommended decision, and exceptions thereof, would make such relief substantially ineffective and therefore should be eliminated in this instance. The notice of hearing stated that consideration would be given to the question of whether economic and marketing conditions require emergency action with respect to any or all amendments deemed necessary as a result of the hearing. Action under the procedure described above was requested by proponents at the hearing.

Rulings on proposed findings and conclusions. Briefs which were filed on behalf of interested parties contained statements of fact, proposed findings and conclusions, and arguments with respect to the provisions of the proposed amendment. Every point covered in the briefs was carefully considered along with the evidence in the record in making the findings and reaching the conclusions hereinbefore set forth. To the extent that the findings and conclusions proposed in the briefs are inconsistent with the findings and conclusions contained herein, the request to make such findings or to reach such conclusions is denied on the basis of the facts found and stated in connection with the conclusions in this decision.

General findings. (a) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and in the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest; and

(c) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and are applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in, the said marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Determination of representative period. The month of September 1954 is hereby determined to be the representative period for the purpose of ascertaining whether the issuance of the order amending the order, as amended, now in effect, regulating the handling of milk in the North Texas, marketing area, in the manner set forth in the attached amending order is approved or favored by producers who, during such period, were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area specified in such marketing order.

Marketing agreement and order, as amended. Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled, respectively, "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the North Texas, Marketing Area," and "Order Amending the Order, as amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the North Texas, Marketing Area," which have been decided upon as the detailed and appropriate means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions. These documents shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

It is hereby ordered, That all of this decision, except the attached marketing agreement, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of said marketing agreement are identical with those contained in the order as hereby proposed to be amended by the attached order which will be published with this decision.

This decision filed at Washington, D. C., this 17th day of November 1954.

[SEAL] EARL L. BUTZ,
Acting Secretary of Agriculture.

Order[1] Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the North Texas Milk Marketing Area

§ 943.0 Findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order, and of the previously issued amendments thereto and all said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed, except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the North Texas, marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply of and demand for milk in the said marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered, that on and after the effective date hereof the handling of milk in the North Texas marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, as follows:

Delete § 943.51 (a) (2) and substitute therefor the following:

(2) The Class I milk price for the months of December 1954 and January 1955 shall not be less than such price for November 1954.

[Docket No. AO-253]

HANDLING OF MILK IN AKRON, OHIO, MARKETING AREA

DECISION WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED MARKETING AGREEMENT AND PROPOSED ORDER

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was conducted at Akron, Ohio, on March 1-6, inclusive, 1954, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued on February 10, 1954 (19 F. R. 859).

Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record thereof the Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, on August 16, 1954, filed with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, his recommended decision. This decision and notice of opportunity to file written exceptions thereto was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on August 19, 1954 (19 F. R. 5270).

A notice of extension of time for filing exceptions was filed by the Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service on September 14, 1954, and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of September 17, 1954 (19 F. R. 6009).

Ruling on exceptions. Within the period reserved therefor, exceptions were filed to certain of the findings, conclusions and actions recommended by the Deputy Administrator. In arriving at the findings, conclusions and regulatory provisions of this decision, such exceptions were carefully and fully considered in conjunction with the record evidence pertaining thereto. To the extent that the findings, conclusions and actions decided upon herein are at variance with any of the exceptions, such exceptions are overruled.

The material issues of record related to:

(1) Whether the handling of milk in the market is in the current of interstate commerce or directly burdens, obstructs or affects interstate commerce in milk or its products;

(2) Whether marketing conditions justify the issuance of a marketing agreement or order;

(3) Extent of the marketing area;

(4) The scope of regulation;

(5) The classification of milk;

(6) Class prices;

(7) Payments to producers;

(8) Administrative provisions.

Findings and conclusions. Upon the evidence adduced at the hearing and the record thereof it is hereby found and concluded that:

(1) Character of commerce. The handling of milk in the Akron, Ohio marketing area is in the current of interstate commerce or directly burdens, obstructs or affects interstate commerce in milk and milk products.

The record shows that handlers in this area from time to time receive milk from out-of-state sources.

Although Akron producers supply milk primarily for fluid use, there is necessarily some reserve for variations in sales and production, and accordingly, some of the milk goes into manufactured products, and as such competes with similar products available and received from out-of-state sources. Much of the cottage cheese for the Akron market originates in Detroit, Michigan. The record shows also that Akron handlers have received supplies of supplementary milk from plants which manufacture dairy products which move in or burden interstate commerce. Milk and milk products were also sold by an Akron handler to the Akron Naval Air Station and some of such milk was used outside the State of Ohio.

Record evidence also shows that milk processed in the proposed marketing area is sold in the Cleveland and Stark County marketing areas, where the handling of milk is regulated under other orders of the Secretary. The production areas of the proposed marketing area overlap the production areas of the Cleveland and Stark County markets, and producers shift or are shifted between the Akron market and these other markets. The Cleveland milkshed includes plants in Indiana and Michigan. Milk from the Stark County marketing area is sold in the proposed Akron marketing area.

(2) Marketing conditions in relation to purposes of regulation. The issuance of an order to regulate the handling of milk in the proposed Akron, Ohio marketing area will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act.

During periods prior to World War II and thereafter a pooling arrangement was operated in this market by some of the handlers and the principal producers' association. This pool equalized returns to producers of participating handlers on the basis of utilization. When the pooling operation was resumed after the war, in September 1948, seven handlers participated and five others remained outside the pool. Among the difficulties which caused the dissolution of the pool was failure of a handler to report receipts from other sources and sales to vendors. A representative of the association indicated that attempts have been made to reestablish the pool, but these efforts have been unsuccessful because not all handlers are willing to be in it.

The association complained that lack of a pooling arrangement has caused an uneven distribution of the effect of surplus in the market, with a preponderant part of responsibility for marketing the surplus falling upon the association. At the time of the hearing in February the association was disposing of a large volume of such milk to a cheese plant.

Until December, 1953, this milk was utilized in the market for fluid purposes. It was displaced as result of a change in business arrangements by one of the handlers and prospects are that it will be needed for fluid purposes during any subsequent season of low production. At the cheese factory, the milk brings only a manufacturing rate of return. The difference between the manufacturing price and the going market price of milk for fluid use is being borne only by the membership of the association with the result that member prices are reduced relative to nonmember prices.

Incomplete information on receipts and sales, such as caused the dissolution of the pool, has become a factor hindering producers in the development of an orderly method of marketing their milk since cessation of the pooling operation. There is a lack of a reliable and accurate system of accounting for milk receipts and utilization. Some handlers buying milk from the Akron Milk Producers, Inc., report summary data on utilization to the association. Since such reports do not give the detail or product disposition, they do not provide a basis for checking the handlers' accounting. Since reports are not made by all handlers, there is no assurance that producers for the market receive payment for the use value of their milk.

Following dissolution of the pool, the bargaining position of producers has deteriorated, inasmuch as lack of a pooling operation has put more of the burden of surplus on the association. Absence of pooling places a handler at a disadvantage if he carries a greater proportion of milk as a reserve than his competitors, and accordingly, each handler is reluctant to receive any more milk than a very minimum to meet his needs. Refusal by some handlers to have dealings with the association also prevents effective bargaining and development of an orderly system for marketing producer milk.

Payment to producers is on a flat price basis. This is a single price applied to all milk received, regardless of use. In times when supplies are greater than sales in fluid form handlers are sometimes unwilling to accept all of the milk offered for sale by producers because the handlers are not willing to pay the same price for additional quantities of milk which must go into manufacturing uses. This situation results in dropping of some producers during the flush period, or turning milk back to the association.

Although handlers are reported to be paying about the same price to producers as the uniform prices in neighboring markets which have Federal regulation of producer prices, this does not indicate Akron handlers are paying for milk on a comparable basis with these other markets. Data in the record indicate the percentage of ultilization in fluid use is generally higher for Akron handlers than in the Cleveland market. On this basis, the Akron handler would have a lower cost of milk than the Cleveland handler if he paid only the Cleveland uniform price. However, the record discloses two important exceptions to the "rule" that the Akron blend is as high as the blend in adjacent Federal order areas. One exception is that Akron prices were below the blend prices which prevailed under the Stark County order in the last few months of 1953. The second exception is the low price received by producers for the milk diverted to a cheese factory in the months immediately preceding the hearing. A fully effective classified price plan would assure producers of the full value of their milk in accordance with its use by handlers, as well as complete information on receipts, utilization, and prices.

A system of check-testing has been established by the Akron Milk Producers Association, but this has been effective only with respect to cooperating handlers. The association is not able to obtain corrections where check tests indicate variation from a handler's reported test. The program in the market for checking weights is not applicable to all handlers in the market.

A marketing agreement and order program is needed to establish and maintain desirable and orderly marketing conditions in the Akron, Ohio Marketing Area. An order will establish uniformity among the handlers on classification and pricing of milk; provide impartial audit and check-weighing and testing; equalize payments among producers; and provide marketwide information on receipts,

(3) Marketing area. The marketing area in which the handling of milk would be regulated by the proposed order includes all the territory within the boundaries of Summit County, Ohio, and within the boundaries of Franklin, Ravenna, Brimfield and Suffield Townships in Portage County, Ohio, except those portions of the defined area in those two counties which are already included in the Stark County, Ohio, marketing area, namely sections 25, 26, 27, 34, 35, and 36 in Greene Township of Summit County, and lots 1, 2, 9, 10, 11, 12, 19, 20, 21, 22, 29, 30, 31, 32, 39, and 40 in Suffield Township in Portage County.

The area described is one served almost entirely by handlers with plants in Akron, Barberton, Ravenna, and Cuyahoga Falls. Other milk distribution within this area may include about 10 percent of the retail distribution of a handler at Orrville, and includes only minor parts of operations of other distributors. Distribution routes from the plants at Ravenna and Cuyahoga Falls are intermingled with routes out of plants in Akron and Barberton.

Health and sanitation requirements for the above described area are generally similar so uniform prices may be applied to all milk produced for the area. Milk received at handlers' plants moves freely to any part of the described area. The various handlers compete freely with each other throughout the area, purchasing and distributing milk which is relatively uniform in quality.

It is clear that the entire area described above is affected by similar marketing conditions. Findings and conclusions with respect to need for a more orderly marketing system apply generally to all parts of the area, and all parts of the area are so interrelated as to require regulation of all of the area if effective regulation is to apply in any part.

The only territory proposed in the notice of hearing which is not included in the defined marketing area (or already included in the Stark County, Ohio, Marketing Area) consists of Sharon and Wadsworth Townships in Medina County. Medina County has no formal health inspection requirements for milk. It follows that local dairies doing business solely in the two townships in Medina County would not be required to purchase from producers and distribute milk of comparable standards to those enforced in Summit and Portage Counties, and consequently equal pricing would not be economically feasible. If, on the other hand, any of the handlers who distribute milk in Medina County also distribute a significant quantity of milk in the marketing area, they will necessarily have met the inspection requirements and will be fully regulated by the order.

A handler also urged extension of the marketing area into parts of Portage and Medina Counties not covered in the notice of hearing. It is not possible to make any conclusion on this record as to areas not covered by the notice of hearing. Also, the Secretary, in a determination issued April 14, 1954 (19 F. R. 2233) found that there was no need to reopen the record of the hearing to consider such extension of the marketing area.

It is concluded that the above described area is a practical unit for the proposed regulation and should be adopted as the marketing area.

(4) Scope of regulation—(a) Milk to be priced. The type of regulation effected by a milk order is essentially a matter of establishing minimum prices to dairy farmers who produce milk for the market. The scope of such regulation may be made specific by providing appropriate definitions of the terms "producer", "handler", and "pool plant".

The primary factor in determining which dairy farmers are producers for the market is the plant to which they deliver their milk. Marketing conditions described in the record indicate that the most practical method of order regulation would be to establish minimum prices to all farmers delivering milk to plants from which milk is regularly distributed in the marketing area.

Handlers selling milk in the proposed Akron marketing area receive their milk from dairy farmers at the plants where it is packaged for fluid distribution. Virtually all the plant operators who distribute any milk in the area have the preponderant part of their distribution in the defined marketing area, however the record does contain mention of a plant operator who appears to have only a marginal portion of his total sales in the defined area. The order should, therefore, stipulate a level of within-the-area operations for determining whether this plant or others which may currently or subsequently distribute milk in the marketing area are to be fully regulated.

It was proposed by producers at the hearing that plants distributing 10 percent of the Class I milk on routes wholly or partly in the marketing area should be pool plants. This definition of a pool plant contemplated the establishment of a marketwide equalization pool, which it is concluded elsewhere in this decision should be adopted. The figure of 10 percent might be regarded as being large enough part of the handler's business to indicate substantial association with the market and that the handler's operations are likely to affect general marketing conditions. A handler witness suggested that a lower percentage figure might be used. This method of defining a pool plant, however, does not measure the impact on the market of unregulated milk, since a 10 percent distribution from a large plant might represent considerably more significant competition than a 20 percent distribution from a small plant. Instead, it is concluded that all plants from which distribution of Class I products is made in this area should be included in the pooling operation, excepting only those with less than 300 "points" of Class I disposition daily on routes extending into the area. (A "point" is one quart of milk or a half pint of cream).

The limit of 300 "points" per day, or 600 "points" on every-other-day delivery is designed to represent a normal sized retail route or small to medium combination retail and wholesale route. Such volume is not considered a significant factor in this market and it is, therefore, not necessary that such a handler be subject to the entire reporting and payment provisions of the order.

Accordingly, "pool plant" should be defined as a plant at which milk received from dairy farmers is packaged for distribution as Class I milk and from which milk is distributed as Class I milk on a route(s) wholly or partially within the marketing area, except plants exempted because they have distribution of less than 300 "points" on such routes.

The term "route" is used in the definition of pool plant to cover a number of types of distributing operations in which handlers may engage in the proposed marketing area. "Route" should be defined as a sale or delivery (including a sale from a plant or a store) of Class I milk to a wholesale or retail stop(s). Such definition would include as route distribution a sale to or through a vendor.

The term "producer" should be defined to mean any person, other than a producer-handler, who produces milk which has the approval of the health authorities of any community in the marketing area for consumption as fluid milk in such community and is received at a pool plant. The definition should include a producer whose milk is temporarily diverted to a nonpool plant by the handler for his account. Such a provision will serve to maintain the status of producer for a dairy farmer whose milk temporarily is not needed by the handler and would facilitate interplant movements of milk for the purpose of adjusting to short-term variations in supply and requirements. In order that milk which is diverted would continue to be included in the regular pool computations, it would be treated as if it were received at a pool plant.

There are sanitation requirements applied by local governments within the area with respect to approval of the farms from which milk for fluid consumption may be supplied, and accordingly, such a qualification should be a part of the producer definition. The order provisions would be uneconomic if they had the result that dairy farmers who have met the health standards for the market shared the returns on fluid sales with farmers who have not met such qualifications.

"Handler" should be defined as any person (1) in his capacity as the operator of a plant where milk is processed and packaged for distribution on a route(s) in the marketing area, and (2) any cooperative association with respect to the milk of any producer which such cooperative association causes to be diverted from producers' farms to a nonpool plant for the account of such cooperative association.

The handler is the person who receives milk from producers and who is responsible for reporting receipts and utilization of milk and payment therefor, with certain exceptions noted below. A cooperative association which markets the milk of its producer members may for short periods of time need to divert producers' milk from pool plants to nonpool plants. If the association is defined as a handler for such milk, even though it has no plant, the producers whose milk is so diverted will continue to receive the uniform price under the order and their milk will be available for fluid use when needed in the fall months or at other times.

The term "producer-handler" would apply to a person who produces milk and operates a plant from which a route(s) is operated wholly or partly in the marketing area, but receives no milk from producers. The order is not intended to establish minimum prices for such operators, but they should be required to make reports to the market administrator, since such reports are necessary to make a determination as to whether the operator is a producer-handler, and such reports facilitate accounting with respect to transfers of milk from other handlers.

A further exception from the minimum price regulation is the handler whose plant is a nonpool plant because his distribution in the area is less than 300 points. Such handlers should also be required to report for reasons similar to those for producer handlers.

(b) Provisions relating to "other source milk". The attached order provides (§ 960.5) for the designation of "pool" plants. The purpose of this designation is to indicate the sources of milk which are fully regulated under the order. Sections 960.46, 960.47, and 960.72 (b) provide for the integration into the regulatory plan of milk other than that which is fully regulated (i. e. "other source" milk). The former sections provide for the allocation, in the classification system, of other source milk while the latter section provides for certain payments to be made into the producer-settlement fund on other source milk which is in excess of that allocated to Class II milk and is obtained from plants not subject to the payment and pricing provisions of any other Federal order.

Any milk sold in the marketing area must, of course, conform to the sanitary requirements imposed by the local health authorities. However, handlers may meet these requirements without becoming regular and dependable sources of supply for the market since their milk may have been obtained as a supplemental supply during temporary periods of emergency or their sales may be extremely small in proportion to a primary distribution in some other area. Clearly, it is not possible to identify the regular and normal supply for the Akron area solely on the basis of sanitation requirements.

Neither is the shipment of milk to the marketing area for Class I utilization a practical basis for identifying the milk which should be fully regulated under the order. If any small, incidental, or accidental shipment of milk into the marketing area were to bring all of the milk at the plant from whence such shipment was made under total regulation, great hardship could be caused to the operator of such plant and to the farmers delivering milk to such an operator. Small quantities of milk are, in fact, disposed of in the regulated marketing area as Class I from plants which are not normal or regular sources of supply for the marketing area, particularly in the Fall season, when supplies are seasonally lowest. Moreover, the operators of the plants from which such shipments arise may not wish to bring their plants under total regulation. There are many situations in which plant operators may find it economical or desirable to make shipments of small quantities of milk to the marketing area and with respect to which it is neither necessary nor desirable in terms of effective regulation to bring the operators of such plants fully under the regulation. For instance, a plant which is associated with a market outside of the Akron area may find it advantageous to ship milk to a plant regulated by the order in order to have such milk converted into manufactured dairy products. It is quite possible, however, through misunderstanding, or from errors of estimating the utilization of milk, for milk which was intended for utilization in Class II products to be assigned a Class I classification. If through such accident or misunderstanding a plant were placed completely under regulation, considerable hardship, unnecessary to effective regulation, might result. For this reason, it is not practical nor desirable to place a plant totally under regulation merely because a small quantity of milk shipped by it to the market finds its way into a Class I utilization.

The attached order provides for a marketwide pool. Under this pooling plan, handlers whose proportion of utilization in Class I is greater than the market as a whole make payments into an equalization fund and those handlers whose proportion of utilization in Class I is less than the average for the market receive payments out of the equalization fund. This method of payments into and out of the equalization fund is the essential mechanism for providing uniformity of payments to farmers irrespective of the handler to whom they deliver their milk and provision for equalized payments to farmers is necessary to the maintenance of stable and orderly marketing conditions in the Akron area.

Because handlers with less than the market average proportion of milk in Class I may draw payments out of the producer-settlement, or equalization fund, there is an advantage to any plant operator who has less than the marketwide average proportion of milk in Class I to place himself under regulation in order to obtain these payments and, thereby, make it possible for him to pay the uniform price established under the order to his producers. The smaller the plant operator's proportion in Class I, the greater is the advantage of regulation to him. Under these circumstances, plants which are engaged primarily in the manufacture of milk into dairy products rather than as suppliers of Class I milk to the marketing area, will attempt to place their plants under regulation for the sole purpose of obtaining payments out of the equalization fund. The result of this, however, will be to reduce the returns to those farmers whose milk actually constitutes the regular source of supply of Class I milk for the marketing area.

It is necessary for the reasons stated, therefore, that that milk which in fact constitutes the regular and normal sources of supply for the marketing area be distinguished from other milk which might enter the marketing area. The pool plant definition of the order is designed to identify the regular and normal sources of supply for the Akron marketing area. This section provides that regulated pool plants are those from which a significant quantity of milk (300 points or more per day) is disposed of in the marketing area as Class I. Any plant, no matter where located, may bring itself under regulation by performing in the manner required, and any plant may relieve itself of regulation when it no longer operates in a way that brings it within the scope of the order. Under these circumstances, the decision as to whether a plant will be fully regulated under the order or will not be subject to regulation is determined by the decision of the plant operator himself.

Since the order provides for the identification of that milk which is subject to total regulation under the order, the possibility remains that some milk (i. e. other source milk) will be disposed of in the marketing area as Class I which is not subject to total regulation. In fact it was testified that some quantities of other source milk have been disposed of in each month as Class I milk in the marketing area either by delivery to a plant which would be a pool plant under the order, or by sale by the outside plant operator directly to stores or to other consumption outlets such as hotels, restaurants, or homes.

The attached order provides that whenever total receipts from producers are more than 110 percent of the total Class I sales from pool plants a payment shall be made into the equalization fund on all milk which is not priced under this or another Federal order and which is classified as Class I at a rate equal to the difference between the Class I price and the Class II price. Payments at this rate are necessary to maintain the integrity of the pricing and pooling provisions of the order.

It appears from the record that essentially all of the other source milk utilized for Class I purposes in the marketing area has been of Grade A quality and, therefore, similar in quality to that regularly disposed of in the marketing area for Class I. It was produced as part of a supply intended primarily to meet the demand for milk for fluid consumption (or the equivalent of Class I milk uses under the order) in some area other than the area specified to be regulated by this order but it was not used for such purposes in the area for which it was produced. It was, instead, milk which became surplus to the needs for milk for fluid disposition in the area for which it was produced. If the plant operator had not found a sale for such milk within the Akron marketing area, it would have been necessary for him to convert the milk into a manufactured milk product. The most likely surplus disposition of this other source milk would have been to plants engaged in processing milk into such manufactured dairy products as butter, cheese, ice cream, or nonfat dry milk solids.

Its value, therefore, to the operator of the unregulated plant was a surplus milk value. The Class II price for milk under the attached order is based on the value of milk when it is converted into butter and nonfat dry milk solids or the prices paid for milk at a group of midwestern condenseries, and this is the price which regulated handlers are required to pay for milk when they convert it into manufactured products. The Class II price, therefore, represents an accurate and fair representation of the value to the receiving plant operator of surplus milk which is disposed of as other source milk for Class I purposes in the marketing area.

If unregulated plant operators were allowed to dispose of surplus milk for Class I purposes in the regulated marketing area without some compensating, or neutralizing, provision in the order, it is clear that the disposition of such milk, because of its price advantage relative to fully regulated milk, would displace the fully regulated milk in Class I uses in the marketing area. The plan of Congress, as contemplated under the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, of returning minimum uniform prices to the producers for the regulated marketing area, would be defeated. Moreover, inefficiencies in the marketing of milk would be encouraged, for the regulated market would obtain its Class I milk not from the regular and normal sources of supply for the market but from other sources of supply generated solely as a result of the price advantage created for unregulated milk by the regulation itself. Providing for some method of compensating for, or neutralizing the effect of, the advantage created for unregulated milk therefore is an essential and necessary provision of this order. Since the value for Class I milk in a regulated market is established at the level of the Class I price provided for in the order and since the true value of other source milk when disposed of in the marketing area is the Class II value, a payment computed as the difference between the Class I price and the Class II price will remove the advantage which other source milk would have when disposed of for Class I purposes in the marketing area.

A possible alternative method of determining the rate of the compensatory payments was mentioned at the hearing. Such rate would be equal to the difference between the Class I price and the price actually paid by a handler for other source milk of Grade A quality. Under the circumstances which prevail in the Akron marketing area, a handler normally would come into possession of this type of other source milk by purchasing it from an unregulated milk plant. The milk which such a handler receives under these circumstances is at a different stage in the marketing process than is the milk which would be priced under an order. Order prices apply to milk as received at the first plant from individual farmers. The price paid by a handler for other source milk applies to milk which has already been received at the first plant, weighed, tested, cooled and placed in a transportation conveyance. Obviously, the handler generally will pay more for other source milk under this condition than he would for milk received directly from farmers, for the plant operator who first receives the milk from farmers must necessarily obtain a markup if he is to be recompensed for the services which he has performed on the milk. In some situations, the purchase of other source milk might be made from a plant operated by the same company as the regulated plant. Thus, the transaction would be primarily a matter of bookkeeping within the same company and it would be advantageous to the company if the price for the milk were to be stated as the Class I price. For by this means, all compensatory payments into the equalization fund would be avoided. Even between plants controlled by different companies, the advantage of showing that the price at which the milk was exchanged was at least as high as the Class I price would give great impetus to the effectuation of paper transactions showing a price at least equal to the Class I price while undisclosed payments were made in order to avoid the imposition of the compensatory payments into the equalization fund. Under these circumstances, it is impractical from an administrative standpoint to provide for a payment the actual amount of which is within the control of parties to the transaction. It is essential instead that the payment be computed on an objective basis and that it be equal for all handlers for similar transactions. The proposed method of computing the payments conforms with these requirements but this alternative method fails to do so.

Another possible rate of payment would be based on the difference between the price paid by the first receiver to farmers and the Class I price. It is apparent, however, that this method would be impractical also. The payment plans which are used by unregulated operators include such varying practices as paying uniform prices on a straight utilization basis, paying on a base and excess plan, paying irregular and nonuniform premiums, absorbing transportation charges, and paying on a variety of butterfat and location differentials. This wide variety of payment plans would render impossible an accurate ascertainment of the actual prices paid to farmers by the first receiver. But what is equally as important, as shown above, is that the price actually paid to farmers does not determine the true value of other source milk disposed of in the marketing area. The true value for such milk, irrespective of the price paid for it to farmers, is the Class II value because other source milk disposed of in a marketing area is in fact the surplus of milk produced primarily for sale in an area outside of the regulated marketing area. Hence, although other suggestions for computing the rate of the compensatory charge have administrative and other difficulties inherent in them, in the final analysis even if they were administratively feasible, they would not be fully effective in removing the advantage which attaches to other source milk when it is used as Class I milk in the regulated marketing area. Only the differential between the Class I price and the Class II price accurately reflects this advantage and consequently only this rate will be fully effective in dealing with the problem of integrating other source milk (when used as Class I) into the regulatory plan.

Producers proposed that pool plants purchasing supplemental other source milk be exempted from compensatory payments whenever they could show to the satisfaction of the market administrator that producer milk was not available either directly or from other handlers, at the Class I price.

There is obvious merit to the proposal that compensatory payments not apply whenever the market as a whole is short of producer milk. At times when total supplies have been short in the Akron area, it was testified that supplies available from other areas have also been so limited and that in such periods other source milk commonly costs more than the local supplies.

However, there are several advantages to measuring the adequacy of supply by comparing total receipts from producers with the total Class I utilization of pool plant handlers, instead of on a definition of "availability". In Akron there appears to be some allocation of milk between these handlers who purchase their milk from the cooperative association. Among these handlers farm pick-up routes could be diverted at the Class I price without involving interhandler transfer costs. However, other handlers who have built up their own sources of supply and equipped their plants to utilize any seasonal surpluses might be reluctant to exchange milk.

These problems can be avoided by establishing a ratio of producer receipts to Class I sales from pool plants which will, in effect, measure availability but on a thoroughly objective basis. There are no data for the entire market, but it appears from the records furnished by those handlers who report to the association and from general testimony that the market can be considered short of producer milk whenever receipts are less than 110 percent of gross Class I sales. These partial data indicate that compensatory payments would not have applied on other source milk purchased by handlers during January, September, October, November, or December, 1953 because producer milk was less than 110 percent of Class I use in those months.

The percentage standard is similar to the availability proposal in that it is based on marketwide data. No handler can obtain other source milk without an equalizing payment merely by buying short from his own producers. He must either take on sufficient supplies for his own use or depend upon other handlers who have supplies in excess of their own Class I needs.

If it should develop that surplus milk from other areas is made available to Akron even at times of short supply, a reconsideration of the non-application of compensatory payments would be in order.

No compensatory payments should be required on milk classified and priced under another Federal order. The close relationships between the Cleveland, Akron, and Stark County markets have already been described and a modification of the proposed allocation provision has also been described. Since the Class I prices in Akron and Stark County have been specifically aligned with those under the Cleveland order there is no prospect of handlers in any one of the three markets achieving a competitive advantage.

All funds collected from other source milk should be added to the producer-settlement fund. Since the compensation payments apply only when there are adequate supplies of producer milk in the market, the payments will compensate producers for the loss of income represented by the Class I sales of other source milk.

The regulated handler should be obligated to make the compensatory payments. There will be no difference in actual price paid for milk whether the payment is made by the regulated handler or by the operator of the unregulated plant from which the other source milk is obtained. However, the regulated handler makes the actual distribution of milk and reports its utilization to the market administrator, therefore from an administrative viewpoint he is the logical one to make the payment.

(5) Classification of milk. All milk and milk products received by a handler should be classified on the basis of the form in which or the purpose for which it is used as either Class I milk or Class II milk. Since skim milk and butterfat are not used in the same proportions in most products as they appear in milk or milk products received by a handler, skim milk and butterfat should be classified separately according to their separate uses. For milk products received or disposed of by a handler which cannot be accurately tested for skim milk and butterfat content and for condensed products from which water has been removed, the amount of skim milk and butterfat which was actually used to produce such products (or, if such information is not available, standard factors of skim milk and butterfat used to produce such products) should be employed to determine the receipts or disposition of skim milk and butterfat in such products.

(a) Classes. Class I utilization should be all skim milk (including the skim milk equivalent of concentrated products) and butterfat (1) disposed of for consumption in fluid form as milk, skim milk, buttermilk, flavored milk, flavored milk drinks, concentrated milk for fluid consumption not in hermetically sealed cans, cream, including sour cream or any mixture of cream and milk or skim milk, or (2) not accounted for as Class II utilization.

All of the enumerated forms of fluid milk are required by the Akron health department, and by the other health authorities having jurisdiction in the defined marketing area, to be made from milk produced on farms having permits for fluid use. The plants at which such milk is received from producers, processed, and bottled, must also meet prescribed standards, and be covered by permits. The sanitary standards applicable to the farms and plants are substantially equal throughout the area and the prices applicable to Class I milk sold anywhere in the area should, therefore, be equal.

Concentrated milk has not yet been distributed in the marketing area, but it has been distributed in certain Ohio cities. Proper classification of this product at this time will prevent any problems concerning its classification if at some future date a handler decides to start distributing it. Concentrated milk must be made from milk of similar quality to milk used in other products for fluid consumption which would be classified in Class I. Products commonly known as evaporated milk or condensed milk and which are either packed in hermetically sealed cans or are used in the manufacture of other milk products should not be considered as concentrated milk and should not be classified in Class I unless they are used in the manufacture of milk products which are in Class I.

It is an increasingly common practice to raise the nonfat solids content of skim milk, buttermilk, and flavored milk drinks. Apparently this is most commonly accomplished in the Akron area through the addition of condensed skim milk made from producer milk or milk from other health-approved sources. The skim milk equivalent of these concentrated fluid items, whether obtained by adding solids or by partial condensation, should be in Class I.

All milk, skim milk, and cream which is received and for which the handler cannot establish utilization should be classified as Class I milk except for allowable shrinkage in Class II. Any other classification of such milk, skim milk, or cream could result in (1) some advantage to handlers who fail to keep adequate records of utilization, (2) lack of equality among handlers in the prices they pay for milk for the same use, and (3) failure of producers to receive full value of their milk on the basis of its use. A handler can avoid classification on this basis by maintaining complete records of utilization.

All skim milk and butterfat used to produce products other than the enumerated forms of Class I fluid milk should be Class II. The more common Class II dairy products manufactured by Akron handlers include cottage cheese, eggnog, yoghurt, aerated cream, ice cream and other frozen desserts or mixes, butter, cheese, condensed milk, and nonfat dry milk solids.

Some of the cream obtained from producer milk during the flush months is frozen and used during the short months, primarily in ice cream. Such cream should be accounted for as Class II when frozen and stored. If any of it is subsequently used for Class I purposes, it will be subject to reclassification at that time.

Route returns and other milk disposed of for livestock feeding should be Class II, provided that verifiable evidence of such disposal is available. Also, any skim milk which may need to be dumped should be in Class II. However, this can be verified only by witnessing the action, since no independently verifiable record is available for audit purpose. Accordingly, the handler is required to give advance notice to the market administrator in order that he can have opportunity to have the dumping witnessed.

Shrinkage at a plant should be determined by subtracting from the total receipts of skim milk and butterfat at such plant the total disposition of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, from such plant. If the receipts at the plant include both producer milk and other source milk, the total shrinkage should be prorated between producer milk and other source milk. None of the shrinkage should be assigned to milk received from another pool plant because the shrinkage on such milk should be allowed to the handler operating such other pool plant. Shrinkage on milk diverted from farms to a pool plant other than the plant to which such milk is usually delivered should be allowed at the plant at which it is actually first received. No shrinkage should be allowed on milk diverted from a pool plant to a nonpool plant.

A plant which is operated in a reasonably efficient manner and for which complete and accurate records of receipts and utilization are maintained should have a total shrinkage of well under two percent of its total receipts. It is concluded that any shrinkage assigned to producer milk which is not more than two percent of total receipts of producer milk should be classified as Class II milk, and any shrinkage which is in excess of two percent of such receipts should be classified as Class I milk. All shrinkage assigned to other source milk should be classified as Class II milk.

(b) Transfers. Provision is made for classification of milk transferred between pool plants and between pool plants and non-pool plants. In the case of transfers between pool plants, transfer is permitted in any agreed class in which the transferee plant has utilization in an amount equal to or greater than the amount so transferred, after allocating any other source milk, since under a marketwide pool the classification of milk transferred between pool plants may represent any agreed producer milk use without affecting the payment to producers. Both handlers are required to report the transferred milk in the agreed classification; otherwise milk and cream transfers are classified as Class I.

In the case of transfers from a pool plant to a non-pool plant, a requirement that producer milk be allocated to the higher value uses in the transferee plant might make it difficult for pool plant operators to dispose of surplus milk. It is concluded that transfers from a pool plant to a non-pool plant in the form of milk, skim milk or cream should be in Class I, but that such transfers may be classified as Class II if so reported by the pool plan operator and if the transferee or another plant to which the product may be moved by the transferee has an equivalent use in Class II and keeps books and records which make it possible for the market administrator to verify such use.

(c) Allocation. Since some handlers combine operations which utilize other source milk in the same plants as those which handle producer milk for the fluid market, it is necessary to provide a method for allocating such other source milk to the classes of utilization in order to determine the classification of the producer milk. Since producer milk is the milk which is regularly available for fluid consumption in the marketing area, the method of allocation provides that producer milk shall be allocated to Class I to the extent that such use is available.

Handlers proposed that if during any month receipts of milk from producers are less than 120 percent of the total volume of Class I milk during such month, then other source milk should be allocated to Class I and Class II milk in the same ratio as receipts from producers. Such allocation procedure should not be adopted. The possibility exists that handlers may be able to obtain other source milk for use in Class I at a pricle below the Class I price. In view of this possibility, the allocation procedure proposed by handlers allocates other source milk to Class I while some producer milk is being allocated to Class II. This would offer an incentive to handlers to maintain only nominal supplies of producer milk and to rely on supplemental supplies of other source milk.

At the hearing it was pointed out by the proponents that their original proposal for the allocation of milk from other Federal areas as other source receipts under the Akron order would create serious problems. The original proposal provided that all other source milk (whether from unregulated or other Federal sources) be allocated first to any Class II utilization by each Akron handler. This provision would have had no effect on these handlers who distribute milk in Akron from plants subject to the Cleveland or other Federal order, since they have no producers under the Akron order. Also it would not affect an Akron handler in a position similar to that of another dairy which was having its entire supply of milk bottled by a firm subject to the Stark County order. The proposal would, however, have affected those handlers who supply part of their sales with milk from local producers and part with milk bottled in two-quart containers at the Stark County plant. In this case the seasonal and daily excess of producer milk under the Akron order, which would otherwise be assigned to Class II use, would be allocated instead to Class I to the extent of the receipts of the other Federal order milk. Clearly, the seasonal and daily reserves of milk necessary to supply the exact quantities of two-quart milk bottled at the Stark County plant was carried by Stark County producers. Yet under the original proposal, the producers at the Akron plant would get Class I credit for milk which should properly be considered as reserve supply for the quantities of milk actually bottled at the Akron plant for fluid distribution.

In addition to these recognized inadequacies, it was brought out at the hearing that other types of intermarket movements of milk are growing rapidly. The most notable current instance is the direct distribution of milk by one of the Akron handlers in the Cleveland and Stark County marketing areas. However, Cleveland handlers also distribute milk in the Akron area, and firms with plants in each of two or more areas have already consolidated their manufacturing operations or removed them entirely from their regulated plants, and other consolidations might conceivably occur which would affect intermarket classification and pricing.

A suggested solution advanced by the Akron producers would apply only to such cases as that of the Akron handler who gets a portion of his milk from a Stark County handler. It was suggested that a portion of the Class I milk bottled by the Stark County handler for the Akron distributors be credited to the Akron producers. This suggestion is based upon the premise that the Akron handler formerly obtained all of his milk locally and that the change in his operations deprives Akron producers of part of their Class I sales.

It must be recognized, however, that all types of changes in the location of handlers' plants and in their areas of distribution may involve changes in their procurement of milk. Such changes have not been controlled within any of the Federally regulated marketing areas and should not be subject to allocation between such closely interrelated areas as Cleveland, Akron and Stark County.

It is concluded that milk in bottled form classified and priced under another Federal order should be assigned to the same utilization under the Akron order as under the other order, as well as being exempt from the price provisions of the Akron order.

Bulk milk may be purchased from other Federal areas to supplement an Akron handler's local supplies. Such milk will be classified and priced under the other Federal order, but the classification thereunder may depend upon how it is allocated under the Akron order. On milk obtained from a Cleveland pool plant, for example, the classification under the Akron order would determine the classification under the Cleveland order. However, milk obtained from a Chicago pool plant would automatically be Class I under the Chicago order, regardless of its Akron classification, because it had been moved outside the "surplus milk manufacturing area" as defined in the Chicago order. The Akron order should give the local producers priority on Class I sales over the milk from other Federal sources. The attached order provides that other source milk from unregulated plants be first assigned to any Class II utilization of the Akron handler. Then any other source milk obtained from plants regulated under another Federal order is assigned to any remaining Class II utilization. Such allocation will encourage handlers to purchase other source milk only when producer milk is not available. At such times, of course, there would be little or no producer milk in Class II to be affected by allocation.

If the total of all Class I and Class II milk in producer milk so computed exceeds the amount of producer milk reported to have been received at the plant for which the computation is being made, such excess (commonly referred to as "overrun") should be assigned first to any Class II utilization remaining after the foregoing allocation, and any remainder to Class I. Any overrun at a pool plant should be paid for by the handler operating the plant at the price for the class to which such overrun was allocated. Payment for such overrun could be a result of underweighing or undertesting producers' milk or of failing to maintain complete and accurate records of the receipts and utilization of producer milk.

(6) Class prices. The Class I products are those in which the fluid milk producers are primarily interested. It is this Class of products which requires extra effort and expense to meet the strict sanitation requirements, provide a year-around supply, and undertake the extra hauling which is commonly involved. Handlers must be charged a sufficiently high price for the milk used in Class I to attract an adequate supply of milk for the market. The seasonal and daily excess of Class II milk, on the other hand, must either be disposed of to manufacturing plants or manufactured into products made from milk which can be produced under less stringent conditions.

(a) Class I price. For the first 24 months of the operation of an order for the Akron area, the minimum Class I price per hundredweight of milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content should be 5 cents less than that prevailing under Order No. 75 regulating the handling of milk in the Cleveland, Ohio, marketing area for milk delivered to plants located in the marketing area.

Some time after the order has been in operation a full year, a hearing can be called to consider more permanent Class I price provisions. At such time considerable marketwide data on all aspects of the problem will have become available, and variations in the price-making method which might then seem to provide a more satisfactory price for the Akron marketing area may be given thorough consideration.

There are several reasons for adopting the Cleveland Class I price of milk, less 5 cents, as being the most appropriate price available for the first several months of operation of the Akron order. One is that the supply of milk for Akron is obtained from farms located comparatively close to the market. The milk is hauled directly from the farms to the bottling plants from which it is distributed in the marketing area; none of the bottling plants obtain regular supplies from country supply plants. In order to maintain this supply of milk, the prices paid farmers must be closely in line with those paid to Cleveland shippers, since the Cleveland milkshed completely envelope the Akron territory. The prices must also be in line with those established under the Stark County order, since Akron and Stark County producers are intermingled in the area south of Akron.

If the procurement of milk was the only price problem involved, the class prices under the Akron order could be established at such levels as to result in blend prices relative to those paid under the Cleveland and Stark County orders which would discourage the Akron shippers from shifting to the other markets. In the absence of any order price regulation, the smaller secondary markets like Akron which are located within the milkshed of a large primary market like Cleveland tend to obtain their supplies from the closest farms. The handlers in the large primary market, either individually or in aggregate, tend to bypass the secondary markets and develop country plant sources of supplies in more distant areas from which the milk is hauled in tank load lots. This practice by the secondary markets of obtaining their comparatively small supplies locally, while the primary market relies upon country plant sources from which tank load shipments are feasible, should not be hindered by the order.

However, the procurement of the supply of milk is not the only aspect of intermarket competition which must be considered in establishing the Class I price in Akron. Sales competition between Akron handlers and those regulated under the Cleveland and Stark County orders is exceptionally keen. Some phases of the competition have already been described under the topic "Marketing Area". The one milk company has extensive sales in the Cleveland and Stark County areas from its plant at Stow, Ohio. This company also is a major handler in the Akron territory, which is supplied from this firm's large plant at Cuyahoga Falls. There are substantial sales by several Cleveland handlers in the Akron marketing area and direct competition exists between Cleveland and Akron handlers in the territory between the two marketing areas. Relations between Stark County and Akron handlers are even more direct; one of the Stark County handlers bottles the entire supply of milk for one Akron area handler and bottles milk in 2-quart paper containers for three other handlers whose principal distribution is in the Akron area. The Cleveland handlers whose plants are located in that city must, of course, pay at least the f. o. b. market Class I price for all milk distributed from such plants. However, Cleveland handlers whose plants are located not more than 60 miles from the Cleveland city hall must also pay the f. o. b. prices for all milk distributed from such plant for Class I purposes even though the minimum price to producers in the 30–60 mile zone is 13 cents less than the market price. The Stow, Ohio, plant of the Lawson Milk Company and the Wooster Farm Dairy, at Wooster, are within the 60-mile zone. Sales by Stark County handlers and the milk bottled for Akron distributors by a Stark County handler are paid for at the Stark County Class I price. The Class I price for milk received at plants holding health permits from Canton, Alliance, or Massillon is 5 cents less than the Cleveland Class I price for milk delivered to city plants.

The Class I price under the Cleveland order is determined by adding a Class I differential to the value of manufactured milk. The value of manufactured milk is the higher of two basic formula prices, one being the average price reported paid to farmers by a list of midwest condenseries, and the other being a formula which measured the value of milk used for manufacturing butter and nonfat dry milk solids. The Class I differential is 90 cents per hundredweight during April, May and June, the months of flush production; $1.90 during August through January, the months of lowest production; and $1.45 during the intermediate months of February, March and July. These stated Class I differentials are further subject to a supply-demand adjustment which raises the Class I differential whenever supplies are below normal in relation to sales, and lowers it whenever supplies are excessive in relation to sales. The supply-demand adjustment is limited to plus or minus 25 cents. It is concluded that this same system of pricing is as appropriate to the conditions of supply and demand of milk in Akron as in Cleveland, and that the two markets are so closely competitive both in the procurement and distribution of milk approximately the same Class I price should prevail in both markets.

Adopting a Class I price which is the same as that under the Stark County order, and only 5 cents below that of the Cleveland order would assure substantial equality between the cost of Class I milk to all handlers in the three markets. This similarity of prices would prevent the substantial changes in sales territories, location of plants, and procurement policies which would be virtually certain to result if there were any substantial differences in the Class I prices in these markets. It appears probable that this similarity of Class I prices will result in a higher blend price to the Akron producers than is paid under the Cleveland order. The data reported by those handlers who purchase milk from the cooperative associations indicate a substantially higher percentage of Class I utilization than occurs under the Cleveland order. Although data were not available for the other Akron handlers, experience in other markets where there is no marketwide pool indicates that their utilization may also be comparatively high. If such a difference in blend prices materializes, Cleveland shippers may wish to switch to the Akron market. However, even if such switch occurs, it will have only minor affect upon Cleveland supplies, since a shift by a comparatively small proportion would equalize the Akron and Cleveland blend prices.

The conclusion that the Akron Class I price be 5 cents below the Cleveland price instead of fully equal to it reflects the discount on fluid cream contained in the Cleveland order. In the Akron order the butterfat and skim milk content of fluid cream is in Class I, at the same price as the components of fluid milk and other Class I items. Under the Cleveland order the prices of the butterfat and skim milk components of fluid cream are determined by deducting 45 cents per hundredweight from the price of fluid milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content and allocating 70 percent of the resultant price as the value of the 3.5 pounds of fat and 30 percent as the value of the 96.5 pounds of skim milk. At the prices which prevailed during the calendar year 1953 the quantities of fluid cream sold under the Cleveland order reduced the total Class I price 5.5 cents per hundredweight of milk below the price which would have prevailed if there had been no discount on fluid cream. This computation is based upon the announcements of minimum Class prices to handlers and minimum blend prices payable to producers, as issued by the Cleveland market administrator. Official notice of such data is hereby taken. In order to assure equality in the level of the Class I prices paid by Akron handlers with those under the Cleveland and Stark County orders, the Akron Class I price should be 5 cents less than the Cleveland Class I price applicable to fluid milk.

(b) Class II price. The Class II price should be equal to the average paid for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content at 15 midwest condenseries or a formula based on market prices of butter and nonfat dry milk solids, whichever is higher.

The butter-powder formula should be the same as that used for the pricing of Class II milk under the Stark County order and as a basic formula under both the Stark County and Cleveland orders. This formula uses the market prices of butter and powder to measure the value of milk used for their manufacture. Three cents is deducted from the price of 92-score butter at Chicago, the result is multiplied by an overrun factor of 1.2, and this result in turn is multiplied by the basic fat test (3.5) as a measure of the value of the butterfat content. To this butterfat value is added the skim milk value computed by deducting 5.5 cents from the average of the market prices for spray and roller process nonfat dry milk solids, f. o. b. cars or trucks at manufacturing plants in the Chicago area, and multiplying the result by a yield factor of 8.2, the quantity of solids obtainable from 96.5 pounds of skim milk.

Data on the quantities of Class II milk were not made available for all of the Akron area distributors at the hearing. However, a compilation submitted by the producers shows the percentage of producer milk used in each of three categories as reported by the six firms which purchased milk from the association in 1953. These data disclosed that in the calendar year 1953 only 11 percent of milk received from the producers was utilized for purposes other than fluid milk and cream. No milk was reported so used in the months of October and November, and the maximum percentage in excess of fluid needs occurred in May when the percentage reached 25. These data demonstrated that a remarkably high percentage of milk received from producers at these plants is utilized for fluid milk and cream.

It was testified that several handlers have equipped their plants to manufacture cottage cheese and ice cream as a means of making the most efficient and profitable use of the seasonal excess of milk delivered by producers. Two of the larger handlers have minimized the handling of flush season receipts by developing health-inspected sources of milk which were drawn upon only during the fall and winter season of low production. Such measures as these have greatly reduced the necessity of physically transporting much of the seasonally excess milk from the bottling plants to manufacturing plants. Even in those instances when supplies from producers are in excess of those which can be accommodated in the handlers' plants, it is frequently possible to divert the milk from farm pickup routes directly to manufacturing plants, thereby avoiding the extra expense of receiving such milk at the bottling plants and transporting it back to a manufacturing outlet.

It is difficult to place a precise valuation on the excess milk. Its value is comparatively low on such quantities as must be received at bottling plants and transported considerable distances for manufacture; on the other hand its value is comparatively high in terms of the alternative cost for milk suitable for use in the manufacture of cottage cheese or ice cream delivered to Akron handlers' plants from other sources. When the excess of supplies of producer milk can be utilized in handlers' plants, it should command an appreciable premium over the basic formula prices which refer to strictly manufacturing grade milk. Such premium reflects the higher quality of producer milk and the absence of transportation or container costs.

It is concluded that the Class II price will permit the orderly and efficient disposal of milk not needed for fluid use without encouraging handlers to add producers in excess of those needed to supply their needs for fluid milk and cream in the months of lowest production.

(c) Handler butterfat differentials. The Class I and Class II prices under the order should be stated in terms of the price per hundredweight of milk containing 3.5 percent of butterfat. The price applicable to milk of a butterfat content other than 3.5 percent should be stated in terms of a butterfat differential, i. e., the amount by which the price at basic test is raised or lowered for each one tenth of one percent that the test differs from 3.5 percent. The Class I butterfat differential should be 0.13 times the price per pound of 92 score butter at Chicago, and the Class II butterfat differential should be 0.115 times the butter price.

The butterfat and skim milk utilized in each class is accounted for separately under most of the Federal orders, including all those in Ohio. The price per hundredweight of milk must, of course, be allocated to the skim milk and butterfat components. In most orders throughout the United States this is accomplished by specifying a basic butterfat test and a butterfat differential, which is the amount to be added or subtracted from the announced price for each one tenth of one percent variation in butterfat content. However, under the Cleveland, Stark County, and Lima orders the 3.5 percent price is only an intermediate computation; official class prices are then computed and announced separately per hundredweight of butterfat and per hundredweight of skim milk. There is no substantive difference between the two methods of computing and announcing class prices. The butterfat price differential is more simply stated, focuses attention on the 3.5 price, and is used in the great majority of orders which utilize a butterfat and skim milk accounting system. It should, therefore, be used in Akron.

In the original Notice of Hearing, it was proposed by producers that the Class I price for 3.5 milk be allocated to butterfat and skim milk in the same ratio as the basic butter-powder formula, which is the price comprised of the values of butterfat and skim milk in milk used for manufacturing purposes. At the hearing they modified this proposal to provide that the value of a hundred pounds of Class I butterfat be set at a fixed ratio of 130 times the price per pound of 92 score butter at Chicago and that skim milk be assigned the residual value obtained by deducting the value of 3.5 pounds of butterfat from the 3.5 price per hundredweight of Class I milk. The modification would reduce the value of Class I butterfat and keep it at a fixed relationship to butter in all months of the year. Skim milk values, of course, would be correspondingly increased. The modification reflects an increasing consumer demand for skim milk and skimmed or partly skimmed milk drinks, and a decreasing consumer demand for cream and other high-butterfat products.

Producers proposed that the Class II price be allocated to butterfat and skim milk in the same ratio as contained in the basic formula butter-powder price. In the basic formula butterfat is valued at the price per pound of 92-score butter in Chicago less 3 cents, multiplied by an overrun factor of 120. If the local plant price is above the Class II butter-powder formula price, the Class II butterfat value will be correspondingly higher. On balance, it appears that a Class II butterfat differential equal to 0.115 times the market price of butter will achieve substantially the same allocation between butterfat and skim milk as was proposed.

(7) Payments to producers—(a) Type of pool. It is concluded that the sales proceeds from all pool plants should be combined on a market-wide basis for distribution to the producers.

A market-wide form of pooling was proposed by producers and was not opposed by any of the handlers. The alternative is a system of individual-handler pooling whereby the producers supplying each of the regulated handlers is paid a blend price based upon the proportionate Class I and Class II sales of that particular handler. For many years the cooperative association of producers in the Akron market sold the milk of its members to handlers under a classified price plan, and distributed the proceeds through a market-wide pool. Under such a pool all producers received the same minimum price for milk at 3.5 percent butterfat content delivered to pool plants. (This uniform price is, of course, subject to adjustment for varying percentages of butterfat content and producers may also be charged different rates for hauling this milk from farm to plant.) An important advantage of a market-wide pool is that the uniformity of payments to producers allows handlers either to equip their plants to manufacture the seasonal and daily surpluses of milk, or to minimize their handling of such milk, without affecting the blend price paid to the particular shippers who deliver regularly to their plants. Some of the Akron handlers are equipped to utilize seasonally surplus milk from their own producers and from other handlers in the market, while some handlers have virtually no facilities in their plants for the manufacture of dairy products. One further reason for prefering a market-wide pool in Akron to individual-handler pooling is that both the Cleveland and Stark County orders provide for market-wide pools. Having a similar pool in Akron will facilitate shifts of producers in response to changes in local demands and patterns of distribution or other factors which may affect one market more than the others. This follows from the fact that individual handlers can add shippers without appreciably lowering the prices payable to their own producers, thereby jeopardizing the returns to their previous regular shippers.

(b) Payments to individual producers and to members of cooperative associations. Handlers should make payments to each producer for milk delivered by such producer at the appropriate uniform price. Payments due any producer for milk should be paid by the handler to a cooperative association if the cooperative association makes a written request for such payments and if the producer has given the cooperative association written authorization, in the form of a contract or in any other form, to collect such payments. The association's request should also agree to indemnify the handler for any loss incurred because of an improper claim. In making such payments for producer milk to a cooperative association the handler should at the same time furnish the cooperative association with a statement showing the name of each producer for whom payment is being made to the cooperative association, the volume and average butterfat content of milk delivered by each such producer, and the amount of and reasons for any deductions which the handler withheld from the amount payable to each producer. This statement is necessary so the cooperative association can make proper distribution of the money it collects to producers for whom it collects.

Unless a cooperative association can receive payment for the milk marketed on behalf of its producer members, it cannot re-blend the sales proceeds from milk sold in various outlets. Such reblending may be desirable in connection with profits or losses on milk diverted by an association to nonpool plants or on milk sold for fluid use in other marketing areas.

(c) Producer-settlement fund. Since all producers are to receive the same price for milk (except for butterfat differentials), and since the amount which the order requires a particular handler to pay for his milk may be more or less than the amount he is required to pay to producers or cooperative associations, some method of balancing these amounts is necessary. A producer-settlement fund should be established for this purpose. All handlers who are required to pay more for their milk on the basis of their utilization than they are required to pay to producers or cooperative associations should pay the difference into the producer-settlement fund; and all handlers who are required to pay more to producers or cooperative associations than they are required to pay for their milk on the basis of utilization should receive the difference from the producer-settlement fund. Amounts paid into and out of the producer-settlement fund for this purpose will be equal, except for minor differences that may result from rounding off uniform prices. In order to permit this rounding off of prices, to allow for unavoidable delays in receiving payments from handlers, and to permit payments to be made to any handler which audit by the market administrator reveals is due such handler from the producer-settlement fund, a reserve should be held in the producer-settlement fund at all times. The amount of the reserve contemplated in the proposed order should be sufficient for these purposes. This reserve would be adjusted each month.

If at any time the balance in the producer-settlement fund is insufficient to cover payments due to all handlers from the producer-settlement fund, payments to such handlers should be reduced uniformly per hundredweight of milk. The handlers may then reduce payments to producers by an equivalent amount per hundredweight. Amounts remaining due such handlers from the producer-settlement fund should be paid as soon as the balance in the fund is sufficient, and handlers should then complete payments to producers. In order to reduce the possibility of this occurring, milk received by any handler who has not made payments required of him into the producer-settlement fund should be eliminated in the computation of the uniform price in subsequent months until such handler has completed all delinquent payments.

(d) Producer butterfat differential. The uniform prices should be computed for milk containing 3.5 percent of butterfat. This follows past market practice. In distributing proceeds to producers a differential should be established for milk containing more or less than 3.5 percent of butterfat.

Such differential should correspond to the weighted average values of the butterfat and skim milk in producer milk utilized by handlers in Class I and Class II. This follows the same principle as the payment of a uniform price to all producers. Each producer shares equally in the total value of the handlers' Class I and Class II utilization, at the basic test of 3.5 percent butterfat. It is equally appropriate that each should receive the average utilization value of the butterfat and skim milk components for milk testing above or below 3.5 percent. A weighted average will give butterfat a somewhat higher value and skim milk a proportionately lower value than those proposed by producers; the Class I butterfat differential is 1.3 times the butter price and the Class II factor is 1.15 whereas producers proposed a differential just fractionally over the butter price without allowing for a yield factor.

(8) Administrative provisions. The remaining provisions of the order are of a general administrative nature, are incidental to the other provisions of the order, and are necessary for the proper and efficient administration of the order. They provide for the selection of a market administrator, define his powers and duties, provide for an administrative assessment, prescribe the information to be reported by handlers and set forth the rules to be followed in making the computations required by the order. They also prescribe the length of time that records must be retained and provide a plan for the liquidation of the order in the event of its suspension or termination. They are similar to like provisions of other orders, and except as set forth below require no comment.

(a) Expenses of administration. As his share of the expenses of administering this order each handler should pay not in excess of 3 cents per hundredweight with respect to all producer milk received, and all other source milk received at a pool plant which was classified at Class I milk. The market administrator must verify receipts and utilization of all such milk; therefore all such milk should be subject to the expenses of administration. Experience in other markets indicates that 3 cents per hundredweight with respect to all such milk should yield sufficient money to cover expenses of administration. If payment of expenses of administration at the rate of 3 cents per hundredweight yields more money than is needed, provision is made for the Secretary to prescribe a lesser rate of payment from time to time.

(b) Marketing services. It was pointed out earlier in this decision that market-wide information concerning market supply and requirements would be useful to producers and cooperative associations in helping them maintain their production in line with market requirements. Costs involved in distributing information to producers and cooperative associations should be borne by the producers or their associations.

The cooperative association in the market has been providing marketing services to its members which include the verification of weights and tests of milk delivered by each member. The provision for such services to be rendered to producers for whom a cooperative association does not perform such services will assure each producer that he is receiving his just proportion of the total proceeds of the market. Costs of these services should also be borne by producers.

On the basis of the costs of providing these services in other markets, it is concluded that a deduction of 6 cents per hundredweight of milk delivered by each producer should be adequate to cover these costs. Provision is made that the Secretary may reduce this deduction if experience indicates a lesser deduction will provide adequate funds. If a cooperative association is actually performing these services for producers, then in lieu of the 6 cent deduction such deduction as is authorized by such producers should be made from the amounts due producers for whom the cooperative association is performing such services and should be paid to the cooperative association.

(c) Records and reports. Reports are required from handlers on receipts and utilization so that the market administrator may make the computations necessary to the marketwide pooling operation and compute the uniform price to producers. Handlers would also be required to submit payroll reports which would show the details of milk receipts from each producer, the value of the milk received from the producer, deductions therefrom, and net amount paid to the producer.

The order should provide limitations on the period of time handlers shall retain books and records which are required to be made available to the market administrator, and on the period of time in which obligations under the order shall terminate. The provision made in this regard is identical in principle with the general amendment made to all orders in operation on July 30, 1947, effective February 22, 1949, and the Secretary's decision of January 26, 1949 (14 F. R. 444), covering the retention of records and limitation of claims is equally applicable in this situation and is adopted as a part of the decision.

(d) Time schedule. Dates must be prescribed for announcing prices, filing reports and making payments. The following time schedules should allow all interested persons adequate time to perform each function. (These time limits apply to the indicated day of the month following the month for which computations are being made.)

Day of the Month and Function

5th—Announcement of class prices by market administrator.
8th—Submission of monthly report of receipts and utilization by handlers.
13th—Announcement of uniform price and names of handlers who received producer milk and notification to handlers of the value of their producer milk by market administrator.
14th—Payment by handlers of amounts due to producer-settlement fund and for expenses of administration.
16th—Payments by handlers to cooperative associations and by market administrator out of producer-settlement fund.
18th—Payments by handlers to producers.

(f) Milk subject to other Federal orders. A handler who operates a plant at which minimum prices to dairy farmers are established under another order issued pursuant to the act, but nevertheless supplies milk for distribution in the Akron marketing area should be exempt from the provisions of this order, except for reporting his volume of Class I sales in the marketing area. It would be impracticable to attempt to regulate a handler under two separate orders with respect to the same milk. The effective regulation should be subject to determination by the Secretary of Agriculture. A proposal that the Class I sales by such a handler in the Akron marketing area be prorated between Akron producers and the producers for the other market is discussed elsewhere in this decision.

General findings. (a) The proposed marketing agreement and the order and all of terms and conditions thereof will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, the available supply of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and the order are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(c) The proposed order will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and will be applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Determination of representative period. The month of September 1954 is hereby determined to be the representative period for the purpose of ascertaining whether the issuance of an order to regulate the handling of milk in the Akron, Ohio, marketing area in the manner set forth in the attached order is approved or favored by producers, who during such period, were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area specified in such marketing order.

Marketing agreement and order. Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled respectively "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Akron, Ohio, Marketing Area," and "Order Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Akron, Ohio, Marketing Area," which have been decided upon as the detailed and appropriate means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions. These documents shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

It is hereby ordered, That all of this decision, except the attached marketing agreement, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of said marketing agreement are identical with those contained in the attached order which will be published with this decision.

This decision filed at Washington, D. C., this 17th day of November, 1954.

[SEAL] EARL L. BUTZ,

§ 960.0 Findings and determinations—(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held upon a proposed marketing agreement and a proposed order regulating the handling of milk in the Akron, Ohio, marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The parity prices of milk produced for sale in the said marketing area as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supplies of and demand for such milk, and the minimum prices specified in the order are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest;

(3) The said order regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held;

(4) All milk and milk products handled by handlers, as defined in this order, are in the current of interstate commerce or directly burden, obstruct, or affect interstate commerce in milk or its products; and

(5) It is hereby found that the necessary expenses of the market administrator for the maintenance and functioning of such agency will require the payment by each handler, as his pro rata share of such expense, 3 cents per hundredweight or such amount not exceeding 3 cents per hundredweight as the Secretary may prescribe, with respect to all receipts within the month of milk from producers and other source milk which is classified as Class I milk and which is not subject to administrative assessment under another Federal order.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered that on and after the effective date hereof the handling of milk in the Akron, Ohio, marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the following terms and conditions as set forth below:

In either case the market administrator shall give further written notification to the handler or producer-handler promptly upon the termination of the litigation or when the records are no longer necessary in connection therewith.

CLASSIFICATION

§ 960.40 Skim milk and butterfat to be classified. All skim milk and butterfat received at a pool plant from any source or diverted by a cooperative association shall be classified pursuant to §§ 960.41 through 960.44.

§ 960.41 Classes of utilization. Subject to the conditions set forth in §§ 960.43 and 960.44, the classes of utilization shall be:

(a) Class I utilization shall be all skim milk (including the skim milk equivalent of concentrated products) and butterfat (1) disposed of for consumption in fluid form as milk, skim milk, buttermilk, flavored milk; flavored milk drinks, concentrated milk not in hermetically sealed cans, cream, including sour cream or any mixture of cream and milk or skim milk, or (2) not accounted for as Class II utilization.

(b) Class II utilization shall be all skim milk and butterfat (1) used to produce any product other than those specified in paragraph (a) of this section; (2) disposed of for livestock feed or skim milk dumped subject to prior notification to and inspection (at his discretion) by the market administrator; (3) in shrinkage of producer milk up to 2 percent of receipts from producers; or (4) in shrinkage of other source milk.

§ 960.42 Shrinkage. (a) If producer milk is utilized in conjunction with other source milk, the shrinkage shall be allocated pro rata between the receipts of skim milk and butterfat in producer milk and other source milk.

(b) Producer milk transferred or diverted by a handler from his pool plant to another pool plant without first having been received for purposes of weighing in the transferring or diverting handler's pool plant shall be included in the receipts at the pool plant to which such milk was transferred or diverted for the purpose of computing shrinkage and shall be excluded from the receipts at the transferring or diverting handler's pool plant for such purpose.

§ 960.43 Responsibility of handlers and reclassification of milk. All skim milk and butterfat contained in producer milk and in other source milk received by a handler shall be classified as Class I milk unless the handler proves to the market administrator that such skim milk and butterfat or a portion thereof should be classified as Class II milk. Any skim milk or butterfat which is classified in Class II shall be reclassified to Class I if subsequent to the original classification such skim milk or butterfat is handled in such a manner as to justify its reclassification.

§ 960.44 Transfers. (a) Skim milk and butterfat disposed of from a pool plant to another pool plant in the form of milk, skim milk or cream shall be Class I utilization unless Class II utilization is indicated by the operators of both plants in their reports submitted pursuant to § 960.30: Provided, That in no event shall the amount so classified as Class II be greater than the amount of producer milk used in such class in the pool plant of the transferee handler after allocating other source milk in such plant in series beginning with the lowest priced utilization.

(b) Skim milk and butterfat moved in the form of milk, skim milk or cream from a pool plant to a handler described in § 960.80 or to a nonpool plant shall be Class I utilization unless all of the following conditions are met:

(1) Class II utilization is indicated by the operator of the pool plant in his report submitted pursuant to § 960.30.

(2) The operator of the nonpool plant maintains books and records which are made available for examination upon request by the market administrator and which are adequate for the vertification of such Class II utilization.

(3) If the above conditions are met, the market administrator shall classify all skim milk and butterfat received at the nonpool plant and the skim milk and butterfat so transferred shall be allocated in series beginning with any skim milk and butterfat, respectively, remaining in Class I milk after allocating skim milk and butterfat in milk received from dairy farmers whom the market administrator determines constitute the regular source of milk for Class I uses at such plant, in series beginning with Class I milk.

(c) Skim milk and butterfat transferred in the form of milk, skim milk, or cream to a producer-handler shall be classified as Class I milk.

§ 960.45 Computation of skim milk and butterfat in each class. For each month the market administrator shall correct for mathematical and for other obvious errors the report submitted by each handler pursuant to § 960.30 and shall compute separately the pounds of skim milk and butterfat in each class.

§ 960.46 Allocation of butterfat. The pounds of butterfat remaining after making the following computations shall be the pounds in each class allocated to milk received from producers:

(a) Subtract from the total pounds of butterfat in Class II utilization, the pounds of butterfat shrinkage allowed pursuant to § 960.41 (b) (3);

(b) Subtract from the total pounds of butterfat in each class, in series beginning with the lowest priced utilization, the pounds of butterfat in other source milk other than that received from a plant at which the handling of milk is fully subject to the pricing and payment provisions of another marketing agreement or order issued pursuant to the act;

(c) Subtract from the pounds of butterfat in each class, in series beginning with the lowest priced utilization, the pounds of butterfat in other source milk received in a form other than that specified in paragraph (d) of this section from a plant at which the handling of milk is fully subject to the pricing and payment provisions of another marketing agreement or order issued pursuant to the act;

(d) Subtract from the pounds of butterfat in each class the pounds of butterfat contained in milk or milk products received in packaged form which were classified and priced under another Federal order and disposed of in the same form as received;

(e) Subtract from the pounds of butterfat remaining in each class the pounds of butterfat received from other handlers in such classes pursuant to § 960.44 (a); and

(f) Add to the remaining pounds of butterfat in Class II utilization the pounds subtracted pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section.

(g) If the remaining pounds of butterfat in both classes exceed the pounds of butterfat in milk received from producers, subtract such excess from the remaining pounds of butterfat in each class in series, beginning with the lowest-priced utilization.

§ 960.47 Allocation of skim milk. Allocate the pounds of skim milk in each class to milk received from producers in a manner similar to that prescribed for butterfat in § 960.46.

MINIMUM PRICES

§ 960.50 Class I price. During the two year period following the effective date of this subpart, the minimum price per hundredweight to be paid by each handler, f. o. b. his pool plant, for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content received from producers or from cooperative associations during the month, which is classified as Class I utilization shall be 5 cents less than the Class I price as determined pursuant to § 975.61 (a) of this chapter, exclusive of the proviso contained therein, of the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Cleveland, Ohio, marketing area (Order No. 75, Part 975 of this chapter).

§ 960.51 Class II price. The minimum price per hundredweight to be paid by each handler, f. o. b. his pool plant, for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content received from producers or from cooperative associations during the month, which is classified as Class II utilization shall be the higher of the prices computed by the market administrator pursuant to paragraphs (a) or (b) of this section.

(a) The average of the basic (or field) prices ascertained to have been paid or to be paid per hundredweight for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content received from farmers during the month at the following plants or places for which prices have been reported to the market administrator or to the Department of Agriculture by the companies indicated below:

(b) The price computed by adding together the plus amounts pursuant to subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph:

(1) From the simple average, as computed by the market administrator, of the daily wholesale selling prices (using the midpoint of any price range as one price) of Grade A (92-score) bulk creamery butter per pound at Chicago as reported by the Department of Agriculture during the month, subtract 3 cents, add 20 percent of the resulting amount, and then multiply by 3.5.

(2) From the simple average, as computed by the market administrator, of the weighted averages of the carlot prices per pound for nonfat dry milk solids, spray and roller process, respectively, for human consumption, f. o. b. manufacturing plants in the Chicago area, as published for the period from the 26th day of the immediately preceding month through the 25th day of the month for which prices are being computed by the Department of Agriculture, deduct 5.5 cents, and multiply by 8.2.

§ 960.52 Handler butterfat differentials. If the average butterfat content of the milk of any handler allocated to any class is more or less than 3.5 percent, there shall be added to the prices of milk for each class as computed pursuant to §§ 960.50 and 960.51 for each one-tenth of one percent that the average butterfat content of such milk is above 3.5 percent, or subtracted for one-tenth of one percent that such average butterfat content is below 3.5 percent, an amount equal to the average daily wholesale price per pound of Grade A (92 score) bulk creamery butter per pound at Chicago as reported by the Department of Agriculture during the month, multiplied by the following factors:

(a) Class I milk. Multiply by 1.3, and divide the result by 10.

(b) Class II milk. Multiply by 1.15, and divide the result by 10.

DETERMINATION OF UNIFORM PRICE

§ 960.60 Value of producer milk for each handler. The value of producer milk received or delivered during the month by each handler who operates a pool plant, and by any cooperative association with respect to milk for which it is a handler pursuant to § 960.4 (b), shall be a sum of money computed by the market administrator by multiplying by the applicable class price, adjusted pursuant to § 960.52, the total combined hundredweight of skim milk and butterfat received from producers allocated to each class pursuant to §§ 960.46 and 960.47, adding together the resulting amounts, and if such handler has a utilization greater than has been accounted for as received from all sources, add an amount computed by mutliplying any such excess utilization classified pursuant to § 960.46 (f) and § 960.47 by the applicable class prices.

§ 960.61 Computation of uniform price. For each month the market administrator shall compute a uniform price per hundredweight of milk containing 3.5 percent of butterfat to be paid to producers delivering milk to any pool plant as follows:

(a) Combine into one total the value of producer milk for each handler as computed pursuant to § 960.60 for all handlers who reported pursuant to § 960.30 for such month, except those in default in payments required pursuant to § 960.72 for the preceding month.

(b) Add the total amount of all payments made pursuant to § 960.72 (b);

(c) Add any amounts paid into the producer-settlement fund and subtract any amounts paid out of the producer-settlement fund pursuant to § 960.77;

(d) Add an amount representing not less than one-half of the unobligated balance in the producer-settlement fund exclusive of the amounts added or subtracted pursuant to paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section;

(e) Subtract, if the weighted average butterfat test of all producer milk represented by the amounts included under paragraph (a) of this section is greater than 3.5 percent, or add, if the weighted average butterfat test of such milk is less than 3.5 percent, an amount computed by multiplying the total pounds of butterfat represented by the difference of such weighted average butterfat test from 3.5 percent by the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 960.74 multiplied by 10;

(f) Divide the resulting amount by the total hundredweight of producer milk received by all handlers during the month for which uniform prices are being computed;

(g) Subtract not less than 4 cents nor more than 5 cents, and the result shall be the uniform price to be paid per hundredweight of milk containing 3.5 percent of butterfat to producers who delivered milk during the month for which uniform prices are being computed.

§ 960.62 Notification. On or before the 13th day of each month the market administrator shall notify each handler who submitted a report for the preceding month pursuant to § 960.30 of:

(a) The classification pursuant to §§ 960.46 and 960.47 of skim milk and butterfat contained in producer milk received by such handler during the preceding month and the value of such milk computed pursuant to § 960.60;

(b) The uniform prices for the preceding month computed pursuant to § 960.61; and

(c) The amount due such handler pursuant to § 960.73 and the amount to be paid by such handler pursuant to §§ 960.72, 960.75, and 960.76.

PAYMENTS

§ 960.70 Time and method of payment. (a) Except as provided by paragraph (b) of this section, on or before the 18th day after the end of each delivery period, each handler (except a cooperative association) shall pay each producer for milk received from him within such delivery period, not less than an amount of money computed by multiplying the total pounds of such milk by the uniform price, adjusted by the butterfat differential pursuant to § 960.74, and less any proper deductions authorized by the producer: Provided, That if by such date such handler has not received full payment for such delivery period pursuant to § 960.73 he may reduce such payments uniformly per hundredweight for all producers, by an amount not in excess of the per hundredweight reduction in payment from the market administrator; however, the handler shall make such balance of payment to those producers to whom it is due on or before the date for making payments pursuant to this paragraph next following that on which such balance of payment is received from the market administrator.

(b) (1) Upon receipt of a written request from a cooperative association which the Secretary determines is authorized by its members to collect payment for their milk and receipt of a written promise to reimburse the handler the amount of any actual loss incurred by him because of any improper claim on the part of the association, each handler shall (i) pay to the cooperative association on or before the 16th day of each month, in lieu of payments pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section an amount equal to the gross sum due for all milk received from certified members, less amounts owing by each member-producer to the handler for supplies purchased from him on prior written order or as evidenced by a delivery ticket signed by the producer and submit to the cooperative association written information which shows for each such member-producer (a) the total pounds of milk received from him during the preceding month, (b) the total pounds of butterfat contained in such milk, (c) the number of days on which milk was received, and (d) the amounts withheld by the handler in payment for supplies sold. The foregoing payment and submission of information shall be made with respect to milk of each producer whom the cooperative association certifies is a member, which is received on and after the first day of the calendar month next following receipt of such certification through the last day of the month next preceding receipt of notice from the cooperative association of a termination of membership or until the original request is rescinded in writing by the association.

(2) A copy of each such request, promise to reimburse and certified list of members shall be filed simultaneously with the market administrator by the association and shall be subject to verification at his discretion, through audit of the records of the cooperative association pertaining thereto. Exceptions, if any, to the accuracy of such certification by a producer claimed to be a member, or by a handler shall be made by written notice to the market administrator, and shall be subject to his determination.

§ 960.71 Producer-settlement fund. The market administrator shall establish and maintain a separate fund known as the "producer-settlement fund" into which he shall deposit all payments made pursuant to §§ 960.72 and 960.77 and out of which he shall make all payments pursuant to §§ 960.73 and 960.77.

§ 960.72 Payments to the producer-settlement fund. On or before the 14th day of each month handlers shall make payments to the market administrator as follows:

(a) If the value of producer milk received by a handler in the preceding month as computed pursuant to § 960.60 exceeds the amount which such handler is required to pay all producers pursuant to § 960.70, such handler shall pay the difference between the two amounts.

(b) If, during the preceding month, the total receipts from all producers was 110 percent or more of the total Class I utilization at pool plants, any handler who received other source milk during the preceding month which was allocated to Class I pursuant to § 960.46 (b) or § 960.47 shall pay an amount equal to the value of such milk at the Class I price less the value of such milk at the Class II price.

§ 960.73 Payments out of the producer-settlement fund. On or before the 16th day of each month, the market administrator shall pay to each handler any amount by which the sum required to be paid by such handler for the preceding month pursuant to § 960.70 is greater than the total value of the milk of such handler computed pursuant to § 960.60 for such preceding month less any unpaid obligations of the handler to the market administrator pursuant to §§ 960.72, 960.75, 960.76 (a), and 960.77 (a): Provided, That if the balance in the producer-settlement fund is insufficient to make payments to all handlers pursuant to this paragraph, the market administrator shall reduce such payments by a uniform amount per hundredweight of milk and shall complete such payments as soon as the necessary funds become available.

§ 960.74 Producer butterfat differential. In making payments pursuant to § 960.70 the uniform prices shall be adjusted for each one-tenth of one percent of butterfat content in the milk of each producer above or below 3.5 percent, as the case may be, by a butterfat differential equal to the average of the butterfat differentials determined pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) of § 960.52, weighted by the pounds of butterfat in producer milk in each class and round the result to the nearest tenth of a cent.

§ 960.75 Expense of administration. (a) As his pro rata share of the expense incurred pursuant to § 960.22 (c), each handler shall pay the market administrator on or before the 16th day of each month 3 cents per hundredweight or such lesser amount as the Secretary may from time to time prescribe with respect to (a) all receipts within the preceding month of producer milk (including such handler's own production), and

(b) All other source milk allocated to Class I pursuant to § 960.46 (b) and the corresponding portion of § 960.47.

§ 960.76 Marketing services. In making payments to producers or cooperative associations pursuant to § 960.70 a handler shall make deductions and dispose of amounts so deducted as follows:

(a) Except as set forth in paragraph (b) of this section a handler shall deduct 6 cents per hundredweight, or such lesser amount as the Secretary may from time to time prescribe, with respect to all producer milk for which payment is being made pursuant to § 960.70 and shall pay the total amount of such deductions to the market administrator on or before the 16th day after the end of the month in which such producer milk was received. Such amount shall be expended by the market administrator to verify weights and tests of milk of producers and to provide producers with market information, such service to be performed by the market administrator or by an agent engaged by and responsible to him.

(b) Each association of producers which is actually performing the services described in paragraph (a) of this section, as determined by the Secretary, may file with a handler a claim for authorized deductions from the payments otherwise due to its producer members for milk delivered to such handler. Such claim shall contain a list of the producers for which such deductions apply, an agreement to indemnify the handler for the amount of any loss sustained by him because of any improper claim on the part of the association, and a certification that the association has an unterminated membership contract with each producer, which contract authorizes the claim deduction. In making payments to producers for milk received during the month, each handler shall make deductions in accordance with the association's claim and shall pay the amount deducted within 16 days after the end of the month.

§ 960.77 Errors in payments. Whenever audit by the market administrator of any handler's reports, books, records or accounts discloses errors or whenever skim milk or butterfat is reclassified pursuant to § 960.43 resulting in monies due (a) the market administrator from such handler, or such handler from the market administrator or (b) any producer or cooperative association from such handler pursuant to § 960.70 the market administrator shall promptly notify such handler of any such amount due, and payment thereof shall be made on or before the next date for making payment set forth in the provision under which such error occurred, following the 5th day after such notice. In computing amounts due pursuant to this section the class prices, the appropriate uniform price, the butterfat differential, the rate of administrative assessment pursuant to § 960.75, and the rate of marketing service deduction pursuant to § 960.76 which were applicable in the month for which the original calculation of amounts due were made shall be used.

§ 960.78 Termination of obligation. (a) The obligation of any handler to pay money required to be paid under the terms of this subpart shall, except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, terminate two years after the last day of the calendar month during which the market administrator received the handler's report of utilization of the milk involved in such obligation, unless within such two-year period the market administrator notified the handler in writing that such money is due and payable. Service of such notice shall be complete upon mailing to the handler's last known address, and it shall contain but need not be limited to, the following information:

(1) The amount of the obligation;

(2) The month(s) during which the milk, with respect to which the obligation exists, was received or handled; and

(3) If the obligation is payable to one or more producers or to a cooperative association the name of such producers or association, or if the obligation is payable to the market administrator, the account for which it is to be paid.

(b) If a handler fails or refuses, with respect to any obligation under this subpart, to make available to the market administrator or his representatives all books or records required by this subpart to be made available, the market administrator may, within the two-year period provided for in paragraph (a) of this section, notify the handler in writing of such failure or refusal. If the market administrator so notifies a handler, the said two-year period with respect to such obligation shall not begin to run until the first day of the calendar month following the month during which such books and records pertaining to such obligation are made available to the market administrator or his representatives.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, a handler's obligation under this subpart to pay money shall not be terminated with respect to any transaction involving fraud or willful concealment of a fact, material to the obligation, on the part of the handler against whom the obligation is sought to be imposed.

(d) Any obligation on the part of the market administrator to pay a handler any money which such handler claims to be due him under the terms of this subpart shall terminate two years after the end of the calendar month during which milk involved in the claim was received if any underpayment is claimed, or two years after the end of the calendar month during which the payment (including deduction or set-off by the market administrator) was made by the handler if a refund on such payment is claimed, unless such handler, within that applicable period of time, files pursuant to section 8c (15) (A) of the act, a petition claiming such money.

APPLICATION OF PROVISIONS

§ 960.80 Handler exemption. A handler who operates a plant located outside the marketing area from which an average of less than 300 points (one point being defined as one-half pint of cream or one quart of any other Class I product) of Class I milk per day is disposed of during the month on a route(s) operated wholly or partly within the marketing area, or a handler operating a plant which the Secretary finds is subject, during the month, to another Federal order shall be exempted with respect to the milk received at such plant during such month from all provisions of this subpart except §§ 960.31, 960.32, and 960.33.

§ 960.81 Producer-handler. A producer-handler shall be exempt from all provisions of this subpart except that he shall make reports to the market administrator at such time and in such manner as the market administrator may request.

EFFECTIVE TIME, SUSPENSION OR TERMINATION

§ 960.90 Effective time. The provisions of this subpart, or any amendment to this subpart, shall become effective at such time as the Secretary may declare and shall continue in force until suspended or terminated. The provisions of this section shall apply to any obligation under this subpart for the payment of money.

§ 960.91 Suspension or termination. Whenever the Secretary finds the subpart or any provision of this subpart obstructs or does not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, he shall terminate or suspend the operation of this order or any such provision of this subpart.

§ 960.92 Continuing obligations. If, upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions of this subpart there are any obligations thereunder the final accrual or ascertainment of which requires further acts by any person (including the market administrator), such further acts shall be performed notwithstanding such suspension or termination.

§ 960.93 Liquidation. Upon the suspension of the provisions of the subpart, except this section, the market administrator, or such other liquidation agent as the Secretary may designate, shall, if so directed by the Secretary, liquidate the business of the market administrator's office, dispose of all property in his possession or control, including accounts receivable and execute and deliver all assignments or other instrument necessary or appropriate to effectuate any such disposition. If a liquidating agent is so designated all assets, books, and records of the market administrator shall be transferred promptly to such liquidation agent. If, upon such liquidation, the funds on hand exceed the amounts required to pay outstanding obligations of the office of the market administrator and to pay necessary expenses of liquidation and distribution, such excess shall be distributed to contributing handlers and producers in an equitable manner.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

§ 960.100 Agent. The Secretary may, by designation in writing, name any officer or employee of the United States to act as his agent or representative in connection with any of the provisions of this subpart.

§ 960.101 Separability of provisions. If any provision of this subpart, or its application to any person or circumstances, is held invalid the application of such provisions, and the remaining provisions of this subpart, to other persons or circumstances shall not be affected thereby.

Pursuant to section 8c (19) of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 608c (19)), it is hereby directed that a referendum be conducted among the producers (as defined in the proposed order regulating the handling of milk in the Akron, Ohio, marketing area) who, during the month of September 1954 were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area specified in the aforesaid order to determine whether such producers favor the issuance of the order which is a part of the decision of the Secretary of Agriculture filed simultaneously herewith.

The month of September 1954 is hereby determined to be the representative period for the conduct of such referendum.

A. T. Radigan is hereby designated agent of the Secretary to conduct such referendum in accordance with the procedure for the conduct of referenda to determine producer approval of milk marketing orders as published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on August 10, 1950 (15 F. CIVIL AERONAUTICS BOARD

[14 CFR Parts 4b, 40, 41, 42]

APPLICATION OF TRANSPORT CATEGORY REQUIREMENTS TO C-46 TYPE AIRPLANES

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Pursuant to authority delegated by the Civil Aeronautics Board to the Bureau of Safety Regulation, notice is hereby given that the Bureau will propose to the Board the adoption of changes to Special Civil Air Regulation No. SR-406 as hereinafter set forth.

Interested persons may participate in the making of the proposed rules by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted in duplicate to the Civil Aeronautics Board, attention Bureau of Safety Regulation, Washington 25, D. C. In order to insure their consideration by the Board before taking further action on the proposed rules, communications must be received by Dec. 20, 1954. Copies of such communications will be available after Dec. 22, 1954, for examination by interested persons at the Docket Section of the Board, Room 5412, Department of Commerce Building, Washington, D. C.

Special Civil Air Regulation No. SR-406, adopted June 30, 1954, provides rules ducer-settlement fund. On or before the 16th day of each month, the market administrator shall determine the total amount of authorized deductions from the payments otherwise due to its producer members for the second preceding month and shall notify each handler of the amount due from him. Each handler shall pay to the market administrator, within the two-day period provided for in paragraph (a) of for the certification and operation of C–46 type airplanes. Certain provisions in SR–406 require compliance with the requirements in Part 4b of the Civil Air Regulations.

In adopting SR–406 the Board applied its provisions only to C–46 airplanes in passenger operations. Since the adoption of that Special Civil Air Regulation this Bureau has received a number of inquiries concerning the future regulatory action by the Board which would affect the C–46 airplanes in cargo operations. The Board has recently considered the problem of applying the certification rules contained in SR–406 to cargo airplanes but has decided not to propose such action at this time. Instead, the Board has decided to wait until experience is gained in the modification program resulting from SR–406 with passenger airplanes. In the light of such experience the Board will again consider the problem of the application of these certification rules to cargo airplanes. In addition, the overall problem of rules for all airplanes in cargo operations is currently under study by the Board. The Board has determined that the continued study of cargo rules should concern itself primarily with airplane operating weights and, therefore, should include the C–46 as well as all other cargo airplanes.

A review of SR–406 and specifically paragraph 5 therein indicates that compliance with the powerplant fire protection provisions of CAR Part 4b effective July 20, 1950, may not assure a sufficiently high level of safety for the C–46 in passenger service. At the time of adoption of SR–406 the application of the July 20, 1950, powerplant fire protection provisions to the C–46 were intended to result in a level of safety equivalent to that legally required of other transport category airplanes. However, in actual practice the other airplane types include fire protection design safeguards beyond those legally required. Subsequent to July 20, 1950, Part 4b was amended to include, among other provisions, mandatory requirements for the installation of: (1) Fireproof accessory section diaphragm; (2) fireproof accessory section cowling; (3) fire detectors and extinguishers for Zone 3; and (4) feathering lines which can resist fire under operating pressures.

The Board has been informed that many of the C–46 operators believe the aforementioned design features to be necessary for safety and that these operators have contemplated incorporating them in the modification program required by SR–406. The Civil Aeronautics Administration has expressed the view that the application of the present provisions of SR–406 will result in the C–46 having inferior fire protection as compared to other transport airplanes. They recommend that regulations more recent than those effective July 20, 1950, be made mandatory. Such more recent regulations would require the incorporation of the design features just mentioned. Although under ordinary circumstances requirement of these added features on airplanes in operation would undoubtedly be a burden on the operators, in this instance the burden for most operators would be relatively minor because all passenger C–46 airplanes would in any event be subjected to a modification program in accordance with SR–406. Consequently the Board intends to add to the provisions of paragraph 5 of SR–406 a requirement that all passenger C–46 airplanes be modified to include the aforementioned powerplant installation features.

In addition, certain other changes are being proposed to the provisions of SR–406, all of a clarifying nature. Among the clarifications is the addition of § 4b.116 to the list of sections in which the propeller of the inoperative engine may be assumed to be in the feathered position if the airplane is equipped with an approved automatic indication or automatic feathering system. It is intended that performance credit for an automatic indication system be determined on the same basis as for an automatic feathering system assuming that the manual feathering button is actuated immediately upon indication of the engine failure.

Accordingly, notice is hereby given that it is proposed to amend the provisions of SR–406 as follows:

1. It is proposed to add to paragraph 5 of SR–406 a provision which would require compliance with powerplant fire protection requirements contained in §§ 4b.480 through 4b.490 effective May 16, 1953, in lieu of §§ 4b.480 through 4b.489 effective July 20, 1950, with the exception of § 4b.484 (a) (1) which shall be applicable as effective July 20, 1950, and § 4b.487 (e) which has no counterpart in the 1950 regulations.

2. It is proposed to make the following clarification changes in SR–406:

a. To indicate clearly in paragraph 1 that the provisions of SR–406 override all other provisions in the Civil Air Regulations which might be contrary to SR–406.

b. To include Subpart F of Part 4b, which deals with equipment, in the listing of subparts in paragraph 5d.

c. To include in the second sentence of paragraph 6 a reference to the take-off path to make that sentence read as follows: "In determining the take-off path in accordance with § 4b.116 and the one-engine-inoperative climb in accordance with § 4b.120 (a) and (b), the propeller * * *".

This regulation is proposed under the authority of Title VI of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended. The proposal may be changed in the light of comments received in response to this notice of proposed rule making.

UPLAND COTTON MARKETING QUOTA

NOTICE OF REFERENDUM FOR 1955 CROP

The Secretary of Agriculture has duly proclaimed, pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, a national marketing quota for the crop of upland cotton produced in 1955.

A referendum of the farmers who were engaged in the production of upland cotton in the calendar year of 1954 will be held on December 14, 1954, pursuant to the provisions of the act and applicable regulations, to determine whether such farmers are in favor of or opposed to the 1955 quota. If two-thirds or more of the cotton farmers voting in the upland cotton referendum favor the quota, such quota will be in effect for the 1955 upland cotton crop. If more than one-third of the cotton farmers voting in such referendum oppose the quota, the quota will not be in effect for the 1955 upland cotton crop; however, farm acreage allotments established for such crop pursuant to the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, will remain in effect and compliance with such acreage allotments will be a condition of eligibility of producers for price support under the Agricultural Act of 1949, as amended.

Registration. Any person who, on the basis of the eligibility requirements set out below, is eligible to vote in the referendum and who has reason to believe he is not on record as a 1954 upland cotton producer in the county should notify the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee of his eligibility and request that his name be entered on the register of eligible voters.

Eligibility to vote. 1. Farmers eligible to vote in the referendum will be those farmers who were engaged in the production of upland cotton in 1954 as owner-operator, cash tenant, standing-rent or fixed-rent tenant, or landlord (other than a landlord of a standing-rent tenant, cash-rent or fixed-rent tenant) of a share tenant, or as a share tenant or sharecropper.

2. Any farmer whose only cotton production in 1954 consisted of extra long staple cotton shall not be eligible to vote in this referendum, but, if otherwise eligible may vote in the extra long staple cotton referendum.

3. No cotton farmer (whether an individual, partnership, association, corporation, estate, trust, or other business enterprise or legal entity, and, wherever applicable, a State, political subdivision of a State, the Federal Government, or any agency thereof) shall be entitled to more than one vote in the referendum, even though such farmer may have been engaged in 1954 in the production of upland cotton on two or more farms or in two or more communities, counties or States.

4. In case several persons, such as husband, wife, and children, participated in the production of upland cotton in 1954, under the same rental or cropping agreement or lease, only the persons who signed or entered into the rental or cropping agreement or lease shall be eligible to vote.

5. In the event two or more persons were engaged in producing upland cotton in 1954 not as members of a partnership but as tenants in common or as owners of community property, each such person shall be eligible to vote.

6. No person shall be eligible to vote in any community other than the community in which he now resides except as follows:

(a) Any person who resides in a community other than the community in which he is engaged in the production of upland cotton may, if he will not vote in the community in which he resides, vote at the polling place for the community in which he is engaged in the production of such cotton.

(b) Any person who resides in a community in which there is no polling place shall be eligible to vote at the polling place designated for the community nearest to the community in which he resides.

(c) Any person who on the day of the referendum will not be present in the county in which he is eligible to vote may, as early as 5 days prior to the date of the referendum, obtain a ballot at the most conveniently located ASC County Committee office and may cast his ballot by indicating his choice on the ballot, signing his name thereto and mailing it so that the ballot reaches the ASC County Committee for the county in which he is eligible to vote not later than the closing hour on the date of the referendum, which shall not be earlier than 5 o'clock p. m., local standard time.

7. There shall be no voting by mail (except as provided in paragraph 6 (c) above), by proxy, or by agent, but a duly authorized officer of a corporation, association, or other legal entity or a duly authorized member of a partnership, may cast its vote.

The foregoing provisions relating to registration and eligibility to vote in the referendum will appear on printed notices which will be posted in a conspicuous place in each community in which upland cotton was produced in 1954. The language appearing below will also appear on the notices prepared for posting and will be filled in by the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee to show the place for balloting and the time for opening and closing of the polls.

ORDER CONSOLIDATING PROCEEDINGS AND FIXING DATE OF HEARING

In the matters of Montana-Dakota Utilities Co., Docket Nos. G-2216, G-2442, G-2504 and G-3888; Mondakota Gas Company, and Industrial Gas Co., Inc., Docket No. G-2477; Montana-Dakota Utilities Co., complainant, Docket No. G-2685; v. Industrial Gas Co., Inc., Mondakota Gas Company, Fallon County Gathering System, Inc., Eastern Clay Products, Inc., Frank H. Becker, Charles W. Swift, C. George Swallow, and J. R. Tedrick, defendants.

Montana-Dakota Utilities Co. (Montana-Dakota), a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business at Minneapolis, Minnesota, filed application with the Federal Power Commission on July 23, 1953, Docket No. G-2216, for an order of the Commission authorizing Montana-Dakota to abandon the transportation of natural gas when the shipper is in noncompliance with the provision of paragraph 5, General Terms and Conditions of Montana-Dakota's FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1, which paragraph provides for bond by the shipper where satisfactory credit arrangements have not been made for the transportation service.[1] On August 20, 1953, the Commission authorized Montana-Dakota to suspend transportation service to Williston-Wyoming Associates (shipper) on and after August 23, 1953, provided the shipper has not posted corporate surety bond pursuant to paragraph 5 of the tariff for the payment of shipper's obligations.[2]

On May 27, 1954, Montana-Dakota filed application in Docket No. G-2442, for authority to suspend transportation service under the aforesaid tariff, until payment is made for past services rendered to Industrial Gas Co., Inc. (Industrial Gas), a Nevada corporation with offices in Billings, Montana and Denver, Colorado.[2] Responses were filed on June 16 and 22, 1954, by Mondakota Gas Company (Mondakota), a Nevada corporation with offices in Billings, Montana, and by Industrial Gas on June 23, 1954, stating that the transportation charges due Montana-Dakota have been paid.

Montana-Dakota filed, on June 24, 1954, its FPC Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1, to become effective August 1, 1954. By its order issued July 29, 1954, in Docket No. G-2504, the Commission suspended the proposed revised tariff, for the reasons set forth therein, and provided for a hearing at a time to be set by the Commission.

A joint application was filed by Mondakota and Industrial Gas on July 2, 1954, in Docket No. G-2477, for a determination of the reasonableness of Montana-Dakota's FPC Gas Tariff. A response was filed by Montana-Dakota on August 9, 1954.

Montana-Dakota filed on September 7, 1954, in Docket No. G-2685, a complaint against Industrial Gas; Mondakota; Fallon County Gathering System, Inc. (Fallon), a Montana corporation with offices in Minneapolis, Minnesota; Eastern Clay Products, Inc., of Belle Fourche, South Dakota; Frank H. Becker of Baker, Montana; C. George Swallow of Denver, Colorado; Charles W. Swift of Sherman Oaks, California; and J. R. Tedrick of Whittier, California; all as Defendants in this proceeding. Complainant, Montana-Dakota alleges, inter alia that the operations of Complainant and Defendants with respect to the natural gas transported pursuant to Complainant's FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1, have been and are in violation of section 7 (c) of the Natural Gas Act and that the Commission order that Complainant and Defendants cease and desist from such further operations. Answers to the complaint have been filed by Mondakota, Fallon, and Frank H. Becker.

On October 1, 1954, Montana-Dakota filed application in Docket No. G-3888 for authority to suspend transportation service under its tariff until payment is made for past services rendered to Industrial Gas and until satisfactory credit arrangements have been made or a corporate surety bond posted pursuant to paragraph 5, General Terms and Conditions, of the aforesaid tariff.

The Commission finds: The issues posed by the aforesaid proceedings in Docket Nos. G-2216, G-2442, G-2477, G-2685, and G-3888, appear to be parallel or interrelated with those on which a hearing has been ordered in Docket No. G-2504, and these proceedings should be consolidated with the proceedings in Docket No. G-2504 for the purpose of hearing.

The Commission orders: The aforesaid proceedings in Docket Nos. G-2216, G-2442, G-2477, G-2685, and G-3888, be and the same are hereby consolidated with the proceeding in Docket No. G-2504 for the purpose of a public hearing thereon to commence on December 7, 1954, at 10:00 a. m., e. s. t., in a Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D. C.

Adopted: November 10, 1954.

EL PASO NATURAL GAS CO.

ORDER SUSPENDING REVISED TARIFF SHEETS AND PROVIDING FOR HEARING

On October 14, 1954, El Paso Natural Gas Company (El Paso) tendered for filing proposed First Revised Sheets Nos. 11-A, 27-B, and 27-E, Third Revised Sheets Nos. 34 and 36, Fourth Revised Sheet No. 8, Fifth Revised Sheets Nos. 4, 6, and 11, and Seventh Revised Sheets Nos. 10, 13, 14-A, and 15 to its FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1. Said tendered revised sheets are intended to be made effective on November 15, 1954, and propose an annual increase in rates and charges amounting to $18,112,635, based upon estimated sales for the twelve-month period ending on December 31, 1954. The proposed increase is about 15.1 per cent over the rates and charges now being collected by El Paso, subject to refund if so ordered by the Commission in the proceedings at Docket No. G-2018.

In support of the proposed increased rates and charges, El Paso relies primarily upon: (1) Its contention that the revenues resulting from the increased rates and charges now being collected, subject to refund if so ordered in the proceedings at Docket No. G-2018, are inadequate in that they do not produce a return of 6½ percent; (2) the relatively large increase, approximately 137 percent, in the overall rate base; (3) increased cost of natural-gas purchases; and (4) reduced revenues for the gasoline and other liquid hydrocarbons extracted from the natural gas.

The State Commissions of California and New Mexico, the city of El Paso, Texas, and certain of El Paso's wholesale customers have protested against the proposed rates and charges and urge suspension thereof pending a hearing thereon.

The increased rates and charges provided in said revised sheets, as tendered for filing on October 14, 1954, have not been shown to be justified and may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The aforesaid Seventh Revised Sheets Nos. 13, 14-A, and 15 provide for the sale of natural gas for resale for industrial use only, and therefore, under the provisions of the Natural Gas Act, are not subject to suspension.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing, pursuant to authority contained in sections 4 and 15 of said act, concerning the lawfulness of El Paso's FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1, as proposed to be changed by the revised sheets tendered on October 14, 1954; and that the aforesaid First Revised Sheets Nos. 11-A, 27-B, and 27-E, Third Revised Sheets Nos. 34 and 36, Fourth Revised Sheet No. 8, Fifth Revised Sheets Nos. 4, 6, and 11, and Seventh Revised Sheet No. 10 be suspended as hereinafter provided and the use thereof be deferred pending hearing and decision thereon.

The Commission orders:

[1] The Tariff, covering common carrier service, was filed by Montana-Dakota pursuant to Commission orders dated March 22, 1946 (5 FPC 64; affirmed 169 F. 2d 392).

[2] Pursuant to the aforesaid Tariff, Montana-Dakota entered into Service Agreements with Mondakota Gas Company (Mondakota) for the transportation of natural gas to industrial customers of Mondakota, as follows:

(c) Service Agreement dated December 11, 1950, for shipment to the State Cement Plant, Rapid City, South Dakota.

It is alleged, in the aforesaid, application in Docket No. G-2216, that on or about August 30, 1952, Williston-Wyoming Associates assumed the obligations of Mondakota under the service agreements specified in (a), (b), and (c) above.

[2] It is alleged in the application in Docket No. G-2442, that on or about August 1, 1953, Industrial Gas assumed the obligations under the service agreements specified in (a), (b), and (c) of note 2 above and that since that time Industrial Gas has been the shipper of natural gas under said service agreements.

[1] The Rudco Oil and Gas Company, a Delaware corporation having its principal place of business at Tyler, Texas, filed the application above referred to on its own behalf and as the duly authorized agent for Rock Hill Oil Company, Billy Bridewell, John Kraker, Jack Price and Will Y. Lancaster.

(A) Pursuant to the authority contained in sections 4 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, a public hearing be held upon a date to be fixed by further order of the Commission concerning the lawfulness of El Paso Natural Gas Company's FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1, as proposed to be changed by the aforesaid revised sheets tendered for filing on October 14, 1954.

(B) Pending such hearing and decision thereon, El Paso's proposed First Revised Sheets Nos. 11–A, 27–B, and 27–E, Third Revised Sheets Nos. 34 and 36, Fourth Revised Sheet No. 8, Fifth Revised Sheets Nos. 4, 6, and 11, and Seventh Revised Sheet No. 10 to its FPC Gas Tariff, Original Volume No. 1, be and the same are hereby suspended and the use thereof deferred until April 15, 1955, and until such further time as they may be made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

[File No. 70–3304]

INTERSTATE POWER CO.

ORDER PERMITTING EFFECTIVENESS OF DECLARATION REGARDING ISSUANCE AND SALE OF PREFERRED STOCK AT COMPETITIVE BIDDING AND REDEMPTION OF OUTSTANDING PREFERRED STOCK AND BANK NOTES

NOVEMBER 16, 1954.

Interstate Power Company ("Interstate"), a registered holding company and also a public-utility company, has filed a declaration and an amendment thereto with this Commission pursuant to sections 7 and 12 of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act") and Rules U-42 and U-50 thereunder regarding the following proposed transactions:

Interstate proposes to issue and sell, pursuant to the competitive bidding requirements of Rule U-50, 200,000 shares of a new series of its class of Preferred Stock of the par value of $50 per share (such class being hereinafter referred to as the "Preferred Stock"). The dividend rate (which shall be expressed in a multiple of $^1/_{100}$ of 1 percent) and the price to be paid to Interstate (which shall be not less than $50 nor more than $51.37 per share) are to be fixed at competitive bidding.

The declaration states that the net proceeds from the sale of the Preferred Stock will be used, to the extent necessary, to redeem the 100,000 shares of Interstate's presently outstanding 4.70 Percent Preferred Stock, par value $50 per share, at the redemption price thereof of $52.50 per share plus accrued dividends to the date of redemption, and to prepay without premium the $2,000,000 principal amount of its 3¼ percent bank loan notes. The remaining proceeds will be added to Interstate's treasury funds and will be applied to extensions, additions and improvements to its properties and to other corporate purposes.

The filing states that no State commission and no Federal regulatory agency, other than this Commission, has jurisdiction over the proposed transactions.

The fees and expenses to be incurred in connection with the issue and sale of such Preferred Stock, except underwriting discounts and commissions, are estimated by Interstate as follows:

Federal issuance taxes	$11,000
Registration fees	1,060
Fees of transfer agent and registrar	1,000
Fees of company's counsel:
Springer, Bergstrom & Crowe	12,000
Accounting fees:
Haskins & Sells	3,000
Blue sky expenses	1,500
Printing and engraving	10,100
Miscellaneous	5,000
Total	44,660

The fee ($8,000) and expenses (estimated at not more than $500) of Winthrop, Stimson, Putnam & Roberts, counsel for the purchasers, are to be paid by the successful bidders.

Interstate requests that the Commission's order herein become effective pursuant to Rule U-23 under the act, and requests that there be no waiting period between the date of the Commission's order and its effective date.

Due notice having been given of the filing of said declaration and a hearing not having been requested of or ordered by the Commission; and the Commission finding that the applicable provisions of the act and rules promulgated thereunder are satisfied, and it appearing to the Commission that the estimated fees and expenses are not unreasonable, provided they do not exceed the amounts estimated, and that said declaration should be permitted to become effective, subject to certain terms and conditions:

It is hereby ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of the act, that said declaration be, and the same hereby is, permitted to become effective forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rules U-24 and U-50, and to the following additional terms and conditions:

So long as any shares of the --Percent Preferred Stock (the series permitted to be issued pursuant to this order) of Interstate (hereinafter referred to as the "Corporation") are outstanding:

1. The refunding of unsecured indebtedness referred to in Article Fourth (XIII) (c) (i) of the Certificate of Incorporation, as amended, of the Corporation, shall mean the refunding with a longer maturity or maturities of any unsecured indebtedness theretofore created or assumed by the Corporation and then outstanding.

2. The Corporation shall not, without the consent (given in writing or by vote at a meeting duly called for that purpose) of the holders of a majority of the total number of shares of the Preferred Stock then outstanding:

A. Issue any additional shares of preferred stock (including the reissuance of reacquired preferred stock) ranking on a parity with the outstanding shares of the Preferred Stock with respect to the payment of dividends or the distribution of assets unless (i) the consolidated gross income of the Corporation and its subsidiaries (after all taxes including taxes based on income) for 12 consecutive calendar months within a period of 15 calendar months immediately preceding the date of such issuance is equal to at least one and one-half times the aggregate of all interest charges on indebtedness of the Corporation and its subsidiaries on a consolidated basis (excluding interest charges on indebtedness to be retired by the application of the proceeds from the issuance of such preferred stock) and the annual dividend requirements on all preferred stock of the Corporation and its subsidiaries on a consolidated basis (including dividend requirements on preferred stock ranking as to dividends or assets prior to or on a parity with the Preferred Stock to be issued) which will be outstanding immediately after the issuance of such preferred stock; and (ii) the aggregate par value, or stated capital represented by, the outstanding shares of the junior stock of the Corporation including premiums thereon plus any surplus of the Corporation is equal to at least the aggregate amount payable in connection with an involuntary liquidation of the Corporation with respect to all shares of the Preferred Stock and all shares of stock, if any, ranking prior thereto or on a parity therewith as to dividends or assets, which will be outstanding immediately after the issuance of such preferred stock.

B. If for the purposes of meeting the requirements of clause (ii) of subdivision A of paragraph 2 above, it shall have been necessary to take into consideration any earned surplus of the Corporation, the Corporation shall not thereafter pay any dividends on, or make any distributions in respect of, or purchase or otherwise acquire, junior stock which would result in reducing the junior stock equity to an amount less than the amount payable on involuntary liquidation of the Corporation with respect to all shares of the Preferred Stock and all shares ranking prior to or on a parity with the Preferred Stock as to dividends and assets at the time outstanding.

C. If, during the period for which gross income is to be determined for the purpose set forth in paragraph A above, the amount required to be expended by the Corporation pursuant to a maintenance fund or similar fund established under its mortgage indenture shall exceed the amount deducted in the determination of gross income on account of depreciation and maintenance, such excess shall also be deducted in determining gross income.

3. Whenever the right to elect directors shall have accrued to the holders of the Preferred Stock, the president, a vice president, or the secretary of the Corporation shall, not more than 15 days thereafter, call a meeting for the election of directors and give due notice to all stockholders entitled to vote at such meeting, such meeting to be held not less than 60 days nor more than 90 days after the accrual of such right.

4. As used in this order, the term "junior stock" shall have the same meaning as that ascribed to it in Article Fourth of the Certificate of Incorporation, as amended, of the Corporation; and the term "junior stock equity" shall mean the aggregate par value, or stated capital represented by, the outstanding shares of the junior stock of the Corporation including premiums thereon plus any surplus of the Corporation.

MISSISSIPPI VALLEY GENERATING CO. ET AL.

NOTICE OF FILING OF APPLICATION REGARDING ISSUANCE AND SALE OF COMMON STOCK OF NEW GENERATING COMPANY AND ACQUISITION THEREOF BY HOLDING COMPANIES AND ORDER FOR HEARING

NOVEMBER 19, 1954.

In the matter of Mississippi Valley Generating Company, Middle South Utilities, Inc., The Southern Company; File No. 70–3319.

Notice is hereby given that the Mississippi Valley Generating Company ("Generating Company"), a newly organized Arkansas corporation, and Middle South Utilities, Inc. ("Middle South"), a registered holding company, and The Southern Company ("Southern"), also a registered holding company, have filed a joint application, pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act"), and have designated sections 6 (b), 9 (a), and 10 of the act as applicable to the proposed transactions.

All interested persons are referred to said joint application which is on file in the offices of this Commission for a statement of the transactions therein proposed which are summarized as follows:

Generating Company has been organized for the purposes of constructing and operating, near West Memphis, Arkansas, a three-unit steam electric generating station with a net capability of approximately 650,000 kilowatts, together with related equipment. Generating Company has executed a Power Agreement with the Atomic Energy Commission ("AEC"), to provide for electric energy to be furnished to the Tennessee Valley Authority ("TVA") for or on account of AEC.

The cost of the facilities proposed to be constructed by the Generating Company, including $2,000,000 of working capital, is estimated by the applicants to be $106,115,000. The joint application states that the funds for these facilities will be secured by Generating Company by the issuance of 55,000 shares of its $100 par value common stock and the sale thereof for $5,500,000 to Middle South and Southern. The balance of the funds required for the purposes stated above are expected to be raised by the borrowing of an aggregate of up to $99,915,000 from institutional investors (against the issuance of bonds) and banks (against the issuance of notes).

Middle South and Southern have severally agreed that Middle South will purchase up to 43,450 shares (79 percent) of the $100 par value of common stock of Generating Company and that Southern will purchase up to 11,550 of such shares (21 percent). The payment for such stock will be in cash at the rate of $100 per share. Both Middle South and Southern propose to carry their respective investments in Generating Company as investments in a non-consolidated subsidiary.

Investments in the capital stock of Generating Company by Middle South and Southern and the loans to Generating Company by institutional investors and banks are expected to be effected from time to time during an estimated three-year construction period. The timing and amount of any particular investment or loan will be determined by Generating Company in the light of the progress of its construction program and the cost incurred by it in connection therewith.

Applicants request approval at the present time solely of the issuance and sale of the common stock by Generating Company and the acquisitions thereof by Middle South and Southern respectively. Applicants state that all other matters will be the subject of subsequent applications or declarations dealing with such matters specifically and in detail.

Applicants state that the issuance and sale by Generating Company of its common stock is subject to the approval of the Arkansas Public Service Commission and that, except for such commission, no State or Federal commission other than the Securities and Exchange Commission has jurisdiction over the issuance of the common stock and the acquisition thereof.

It appearing to the Commission that it is appropriate in the public interest and the interest of investors and consumers that a hearing be held with respect to the joint application, and that such joint application shall not be granted except pursuant to further order of the Commission:

It is ordered, That a hearing on said joint application, pursuant to the applicable provisions of the act and the rules of the Commission be held on December 7, 1954, at 10:00 a. m., e. s. t., at the offices of the Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C. At said date the hearing room clerk in Room 193 will advise as to the room in which such hearing will be held. Any person desiring to be heard or otherwise wishing to participate in this proceeding is directed to file with the Secretary of the Commission on or before December 6, 1954, a request relative thereto as provided by Rule XVII of the Commission's rules of practice.

It is further ordered, That unless the Commission itself shall preside at such hearing, then James G. Ewell, or any other officer or officers of this Commission designated by it for that purpose shall preside thereat. The officer or officers so designated to preside are hereby authorized to exercise all powers granted to the Commission under section 18 (c) of the act and to a hearing officer under the Commission's rules of practice.

The Division of Corporate Regulation having advised the Commission that it has made a preliminary examination of the joint application, and that upon the basis thereof the following matters and questions are presented for consideration, without prejudice to its specifying additional matters and questions upon further examination:

(1) Whether the proposed issue and sale of common stock by Generating Company are solely for the purposes of financing its business and have been expressly authorized by the State commission of the State in which it is organized and doing business.

(2) Whether, in connection with the proposed issue and sale by Generating Company of its common stock, the Commission should impose any terms and conditions as may be appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors or consumers.

(3) Whether the proposed acquisitions of stock by Middle South and Southern are in accord with the applicable standards of the act, particularly section 10 thereof.

(4) Whether the proposed transactions are in all respects in accordance with the standards of the act, and whether, in the event the joint application should be granted, it is necessary or appropriate to impose any terms and conditions to ensure compliance with the standards of the act or in the public interest or for the protection of investors and consumers.

It is further ordered, That particular attention be directed at said hearing to the foregoing matters and questions.

When an employee has completed the required period of service his appointment shall be converted to a career appointment without time limitation: Provided, That his career-conditional appointment shall not be converted to a career appointment if the limitation on the number of permanent employees in the Federal civil service established under subsection (b) of this section would be exceeded thereby. Persons selected from competitive civil service registers for other than temporary appointment shall be given career-conditional appointments: Provided, That career appointments shall be given to the following classes of eligibles: (1) Persons whose appointments are required by statute to be made on a permanent basis; (2) employees serving under career appointments at the time of selection from such registers; (3) former employees who have eligibility for career appointments upon reinstatement; and (4) to the extent permitted by law, persons appointed to positions in the field service of the Post Office Department for which salary rates are fixed by the act of July 6, 1945, 59 Stat. 435, as heretofore or hereafter amended and supplemented.

(b) Under the career-conditional appointment system there shall be a limit on the number of permanent employees in the Federal civil service which shall be the ceiling established by section 1310 of the Supplemental Appropriation Act, 1952 (65 Stat. 757), as amended. In the event section 1310, supra, is repealed, the Commission is authorized to fix such limitation on the number of permanent employees in the Federal civil service as it finds necessary to meet the needs of the service.

(c) The Commission may determine the types, duration, and conditions of indefinite and temporary appointments, and may prescribe the method for replacing persons holding such appointments.

SEC. 2.3 Apportionment. Subject to such modifications as the Commission finds to be necessary in the interest of good administration, appointments to positions in agencies' headquarters offices which are located within the metropolitan area of Washington, D. C., shall be made so as to maintain the apportionment of appointments among the several States, Territories, and the District of Columbia upon the basis of population.

SEC. 2.4 Probationary period. Persons selected from registers of eligibles for career or career-conditional appointment shall be required to serve a probationary period under such terms and conditions as the Commission may prescribe.

RULE III—NONCOMPETITIVE ACQUISITION OF STATUS

SEC. 3.1 Classes of persons who may noncompetitively acquire status. (a) Upon recommendation by the agency concerned, and subject to such noncompetitive examination, time limits, or other requirements as the Commission may prescribe, the following classes of persons may acquire a competitive status without competitive examination:

(1) A person holding a permanent position when it is placed in the competitive service by statute or executive order or is otherwise made subject to competitive examination.

(2) A disabled veteran who, in a manner satisfactory to the Commission, has completed a course of training in the executive branch of the Government prescribed by the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs in accordance with the act of March 24, 1943, 57 Stat. 43.

(3) An employee who has served at least two years in the immediate office of the President or on the White House Staff and who is transferred to a competitive position at the request of an agency.

(4) An employee who was serving when his name was reached for certification on a civil-service register appropriate for the position in which he was serving: Provided, That the recommendation for competitive status is made prior to expiration of the register on which his name appears or is made during a period of continuous service since his name was reached: Provided further, That the register was being used for appointments conferring competitive status at the time his name was reached.

SEC. 3.2 Appointments without competitive examination in rare cases. Subject to receipt of satisfactory evidence of the qualifications of the person to be appointed, the Commission may authorize an appointment in the competitive service without competitive examination whenever it finds that the duties or compensation of the position are such, or that qualified persons are so rare, that, in the interest of good civil-service administration, the position cannot be filled through open competitive examination. Any person heretofore or hereafter appointed under this section shall acquire a competitive status upon completion of at least one year of satisfactory service and compliance with such requirements as the Commission may prescribe. Detailed statements of the reasons for the noncompetitive appointments made under this section shall be published in the Commission's annual reports.

SEC. 3.3 Conversion of appointments. Any person who acquires a competitive status under this Rule shall have his appointment converted to career-conditional appointment unless he meets the service requirement for career appointment prescribed under section 2.2 (a) of Rule II.

RULE IV—PROHIBITED PRACTICES

SEC. 4.1 Prohibition against political activity. No person employed in the executive branch of the Federal Government, or any agency or department thereof, shall use his official authority or influence for the purpose of interfering with an election or affecting the result thereof. No person occupying a position in the competitive service shall take any active part in political management or in political campaigns, except as may be provided by or pursuant to statute. All such persons shall retain the right to vote as they may choose and to express their opinions on all political subjects and candidates.

SEC. 4.2 Prohibition against racial, political or religious discrimination. No person employed in the executive branch of the Federal Government who has authority to take or recommend any personnel action with respect to any person who is an employee in the competitive service or any eligible or applicant for a position in the competitive service shall make any inquiry concerning the race, political affiliation or religious beliefs of any such employee, eligible, or applicant. All disclosures concerning such matters shall be ignored, except as to such membership in political parties or organizations as constitutes by law a disqualification for Government employment. No discrimination shall be exercised, threatened, or promised by any person in the executive branch of the Federal Government against or in favor of any employee in the competitive service, or any eligible or applicant for a position in the competitive service because of his race, political affiliation or religious beliefs, except as may be authorized or required by law.

SEC. 4.3 Prohibition against securing withdrawal from competition. No person shall influence another person to withdraw from competition for any position in the competitive service for the purpose of either improving or injuring the prospects of any applicant for appointment. The Commission is authorized to take such disciplinary action as it deems appropriate whenever it finds that any person has violated this section.

RULE V—REGULATIONS, INVESTIGATION, AND ENFORCEMENT

SEC. 5.1 Regulations. (a) The Commission is authorized and directed to promulgate and enforce such regulations as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of the Civil Service Act and Rules, the Veterans' Preference Act, and all other applicable statutes or executive orders imposing responsibilities on the Commission.

(b) The Commission is authorized, whenever there shall be practical difficulties and unnecessary hardships in complying with the strict letter of its regulations, to grant a variation from the strict letter of the regulations if such variation is within the spirit of the regulations, and the efficiency of the Government and the integrity of the competitive service are protected and promoted: Provided, That whenever such a variation is granted the Commission shall record in the minutes of its proceedings (1) the particular practical difficulty or hardship involved, (2) what is permitted in lieu of what is required by regulation, (3) the circumstances which protect or promote the efficiency of the Government and the integrity of the competitive service, and (4) a statement limiting the application of the variation to the continuation of the conditions which gave rise to the variation: Provided further, That similar variations shall be granted whenever similar conditions exist. All minutes approved under authority of ice" as used in existing statutes and executive orders.

RULE II—APPOINTMENT THROUGH THE COMPETITIVE SYSTEM

SEC. 2.1 Competitive examinations and eligible registers. (a) The Commission shall be responsible for open competitive examinations for admission to the competitive service which will fairly test the relative capacity and fitness of the persons examined for the position to be filled. The Commission is authorized to establish standards with respect to citizenship, age, education, training and experience, suitability, and physical and mental fitness, and for residence or other requirements which applicants must meet to be admitted to or rated in examinations.

(b) In addition to the names of persons who qualify in competitive examinations, the names of persons who have lost eligibility on a career or career-conditional register because of service in the armed forces, and the names of persons who lost opportunity for certification or who have served under career or career-conditional appointment when the Commission determines that they should be given certification, may also be entered at such places on appropriate registers and under such conditions as the Commission may prescribe.

SEC. 2.2 Appointments. (a) The Commission shall establish and administer a career-conditional appointment system for positions subject to competitive examination which will permit adjustment of the career service to necessary fluctuations in Federal employment, and provide an equitable and orderly system for stabilizing the Federal work force. A competitive status shall be acquired by a career-conditional appointee upon satisfactory completion of a probationary period, but the appointee shall have career-conditional tenure for a period of service to be prescribed by regulation of the Commission.

this section shall be published in the Commission's annual reports.

SEC. 5.2 Authority of the Commission to make investigations. The Commission may make appropriate investigations to secure enforcement of the Civil Service Act, Rules, and Regulations, including investigation of the qualifications and suitability of applicants for positions in the competitive service. It may require appointments to be made subject to investigation to enable the Commission to determine, after appointment, that the requirements of law or the Civil Service Rules and Regulations have been met. Whenever the Commission finds that an employee serving under such an appointment is disqualified for Federal employment, it may instruct the agency to remove him, or to suspend him pending an appeal from the Commission's finding: Provided, That when an agency removes or suspends an employee pursuant to the Commission's instructions, and the Commission, on the basis of new evidence or on appeal, subsequently reverses the initial decision as to the employee's qualifications and suitability, the agency shall, upon request of the Commission, restore the employee to duty.

SEC. 5.3 Officers and employees to furnish testimony. All officers and employees in the executive branch, and applicants or eligibles for positions therein, shall give to the Commission or its authorized representatives all information and testimony in regard to matters inquired of arising under the laws, rules, and regulations administered by the Commission. Whenever required by the Commission, such persons shall subscribe such testimony and make oath or affirmation thereto before an officer authorized by law to administer oaths.

SEC. 5.4 Enforcement authority of the Commission. (a) Whenever the Commission finds that any person has been appointed to or is holding a position in violation of the Civil Service Act, Rules or Regulations, or that any officer or employee in the executive branch has violated this order or any of the laws, rules or regulations administered by the Commission, it is authorized, after giving due notice and opportunity for explanation to the officer or employee and the agency concerned, to certify the facts to the proper appointing officer with specific instructions as to discipline or dismissal or other corrective action.

(b) Whenever the Commission finds that any officer or employee in the executive branch has failed to adhere to established policies, regulations, and standards relating to personnel management subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, it shall instruct the agency head to take corrective action.

(c) Whenever, on the basis of an appeal by an employee, the Commission finds that its regulations prescribing procedures to be followed by agencies in connection with adverse actions for disciplinary reasons have not been followed, or that adverse action has been taken for political reasons except as may be required by law, or resulted from discrimination because of marital status, it shall instruct the agency to restore the employee to duty.

(d) Whenever the Commission issues specific instructions as to discipline or dismissal of an officer or employee, or to restore an officer or employee to duty, the appointing officer concerned shall comply with the Commission's instructions.

(e) If the appointing officer fails to carry out the instructions of the Commission issued under section 4 (a) of this Rule, the Commission shall certify the facts to the head of the agency concerned. If the head of the agency fails to carry out the instructions of the Commission within ten days after receipt thereof, the Commission shall certify the facts to the Comptroller General of the United States, and shall furnish a copy of such certification to the head of the agency concerned; and thereafter no payment shall be made of the salary or wages accruing to the employee concerned.

RULE VI—EXCEPTIONS FROM THE COMPETITIVE SERVICE

SEC. 6.1 Authority to except positions from the competitive service. (a) The Commission is authorized to except positions from the competitive service whenever it determines that appointments thereto through competitive examination are not practicable. Upon the recommendation of the agency concerned, it may also except positions which are of a confidential or policy-determining character. Such exceptions from the competitive service shall be effective upon publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Positions excepted by the Commission shall be listed in Schedule A, B, or C as provided for in section 6.2 of this Rule, and shall also be listed in the Commission's annual report for the fiscal year in which the exceptions are made.

(b) The Commission shall decide whether the duties of any particular position are such that it may be filled as an excepted position under the appropriate schedule.

SEC. 6.2 Schedules of excepted positions. The Commission shall list positions that it excepts from the competitive service in Schedules A, B, and C, which schedules shall constitute parts of this Rule, as follows:

Schedule A. Positions other than those of a confidential or policy-determining character for which it is not practicable to examine shall be listed in Schedule A.

Schedule B. Positions other than those of a confidential or policy-determining character for which it is not practicable to hold a competitive examination shall be listed in Schedule B. Appointments to these positions shall be subject to such noncompetitive examination as may be prescribed by the Commission.

Schedule C. Positions of a confidential or policy-determining character shall be listed in Schedule C.

SEC. 6.3 Method of filling excepted positions and status of incumbents. (a) The head of an agency may fill excepted positions by the appointment of persons without civil service eligibility or competitive status and such persons shall not acquire competitive status by reason of such appointment: Provided, That the Commission, in its discretion, may by regulation prescribe conditions under which excepted positions may be filled in the same manner as competitive positions are filled and conditions under which persons so appointed may acquire a competitive status in accordance with the Civil Service Rules and Regulations.

(b) To the extent permitted by law and the provisions of this Rule, appointments and position changes in the excepted service shall be made in accordance with such regulations and practices as the head of the agency concerned finds necessary.

SEC. 6.4 Removal of incumbents of excepted positions. Except as may be required by statute, the Civil Service Rules and Regulations shall not apply to removals from positions listed in Schedules A and C or from positions excepted from the competitive service by statute. The Civil Service Rules and Regulations shall apply to removals from positions listed in Schedule B of persons who have competitive status.

SEC. 6.5 Assignment of excepted employees. No person who is serving under an excepted appointment shall be assigned to the work of a position in the competitive service without prior approval of the Commission.

SEC. 6.6 Revocation of exceptions. The Commission may remove any position from or may revoke in whole or in part any provision of Schedule A or B, and, with the concurrence of the agency concerned, may remove any position from or may revoke in whole or in part any provision of Schedule C. Such changes shall become effective upon publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

SEC. 6.7 Movement of persons between the civil-service system and other merit systems. Whenever the Commission and any Federal agency having an established merit system determine it to be in the interest of good administration and consistent with the intent of the civil-service laws and any other applicable laws, they may enter into an agreement prescribing conditions under which persons may be moved from one system to the other and defining the status and tenure that the persons affected shall acquire upon such movement.

RULE VII—GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 7.1 Discretion in filling vacancies. In his discretion, an appointing officer may fill any position in the competitive service either by competitive appointment from a civil-service register or by noncompetitive selection of a present or former Federal employee, in accordance with the Civil Service Regulations. He shall exercise his discretion in all personal actions solely on the basis of merit and fitness and without regard to political or religious affiliations, marital status, or race.

SEC. 7.2 Personnel reports. Each agency shall report to the Commission, in such manner and at such times as the Commission may prescribe, such personnel information as it may request relating to positions and officers and employees in the competitive service and in the excepted service, whether permanent or career, career-conditional, indefinite, temporary, emergency, or subject to contract.

SEC. 7.3 Reemployment rights. The Commission, whenever it determines it to be necessary, shall prescribe regulations governing the release of employees (both within the competitive service and the excepted service) by any agency in the executive branch of the Government for employment in any other agency, and governing the establishment, granting, and exercise of rights to reemployment in the agencies from which employees are released.

PART II—SPECIAL PROVISIONS FOR TRANSITION FROM INDEFINITE APPOINTMENT SYSTEM TO CAREER-CONDITIONAL APPOINTMENT SYSTEM

SEC. 201. (a) Under such conditions as the Civil Service Commission may prescribe, all employees serving under indefinite appointments in the competitive service on the effective date of this order who were appointed by selection in regular order from appropriate competitive civil-service registers established subsequent to February 4, 1946, shall, as of the effective date of this order, have their appointments converted to career-conditional appointments if they have had less than three years of creditable service, and to career appointments if they have had three or more years of such service since they were appointed: Provided, That any such employees who left their positions prior to the effective date of this order to enter the armed forces of the United States and are reemployed in the competitive service after the effective date of this order pursuant to application for employment made within ninety days after honorable discharge, or after hospitalization continuing after discharge for not more than one year, shall have their former indefinite appointments converted to career-conditional or career appointments in accordance with this section: Provided further, That employees serving in excepted positions who would meet the conditions for career-conditional or career appointments if they were serving in competitive positions shall be granted competitive status upon completion of a probationary period.

(b) The Commission may prescribe the conditions under which employees who are serving under indefinite appointments in the competitive service on the effective date of this order and who were not appointed by selection in regular order from competitive civil-service registers may be examined and have their names entered on existing competitive civil-service registers. When such employees are within reach for appointment from such registers they shall be eligible for career-conditional appointments if, since they were given indefinite appointments, they have had less than three years of creditable service, and for career appointments if they have had three or more years of such service.

(c) All employees in the competitive service who on the effective date of this order are serving under indefinite appointments made noncompetitively based upon prior service with a competitive status shall, as of the effective date of this order, have their appointments converted to career-conditional appointments if they have had less than three years of creditable service, and to career appointments if they have had three or more years of such service under either permanent or indefinite appointment: Provided, That any such employees who left their positions prior to the effective date of this order to enter the armed forces of the United States and are reemployed in the competitive service after the effective date of this order pursuant to application for employment made within ninety days after honorable discharge, or after hospitalization continuing after discharge for not more than one year, shall have their former indefinite appointments converted to career-conditional or career appointments in accordance with this section: Provided further, That any such employees in the field service of the Post Office Department whose salary rates are fixed by the act of July 6, 1945, 59 Stat. 435, as heretofore or hereafter amended and supplemented, shall have their appointments converted to career appointments if they are serving in positions in the authorized complement of permanent positions (consisting of regular positions and positions within the authorized quota of substitutes).

(d) The Commission shall define "creditable service" and shall prescribe the conditions for completion of the period of creditable service required for career appointment.

(e) Except as provided in section 201 (c) hereof, this section shall not apply to employees serving under indefinite appointments in the field service of the Post Office Department whose salary rates are fixed by the act of July 6, 1945, 59 Stat. 435, as heretofore or hereafter amended and supplemented.

SEC. 202. (a) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 201 (a) of this order, and subject to such noncompetitive examination or other requirements as the Commission may prescribe, any employee entitled to veteran preference who has a compensable service-connected disability of ten per centum or more may, upon recommendation of the agency concerned, noncompetitively acquire a competitive status subject to completion of a probationary period: Provided, That he is serving under an indefinite appointment, a temporary appointment pending establishment of a register, or a temporary appointment for job employment which has been continuous for more than one year: Provided further, That recommendation for acquisition of status under this section is made not later than December 31, 1957.

(b) Any employee who is recommended for noncompetitive acquisition of competitive status under section 202 (a) hereof and who satisfies the non-competitive examination and other requirements of the Commission shall have the appointment under which he is serving converted to a career appointment if he has completed a probationary period or to a career-conditional appointment if he has not completed a probationary period. The career-conditional appointment of such an employee shall be converted to a career appointment upon completion of probation.

(c) An employee in the field service of the Post Office Department whose salary rate is fixed by the act of July 6, 1945, 59 Stat. 435, as heretofore or hereafter amended and supplemented, may not be recommended for competitive status under section 202 (a) hereof unless he can be appointed to a vacancy in the authorized complement of permanent positions (consisting of regular positions and positions within the authorized quota of substitutes). When such an employee is recommended for noncompetitive acquisition of competitive status and satisfies the noncompetitive examination and other requirements of the Commission, his appointment shall be converted to a career appointment subject to satisfactory completion of a probationary period.

SEC. 203. The career-conditional appointment of any employee entitled to veteran preference who has a compensable service-connected disability of ten per centum or more and who is selected in regular order from a competitive civil-service register may, notwithstanding the provisions of section 2.2 (a) of Civil Service Rule II, be converted to a career appointment: Provided, That not later than December 31, 1957, the agency in which he is employed so recommends and certifies to the Commission that he has satisfactorily completed a one-year probationary period: Provided further, That any such employee who is not certified for career appointment under this section shall have his career-conditional appointment converted to a career appointment when he has completed the service requirements for such appointment prescribed under section 2.2 (a) of Civil Service Rule II.

SEC. 204. In order to effectuate the purposes of section 1310 of the Supplemental Appropriations Act, 1952 (65 Stat. 757), as amended, the Commission shall, after consultation with the agencies concerned, determine the division of allowable permanent appointments within and between the excepted service and the competitive service.

SEC. 205. The Commission shall issue such regulations and instructions as may be necessary to effectuate the purposes of this part.
